FIRST WORD

According to many sources, this is the year Wyche Fowler will lose his Fifth District Congressional seat; probably to a black candidate. Black politicians have long considered this seat in Congress "theirs" since the district is over 55% black. They seem at times to lose sight of the fact that a Congressman must represent everyone in his or her district; something that no one can slight Wyche Fowler for not having done.

Despite Mr. Fowler's record, the race will boil down to good, old fashioned racial politics. Fowler will probably be the only major white candidate, facing several black politicians in the Democratic primary. Former state representative Hosea Williams has already announced his candidacy. Others who have been mentioned include state representative Julian Bond, Fulton Commission member Reginald Eaves, Fulton Commission Chairman Michael Lomax, and Atlanta City Councilmember John Lewis. The accepted scenario has Fowler unable to win a majority in the first primary and facing one of these men in a run-off. If the run-off vote is along purely racial lines, even though the race will be close, Fowler will not return to Congress in 1985.

The gay vote in Atlanta, representing perhaps 10% of the total vote, could represent a crucial swing vote in this Congressional election. Since the gay community, naturally, is racially mixed, some might think it is illogical to think of our vote as a solid voting block. However, Theo Thomas, founder of the Gay Atlanta Minority Association, informs us that in surveys conducted by GAMA and Black and White Men Together, black gays were found to vote based on concerns involving their sexual preference rather than race in 90% of the cases.

Since most candidates will likely have similar positions on most issues, the issue that should most concern gay voters is whether or not the candidates will commit themselves to sponsorship of the National Gay Civil Rights Bill now pending in Congress. Since even a 5% crossover vote could throw this election one way or the other, it will be in the best interest of all the candidates to court the gay community directly. This sponsorship should be the ultimate litmus test as to their acceptability to us.

Mr. Fowler has already refused co-sponsorship in the current session, though he could, of course, change his mind if he found it politically expedient. The other candidates mentioned above have been generally supportive of the gay community in the past (especially Michael Lomax), however none have publicly stated their position on this bill.

The key to creating true electoral clout for Atlanta's gay community is voter registration. A new organization, The Greater Atlanta Registration Drive, working in conjunction with the Atlanta Business and Professional Guild, is already working in this area. Once we have registered voters, participation is the next step in the process. This is where our varied organizations must pool their resources (and bury their differences) to conquer the traditional apathy towards the electoral process in our community.

Finally, to show true power to office seekers, we must vote as a single block. This would require an endorsement of candidates (not merely ratings of acceptability as has been done previously) by the First Tuesday Association, our main political organization. In other cities, with large concentrations of gays, this is accepted practice. For instance, in Houston in the last municipal elections, candidates endorsed by the Gay Political Caucus won the mayoral election plus every City Council seat in which an endorsement was made. We have the numbers to be a voice in any election in Atlanta. Let's use them to our greatest advantage.

DEAR DIAMOND LIL

Are our friends really our friends, or do they desire to be with us for what they "think" we are? Whom do we trust? How do we know if a friend is a friend? Which is more important; a one-night toss in the hay or a lasting friendship? Can we control our sexual promiscuity? Do we take pride in what we are, or do we just run with the flock? Oh, Lordy, if one or two of these have tripped us up, or if something else has, why not write a letter to Dear Diamond Lil, c/o Cruise Weekly, 729 Piedmont Ave. NE, Atlanta, GA 30308. Remember, it's never too late to feel better.

Dear Diamond Lil,

Love reading your column, Girl! Now, maybe you can help me out with a little problem.

My lover and I live in the Montgomery area. We are really happy with each other and have even gone so far as to agree to be faithful.

We are both considered rather good looking and most of our "friends?" that have visited with us end up trying to put the make on either one or both of us. Since we have rebuked these attempts, most of our "friends?" have stopped coming around.

At the bars we find most people we meet have the same thing on their minds. Needless to say, we have given up on the bars.

Lil, we like being together but also like a little social life. Practically everyone we have known previously has tried to break us up. We're not concerned with that but would like to meet some other people who are living together faithfully and would like some social life without the hassle of fending off sexual advances. Surely, there are others who share this problem.

Please don't print our names but would you be kind enough to pass along the information to your readers who might be interested in meeting us.

Sincerely,
W & R

Dear "W & R,"

Thank you for your most interesting letter.

Obviously you're both fairly rare pieces (if you'll forgive that expression), and what you're trying to cultivate as friends are persons in your own peer group who find one or both of you sexually attractive. This kind of situation will always cause havoc and friction.

You'll be wise to cultivate some older gays (who'll probably still be a little hot, but in control) as friends. They will, also, be more understanding and sympathetic with problems you may have. Consider gay girls as friends, who will be very nurturing and motherly and supportive; and also, consider non-gay females for comrades. Eliminate the competitive category altogether to solve this problem.

Why hassle with things in life which are uncomfortable with one's well-being?

With love and some new friends,
Diamond Lil

Dear Diamond Lil,

In light of the gay pride week which will take place near the last of June, I have question which has bothered me since I moved to Atlanta in 1980: Why are the gays and lesbians so lazy and unconcerned as regards the deplorable status of gay rights in this city and state? The march which culminates Gay Pride Week is a vivid example of this. Despite the population of Atlanta having grown to over 1.5 million people (meaning, statistically, 150 thousand homosexuals), those participating in the march have never numbered more than 10 thousand; in fact, the number had greatly dropped last year, to near 5 thousand. When I have asked people why they haven't marched, I have received various replies: Some fear they will lose their jobs if they publically acknowledge their homosexuality (this is a valid concern for a few, but not the majority, and is one of the concerns of the gay rights movement); others claim that they have nothing about which to feel pride (man, pride comes from inside yourself, not from other people); some blacks refuse to march as a protest of discrimination); finally, there are those who party on Friday nights, and cannot rouse themselves before 12 noon on Saturday, or who are too busy trying to find a trick to be bothered with anything like gay pride or gay rights (try using these excuses the next time you are denied housing or are fired because you're gay). Lil, what is wrong with these people?

Concerned GAY Citizen

Dear "Concerned Gay Citizen,"

I find your letter most interesting. Motivation places a key note here, and motivation places a key note everywhere; i.e. at work, cruising, cleaning the house and yard, etc. Not substantial changes can be made without adequate motivation and leadership, and I'm fearful we don't have available access to what we really need at this time. There's not a Joan of Arc, Adolph (God forbid), or Martin Luther King. Without inspirational leadership convincing people of something to believe in, very little is done. (Even I need the support of you readers out there to be convinced this column is doing the community a service!)

Once again, remember, people are creatures of habit. They have to be brought out of their closets, niches, and cubbyholes. Goodness knows (and once again, God forbid) Anita Bryant did rather fair on her publicized and supported crusade against gays. Thank heavens, she declined and faded out! Without support and substantial leadership, it hurts me to my heart to say we may be in the same bog for awhile.

By the way, news media report that there are over 200,000 gays in the Atlanta area, which makes things seem even sadder, considering our low attendance during Gay Pride Week. If we could find a Martin Luther King kind of figure to support us, believe me, Kitty-Belle, things would get accomplished.

With lots of love and some new freedom,
Diamond Lil

I guess we've all heard by now about the outbreak of Duck Rash among gay people. It's heartbreaking! You see someone you've known for years with what appears to be a mallard growing on the side of their face. The CDC says that it could be caused by rafting, but no one knows for sure. But I did want to alert you to the benefit that is being held at Spike's for the general benefit of Duck Rash victims.

Most of the stars from our local shows will be there. Entertaining you will be Beulah Bison, Tissy Boom-Boom (and her parents the Reverend and Mrs. Boom-Boom), Chena deMarco, Bessie Mae Mucho, Lulu Laterine, Feather Swartz, Tiffany Mocha, Tundra del Norte, Sheila the Whip Bitch, Wanda the Wicked Warden, Hazel Pillcruncher and her All Leather Orchestra and a whole bunch of drag queens. This part of the program is scheduled to run until sometime around the turn of the century.

Bring money and buy lots of drinks. There will be representatives from all the major beer distributors there. They're the ones in the polyester suits who've realized fairly recently who's been drinking all that beer—including the baseball games. My life dream has been to rub elbows with a Coors man. You might also run into the crowd that is pushing one of those vile liquors! (Wake me early on the morrow mother, for I'm to have a free green banana liqueur! Whoopee!!)

Back to our benefit. Next, we'll be hearing from The Four Skins. A local, straight rock group that never seems to have the same members but always plays the same music.

Gentlemen, we know you must make money in a bar. That's how you stay in business, but do benefits have to run until closing time, having begun just after lunch? Who is benefitting?

They're always on weekdays so as not to compete with natural weekend business. That's clear. But what does this say about bar owners? Clearly, any money given to deserving causes like AIDS is needed and apparently appreciated, but real generosity begins in your own pocket—not the customer's. And it seem to be at least morally corrupt to use a crippling disease or a minority cause to generate and sustain an evening's business.

The best benefit I've ever been invited to never took place and made lots of money. It was for the Washington Theatre Club, a group that produced a lot of excellent shows; some that went to Broadway. They sent out an invitation to an annual ball that said something to the effect: "You are invited not to attend our annual dress ball. You will not have to eat a lot of cold hors d'oeuvres and drink flat champagne from a tacky fountain. You won't have to smile and talk to a lot of people you don't know. You won't have to hire a baby sitter or dance to a loud rock group, and you won't have to buy anything new to wear. If you plan not to attend, please send a check for $25 per couple—and you get to keep the couple." They made lots of money.

If the bars really want to do a proper benefit for AIDS, why not designate one night when ALL the bars participate. Then, also give them a part of your profit, not just the extra bit you take up at the door. Let's face it, Reagan isn't going to help!

ROGER RUTHERFORD PHOTOS IN NYC GALLERY

Cruise referred to Roger Rutherford's photography as a "provoking view into the homoerotic world of Men." Torso magazine, because of what they called the "exquisite sensuality" of his work, deemed to publish him twice (Dec. '83 and Feb. '84) in their Portfolio Feature section, the only artist to ever be so honored. Here in Atlanta we have been very aware of Roger's photographs through the ads for The Boy Next Door and his three one-man shows, and now, the Big Apple will get a look at the gentle masculinity of the Rutherford image.

The Basement Gallery, 127 Prince St., in Soho, has selected 30 of Roger's prints for a group show opening May 24th and running through June 17th.

Joining six other artists, including Blade, the artist famed for his "Seven in a Barn" series, Roger will be the only photographer represented. The owners of The Basement Gallery were so impressed with Rutherford's work that they have asked him to submit his portfolio to the Rob Amsterdam Gallery in Amsterdam, Holland, hoping for a possible show later in the year.

For those fortunate few who already own signed and numbered prints of Roger's, you invest wisely. The asking price at The Basement will be $200 for a signed/numbered, unframed print. So, if you're in New York from May 24th through June 17th, stop by The Basement and help a local boy make good.

HENRY P. MCILHENNEY COLLECTION DISPLAYED AT HIGH MUSEUM

The Henry P. McIlhenny Collection, one of the most outstanding private collections of paintings and drawings in America will be shown at the High Museum of Art from May 25th through September 30th, 1984. Housed in an elegant townhouse in Philadelphia, the collection comprises 41 French paintings, drawings, and sculptures by major masters from Chardin through Degas, Renoir, Toulouse-Lautrec and on to Matisse and Rouault.

Each work in the McIlhenny collection is carefully chosen, but to single out a few of the most famous, there are Jacques Louis David's portraits of Pope Pius VII and Cardinal Caprara painted on panel and Ingres's Portrait of La Comtesse de Tournon of 1812 (pictured). By Delacroix is a small version of his revolutionary The Death of Sardanapalus. The group of works by Degas comprises a remarkable unit ranging from early drawings to late pastels and featuring the early subject painting alternatively known as Le Viol (The Rape) or Interior. It has recently been identified as a scene inspired by Zola's grim short novel "Therese Raquin." Also by Degas is the bronze sculpture known as the Little Dancer of Fourteen Years complete with actual cloth tutu and hair ribbon.

The undoubted masterpiece in the collection is the large oil by Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec, La Danse au Moulin Rouge. In this, his favorite bohemian dance hall, he depicts as the chief dancers, the red-haired La Goulue and her partner Valentin Le Desosse ("The Boneless One"), as well as various friends including Jane Avril.

Also to be shown in Atlanta for the first time are a selection of Mr. McIlhenny's English Victorian paintings which formerly graced his summer home in Ireland. Among these fourteen works, the most significant are a group by the renowned animal painter Sir Edwin Landseer.

The High Museum of Art is located at Peachtree and 16th Streets. One of the many benefits of High Museum membership is free admission all year. For membership information, call 898-1151. For a recorded message on weekly High Museum programs, call the Hotline, day or night at 892-HIGH.

GALLERY TWO NINE ONE PRESENTS "NATURAL ELEMENTS"

Gallery Two Nine One presents "Natural Elements," June 2nd through July 20th, 1984. This special group show is presented in support of the Atlanta Botanical Gardens expansion project. Included in the show will be wood block prints by Dianne Orkin Footlick who now heads the art department of New York's Dalton School. Others in the show will be Atlanta artist Anne Hathaway's watercolors, Chicago artist Joyce Reborah's green house studies on paper, New York's Kathy Stark's "Color Landscape" paintings and works on paper, and, also from Atlanta, Mary Caroline Pindar's landscape photography from Georgia's Barrier Islands. Also, a selection of British Garden ceramics from Boston's prestigious Westminster Gallery.

A special open house will be held on the afternoons of the second and third of June at the Gallery. At this time a raffle will be held for a select group of original works of art with proceeds benefitting The Atlanta Botanical Garden's Expansion Fund. During the run of the show, until July 20th, a portion of the sales price will be donated to the Gardens.

Gallery Two Nine One is located at One Rhodes Center North, at Peachtree Street. The Gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday, 10am to 6pm.

OPTIONS '84

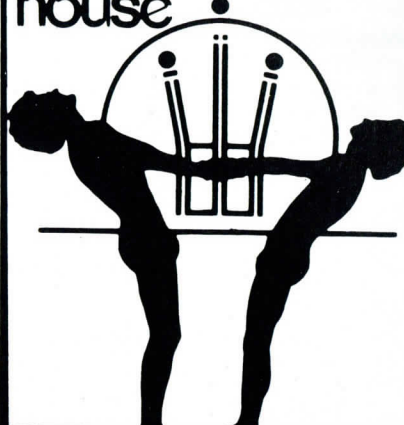

Options '84 is the second annual series of workshops and discussion groups for the gay and lesbian community.

sponsored by the Atlanta Gay Center. This year's Options '84 theme is "Say No to Getting Wrecked." Of course, getting wrecked is not the same thing as having a good time. The idea is to enjoy life to its fullest by making informed choices about the tradeoffs that life is all about. Workshops will deal with legal and religious issues, relationships, health concerns, and other topics of community interest.

What kind of person is likely to take part in Options '84? You might be announced that plans pertaining to the first set of Democratic Platform Committee Hearings have been successfully completed.

The process began on March 27th in Washington, DC when Tom Chorlton, Executive Director of the National Association, and Virginia Apuzzo, Executive Director of the National Gay Task Force, were invited to address the opening session of the 1984 Democratic Platform Committee. Chorlton outlined the positive working relationship between gay democrats and the Party over the past four years. Apuzzo sketched an overview of the consensus Agenda which was developed by their organizations in conjunction with the Gay Rights National Lobby, the National Coalition of Black Gays and the Human Rights Campaign Fund.

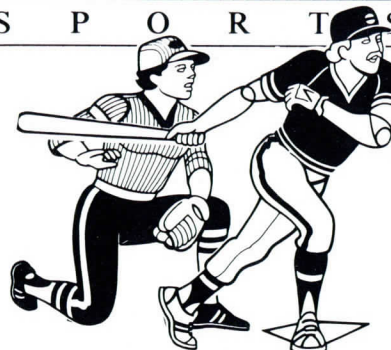

On April 9th, the first of six Regional Hearings was held in New York City. The assigned topic was "Strategies for Peace and Strength." Peter Vogel, Co-Chair of the National Association and the former four-term President of the Lambda Independent Democrats of Brooklyn, presented testimony on discrimination against lesbians and gay men in the U.S. Military and security agencies. Vogel also addressed the anti-gay provisions of U.S. immigration policy and the need to include anti-gay discrimination in the U.S. Government's annual Human Rights Survey of other nations. Vogel concluded his testimony by stating that, "Lesbian and gay democrats look forward to working together for victory in November with a Democratic Party committed to addressing their concerns."

Other hearings have taken place in Birmingham, Alabama, Springfield, Illinois, Los Angeles, California, Cleveland, Ohio, and another hearing is scheduled for May 29th in Houston, Texas. Plans are being coordinated with lesbian and gay democratic leaders in each of those areas to make certain that the Platform Committee Members are updated on all aspects of the lesbian and gay consensus Agenda. On June 11th and 12th, two days of concluding hearings will be presented in Washington, DC, prior to the full meeting of the Committee.

have established a health care clinic in your community. Many of your friends have already come to the

MONROE CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC

and discovered the real effectiveness of Chiropractic, even when everything else failed.

We are here to serve our community. We hope you will give us that opportunity. Call us for an examination and explanation—with no obligation on your part—as to how Chiropractic care can help you.
Instead of using Chiropractic as your last chance, start with us and give yourself your best chance.

THE BOUNTY

by Steve Warren

Was it repressed homosexual lust or mere puritanical bigotry that led to the mutiny on "The Bounty?" Lt. Bligh (Anthony Hopkins) openly displays the latter during the Tahitian episode, ranting about "... sexual excess with the degenerate natives"; but it would be understandable if he really had the hots for "master's mate" Fletcher Christian (Mel Gibson).

Fear of one's latent homosexuality is often at the root of sexual repression, but you have to do a lot of reading between the frames—or projecting your own reactions to obscenely beautiful Mel Gibson—to find that in Bligh's character.

For the most part "The Bounty" is a well-crafted epic of the sort that used to be turned out routinely by David Lean and others, but two monumentally stupid scenes render the rest impossible to take seriously. When Bligh freaks out and makes the crew scrub the deck repeatedly, it's right out of "Mommie Dearest"; and after the mutiny, when he tells his boatload of supporters they have one week's rations to get them through a two-month trip past islands full of savage cannibals, one responds, "We'll just have to make the best of it, sir." You'll swear you're watching "Monty Python."

Racism runs rampant in the film's portrayal of Third World People. The topless Tahitian women are all lusting for white meat. Their own men are apparently useless except to partner them in fertility rites. And the natives on Tofua are so crude they make "Iceman" look sophisticated. The rating board has given "The Bounty" a "PG" using the old National Geographic reasoning that it's okay to show tits as long as they're not white. Even if you can excuse the attitudes as "historically accurate," "The Bounty" still runs aground on those unintentionally silly scenes; and a lot of excellent work goes down the drain.

REVIEWS

SING A SONG OF SUMMER

by Steve Warren

If there's a common thread uniting many of the early summer movie releases, even more than escapist plots, ghosts and gangsters, it's their likelihood of yielding soundtrack albums. The tremendous sales of song packages from "Footloose" and "Against All Odds," and free MTV exposure for the likes of "Romancing the Stone" and "Hard to Hold" have moviemakers scrambling for music ties, whether they fit the pictures or not. You haven't seen the like of it since Simon and Garfunkel's soundtrack for "The Graduate" set cash register bells ringing in the ears of otherwise tone-deaf executives.

Here's what's promised for June and July, music-wise and otherwise:

June 1st:

"Once upon a Time in America - Sergio Leone follows boyhood friends Robert de Niro and James Woods through 45 years of gangsterism, with romance by Elizabeth McGovern and Tuesday Weld, and music by Ennio Morricone. If you like it, consider it a trailer for the 225-minute "restored" version;

"Star Trek III: The Search for Spock" - Did they think to look behind the camera? That's where Leonard Nimoy, direction his first feature, spent most of his time during the making of this latest Enterprise enterprise which reunites William Shatner and the rest of the old gang;

June 8th:

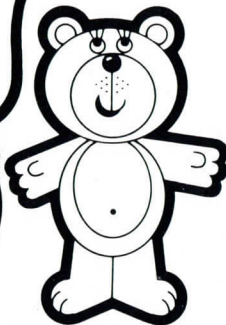

"Beat Street - Breakin' " beat it (pardon the expression) to the screen, but there are enough dance movie cliches to support more than one feature about the breakdancing phenomenon. Rae Dawn Chong stars, with 30 songs; "Ghostbusters" - Bill Murray, Dan Akroyd and Harold Ramis investigate parapsychological phenomena for laughs, chills and more laughs; "Gremlins" - Phoebe Cates battles cute little household monsters in what may be this year's "Poltergeist," directed by

 "Top Secret;" - Just when you started to feel secure . . . The creative team that gave you "Airplane!" runs spy movie cliches through the wringer;

June 22nd:

"The Karate Kid" - Ralph Macchio ("The Outsiders") learns the spiritual as well as physical side of the martial arts in preparing to tangle with the high school bully. John G. Avildsen ("Rocky") directed this kiddie kung fu;
 "The Last Starfighter" - Robert Preston ("Victor/Victoria") cons video game geek Lance Guest into helping him save the universe through a real-life game of Space Invaders. Sounds like "Star Wars";

"The Pope of Greenwich Village" - Eric Roberts is a small-time hood who brings cousin Mickey Rourke in on a job. Daryl Hannah, Burt Young and Charles Durning co-star;

"Rhinestone" - Dolly Parton bets that anyone can be a star, then has to do a Pygmalion job on cabbie Sylvester Stallone to win. Both stars sing;

June 29th:

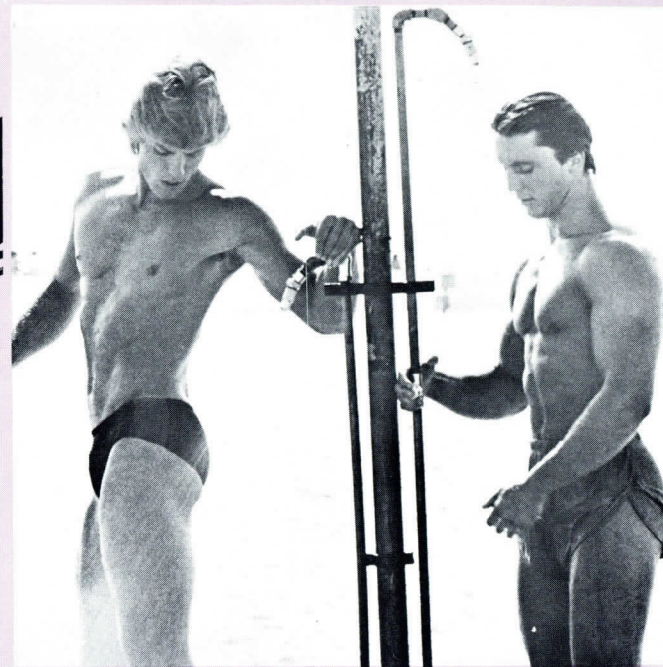

"The Bachelor Party" - Things get a bit outrageous during Tom Hanks' ("Splash") last night of freedom. Adrian Zmed co-stars in a comedy which promises to a women's viewpoint and music by Angel and the Reruns;

"Cannonball Run II" - Burt Reynolds and Dom DeLuise are good ol' boys while Shirley MacLaine and Marilu Henner dress as nuns, Dean Martin and Sammie Davis, Jr. as cops for another cross-country race. Hal Needham directed again, and the sequel could hardly be worse than the original;

July 6th:

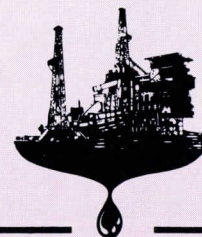

"Conan: King of Thieves - Part II" - Arnold Schwarzenegger tears up more of the pre-civilized world. Among the warriors involved in this fantasy are bizarre recording star Grace Jones as Dunaway and Mia Farrow get the billing, but Helen Slater has the title role which could make her the biggest star since—Christopher Reeve?—as D.C. Comics' superheroine takes off on the screen;

July 20th:

"Best Defense" - With Army lieutenant Eddie ("Kiss my ass!") Murphy joining industrial engineer Dudley Moore to develop weapons systems, the world may not end with a bang or a whimper, but a belly laugh. As the film's appeal is not primarily to gay audiences, a major boycott attempt would be self-defeating.

July 27th:

"Cheech and Chong as the Corsican Brothers" - Only the title is (French) revolutionary, as the comic duo tries to reverse the downhill trend their film career has taken since "Up in Smoke"; "The Jungle Book" - Mowgli talks to the animals, who sing in the voices of Louis Armstrong and Phil Harris, in this classic ani-mating of Kipling and Disney;

July Undated:

"Rope" - Professor James Steward unravels a thrill killing by gay students (Farley Granger, John Dall) he may have inspired in the last of the current series of Hitchcock revivals. Arthur Laurents wrote the screenplay, and the entire film has fewer cuts (of the editing variety) than the shower scene from "Psycho";

"I'm losing my hair and no one knows it."

"I didn't like the way I looked when my hair was falling out. Then I found out about the HRS Systems Process of hair replacement. It added hair into my bald spots and made my thinning areas thick...Now that I have my hair back, I look the way I should."
