DEAR
DIAMOND
LIL

To My Readers: In responding to these letters, it is not my desire to set down hard and fast conduct rules. I am merely offering other options that the letter writer might have overlooked. Of course, since I don't know the actual persons involved, and since I know certain circumstances always alter things, under these conditions my suggestions must not be considered authoritative in any instance.

*With love and joy to each of you,
Diamond Lil*

Dear Diamond Lil,

I come from a very wealthy family. My father and mother died last year in an auto crash. Since I'm the only child, I became legal heir to all the possessions. My problem began two weeks ago, while I was away on business.

My lover called the hotel where I was staying and asked if I wanted some company. I said I really wouldn't have much time to spend with him because I would be tied up in meetings and conferences, but he could come if he wanted to — that I would love to see him. Since I would be tied up, he said he would just wait until I came home. He asked how much longer I would be away, but I told him I had no idea since we were discussing a ten-million-dollar deal and that I would be back as soon as possible. So, we finished our conversation; and I returned to business as usual. The meetings didn't last as long as I thought they would. As soon as I returned to the hotel, I tried calling home to let him know I was taking the next plane out; but there was no answer. So, I assumed he was at the bar having a good time; and I didn't try again, because I wanted to surprise him.

I arrived about 11:45. So I wouldn't spoil the surprise, I took a cab home. As we pulled up in front of the house, there were no lights on anywhere. It was just a big, dark house. So, I went on in and started up the stairs to put away the clothes and luggage; and I heard someone talking. It was coming from my bedroom. It was my lover's voice. I opened the door and turned on the light switch. There he was in bed, but he wasn't alone. He was in bed with a real woman! I told her to get out of my bed and out of my house. It didn't take her two minutes to get her things and get out. My lover just lay there not saying a word. After she left, we went in to it hot and heavy.

I ordered him out of the house, and he left. I said some awful things to him, Lil; but at the time, the words just poured out. Now, he calls every day asking if he could come home; but I keep saying "no." Lil, I love him; but I can't forgive him. If it were with another man, maybe I could have handled it.

I've been reading your column for quite some time now, and I feel you have the answer I'm looking for. Please help.

I love you, but sign me, mice will play — in some cases, that is. I empathize too well with how you're feeling about the idea of female competition, having been through some similar experiences. but, let's realize what we have here is really a false fear of competition where there is little. Now and then, a bisexual must prove his manhood, thusly we have these occurrences. When a lad of this nature begins having a little guilt about his gay tendencies, sex with women usually relieves this tension. Nine times out of ten, they'll swing right back to you, if you'll let up on the harness, reins, or whatever "bondage" in which you're holding them.

Honey, what you're failing to also realize is that your REAL competition would be another gay man. These are the people in your own peer group for which you could have more alarm. And, you'll find a large number of non-gay females saying that if their husband is having an outside affair, they would rather it be with a man than another woman. You see, they feel threatened THEIR peer group.

Somehow, if you're able to allow your lover his female companionship when he needs it, you will be able to keep him a lot longer. If you CAN'T hack this idea, the sooner you terminate this affair and move to something else, the better you'll feel. You CAN'T change a person's instincts, emotions, or natural desires. You CAN change the way YOU think, however. Doll, what you're suffering most is wounded PRIDE and EGO, a jealous rage — out of hand, and your own personal INSECURITY about yourself. You're reacting by punishing him unnecessarily by your selfishness of wanting him to be what YOU want him to be and NOT allowing him to be what he really is! I do want you to understand that you have dealt with this situation exactly as most people would have done and in the best way that you knew to handle it. I'm only hoping that I have shed some new light and insight to you dilemma and how you might want to look at it from another point of view.

*Love, some new joy, and a touch of "mirth,"
Diamond Lil*

HE TOOK THE CHANCE OF GETTING HEPATITIS B— AND LOST.

NOW THE CONSEQUENCES ARE JUST BEGINNING. CHRONIC ACTIVE HEPATITIS, CIRRHOSIS... OR DEATH.

You undoubtedly know someone who's had it. The "bad hepatitis" that can keep you in bed for weeks and out of a job for months—that can cause lifelong disability and even death from cirrhosis or cancer of the liver. Where do you get it? From people who have become carriers of the virus. Today, it is estimated that at least 100,000 gay men are carriers of the hepatitis B virus and spread the infection through intimate contact. That's the main reason why more than half of all gay men will sooner or later become infected.

How can you tell who's a carrier? You probably can't. Most carriers seem to be perfectly healthy, and many are themselves unaware that they harbor the virus.

Once you get hepatitis B, there's no specific treatment for it. But now there's something you can do to help protect yourself.

DON'T TAKE A CHANCE— CONTACT YOUR DOCTOR OR CLINIC AND ASK ABOUT THE HEPATITIS B VACCINE.

It is highly effective in those who receive all three shots. Do it today because you never know where or when you'll make contact with a carrier.

If you'd like to have more information about hepatitis B and the vaccine, call The American Liver Foundation at (201) 857-2626.

This message is brought to you as a public service by The American Liver Foundation.

Studies showed that the vaccine protected against infection caused by hepatitis B virus in 85% to 96% of those who received the required three shots.

Hepatitis B virus is an important cause of viral hepatitis, a disease mainly of the liver. Even mild forms of this disease may lead to serious complications and aftereffects, including liver cancer. There is no specific treatment for viral hepatitis.

Vaccination is recommended for persons who have a higher risk of becoming infected with hepatitis B virus because of frequent, close contact with infected people or exposure to body fluids from such people. It will not protect against hepatitis caused by viruses other than hepatitis B virus.

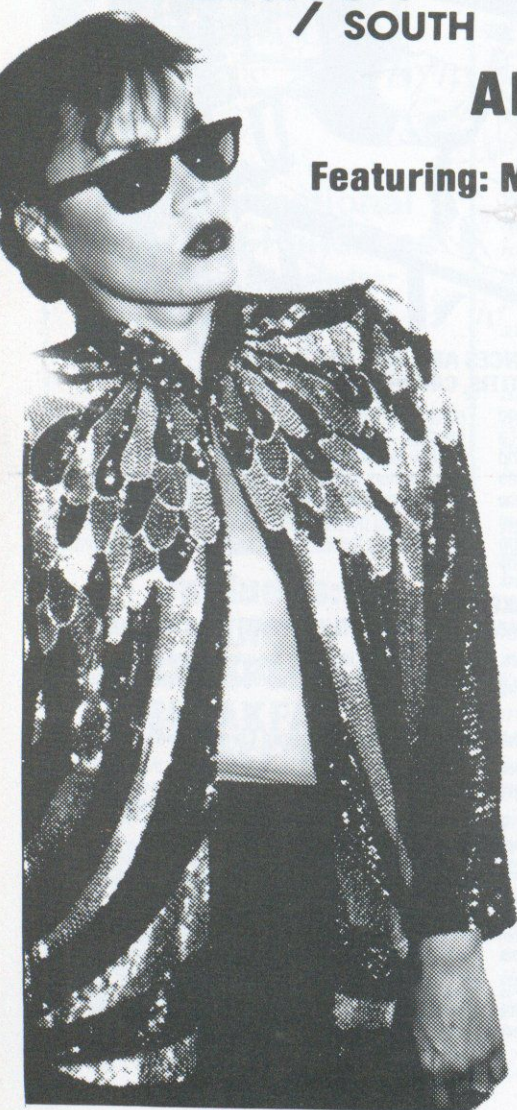

Because of the long incubation period for hepatitis B, it is possible for unrecognized infection to be present at the time the vaccine is given. The vaccine may not prevent hepatitis B in such patients.

© 1983 The American Liver Foundation

In three studies involving 3,350 persons, the overall rate of adverse reactions did not differ significantly in those given vaccine and those given placebo (an inactive substance). As with any vaccine, broad use often reveals rare adverse reactions not observed during clinical trials.

Over 200,000 people are estimated to have received the vaccine since its release, and the vaccine continues to be generally well tolerated. Hepatitis B has a long incubation period, and unrecognized infection may already be present at the time the vaccine is given. Thus, reported cases of hepatitis are to be expected and do not appear to be caused by the vaccine. Reactions such as fever, nausea, vomiting, headache, and local pain have occurred. Joint pain has been reported; rash has been reported rarely. Serious illnesses affecting the nervous system—including Guillain-Barré syndrome—have been reported rarely, but no cause and effect relationship has been established.

THE LISTING ATTIC

by DON TUCKER

I woke up thinking about the Queen of England, Elizabeth II, this morning. I knew right then that it was going to be a silly day. I occasionally have them. It occurred to me that since England is having an economic crisis just like the rest of the world that the Queen might possibly be able to solve the problem. I think her majesty should do a Las Vegas night club act. I'm sure she could get 2 million a week. After all, Barbra Streisand got a million and a half.

Her Majesty could open with "What Kind of Fool Are We?" Lovely! The she could follow that with something like "We Enjoy Being a Girl," or "We'll Go Our Way by Ourselves." She could get the Royal Coldstream Regiment to do the backup singing. And I'm sure there must be at least one tapper among them. Prince Charles could do a surprise cameo at the end of the act and sing "Come in from the Reign." (Or, "Soon I'm Gonna Reign.") Now that's silly!

I was also thinking that wouldn't it be terrible that if on top of everything else that has happened to him, former President Nixon inexplicably developed huge tits. What would the poor man do?

And why do you suppose no hotel has ever thought of getting an accordion player to do room service? I think it would be lovely to call down and have them send up "Lady of Spain."

Did you happen to hear the one about the farmer working in his field when a young guy comes up to him and inquires about whether or not he could use an extra hand? The farmer replied that he didn't need anybody at the present time. But the young man persisted, saying that he had a very special talent that could be very useful on a farm. Apparently, he could talk to animals the same way Dr. Doolittle did. Of course, the farmer wanted a demonstration. So, the young guy went to talk to the cows in the barn.

When he returned he told the farmer that cows had complained that there was a short circuit in the milking machine and the result was very irritating to the cows. The farmer checked it out and found that it was true.

Next, the young man had a conversation with a horse who complained that there were cockleburs under his blanket. When the farmer checked he found that this was also true! But he wasn't convinced.

So the young guy said, "Surely you must have some other animals on a farm this big." The farmer said, "No! Those are all the animals we have!" The young guy persisted, "I'm sure I heard some sheep somewhere!" And the farmer said, "Those sheep are the biggest goddamned liars in the county. Don't believe a word they say!" (At least get me a cute one.)

This is the silliest one of all. You won't believe it. I took a cutie out to dinner at a good local restaurant. I was bending over forward to impress him. You know, one of those places with twenty forks and an array of assorted wine glasses. When the waiter asked him what kind of salad dressing he wanted he said, "Wishbone!" God save us. The waiter nearly wet his pants. I simply said, "How you gonna keep 'em down on the farm after they've seen the farm?"

PASSANTE: MR. GAY ALABAMA

Ho-Jon's was packed September 13th to see Gay Passante win Mr. Gay Alabama 1983-84. Passante also won Body Beautiful and the right to represent Alabama in the upcoming Mr. Gay America Pageant. In very close balloting, the judges awarded first runner-up and the talent award to Tony DeSario, the current Mr. Ho-Jon's. A tie for second runner-up was shared by Steve McGraw of Montgomery and Ken Berquist of Atlanta. Rick Camp, outgoing Mr. Alabama, and owner of Ho-Jon's, put on an entertaining pageant.

An intense day of competition occurs Sunday, September 25th when six open slots to Mr. Gay America will be filled through competition in three pageants. Mr. Sunshine State will be held in Miami; Mr. Mississippi will be at Emerald City in Jackson; and Mr. Tennessee at the new Alan Gold's in Chattanooga. All pageants are open to any candidates. The last preliminary will cover the eastern seaboard Tuesday, September 27th in Jacksonville, Florida. Mr. Atlantic Coast will be held at the Old Plantation, completing this year's preliminaries to the national pageant.

Two thousand people are expected to enjoy the national finals in New Orleans October 8th through 10th. Tough competition in interview, wear-your-own-thing, talent/question, and swimwear will determine the successor to the current

Mr. Gay America Tom Carr. Carr will be performing, as will special guest star Naomi Sims, and emcee Mr. Glenn Elliott. Executive Director Wayne Nidiffer promises a fast-paced show, intense competition, and two nights unlike any other in pageant history as the nation's number one men's pageant finds its Man of the Year.

"COMING OUT TO PARENTS" FROM PILGRIM PRESS

In her first book, "My Son Eric" (The Pilgrim Press, 1979), Mary Borhek wrote with uncommon candor and honesty about her struggle to understand and accept her gay son. Drawing on that painful yet illuminating experience, she who offers valuable and heartfelt advice for both lesbians, gay men and their parents.

In "Coming Out To Parents," Borhek deftly presents both sides of this delicate issue. She explores the fears and misgivings that homosexuals often have about telling their parents they are gay or lesbian, and she examines the feelings of disappointment, confusion, and guilt that can beset parents.

For gay and lesbian readers, she provides suggestions on how and when to come out to parents, what reactions to expect, and how to deal with the awkwardness of the first weeks or months after coming out.

For parents, she explains that the initial reactions of grief and loss can be overcome through understanding and love. In addition to her own personal experience, Borhek relies on several case histories to make her points, and she reprints in full the very moving and affirmative "coming-out" letter of a gay man to his parents.

"My Son Eric" has been described as an "important addition to the materials on families and homosexuality" (The Advocate). "Coming Out To Parents" is destined to be just as groundbreaking.

FESTIVAL SINGERS PRESENT FRENCH BAROQUE

A concert of French Baroque music for soprano, chorus, and organ will be presented by The Festival Singers of Atlanta, J. Marcus Ritchie, director and organist, this Saturday evening, September 24th, at 8:15pm in the William R. Cannon Chapel of Emory University. Preceding the concert at 7:30pm in the chapel, a lecture on the music which will be heard is to be given by Dr. W. Dan Hardin, a member of the Singers and organist-choirmaster of St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church.

The organ, which enjoyed a tremendous popularity in France during the Baroque Era, was a vehicle for some of the most delightful music ever written for that instrument. Mr. Ritchie will offer examples by Francois Couperin (Bach's counterpart in France), Jean Francois Dandrieu, Louis-Claude D'Aquin, and Claude Balbastre.

Soprano Lisa Lacher, who specializes in the interpretation of Renaissance and Baroque singing styles, will perform Couperin's Second Lesson of Tenebre. This is an exquisite work, lasting some ten minutes, which has probably never before been heard by Atlanta audiences.

The Festival Singers of Atlanta will perform French madrigals and chansons by Orlando di Lasso, Charles Tessier, and Francois-August Gevaert.

Tickets for the concert are available at the door prior to the concert and are $4 per person. For further information telephone 758-8429.

"MERRY CHRISTMAS, MR. LAWRENCE" Universal

"I would admire you more if you killed yourself," says a Japanese officer to a British POW. The prisoner simply replies taht he couldn't possibly commit suicide because "it is the coward's way out."

Such is one of the many diverser philosophies found in "Merry Christmas, Mr. Lawrence," a Universal Pictures release, where East confronts West in a series of highly-charged emotional situations that bring about strong feelings of closeness and love between friends and enemies that only a war could generate.

It's 1942. World War II is raging around the globe but the inhabitants on the tiny island of Java have other things to worry about. At a concentration camp run by the Japanese, there is a clash of cultures and attitudes between the British prisoners and their captors, focusing on four men — two British and two Japanese — very much alike yet quite different.

"Straffer" Jack Celliers (Bowie) is a man whose spirit and determination are so admired by the Japanese that they feel compelled to crush it — and him.

Colonel John Lawrence (Conti) was a diplomat in Tokyo before the war and speaks fluent Japanese. For this reason, he is "chosen" to be the liaison officer between the prisoners and officials. But he is filled with too much compassion,

How is AIDS diagnosed?

How does hepatitis spread? Is there a treatment for penicillin-resistant gonorrhea? These are only a few of the questions that a practicing physician answers candidly, concisely, and on the basis of the most up-to-date research in a new book called GAY MEN'S HEALTH. Covering all major sexually transmitted diseases known to affect the gay community, Jeanne Kassler, M.D., describes the causes, the symptoms, the treatments and the steps you can take to help combat this increasingly serious threat.

torn between two cultures that he's trying to bring together.

The Japanese Commandant, Captain Yonoi (Sakamoto) is a part of the old-fashioned, conservative ruling class. Once having been able to impose his own strict ideas of discipline, honor and obedience upon all in his charge, he is now faced with changing times that see his old methods being challenged by new attitude.

Sergeant Hara (Takeshi) is a typical Japanese man, one who is prepared to give his life for his country and superiors. Likeable and cheerful, he does what he wants on a whim, even if it tends to border on sadism. He doesn't really want to hurt anybody, just have a little fun ... even if it leads him into trouble.

Somehow, suffering through the agonies of war and trying to deal with it the best way each knows how, the four men form a strange, uncommunicated bond among themselves. They exist side by side, all victims of circumstances that force them to stay in a confined area and thus, deal with one another. War can create odd friendships, even among so-called enemies.

FREE VD HEALTH SCREENING

The Atlanta Gay Center VD Clinics remind you of their next free screening clinic this Saturday. The clinic will be held from 4pm-6pm in the Atlanta Gay Center, located at 848 Peachtree Street. The clinic screens for the sexually transmitted diseases syphilis and gonorrhea. The monthly schedule is as follows:

First Monday of the month; 9pm till 11pm: New Order Lounge

Second Friday of the month: 10pm till Midnight: Club Bath Atlanta

Fourth Saturday of the month: 4pm till 6pm: Atlanta Gay Center

GINSBERG ON WRFG

Allan Ginsberg will be the special guest on "Southern Gay Dreams" this Sunday, September 25th. Mr. Ginsberg will discuss various aspects of his poetry, his philosophy on life, and his perspectives on gay life in the United States. Don't miss this intriguing (if somewhat controversial) interview presented courtesy of "Pink Triangle Radio."

A continuing discussion on PMS, Pre Menstrual Syndrome, will also be aired. In this concluding segment, various treatments for PMS will be reviewed.

"Southern Gay Dreams" is broadcast every Sunday from 8pm to 9pm on WRFG, 89.3 on your FM radio dial.

COMEDY GARAGE OPENS DOWNTOWN

Finally a new concept in live entertainment. "The Comedy Garage" will be opening at 107 Harris Street NW, directly behind the Apparel Mart. Opening date is set for October.

The Comedy Garage will feature young comics from all over the country. Some of the best young comedians have already committed their time and effort towards bringing quality entertainment to "A New Downtown."

The Club will resemble an old Service Station Garage. Built in 1924, it formerly held the name Jake Johnston's Garage. The structure has been left in its natural setting, to produce the unusual atmosphere which has been gone from the Downtown Atlanta for a long time.

The Comedy Garage is showing other businessmen that a new downtown is possible and hope others will follow.

SKI PEACHTREE AT MUCH ADO ABOUT MIDTOWN

SKI PEACHTREE promises to be one of the premiere attractions at Much Ado About Midtown, an arts and entertainment extravaganza on October 8th and 9th sponsored by the Midtown Business Association.

Budweiser Light is underwriting the entire cost of Ski Peachtree, which will involve laying over 60 tons of snow-like ice to create a ski slope running from Peachtree and 10th streets to Juniper Street. The 30-foot-wide ski run will be bordered by bales of hay on each side of 10th street and at the foot of the slope. The Atlanta Ski Club will provide over 150 volunteers to offer ski instruction, equipment assistance, monitoring of the activity on the slope, and the sale of ski passes. The ski passes will sell for $1; proceeds will be split 50/50 between the MBA and the United States Olympic Ski Team. Oshman Sporting Goods will provide equipment free of charge. All skiers will be requested to use equipment provided by Oshman's; no personal ski equipment will be permitted on the ski run.

Drawings will be held for seven all-inclusive Canadian Ski Packages sponsored by International Great Resort and Third Century Tours.

Much Ado About Midtown drew over 150,000 people in 1982, and festival planners predict an attendance of 250,000 to 300,000 for 1983. This highly acclaimed street festival, co-sponsored by Budweiser Light and the R.J. Reynolds Company, will feature local and regional performing and and visual artists, sidewalk cafes, a beer garden, special children's events, mimes, jugglers, cloggers, choirs, and jazz bands. Restaurants will offer food and drink specials, new plays will premiere at the smaller Midtown theatres, and the cream of the crop of Atlanta entertainers will appear on seven outside stages.

The festival site will be located on Peachtree from 11th Street to Peachtree Place and over to Crescent Street. A volunteer corps of over 500 Midtown boosters have been working for over six months on this event, which is held to promote Midtown as the arts and entertainment center of the city — a place offering a variety of the very best in theatre, music, dance, opera, and the visual arts, in which both the newcomer and the already established artist can flourish. In addition, for two days this coming October, people will be able to "Ski Peachtree" — a "first ever" for an Atlanta street festival.

For further information, call the Midtown Business Association at 892-4782.
