DEAR DIAMOND LIL

Are we allowing age and years to be an "extra" problem with us? Are we having difficulty in accepting our actual years? Do we feel we're over the hill? Not quite gotten there? Still a long way to go? I had an encounter with a handsome lad in Piedmont Park a few months back. In conversation, he told me he hoped I didn't think he was "over the hill." When asked why, he said he had turned twenty. We had a very pleasant rendezvous despite his "old age." Remember, age is an attitude, children. You can be young at heart at 70, or "old" at 20. Let's try accepting the package for what's on the inside, rather than what we "think" we see on the outside. Underneath a gorgeous veneer can be some pretty bad blemishes! Won't you please share your thought with us by writing Dear Diamond Lil, c/o R & R Publications, Inc., 729 Piedmont Ave., NE, Atlanta, GA 30308. The time is when? The time is NOW!

Dear Diamond Lil,
So as not to waste your time, let me get straight to the point. It has come to my attention that there is another minority within the gay community which I feel has not been recognized to its full potential. I'm not speaking in terms of color but of age.

I am a 20-year-old black guy who some people say is very attractive. I'm bright, intelligent and have a good job — all the things that the more mature has or wants. I find that my age just seems to knock all of that right down the drain. Why? People have told me that if they didn't see me, but just talked to me, that they would think I was a least 28. Age is but a number to some point; and it does matter in some cases, but just for conversation — that's tacky. You can't judge a person solely upon their age.

Things aren't going well for my love life, because I can't find a person who is willing to talk with me without asking, "How young are you?" I'm tired of it. I want to have a meaningful relationship with someone mature of at least 29, because of the sense of security they give and the ability to have a deep conversation.

We young people aren't all wild bed-hoppers. Gay people of Atlanta need to give us young people a chance. I'm seriously putting into the works an organization that will cater to young gays between the ages of 19-25 for group discussions and fun. I think we young people deserve a way to meet peers and talk with them to see what other problems we face. It would be better than going to a crowded bar to see old men look us up and down, because they have nothing better to do. We're getting older, too; and the gay community can't afford to let its most valuable resource go to waste. We the young gays are the ones that are up and coming now. Your opinion or advice would be greatly appreciated. I love you, D.L.

Thanks,
Michael A. Parker, 4550 Roswell Rd, K-1,
Atlanta, GA 30342

someone who is only 20. We tend to forget that all ages have their problems. If we are on the younger side, we tend to want to be a little older; and if we're on the older side, we want to be a little younger — in some cases, a lot younger!

Unfortunately, we do live in an age-conscious society here in America; and in gay life, sometimes it seems that it is the main issue. According to far too many gays, they only desire people between the ages of 18 and 23, which pretty much puts one in his prime at 20. Assuming an average male's life is 70, this gives you 65 years of being undesirable. If one would but stop and really consider this insanity as you seem to have done, perhaps a more realistic awareness would come about.

Michael, love, I'll need to point out something, if I may, for you to ponder: In the last sentence in your second paragraph you said: "You can't judge a person solely upon their age." However, in your third paragraph you state you want a relationship with someone mature of at least 29. Are you being judgemental of persons in your own age group? Also, in your last paragraph, I fear you must have unconsciously "dished" the "mature" men in the crowded bar for looking you up and down. As a courtesy, you might think about an apology to them for their being "old" and "having nothing better to do."

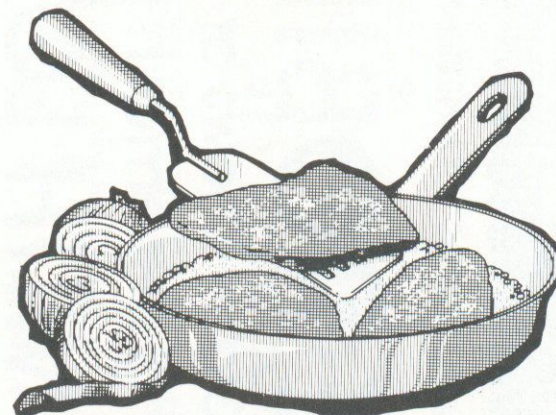

Congratulations! I'm all for your putting together your organization catering to gays from 19-25 for group discussions and fun. It sounds like a marvelous idea; however, would that mean that you will have to look outside this groups for your more meaningful relationships of persons of at least 29?

With love that knows no age boundaries,
Diamond Lil

THE LISTING ATTIC

by DON TUCKER

The most recent issue of The Advocate featured an article about Debbie Reynolds and the good work she is doing to raise money for AIDS research. Apparently, she has been able to make widely-publicized appearances in that same effort. There is even talk that Bob Hope will show for the big benefit in Los Angeles. This put me in mind of the time I met Miss Reynolds.

I was living in Los Angeles and got a phone call from Wayland Flowers. He was appearing in Reno and his friend Debbie Reynolds was also there with her show. Apparently, Wayland had told her about me and she wondered if I would take a look at her show and perhaps make some suggestions for a little updating. I flew to Reno at Miss Reynold's expense — she's not parsimonious with the bucks. I had a wonderful time.

Most people don't realize that stars don't stay at the hotels where they are appearing. Management always provides the so-called "star house." Usually a sprawling mansion with pool, tennis court, etc. to accommodate whatever performer might currently be in their hotel. Miss Reynolds' accommodations were palatial, as well they should have been. She packs them in.

I went straight from the airport to the hotel to see her show. It's Debbie and twelve gorgeous male dancers. She has a wild sense of humor especially when it comes to herself. She needed a line to explain to very young people, unaware of her earlier career, who she is. I suggested she say, "I know why all of you young people are here tonight. I'll bet your parents said, 'Let's go see Debbie before she dies.'" She howled and put the line in her show.

I was in Reno for five days and got to know Miss Reynolds pretty well. So, let me put some notions aside. She adores gay people and is utterly lacking in prejudice. Her affection is real and honest; and she can camp with the best of them. I howled.

Further, it has been suggested by some well-meaning gay people that Debbie is gay. Wholly not true! This idea was probably propagated by the fact that the renowned actress Agnes Moorehead lived with Debbie until Miss Moorehead died. She did indeed because Debbie took care of her when no one else would. She was dying of cancer. That's the kind of person Debbie is and I am a devoted fan.

She told me a really funny story about her daughter Carrie Fisher (Her child by singer Eddie Fisher and star of "Star Wars"). Evidently, they were having a little family argument about something trivial and later went to a party together. Carrie introduced Debbie as "... her parents." This did not sit well with Miss Reynolds. She can lay a comeback in like Noel Coward. Carrie was doing a play at the time so Debbie Reynolds shot back, "At last you're legitimate and mother is proud." Don't mess with Tammy.

Debbie was also the first person I ever heard say, "If I had known I was going to live this long I would have taken better care of myself." I love Debbie.

PHYSICAL FITNESS REVOLUTION AT CLUB BODY CENTER

ATLANTA CENTRE is receiving enthusiastic acceptance by the whole community.

Offering the latest health and body-care facilities in answer to the needs of the community, Atlanta Centre, 549 Amsterdam Ave., reports a growing membership with the opening still being planned in Mid-September.

Over 18,000 square feet will be occupied by the Centre and plans are to expand this to 24,000 square feet by January, 1984.

Facilities include free-weight and exercise equipment by Total Body and Strength. Qualified, trained instructors design programs to fit individual requirements.

Spa facilities include steam and sauna rooms that are both extra large and progressive in design. A large 15-jet whirlpool accompanies these rooms and assures adequate availability to members.

Bodytech, a computerized muscle stimulation program, conducted by a trained technician will be a special highlight of the Centre. A new technique for muscle toning and defining that is being offered in health clinics both here and abroad. Other Bodytech Systems being offered include complete vitamin, diet and nutritional programs.

Massages will be done by two professionally trained staff members. Training booths of the latest design will soon be operational. In the near future, the Centre will feature four Racketball Courts and an enclosed swimming pool for year-round enjoyment.

The entire Centre is fully air-conditioned, including an indoor track. A luxurious TV Lounge as well as a complete nutritional beverage and snack bar are open at all times, and members enjoy the added convenience of a specialty shop with latest in athletic fashions and equipment.

Classes are being formed in Fencing, Aerobics and Karate. Special hours are being designated for use of the Centre's facilities by women and men.

Atlanta Centre is open from 6am to midnight, 7 days a week. Two attractive membership programs are offered. Further information is available at Atlanta Centre, 549 Amsterdam Ave., 872-2485.

WORKSHOP ON INTIMACY OFFERED

A workshop on intimacy and well-being for gay and bisexual men will be offered Saturday, September 19th, from noon to 5pm. The workshop will be led by Franklin Abbott, M.S.W.

RHODES OFFERS GREAT LADIES SERIES

Beginning September 4th and 5th and continuing every Sunday and Monday until September 25th and 26th, Rhodes Theatre will be showing their Great Ladies of the Silver Screen series.

To commemorate this event and get it started off right, Rhodes Theatre will have a Great Ladies Look Alike Contest on opening night, September 4th.

The contest is open to anyone, male or female, and the most convincing great lady look alike wins a year's pass to the Rhodes.

Contestants may choose from any of the following stars: Katherine Hepburn, Marilyn Monroe, Elizabeth Taylor, Bette Davis, Ingrid Bergman, Lauren Bacall, Jean Harlow, and Greta Garbo.

Schedules for the movies are as follows. "The Philadelphia Story" Katherine Hepburn and "Some Like It Hot" Marilyn Monroe, Sept. 4th & 5th. "Raintree County" Elizabeth Taylor and "Jezebel" Bette Davis, Sept 11th & 12th. "Casablanca" Ingrid Bergman and "To Have and Have Not" Lauren Bacall, Sept. 18th & 19th. "Dinner at 8" Jean Harlow and "Grand Hotel" Greta Garbo, Sept. 25th & 26th.

WITS TO WHIP UP FRENZY AT PLUSH ROOM

Atlanta's Wits End Players will whip flabby funnybones into shape with a retrospective revue, "Wits End Up" or "Turn the Other Cheek," Tuesday, September 6th through Sunday, October 2nd at the Hotel York's Plush Room Cabaret.

The Wits' razor-sharp humor has been keeping Atlanta in stitches for more than 20 years. The troupe includes founders Phil and Nancy Erickson, Sister Sally Street, Kay McClelland and Sonny Knox.

Their September show at the Plush Room will encompass two decades of irreverent social commentary, re-worked to reflect current times. "We have an old hawk and dove number from 1962 that really suits the mood of 1983," Phil says, "and we're resurrecting a couple of other old pieces no one has seen in years." The Wits will also introduce several brand new skits in "Wits End Up."

"Wits End Up." will showcase many facets of the Wit's talents with opera ("Il Halitosa"), nostalgia ("What Ever Happened To ...?"), a history of sex from its discovery to the latest practices, and a Jane Fonda work-out. Mrs. Ashford Dunwoody will recount her garden meet-in any form of cultural work, not just music, to attend and to share with us their ideas about the emerging men's culture.

We feel it necessary, along with exploring the conceptual aspects of alternative men's culture, to direct our energies to the more practical problems of providing community access. Therefore, a focus of the conference will be on production, with workshops devoted to the various tasks involved in putting on a performance. A specific goal of this conference is to encourage the development of a strong national network of alternative production companies capable of serving our communities, nurturing the growth of alternative men's artists everywhere. We know there is much work to be done in the area of transforming culture. We feel that this conference is an important step in that process.

A concert will be presented in conjunction with the conference on the evening of October 22nd. The registration fee for the conference is $35. Tennessee William's classic drama, "A Streetcar Named Desire." Directed by artistic director Fred Chappell, the production is a tribute to the memory of Tennessee Williams, who praised Alliance productions of his plays as "better than the original."

"A Streetcar Named Desire" is the only drama on record to play to standing room only for its entire first year on Broadway; it won the Pulitzer Prize, the New York Drama Critics Circle Award and the Donaldson Award for best play of the season. The New York Times review of the original production hailed Tennessee Williams as "a genuinely poetic playwright whose knowledge of people is honest and thorough and whose sympathy is profoundly human."

In "A Streetcar Named Desire," a woman's desperate attempts to convince herself that she is still a magnolia-scented Southern belle clash fatally with the brutal candor of her sister's husband.

Blanche DuBois, one of the theater's most famous heroines, is the daughter of decayed Southern aristocracy, pretty, delicate, clinging to illusions of refinement. Having fled from the small Mississippi town of her birth, Blanche comes to New Orleans to live with her married sister. She finds a tiny two-room apartment in the rowdy French quarter, and a vulgar brother-in-law who despises her affected airs. When Stanley, relentlessly destroying her last pretense of gentility, exposes her sordid past to Mitch, her one possibility of salvation, Blanche retreats into her fantasy world with permanence. "A Streetcar Named Desire" is sponsored by Bank South.

For performance times and for reservations call the Alliance Ticket Service at 892-2414. Group and student rates are available.
