ALAN GOLD'S HOSTS "MR. GAY TENNESSEE"

Six hunky contestants vied for the title of Mr. Gay Tennessee at Alan Gold's new bar in Chattanooga last Sunday, September 25th.

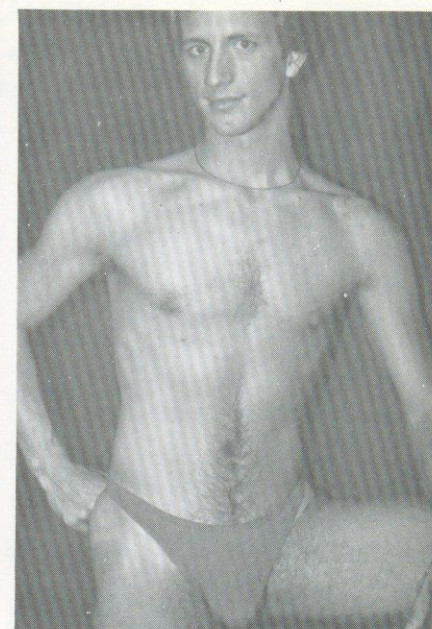

The capacity crowd agreed on the judges choice of David Phillips from Chattanooga who received the title. Phillips will go on to the Mr. Gay America Contest in New Orleans, next month.

First runner-up in the contest was Michael Tyler form Johnson City and second runner-up was Travis J. from Atlanta.

Photos were unavailable at press time.

DEAR DIAMOND LIL

Have we become frustrated in our search for romance, courtesy of lack of know-how, technique, knowledge, the why or wherefore, or the fundamentals that are involved in making an affair work? Have we forgotten the IMPORTANCE of "give and take," "compromise," and really allowing the other person to be who and what he is in all of these affairs? Remember, the magic, mirrored balls only glisten on the "Knights in Shining Armor" in "Fantasy Land" at the disco. It's better to have experienced dancing balls in their dazzling environment and excitement than to have never ventured forth, thus allowing those balls to become unused, silent, and tarnished. Never forget this: If it weren't for our eternal human guest for SOMETHING MORE and for the PERFECT LOVER, the phantasmagorical balls stop rotating forever, and this, children, would not be good! Won't you please "get on the ball" and write us your thoughts and views to Dear Diamond Lil, c/o R & R Publications, Inc., 729 Piedmont Ave., N.E., Atlanta, GA 30308.

Dear Diamond Lil,

This is a letter of hope to all Frustrated Lovers in Atlanta, and to myself.

Here lately, I have been trying to figure out the practical side of relationships. So far, I have failed at making one work out for emotional reasons; perhaps the thought, at least, is worth probing.

The ideal situation is one where emotionality and practicality co-exist. For most of us, this is an impossible task. We all can fantasize over the great loves of history; yet if we probe more deeply, we find that these are merely fictitious longings of folklore or the dreams of some frustrated poet. They gave us high ideals that are very difficult to reach, if not impossible.

I can guess what you're thinking, "That one of your dreams will come along when you least expect it." I do not say that you are wrong, merely stupid. Wake up Honey! The Tooth Fairy is dead, Santa never existed, the Easter Bunny is Jewish, and there is no Perfect Lover.

Calm down, take a deep breath, and relax. After all, you got over Santa, too. I'm just your mommy, finally telling you the truth. You might hate me for it, but we all still get Christmas presents. Santa is Woolworths, and you Perfect Lover is also everyone else's. If Perfect Lovers do exist, chances are that they're taken. If so, you will have to create the Perfect Lover for yourself.

No, I am not a mad scientist trying to coax you into glueing various parts together; I am saying that you must find a whole person and accept his flaws. If you have compatible flaws (It's true, you are human.), all the better for you both.

Lesson One: Opposites do not attract, they try to kill each other. Perfect Opposite does not equal Perfect Lover. If so, try to find a nice Iranian lesbian, seventy years old.

Lesson Two: He will not be independently wealthy, have another house in San Juan or Tokyo. He will not be intimate friends with Warhol or Vanderbilt. He will not speak seven languages without stuttering.

Lesson Three: His socks will not match.

Lesson Four: When he dances, he sweats like a pig.

Lesson Five: He does not dress in chic fashions or trendy styles. He might even wear the wrong cologne.

Lesson Six: He snores.

Lesson Seven: I know where you will find the Lover. You will wake up, brush your teeth and then suddenly see him. He will be brushing his ... on the other side of the mirror.

Thank You,
Dexter Varnum
1215 Virginia Ave., No. 1
Atlanta, GA 30306

Dear Dexter,
Thaks for your thought-provoking letter on a very different slant. I feel that some of our readers will be able to pick up on some of your ideas that they can keep and use. You do have quite an unusual flavor.

Again, I appreciate your message, which, I am sure, required a lot of time.

Love form a gal "who works hard for her money," and the only real independently wealthy guy I know is John Austin,
Diamond Lil

Dear Diamond Lil,
Just a few words on "Old versus Young"
... a poem.

As I sat and watched a thunderstorm pass the doorway of a bar in Atlanta.
They all stood. Lonely and Alone.
Their faces as tired as their feet.
Seeking.
Trying to love.
But nothing happened.
They could have loved!
It was there for the taking.
In blind crowds.
Some are accepted.
Some not.
The youth are laughing at the old.
But the old have the advantage.

They have been there before and understood.
When will we come together?
Perhaps never!
But somehow ...
as long as love lasts,
we will survive.
God has willed it for both,
Young and Old.

Love,
Ron Jordan

P.S. One more word: People do nt travel to Paris, Rome, London, Savannah or New Orleans to see the new buildings, but the beauty of the old and ancient, steeped in charactor, personality, lore and legend which have withstood the winds of time and still to shine.

Dear Ron,
Thanks so much for your lovely thoughts and words of wisdom. I feel sure you must ahve been inspired by Michael Parker's letter concerning "age" and its difficulties in his coping, which appeared in Cruise, Vol. 8, No. 35

I'm grateful that you have shared your own thoughts with us in such a delightful way.

With eternal love, some new glamour, and some light nostalgia,
Diamond Lil

THE LISTING ATTIC

by DON TUCKER

Recently, Atlanta and Georgia have gotten tough on driving while drinking and the police take great relish in watching the parking lots at popular gay bars and following customers out of the lot. Take care!! They're not nice. If you've had a few too many take a taxi home.

Madame said that once she stopped a taxi in New York and asked the driver if he could take a case of scotch and a tray of hors d'oeuvres and the driver replied, "Of course!," so Madame threw up in the back seat.

Drinking too much never makes any sense. One reaches a point where one more drink doesn't make any difference. Once I passed out on a large mirror, woke up the next morning and asked myself to leave. Another time a friend and myself were having a few and watching "Iron-side" chase a crook in his wheel chair. My firend started crying and phoned in a pledge.

I think it's time that I waxed profound on the subject of hangovers. Are they really worth it?

THE HANGOVER SONG

Never again will I chug-a-lug wine
And balance a chair on my forehead.
Did I throw up on a girl who was blind;
Was she engaged to a sorehead?
I seem to remember a lamp shade
And stripping to Wagner's "Ring."
A guy in chiffon passed out on the john
But I don't remember a thing.

Never again will I dance with a broad
Who has a pro quarterback's body.
How could I know that she lived with a girl
Who has a black belt in karate.
I showed her my trophie in boxing
And taught her my winning swing.
I heard a loud smack, the room went to black
Then I don't remember a thing.

They hated my anchovie cake
Which made one old lady turn blue.
I told them the sushi was snake
And everyone threatened to sue.
We drank to good friends
Which started a fight.
Tomorrow this ends but, boy,
Am I gonna be drunk last night!

Never again will I pull down my pants
And moon in a lobby on all fours.
Tell me I didn't spill flambe dessert
And set off the sprinklers on all floors.
I seem to remember a sailor.

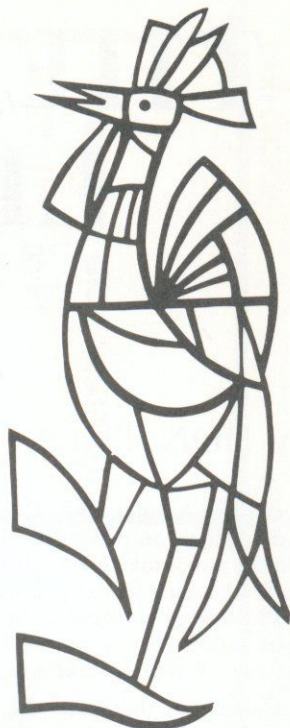

I think he said, "Do you swing?"
We thought the Ben-Gay was Oil of Olay,
But I don't remember the sting.

Never again will I jump in the pool
While playing a rare, priceless cello.
Tell me I didn't get stoned
And then eat some liver pate with lime jello.
I rode on a Chippendale tea cart
And knocked over something Ming.
And something's on fire, the cat's in the dryer
But she won't remember a thing.
Have a Singapore Sling
And forget the whole thing.

HONK IF YOU HAVE SCOTCH!!!

BOY NEXT DOOR CHOOSES POSTER BOYS

Coompeting in a field of twelve of Atlanta's hottest men, Willie Carroll, Bryan King and Leonard Sewell were the experts' choices at two wildly successful "Poster Tasting" parties held recently at The Boy Next Door, Atlanta.

ROBIN BROWN AT PLUSH ROOM

Miss Robin Brown highly acclaimed jazz and blues singer will be appearing at The Plush Room in the Hotel York, October 4th through 9th.

Miss Brown has been nominated for a Bronze Jubilee Award and received the Governor's Award for Excellence and the Martin Luther King Jr. Award for Achievement.

She has appeared at Lincoln Center, The United Nations and The Bermuda Music Festival.

Her appearance at Saint in April and at The Plush Room last June gave Atlanta audiences a "first listen" to a monumental talent.

During "Much Ado About Midtown," Miss Brown will appear at "A Night on Peachtree," October 7th and on the Illusions stage October 9th at 3pm.

Over three hundred friends and customers attended two wine-and-cheese parties at the fashionable men's clothing store at 1449 Piedmont Avenue, just north of the Park, where they were asked to select the three "posters" they thought best interpreted the "Boy Next Door" concept and would sell best as posters, nationwide.

Twelve mock-up posters were mounted on the walls of the store. Guests selected three choices. All photographs were by leading Atlanta photographer, Roger Rutherford, who is working on a major, one-man show to be held soon at Rizzoli, International.

Although the theme of the "contest" was "The Boy Next Door" — variety on that concept was broad, as evidenced by the three front-runners: Bryan appears as a typical young executive; Leonard is definitely your macho-man; and Willie is just plain foxy — you'd like them all to take up residence nearby!

While voting was close among the three top contestants, they were the far-and-away "top choice" among the twelve.

"I'm very pleased at the turnout of friends and customers — and the results," said Boy Next Door, Atlanta owner John Sullivan, who hosted the twin parties. "We thought all twelve posters were terrific. I appreciate the interest and support of all the people who voted — and I particularly want to thank all the Poster Boys for their participation and cooperation — they are tops in my book — and in Atlanta!"

Plans are to market one of the Posters for Christmas and the other two nationally after that. Poster-printing and marketing companies are being sought and interviewed. Advertising will be national, in both gay and non-gay publications. Posters will be suitable for framing. Additional posters will be issued throughout 1984, leading up to a 1985 Boy Next Door, Atlanta calendar.

Both the posters and the calendar are part of the broad advertising and public relations campaign, utilizing the considerable artistry of Roger Rutherford, the looks and talent of Atlanta's hottest men, coordinated by advertising representative, Alexander Wallace. Interested models, who have the Boy Next Door look, may contact Wallace at 875-6965.

ATLANTA CHAMBER PLAYERS OPEN SEASON

One of the best kept secrets in Atlanta is chamber music, and the best chamber group performing regularly here is the Atlanta Chamber Players. This was quite evident at the Players' initial concert of the season Tuesday, September 20th.

The group, founded in 1976, is composed of six regular musicians plus occasional guest artists. Regular instrumentalists include: Paula Peace, artistic director and pianist; Melanie Cramer, flute; Robert Robert Brown, clarinet; Paul Cohen, cello; and two newcomers, Pamela Askew, viola; and Mowry Pearson, violin.

The opening concert was typical of the Chamber Players' high level of offerings. The program was interesting and varied in both style and feeling. For this listener the highlights of the evening were Bartok's "Contrasts" for clarinet, violin and piano and Faure's Piano Quartet #1. Playing in both works fit well the character of the music, rugged and rhythmically intricate in the Bartok and lyrical and flowing in the Faure. The concert began with Rameau's Premier Concert for flute, cello and harpsichord followed by Copland's mournful threnodies 1 & 2 for flute and string trio.

If you like chamber music, I highly recommend the Atlanta Chamber Players. The next concert on October 18th at the Academy Theatre at 8pm will include works by Haydn, Brahms, Dahl, and recent Pulitzer Prize winner, Ellen Zwilich.

AS YEARS GO BY...

In the paisley explosion of the sixties fame came fast, and fleeting. In 1964 a young girl grabbed her fifteen minutes of Warholian fame with a top-ten hit, "As Tears Go By." However, this young girl's fifteen minutes stretched into fifteen years. Her name was Marianne Faithfull, and she became one of the luminous cognoscenti of "the" era.

Wednesday, October 5th, 1983, Member Promotions presents a special evening with Marianne Faithfull, at the Agora Concert Hall.

After "As Tears Go By," Marianne Faithfull made the charts three more times, not including her collaboration with Mick Jagger, "Sister Morphine." As the sixties wound to a close, she began to explore other avenues of expression; specifically theatre.

This concert is Marianne Faithfull's first Atlanta appearance. Those who remember her arresting performance on NBC's "Saturday Night Live," and her duet with David Bowie during his "1980 Floor Show," will immediately purchase several dozen tickets.

Tickets are available at all SEATS locations, the 688 box office and The Agora box office.

Opening for Marianne Faithfull will be Arms Akimbo, dance-rock legend in the making. Currently on a mini-tour of the East Coast, Arms Akimbo plan on heating up the early crowd, a gesture of respect toward one of their collective heroines.

HOLLYWOOD COMES TO ATLANTA

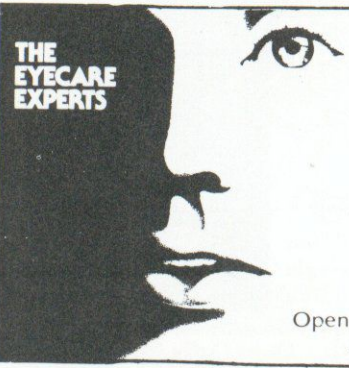

The Pharr Library will present "Hollywood-Hollywood" September 30th through October 2nd, 1983. Under the production wizardry of Tom Billingham, all lights and cameras are ready for action as you become a star.

Tom Billingham, vice president of Nite Lites, Inc., has organized the "First of the Season" as he will transform The Pharr Library into a replica of Hollywood. The three days of glamour and parties will open with a dress party on Friday, September 30th, complete with autographs in wet cement.

Party will be featured. Over $500 in prizes will be given to the best Hollywood costumes, including Best Actor, Actress and Hollywood theme costume.

Sunday, October 2nd will close the set of "Hollywood-Hollywood" with a Tinsel Town T-Dance, featuring actress and performer Dina Jacobs.

According to Billingham, all systems are set to go as he utilizes his unique talents as a lighting designer and technician to produce one of the finest theme parties ever in Atlanta.

LA CAGE AUX FOLLES ON WRFG

Jerry Herman, the lyricist and composer for this campy and zany Broadway hit, will be interviewed on "Southern Gay Dreams" this Sunday, October 2nd. Mr. Herman will discuss the amazing current successes of this and another Broadway hit with a gay theme, "Torch Song Trilogy." The interview is spiced with his own review of the play and why he feels the general public has responded so enthusiastically to these productions.

This Sunday is also the regular time we hear from Diamond Lil, as she continues to give us valuable advice on her radio letter features. Miss Diamond presents answers to pertinent letters from those seeking advice the first Sunday of each month.

Don't forget that "Southern Gay Dreams" is broadcast every Sunday from 8pm to 9pm on WRFG, 89.3 on your FM radio dial.

NOSTALGIA LIVES ON WITH THE PLATTERS

Returning to the Club Atlantis at the Hyatt Regency Atlanta are the world famous Platters from September 27th to October 16th. You'll remember them best for "Only You," "Twilight Time," and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" just to name a few!

The Platters are more than just a singing group — they are a part of America's musical history. They have achieved the distinct recognition of having more Top-10 hits than any other singing group of their era, have been the recipients of 16 gold records and have sold more than 100 million records.

The creator of the Platters, Buck Ram, producer, composer, arranger, has been personally involved with the sale of their 100 million records and wrote eight of the songs himself.

Come join the Platters as they take you down the memory lane of some of the greatest music that you have ever heard. Club Atlantis is open Tuesday thru Sunday. Dinner, cocktails and dancing to the Donnie Sands Trio starts at 7:30pm. Two shows nightly.
