DEJA VU! Ever Had It?

When I regained consciousness this past Thursday morning, the surroundings were vaguely familiar. My mind was still a little foggy, but I recognized it as a magazine office. I had no idea how I got there although the last thing I remember from the night before was Mother Swinden walking up to me at The Cove, then this sharp pain, then nothing. Wait ... that's it ... this is Cruise! I have been here before, but what the hell am I doing back?"

By Friday, the permanence of the situation had settled in. The knot on my head was still a little sore, but I thought I could cope with that. What I couldn't quite handle was being behind a desk for the first time in two years. Oh well, I've been behind all sorts of things before.

Monday had become a day for recovering from long weekends. My usual schedule was to wake up (maybe), move the fifteen feet from bed to couch, and proceed not to move for the rest of the day. An alarm clock jolting me awake at 8 in the morning was definitely not part of the routine. Thank God for snooze buttons.

On arrival at the office I was pleasantly surprised to see that everyone arrived on time for work that morning. I should have known it was a bad omen. Before the next two days had elapsed, two writers had disappeared leaving no copy for the week, one of the cars had committed suicide, and half our advertisers had decided to head for parts unknown before making arrangements for this week's issue. This was not the kind of welcome I had in mind. The phrase "trial by fire" comes to mind for some reason.

Anyway, barring further minor catastrophies, we hope you will be keeping an eye on Cruise in the coming weeks. Starting this issue you'll see some changes. We hope you like these and the ones to follow. Whether you do or not we want to hear your comments and suggestions. This feedback from the community can do nothing but help us improve the magazine. We were Atlanta's first and have continued to be Atlanta's most consistent and reliable magazine. This tradition will continue, unless by chance Sherman returns to burn Atlanta.

An open letter to the gay community on hepatitis B

Hepatitis B, a serious disease, may be sexually transmitted

Sexually transmitted diseases among the gay community are epidemic. Herpes has recently received a lot of attention; gonorrhea and syphilis are well known; but the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) recently issued a major recommendation for the prevention of another sexually transmitted disease: Hepatitis B. In their Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report, the CDC stated: "Susceptible homosexually active males should be vaccinated [against hepatitis B] regardless of their age or duration of their homosexual practices."

Gay men are at a high risk of contracting hepatitis B

In one study, from 51% to 76% of 3,816 gay men seen in five sexually transmitted disease clinics had evidence of past or present hepatitis B infection. Once infected, there's a 6% to 10% chance of becoming a carrier—capable of passing on the virus. The CDC estimated there are nearly 1 million carriers in the United States and that 100,000 of these carriers are gay men.

The hepatitis B virus can be passed on by contact with contaminated body fluids such as saliva, urine, semen, and blood. The hepatitis B virus can be transmitted through tiny breaks in the skin or contact with mucous membranes. This can occur during intimate sexual contact and can lead to hepatitis B for the partner of an infected person. Although most patients recover and over half contracting hepatitis B do not get symptoms, there is no specific treatment and no known cure for hepatitis B infections.

Hepatitis B may lead to even more serious complications

For those who do get symptoms of hepatitis B, a mild or severe "flu-like" sickness may continue for weeks or months. Ten percent of all infections become long lasting (chronic) with potential complications that are sometimes more serious than those of other sexually transmitted diseases. The serious complications include the chronic carrier state, chronic active hepatitis, chronic persistent hepatitis, cirrhosis, and even cancer of the liver. Every year almost 4,000 carriers die of cirrhosis. In addition, carriers have a risk 273 times greater than that of the general population of contracting a usually fatal form of liver cancer.

Now this serious sexually transmitted disease is usually preventable by vaccination with the new hepatitis B vaccine

After more than a decade of research and development, a new vaccine is available for prevention, not treatment, of hepatitis B. In clinical studies, the vaccine was highly effective in preventing hepatitis B infection and was generally well tolerated. No serious adverse reactions occurred in these studies.

The vaccination regimen consists of a series of three injections, the first two a month apart and the third, six months after the first. To be effective, the vaccine must be given before a person gets hepatitis B. The vaccine helps prevent the disease. It is not effective as a treatment. We suggest that you consult your doctor to determine if you should be vaccinated.

For more information about hepatitis B and the vaccine to prevent it, contact your doctor, clinic, or the American Liver Foundation,
998 Pompton Avenue, Cedar Grove,
NJ 07009 (201) 857-2626.

This message is brought to you as a public service by
The American Liver Foundation

Why you should consult your doctor or clinic

The vaccine helps protect against infection caused by hepatitis B virus. This virus is an important cause of viral hepatitis, a disease mainly of the liver. Even mild forms of this disease may lead to serious complications and aftereffects, including liver cancer. There is no specific treatment for viral hepatitis.

Vaccination is recommended for persons who have a higher risk of becoming infected with hepatitis B virus because of frequent, close contact with infected people or exposure to body fluids from such people. It will not protect against hepatitis caused by viruses other than hepatitis B virus.

No serious adverse reactions were reported in over 6,000 individuals receiving the vaccine in clinical trials. The most frequent reaction was soreness at the point of injection; less common local reactions included redness, swelling, warmth, or formation of a hard, lumplike spot. The local effects were usually mild and lasted no more than 2 days after vaccination. Occasionally, low-grade fever (less than 101°F) occurred. When it did, it usually lasted no longer than 48 hours following vaccination. In rare cases, fever over 102°F was reported.

More generalized complaints including malaise, fatigue, headache, nausea, dizziness, muscle pain, and joint pain were reported infrequently. Rash was reported rarely. As with any vaccine, broad use may reveal additional adverse reactions.

Your doctor or clinic knows what special care must be taken when administering the vaccine and in determining who should receive the vaccine. The vaccine is not intended for persons who are allergic to any of its components.

The Foods and Wines of Warpwood

by Bernice Cross Tarbuns

(Of the Decatur by-the-sea Tarbuns)

(Reprinted from Cruise Vol 4, No. 27)

Colors have been on my mind all week. I had to cancel my "All Black and White" dinner (Dessert: Oreo cookie filling). I will explain later. And I was up walking the floor half the night with Vieux Bleu, my toy poodle. She was passing a peach seed and shook like a Chihuahua until sunup.

I acquired Vieux Bleu sometime back from an ad I responded to on T.V., "Toys For Sale"! The litter was blue, hatchet-faced and sickly and going for practically chicken feed. But love, affection and patience eventually brought her around; but her natural color is still blue. (More specifically, Devoe Paint Color Reference Index X53 COVE BLUE). But I digress.

I eventually broke Vieux Bleu from chasing cars. As luck would have it, at the time I acquired her the newspaper promptly went on strike and I had to train her on the only thing handy: the Channel 11 Program Guide. If there's a dog in your life that can't go on the CONSTITUTION perhaps the Channel 11 approach would be more fetching. Pet Hints: 1) Put the new puppies in the dryer for a few minutes. Besides fluffing, it makes them dizzy and they won't run off. 2) A light coat of varnish will prevent shedding. But I digress.

With all the restoration going on at my ancestral home, Warpwood, I am never without my Devoe Paint Color Reference Index. The only two often mentioned colors you won't find in the index are "black" and "white." This set me to thinking, "Is anything or anyone really black or white?" So, Jobeau and I went looking!

Excited, I shouted for Jobeau Honkus, my colored retainer (Devoe Color Index X44, KUMQUAT), to bring my touring Packard round front of Warpwood. With my Devoe Library of Colors tucked snugly under my arm, we set off in search of "black and white"!

Jobeau and I talked excitedly about the possibilities as he drove. Mayor Maynard Jackson, he decided, was Devoe X11 HONCHO, with UC26 OLD MOSS highlights around the eyes. His wife leans more toward Devoe X101 GOLD CLAIM. When either of them are angry over injustice they turn D30 WATERMELON.

I observed, "Some people's true colors change so often it will be difficult to put your finger on them." President Carter, for instance, is like a rainbow with no gold pot at the end. Strictly a "flat finish."

On the other hand, County Solicitor McAuliffe's true color was child's play: Devoe C38 FLOWERING QUINCE. He blushes even at the most innocent book or movie and alternates between Devoe C35 FIRECRACKERS and X42 AMBUSH. Regretfully, he clashes with every decent color and will eventually paint himself into a corner. But I digress.

On the prowl for local color, we arrived at Cybil's to find our old friend Catherine Powell trying to interest some of the lady patrons in her Wanda of Poland products. She is S.E. Rep for Wanda. (You'll love Cybil's. The lady patrons are well-bred and act like perfect gentlemen). Catherine was demonstrating Tunique, a tuna-flavored feminine hygiene spray that comes in only industrial strength. Catherine (Devoe G36 SCOTCH MIST with X125 PETRIFIED FOREST and S18 FOSSIL high tones. Hair X113 ANTIQUE BRICK) was bursting with the news of the grand opening of Laffite's. (French, meaning "Club Foot") Miss Powell is a grand opening. Oh, by the way, there were no winners in her annual "Look Alike Contest."

Next Stop, Horse Feathers (Gulf and Western Bar) where we found Howard sipping a very weak double scotch rocks with no ice. Howard, the owner (Devoe A18 PEPPERROOT with D21 PINK JEWEL but overpowered by Devoe C39 CHERRY FREEZE) was in his rear room talking to a couple of cowboy singers with the O.K. Chorale. (Devoe T15 THUNDERHEAD, P31 LACE, X45 COWBOY, P62 GOLDEN SHOWERS, highlighting basic Devoe Color T19 PUSSYWILLOW). Howard gave me a quoteable tip: Recycle toothpicks by putting them through a pierced ear. A sad note, a dear friend and patron, Jadie (Devoe A21 ALMOND FLIP) is on radium treatment and only has a week to glow. She loves you, don't be mad.

We down a couple of Jobeau's fudge brownies with finely chopped crunchy stuff that's secret.

Next stops, Hollywood Hots, Sweet Gum Head, The Onyx, and Numbers: reliable cabarets et al. for young ladies and gentlemen of fashion. Lisa King (Devoe G30 DAZZLE with touches of the expensive G34 FANCY FREE) was there with Mickey Day (Devoe X38 SHRIMP BOAT) who was looking persona au gratin. Of course she's very graceful on stage, but you know those aren't really her own hands.

Taisha Wallis (Devoe X105 WESTERN BROWN with suggestions of X12 UTOPIAN ISLE over some X73 TINKER BELL) was chatting with Darryl of terpsichore (Devoe UB12 GOLDMAGIC), a favorite of mine on or off the walls. Taisha said that a certain "...Lil" has to pluck a nose hair if she has a crying scene. The only other clue I know is that this "...Lil" attended the Polly Bergen Institute of Charm and Grill where she was pronounced glossy finished.

At Le Cove we found Lloyd (looking R27 HEIRLOOM, N23 TRADE WINDS but with a surprising Devoe D16 PEPPERMENT WHIP) complaining about the communion wine list at Metro Church, and evidently the dip was gone when he got his wafer. I feel weak and dizzy and munch a couple more of Jobeau's secret brownies. Must be the new Valium diet — food just falls out of my mouth. I was hoping to lose height on this diet, but I digress.

This color search was a great idea! I agree with Jobeau: that we are seeing less and less false coloring, camouflage, whitewash, stains, smut-smoke, smudge-smirch or varnished over. We see friends at Bulldog, Backstreet, Shelly's Place, P's and really great colors like Devoe K50's EL GRECO, G27's CRUISE BLUE, D17's CAMEO, N22 NUDE, A29's GINGER WHIP, C42's CHERUB; all fantastic colors you can live with. But no black and white.

Suddenly, Jobeau was saying something about being "... out of gas." I slumped; he jumped in the back seat to comfort me. After that is only a blur of Devoe Color Index J47 ALFRESCO, P13 CREAMY MAGIC and X144 BOSTON CENSOR.

I awakened this mornign with Vieux Bleu licking my face and my good pearls all over the floor. There is no basic black and white, and by all means, drop the pearls.

Mange toute! Aucune vache est sacree.

Dear Mom,

Dear Mom,

I've been laid up sick for almost four days now with the worst cold I can remember ever having. Well, not really laid up; I've been going in to work every day. I can't afford to miss any time since I've only been there a week or so now. I'm starting to feel a little better, too, so there isn't anything really for you to get all flustered about. In fact, I should be feeling my old self in about two or three days if I keep on the way I'm going.

The night before I came down with this mess, me and Clifford went to this little straight bar and had the best time. It's really the first bar I've been to in ages where there were as many women as men and vice versa.

I thought it was a real tiny place at first until I noticed that there was a second floor balcony overlooking the main bar and in the back there was a big game room with a couple of pin-balls and some pool tables. You know, what with all this video game craze going around, you don't see too many good pin-ball machines around anymore. It's a shame, too, cause I like them much more than those computer things. Besides the video games are so cheap, if I wanted to play them I'd just buy one to hook up to my TV.

Sorry, I got off track a little bit there. The people there at the bar were real friendly, too. It was a nice change; not that the gay bars aren't friendly, actually they're still a lot more fun in some ways. But it was a relief not to be in a crowd where everyone and I mean everyone is looking for someone to take home for a quicky. There is a lot of that going on in straight bars, sure. I mean, what else would you expect. But this bar was more like those little bars that sprung up around home once they finally passed the beer and wine referendum. It was just a place where mainly friends, regular customers and all, get together for a few drinks. I like that. There are a couple of gay bars like that but only a couple. All the rest seemed to be interested only in getting as many people through the doors as possible.

That's good too, you know, because those are the kind of places to really get down and party, but they aren't much good for sitting around with a few friends and talking over a couple of beers.

Most gay men I've met don't seem to be really that interested in talking anyway. It seems that they only want to talk after going to bed with you and finding out if you're worth their while. Not that I would know that personally, but I've had some long talks with Bruce about it and he told me that was one of the biggest problems he had before he met Tom. He says that Tom and him are going to join this new club that's just starting up. It's some kind of club for gay lovers so they can meet other couples. I guess it's sort of like the Young Marrieds group back at Bible Baptist.

Well, anyway, we had the best time at this bar and will probably be going back as soon as I get a day off from work. That is, if I'm feeling any better and if I can keep my mind on track.

Anyhow, I'm getting along real good at work, what with having to put up with the pinches and all. It seems like when you're working in a bar everybody gets the idea that you're up for grabs. I know I've never had as many girls chasing me as I've had men giving me the eye or pinching me on the rear or asking me for dates. I'm beginning to think I'd have a lot more luck if I was gay. But don't worry, mom, I couldn't ever go to bed with another man; for anything other than sleeping, that is.

I told you once that Clifford and me were getting to be real close friends, but he's starting to act real strange. Ever since we went out together back last Halloween he's started disappearing now and then and not showing back up until the next morning, if at all. I mean, I've seen him come into the bar where I work and he wouldn't even say hello. Then fifteen minutes or so later he would be gone and that's the last I'd see of him till the next day.

I think he's still going through a lot of hassle about his divorce and all. It really hurt him a lot and sometimes I've heard him crying (I told you we had thin walls); especially those times when he comes home late after disappearing all night. I went over one time to see if I could help in any way but he told me it was nothing.

A couple of nights ago, though, he was in really bad shape and actually called me over so he wouldn't have to be by himself. We sat there and had a few drinks but he still wouldn't talk about what was bothering him. I ended up sitting on the couch with him lying down and crying in my lap all night. I wish I knew what I could do to make him happier. But until he can let loose and tell me what's hurting so bad, I can't do a thing except hold him when it's really painful.

Roxie's been writing pretty regular lately and she sounds like she's pretty anxious to get back home. The last card she sent me she said she might be allowed to come back even earlier than we expected. It seems that her doctor out there knows someone here who can keep up with her progress and make sure that everything's going to stay put. Roxie thinks that they're dragging it out anyway, but she says it's better safe than sorry. She sends her love, too, and really says to thank you for all the letters you've been sending her. I was really surprised when she told me I'd had been writing regular. You're a saint, mom. I never would have believed it of you. I mean, you've changed so much from what I always thought about you or maybe I just never knew you well enough. Thanks from me, too.

It's time to run to work so I'll close up my trusty typewriter and head off into the sunset and another foot-grinding evening of toil and tribulation. I love you much so be good and tell Pop, hi, for me.

Dear Diamond Lil,

So, you as a damsel in distress have been rescued by a knight on a white horse and have ridden into the sunset to live happily every after! Your ardent "Romeo" has found you and proves it passionately every night! Your husband, a somewhat naive bucolic, brings home the eggs and bacon, pays the rent, keeps the car repaired, while you're sprawled in bed watching "General Hospital," munching Moon Pies and swilling R.C.s and making frilly doilies! Your rich uncle from Lumpkin County passed to his reward, leaving you a half million dollars in trust! You're the irresistible Don Juan of Backstreet and are able to nab anything, bar none, that strikes your fancy! A wealthy John is keeping you in a penthouse at Colony Square, furnishing a limousine, buying you fine jewelry and furs; and you only have to see him once a month when he flies in from Houston! Now, if any of the above is true, then you may not have a need to write Dear Diamond Lil; but if none of the above is true, then you might find it easing to send us a note c/o R & R Publications, Inc., 729 Piedmont Ave. NE, Atlanta, GA 30308.

Dear Diamond Lil,

I have been reading your column for as long as I have been back in Hotlanta. I never cease to be amazed at the men who write you telling you they want some kind of relationship with this guy or that guy. Honey, let me tell you a few things!

First of all, the men are not going to come banging the door down; and a lover just doesn't come up to you and say, "Do you want to be my lover?" It doesn't work that way - never has and never will.

The bars are no place to look for a lover either. Most people there (notice that I said most) are looking for a one-night tumble in the hay - which brings up another thing that I wanted to say: I am OVER the games that people play in the bars! Let's look at each other all night and go home alone. Damn it - if you want to take me home and f--- my brains out, then let's get to it. Don't just stand there with enough attitude to part the Red Sea. I HATE ATTITUDE QUEENS!!!

You say: "Where does one find a lover?" Not an easy question and definitely not an easy answer. He will come along - maybe through friends, or you might even meet him out somewhere. But don't expect every guy you give your phone number to to call. It won't happen.

I am a single person, and I truly would like to have a lover. So where are all you men? The trouble with Hotlanta is that nobody hardly ever wants to be a top anymore. I want a man. I am so tired of meeting people that throw their legs to Jesus faster than I do. And then what do we do? Bump pussies, giggle, and exchange drag hints? NO THANK YOU!

My suggestion to all you guys out there and to myself, as well, is to keep looking, but not to appear anxious. The man of our dreams may not exist, but there just could be a reasonably close facsimile out there.

You guys that want a lover out there - let yourselves be seen. I want to see you!

OVER THE BARS AND QUEENS

Dear "Over the Bars,"

I appreciate your very frank and candid letter, and I don't have to listen very closely to hear numerous bravos and encores from others out there who feel exactly the way you do.

In my answer to "Lonely and Desperate" looking for "Mr.

Right" in Cruise, Vol. 7, No. 41, I quote in part: "We must accept the bars for what they really are; places to have a few drinks, laughs, and pick up a one-night stand - if we're lucky. Anything further is just too unlikely, and any other notion is strictly a dreamed-up fantasy. Change playgrounds for a more meaningful relationship, and review your requirements to find if they are too grandiose and unrealistic for someone else to meet."

Now since you have included your address with your letter and mine is at the beginning of the column, I feel it's about time you and I received that long, OVERDUE proposal - thought you'd agree!

Love with a new challenge,
Diamond Lil

Dear Diamond Lil,

I'm a 27-year-old boy from Conyers and used to come to the Sweet Gum Head when it was open for a little fun and excitement. My biggest trouble is when I have sex with a man I feel so ashamed and full of guilt that my head is messed up for several days. I'm thinking that the whole trip isn't worth it. What do you think I should do?

The Kid

Dear "Kid,"

It's obviously in your nature to be a rover, or you wouldn't be writing me this letter. Please, honey, find a therapist or counselor, or even an old friend in whom you really have confidence and just open up and spill out this garbage. Regular living problems are enough for us to handle - let alone carrying around UNNECESSARY shame, guilt, and rubble, that might have been inflicted on us by ourselves, parents, society and unknowledgeable peers. Be a FREE man and not a beast of burden!

Love with whomever you choose,
Diamond Lil

PRO-LEASING

Have you spend hours in front of the mirror getting ready for that very special close-up or date? Spent a fortune in time and money on just the right flowers to accent and enhance that candlelit gourmet dinner you've prepared? ... and then, after having the stage properly set, walk out the front door to pick up Prince Charming on a Marta bus??? Doesn't this seem wrong? Are you tired of feeling like Cinderella at midnite? How long do you think you can make the Prince believe the alleged car is in the shop? Embarrassed? Disenchanted? Lost? Don't be. Call Don Moore at Pro-Leasing; he can be reached by phone six days a week from 9am to 5pm at 955-2856. After hours? Try 634-8429. Don will be happy to see that your "coach" does not resemble a large Marta pumpkin.

All coaches from Hondas to Mercedes are available with no down payment.

So if you're tired of feeling like royalty but everyone else considers you common, call Don Moore at Pro-Leasing and maybe this time you'll be able to keep the glass slipper!

"SIX WEEKS"

Universal - Polygram Pictures
Dudley Moore & Mary Tyler Moore

"Six Weeks" is a story about life, and how important it is to experience it to the fullest while we still have it in our grasp.

"Six Weeks" tells the story of two extremely opposite people who are brought together in a time of personal crisis by the woman's daughter. It introduces Katherine Healy as the young girl whose dream of having a family, however briefly, comes true. Says director Tony Bill, "It's a story that will make you laugh and cry at the same time; a movie about people, not things ...

Dudley Moore and Mary Tyler Moore star together for the first time and although both are widely-known for comedy, they have chosen very different roles for their new movie: It takes them beyond comedy to the realities of love and pain which underlie that laughter.

It's no exaggeration to say that Dudley Moore and Mary Tyler Moore are two of the most successful and recognized actors in the movie business today and can choose what parts they want.

He is fresh from triumphs in "10" and an Oscar nomination and a Golden Globe award for "Arthur;" she has received a Tony for the Broadway production of "Whose Life Is It,

WOODY'S GROCERY

Anyway?" and an Oscar nomination and a Golden Globe award for "Ordinary People."

"Six Weeks," based on a novel by Fred Mustard, is directed by Tony Bill, produced by Peter Guber and Jon Peters, with a screenplay by David Seltzer. The music is composed and performed by Dudley Moore.

He has lost his memory, has no identification, and is suddenly at the mercy of the system, which has little money at its disposal and scant sympathy for any but the orthodox tried and tested — if not very successful — methods of treatment: restraint, sedation and electro-shock therapy.

Filmed on locations in Atlanta, Georgia, and at the Shepperton Studios just outside London, the Edward S. Feldman production stars Kathryn Harrold as the psychiatrist, Shirley Knight as the young man's mother and Paul Freeman as the head of the hospital. "The Sender" introduces newcomer Zelko Ivanek, a young Yugoslav-born American actor, in the title role. Britain's Roger Christian has directed from a screenplay by Thomas Baum.

The story revolves around a young man whose inexplicable ability to transpose his thoughts and dreams to the mind of another human being — his mother — would catapult him into a dark abyss of attempted suicide and murder when he attempted to break this involuntary communication pattern.

It explores this young man, his overly-possessive and undoubtedly psychotic mother who believes him to be a reincarnation of Jesus Christ, the psychiatrist who finds herself an involuntary replacement for The Sender's mother as "Receiver" for his thoughts and horrific nightmares, and the head of the clinic who believes a technological examination of The Sender's brain is a possible route to a Nobel Prize.

"The Sender" is produced by Edward S. Feldman, directed by Roger Christian, and written by Thomas Baum.

NATIONAL LESBIAN AND GAY RELIGIOUS GROUP FORMED

About 40 representatives of 21 various denominations met in Atlanta last week for the constituting convention of the North American Lesbian and Gay Religious Congress (NALGRC). The group, which originated in a meeting last May in Washington, D.C., will unite around the common interests of the membership when dealing with issues of a lesbian and gay perspective; e.g. New Right propaganda, and women's and Third World concerns. The first official convention of the NALGRC is now in planning.

Sponsored by the Atlanta based Religious Council for the Advancement of Lesbians and Gays, the meeting was covered by reporters for WGST radio, Channel 11, Cable News Network and USA Today Newspaper.

BUSINESS COUNCIL MEETS IN WASHINGTON

REFERENDUM ON NUCLEAR FREEZE

"Shall elected representatives be directed to support negotiations to adopt an immediate freeze on the production, testing and deployment of nuclear weapons by the United States and the Soviet Union and to increase funding for productive jobs and human services by transferring funds from the military budget?"

Thus reads the referendum to be placed on the ballot on November 30th.

According to proponents of the referendum, this would be the first step in helping to end the Nuclear Arms Race that our leaders have us involved in. Also, it would insure that money now being spent on armaments would be used instead for job development, health care, education and other important social services.

HOTLINE OPENS IN TAMPA

The hotline is currently staffed by twenty volunteers who have undergone training in communication skills and will have at their disposal a complete listing of Tampa Bay area organizations, bars and other referral information.

A theater district has emerged in the past few months on Peachtree Street in Midtown Atlanta. The Theatrical Outfit, The Academy Theatre, The Answer and Illusions have joined the Alliance Theatre, Peachtree Playhouse and independent productions at The Fox Theatre and other locations.
