TV Survey Reflects Attitudes on Gays

A survey by a Lubbock television station showed that 46% of those questioned would not discriminate against a job applicant because of his or her homosexuality.

That 46% is perhaps a good bit higher than many gay people would expect, but the rest of the survey confirmed the ignorance of most people in midwest America.

KCBD asked its viewers that question along with others are part of the station's "Telequest 11" series, April 18 to 21. The station also interviewed members of Lubbock's Gay People of West Texas (G.P.W.T.) organization.

The idea of conducting such a survey popped in the mind of station news director Dick Benedict who happened to be in Washington at the time the gay activists meet with Presidential aide Midge Costanza. Benedict attended a news conference held by Costanza after the historic White House meeting.

"I've always considered myself a knowledgeable man, but I didn't realize the discrimination toward gay people until the D.C. trip," Benedict said.

Promptly upon returning to Lubbock, he and station reporter Jane Prince started the wheels rolling for the survey.

He stated that following the airing of the results of the survey and the interviews the station received fewer complaints than their crosstown CBS rival did when it aired the Anita Bryant segment recently on "Who's Who."

and Jeff Dupre volunteered to be interviewed and talked about gay lifestyles and misinterpretations about gay people.

The station also interviewed Dr. Alvin Cronson of Lubbock's Human Development Center. G.P.W.T. members claimed Dr. Cronson's remarks showed he had as much lack of knowledge on gay issues as the general population and should not have been considered qualified to answer questions from the station.

Following are excerpts from the four interviews with G.P.W.T. members and Dr. Cronson.

April 18th program:

KCBD station anchorperson Jane Price: Our question today is, "Do you think that homosexuals will ever be accepted as normal?"

This brought hundreds of responses and out of these only seventeen percent say, "Yes." An overwhelming majority, 76%, say "No, the homosexual will never be accepted by society." And seven percent were undecided.

Dr. Alvin Cronson, Director of the Human Development Center, explained that overpopulation may lead to the eventual acceptance of the homosexual.

Dr. Alvin Cronson: Not in our lifetime. I believe that since we have had societies that have accepted homosexuality, societies where children aren't cherished because of overpopulation, it is conceivable that as we get overpopulated there may be an increase in homosexuality and acceptance.

But I don't think this will be in our lifetime.

KCBD: Several members of the gay community talked with us about the increased acceptance by society in recent years.

G.P.W.T.'s Steve Burgess: ... Really making significant gains in the last five years. The fact that we're here today, and a lot of things even in the local Lubbock area have changed over the last several years.

I've been in Lubbock for seven years now; there have been remarkable changes. So, yes, it's going to be a long time, but we are making gains.

KCBD: Do you feel like a normal human being?

Burgess: Yes, definitely.

KCBD: Do you live a normal lifestyle?

Burgess: What is normal? It's a mathematical term.

G.P.W.T.'s Ben Velez: It's what I don't understand. ... Well, you were asking about family acceptance. C.K. My family has accepted me all but one person, my father, because he raised me up to be a man. Just because I'm gay doesn't mean I'm not a man first, and then being gay second.

I've been married. I've tried it. That was not for me. I wanted to lead the life that I most enjoyed, which is being gay.

So now I've put myself first, then gay, then my family, which I have to do now.

G.P.W.T.'s Jeff Dupree: One of the primary efforts that must be done to eliminate discrimination against gay people is to educate the public, and most of us realize that the public does not have a true impression of what gay people are like. ...

We get out, we communicate with them, we talk with them, we let them realize what gay people are, and who they are, and that they're their brother, their sister, their neighbor, their employer, and their employee, that's when we can start to end discrimination against gay people.

April 19 program:

KCBD: Today's question is, "Do you consider homosexuality to be a sickness?"

Our responses show 55% say, "Yes, homosexuality is a sickness," 35% say, "No, it is not," and ten percent are undecided.

Dr. Cronson ... explained there is no genetic difference in the homosexual as compared to the heterosexual, but that homosexuality is usually the result of a certain lifestyle in childhood.

Cronson: Generally we see a picture of a dominate, somewhat seductive mother, an absent, rejecting father.

The father rejects the mother, and the mother turns toward the son as a potential lover. And the boy's defense against incest is to deny interest in all women, and also to identify with the mother.

KCBD: And what about the daughter, or the female, who becomes a lesbian? What causes that?

Cronson: Well, the dynamics are similar. However ... it's not as pathological in the female as it is in the male.

Generally it's the result of a competitive attitude on the mother's part, with a seductive father or absent father. In either case, again, the girl turns to her father and then is fearful of the father and, as a result, just turns to a woman for love, which she didn't get from her own mother.

KCBD: And we also talked with Lubbock gays about the difference between being a homosexual and being gay.

G.P.W.T.'s Jamie Boerner: Homosexuality is a term used for gay people, but homosexual is a sexual act, period.

Gay is the way you think, the way you live ... the places you go, not just the act itself.

Anyone can commit an act. That doesn't take anything but to have a body, period. This involves your mind, everyday lifestyle, everything about you.

KCBD: Do you think most gay people feel that way?

Boerner: Everyone that I've met that's gay or bisexual, that's how they feel. It involves your entire being because, as I said, you are a person and everything you do revolves around that.

KCBD: What about the male, female impersonator? What about that person?

Dupre: I think there are minorities in every group, and we, as gays, are not excluded

Better to reap than weep

The kids kept me so busy last week. (I've designated a day in May for each of them to perform his Mother's Day duties, and I never can remember just how long it's going to take!)

Now I know that's stretching it a bit, but what do you think they did to me?

So much to do! Movies, parties, dinners (out — thank God for Albritton's), and the neighbors were having these German shepherd parties all weekend, so even just sitting on the porch was exciting. I think I have a couple more coming up, then it's all over until next year. But like I've always said — better reap than weep!

Mother's Movies

I'll swear on my Filmgoers Companion that I've seen every movie in town at least once, and the best of them scream for your attention.

"Three Women" is the spiciest film in town, a must for every Robert Altmaniac. Shelley Duvall plays a gal whose life is fueled and driven by McCall's magazine, from recipes to conversation.

Sissy Spacek plays her alter-ego and Janice Rule is her earth mural-mother (her specialty is swimming pool bottoms).

It's all a dream come askew; it's like pulling down someone's zipper and seeing your life pass before your eyes.

And if you think that's funny, try "Nasty Habits" for pure gall. Glenda Jackson plays her part so straight (head of a convent) you want to slap her across the face (hard), and the other nuns in this Watergate take-off are uproariously daffy, especially Anne Meara (Ford), Sandy Dennis (John Dean) and Geraldine Page (Haldeman).

It's a scream just to see these actresses camp it up in nun's drag, let alone the funny one-liners.

Next you can see Martin Sheen stub a cigarette out in a hamster's face in "The Little Girl Who Lives Down the Lane." This is the most gruesome thing in this rather casual film about a girl with skeletons in her closet (only here they're in the basement).

It's very poetic (Jodie Foster is a poetess), and not bloody at all, except for Alexis Smith, who you know has to go the minute she appears.

And last but not least try

Woody Allen's new movie, "Annie Hall." It is so funny, and so touching, and so so. I swear. I thought for sure it would be disappointing after all those fabulous reviews it's been getting nationwide, but it's not at all — it's wonderful. It's a must ... trust me.

Yeah Yeah, the Bossa Nova

And everybody, and I mean everybody, is getting in the act at the Bong Show, clearly the most fabulous thrown-together-at-the-last-minute show in town.

Bong IV was probably the closest thing to a full house the Mini Park theater has ever seen (it was jam-packed, no lie), and everyone was offering something as a prize (usually just themselves, but this is a problem we all face daily).

Following the mandatory Anita Bryant put-down in which Nita "Cryin'" Bryant won an O.J. can and proclaimed "Don't screw, drink screwdrivers," two contestants (Theo Thunder-thighs and Typhoon Tessie) vied for the almighty bong.

Previous winner Polly Esther demonstrated the Bossa Nova, and was drenched by a bucket of water from the audience.

This led, of course, to a swimwear review, with fashions from the Manhole, and models from Levi's (ice-blond John) and the Mini Park sent the patrons into zipper-down heaven (hunk city).

Meanwhile, before anyone could stop him, front-rower Louis Garcia offered the Bong winner a $100 bar tab at the Midnite Sun and even threw in $50 worth of drinks to second place, who turned out to be Theo and Tessie, respectively (although respect had nothing to do with it).

These creatures also won cash, Studz certificates, a mini Gong, Locker bar tabs, and "I was bonged at the Mini Park" T-shirts, not to mention the

Horoscope

Stop chasing, Virgo!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Give your all to the present, Ari, and week ahead will like a lovely flower, yours for the plucking. You are a natural joy-spreader, Ari, and this week you get chance to cover your private little world "like the dew covers Dixie." Do it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You can be a bridge this week, Taurus, and unite two who are separated. Your restless heart finds peace and your secret garden blooms.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Energy dips, but it is only temporary. By mid-week you emerge from the valley of fatigue and sally forth into the May sunshine. One at a distance longs to hear from you. If you can't write, then telephone. Or send a wire. Or send smoke signals. Anything. Just communicate!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Daydreams you've been indulging in need to be overhauled. Either that or you should dredge up some new ones. After all, fantasies are subject to the law of diminishing returns. On last day, Moonbaby, go play in a dandelion bed.

LEO (July 23-August 22): Privilege you have been pressing for apt to be granted to some degree. What Leo wants, Leo usually gets. However, pertinent questions will be asked. Have answers in your hip pocket. Week ends on speculative note.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22): Stop chasing, Virgo. In the chasing you are running away from that which is of the utmost importance. Inner peace. Message clears. Week ends on key of G, for graduate, grateful and goody.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): Faded memories may return to give you the broody blues. Yesterday is over, Over, OVER. Today can be as sweet as honeysuckle if you'll just stop stewing over the past. New door waits to be opened. But Libra, you must turn the knob.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): A moment is paradise scheduled, Scorp. Treasure it. Hold it fast. Then put it in your memory bank for rainy day. Week ends on personal note.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): You know how you love your independence, Sag, well, love one is no different in this department. Don't expect lover to follow you on a leash. Too much togetherness can suffocate the best relationship. Crazy week ends with a snap.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19): Week packed with emotion: Hold your head high and one who attempts to bully will withdraw. And gladly. Foxy newcomer appears on scene. Use a modicum of caution in dealings, Cap. Week cuddles to a close.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18): Seeds of foolishness planted in the past now sprout a bramblebush of problems. One who waits quietly in the shadows can help, but you must ask for it. Help will not be foisted upon you.

PISCES (February 19-March 20): Romance sashays into your life. Attraction will be strong, but time is not favorable, Pisces. Sorry. Decline with a smile. (And a hint of promise.) Week ends with a sigh.

Camp-in gets underway

This Friday through Sunday, May 13-15, the Great American Camping Co. is sponsoring its camp-in at Crockett, between Houston and Dallas. Crockett is east of Interstate 45 about midway between Dallas and Houston and can be reached on highway 21 and highway 7 off I-45.

Tickets are $10 at the gate, which leads into seventy wooded acres near a national forest. The event is billed as a camp-in for the gay at heart, and is actually a test run for future events of this type.

Organizers of the event have said they hope for an attendance of about 5000 and have planned many things for the three days, including a swinsuit contest

Sunday and free movies.

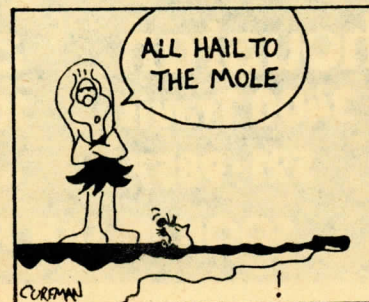

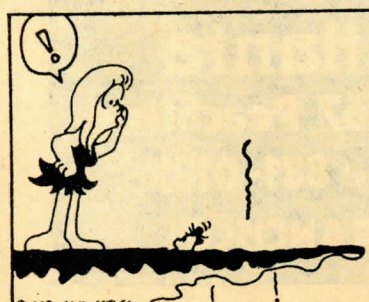

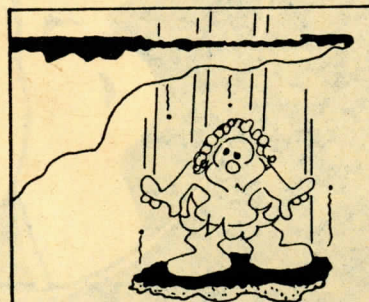

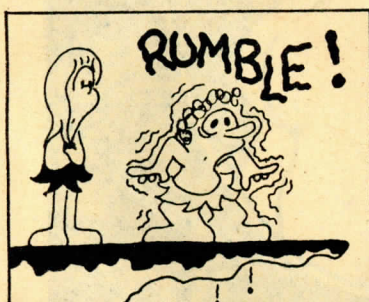

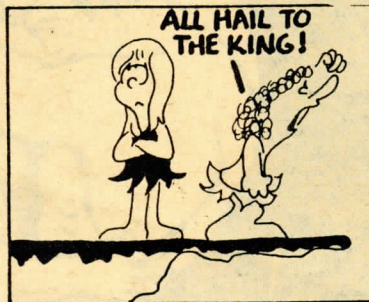

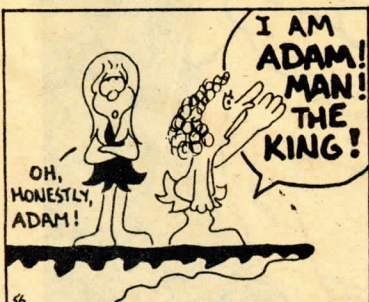

Concessions will be available and there is a large lake for fishing and swimming, plus adequate sanitation facilities.

Participants have been urged to bring campers, tents, sleeping bags, but most of all, "good karma, love and elan."

from that. It's probably the more public because it is so shocking to the public, that it is probably more visible. . . .

Just like the stereotype individual who people believe to be gay is more common, and more visible, it's out in the open.

April 20 program:

KCBD: Today we asked the question, "Do you think a homosexual can change to heterosexual?"

Out of the hundreds of responses we find that 48% of our viewers say, "Yes, the homosexual could change to heterosexual." Thirty-three percent say, "No, they cannot change." And almost one-fifth, nineteen percent of those surveyed, are undecided.

Lubbock gay Jamie Boerner told us gay people usually recognize instinctively who other gays are.

Boerner: I don't care if they ignore it, or accept it, or tolerate it, just as long as we can eliminate the antagonistic feelings, and the discrimination, and stuff like that, because what two people do in the privacy of their own home, if they are two consenting adults, is no one else's business.

And we are not causing anybody any harm.

And, as I said, ignore it, tolerate it, but don't hassle me because I'm gay. I've never done anything to you so why hassle me because I'm gay?

KCBD: What kinds of hassles do you have to go through?

Boerner: Oh, I'd say the foremost thing is plain old name-calling . . . queer, dyke, faggot, whatever.

KCBD: O.K. To me you look like a normal human being. . . . I cannot tell that you are gay, from your outward appearance.

Boerner: But if they know . . . gay people can tell other gay people, but, if you come out of your closet and you say you're gay, people are going to talk behind your back. They're going to make crude little comments, and your boss may get angry, your parents will either play the martyr role, or try to send you to a mental institution to be cured . . . which there is no cure for it because there is nothing wrong in the first place.

April 21 program:

KCBD: . . . We asked our viewers, "Do you personally know someone who is a homosexual?"

Out of the responses only one-fifth, or twenty percent say, "Yes," they do know a homosexual. Seventy-nine percent say, "No," they do not and one percent are unsure.

We talked with local gays recently about how much of the population is made up of gay people.

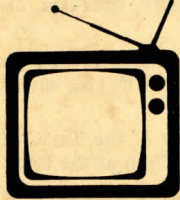

Dupre: Gay people are a minority. We're probably the quietest minority. You cannot pick us out of a crowd.

You can't say we're black or we're short or we're green or we're blue. We are there; people don't see us.

The images they have of gay people are what they assume gay people should be like. There is a whole list of stereotypical ideas that all men who are gay are effeminate and all women who are gay, or lesbians, are extremely masculine.

And they hold these ideas. Until that is eliminated we're just not going to have any change whatsoever.

KCBD: How large is the gay community in the United States?

Dupre: It is estimated that five percent of the population will be actively gay, an even greater number, greater percentage of the American public in general, will have a gay experience sometime in their lifetime.

KCBD: But this five percent are the people that acknowledge it?

Dupre: Correct.

Boerner: That's it right there, "that acknowledge it."

Because of society's discrimination people have to remain in the closet, or just not admit to everyone they are gay, because they'll lose their job, their families will be very upset, there are a jillion reasons, you know, why.

KCBD: "Remain in the closet," do you mean that a person still has these feelings are they actually . . . secretly sneak out sometime and have an affair with a person of the opposite sex, or what?

Boerner: You don't let your neighbors or your friends, unless they are also gay, know. You go to private gay bars and that's where you associate with people, or you have a little clique that you run around with, but, if anyone asks, or anything, you are not.

April 22 program:

KCBD: Today we asked the question pertaining to the employment of the gay person. We asked our viewers, "If you were an employer, would you reject a qualified applicant strictly on the basis of their homosexuality?"

Out of the hundreds of responses our results are pretty even. Forty-four percent say, "Yes," they would refuse employment to a homosexual. Forty-six percent say, "No," they would not reject a qualified applicant strictly on the basis of their homosexuality. And ten percent are undecided.

One Lubbock gay told us recently that his present job offers no problem, yet he has experienced some problems in past periods of employment.

Velez: I've acquired a job; my employer knows I'm gay; he's accepted me. The people that go into the place of business where I work know I'm gay and they accept me. . . .

I'm not working in a gay establishment. I'm working in what people would call a straight place. A lot of people come in and go out and I'd say sixty percent of them know I'm gay.

KCBD: Were you open with your employer when you were hired?

Velez: Very much so. Yes, I was. Maybe the reason was because he was more or less a friend of a friend and when I went up and asked him for a job and I told him I was gay, well he said that, you know, is beside the point if I can do my job well he was going to hire me.

He tried me for a day and I did my job good enough to where he hired me.

KCBD: What kind of problems have you had in the past?

Velez: Well, in the past I've been in the military. I was doing pretty good till it came out that I was gay.

I held a certain position in the barracks of say 200 men. I was more or less squadron leader. When it came out that I was gay I was stripped of all my authority right there and then just because it came out that I was gay.

Grace Jones shouts she 'Needs a Man' . . . great record

"I Need a Man" by Grace Jones (on Beam Junction Records) definitely gives a broad idea about the unique nature of this lady's extraordinary talent. Grace is a cross between Shirley Bassey and Nancy Wilson.

This is a great record and should reach masses. It's available on both a seven inch and twelve inch 45 and the song will be included on her first album, due for release soon. The LP's Moroder's partner) did the production. The disc is vocal on one side, instrumental on the other. (Bellote and Moroder are now working on Donna Summers' forthcoming new album.)

The Soul Train Gang has released "My Cherie Amour" on a commercial 12-inch. This Stevie Wonder classic has been redone with the familiar Soul Train disco beat and is over six minutes.

Salsoul continues to pump out those 12-inches, the latest being from the Salsoul Orchestra, produced, arranged and conducted by Vincent Montana, Jr. "Magic Bird of Fire" is the latest doing, a classy arrangement that at times sounds like something from a movie soundtrack. The drum beat, however, keeps it in line for the disco crowd.

The flip is a good instrumental remake of "Getaway," made popular last year by Earth, Wind and Fire.

A special note of thanks to Pyramid artist D.C. Larue for the #0092 copy of "Indiscreet/Face of Love" promotional disc.

Former Gloria Gaynor producers Meco Monardo, Tony Bongiovi, Harold Wheeler and

Jay Ellis have put together a sensational album, "A Disco Symphony," for a group called Camouflage and their lead singer, Mysti, who has the Gaynorism style in her voice. The strongest cut is "Bee Sting" at over seven minutes.

Also included is a fifteen minute version of "Disco Symphony/MacArthur Park." It's on name is "Portfolio."

And on the subject of great records, here we have before us yet another of those disco medley sensations, "Discomania" by a Philadelphia-based group — the Lovers. This recording has the capabilities of becoming another "Best Disco in Town" hit.

The song starts with the words, "Disco, disco-mania," and proceeds with versions of "Don't Leave Me This Way," "That's Where the Happy People Go," "Life Is Music," "Shake, Shake, Shake Your Booty" and "Turn the Beat Around." It's on a commercial 12-inch from Marlin, distributed by the giant disco company, T.K.

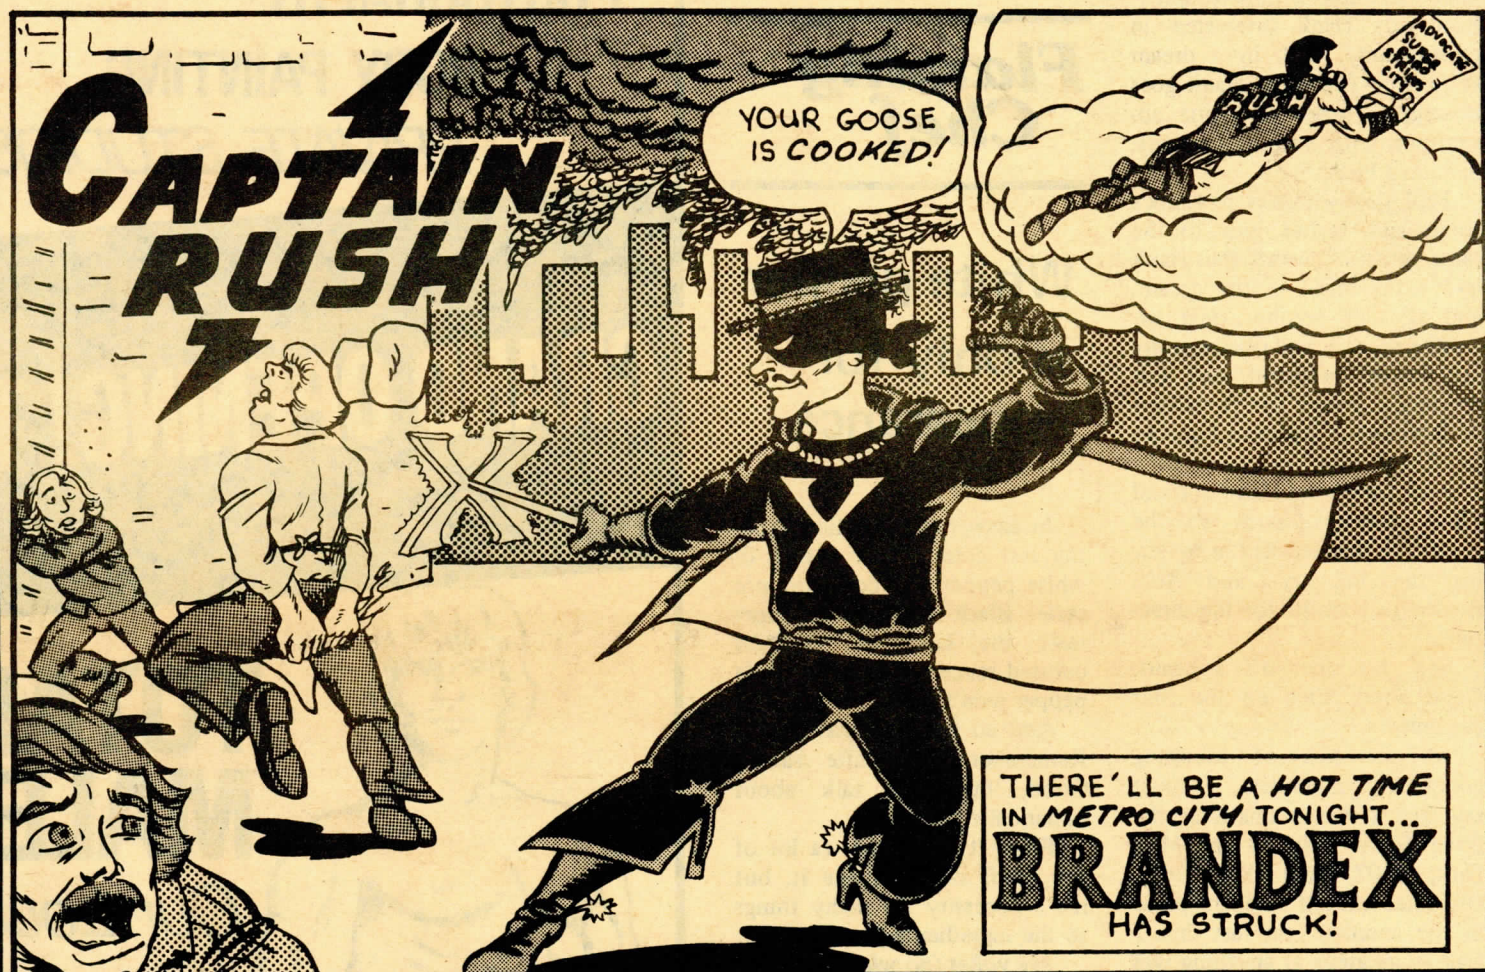

The new U.A.-Roadshow "Morning, Noon and Night" album by the group of the same name contains some well-adjusted, funky material. Suggested cuts are "Bite Your Granny," "Feeling Strong," "Moving On Down the Line," "Free" and "Le Joint."

Atlantic-Westbound Records will be releasing the long awaited "Feel the Need In Me" LP by the Detroit Emeralds. You may remember this group from a few years back. The title cut sounds very much the same as the original except the vocals are not as strong and this new version is longer, more modern. It promises to be a good album.

Shalamar's new album (simply called "Shalamar") was released this past week on the Soul Train label. This LP has some exquisite disco sounds, with the strongest cut being "Inky, Dinky, Wang Dang Doo" (four minutes) followed by an adventurous instrumental, "Beautiful Night" (five minutes).

The group consists of two males and one female, all former dancers from the well-known "Soul Train" television show. They also do an exciting version of the Motown hit, "Forever Came Today," previously done by Diana Ross and the Supremes and the Jackson Five.

Steve Bender, a stylish German musician, has a new twelve inch single on London Records, "The Final Thing." Producer Pete Bellote (who is Giorgio

Male Movies

'The Night Before' hooks frames with 'Drive'

Shades of Fellini, and foxy cox too! This week the dirty flicks have outdone themselves.

French Quarter is starting the highly artistic "The Night Before" and the Mini Park has done it again with their latest Bong Show.

The French Quarter, Elgin and Louisiana, begins "The Night Before," the beautiful surrealist gay movie first released in 1973, together with the previous week's "Drive."

"The Night Before" is the story of Hank, who meets and falls for Paul, a photographer. Paul gets Hank interested in photography, and, in a dream sequence-fantasy, Hank goes through a series of erotic adventures with various partners, including Paul.

Paul finally comes to Hank's room and invites him to the same series of events that Hank had experienced in the dream, and it's all terribly deja vu.

The scenery and photography are simply beautiful, and this movie and others like it are part of the current effort to improve gay films.

Jack Deveau of Hand in Hand Films deserves much of the credit for this attempt at bettering the industry, and Arch Brown gets credit for the direction.

See this one, it's a beaut. Good solid three on the Star Petermeter.

At the risk of sounding completely immodest, I must say that I was a smash at the Bong Show held at the Mini Park, 2907 Main. Yes, folks, Old Theo himself won first place in the amateur (the last time I was an amateur at anything was when the pyramids were being built) contest.

I did my well known, wildly successful night club act, eating a banana to the accompaniment of opera music. Isn't that terrific? I knew you'd be impressed.

I then proceeded to take my clothes off, but an aroused audience made me stop when I got to G-string level. Unfeeling ingrates! What do they know?

Typhoon Tessie came in a close second in the event, and for all this thespian endeavor I received a $100 bar tab from the Midnite Sun and Tessie got a $50 tab from the same folks.

Various other bars contributed drinks and the Mini Park kicked in with $20 cash, and all in all my first local attempt at stardom was a huge success.

There was a special appearance by 'Nita Cryin' Bryan and Polly Esther, and the sneak preview of "Kansas City Trucking Company," which is now being shown at the Mini Park.

"K.C.T.C." is one of the hottest new gay movies in years, and should break all attendance records at the Mini Park.

Back at the Bong, a bevy of simply gorgeous men modeled clothes from the Manhole, including swim briefs, underwear, and something called the Basket Maker. Sort of a jock sock with an uplift, if you get my meaning.

Everyone at the show not only got my meaning but also a great view of some of the more interesting hooters in Houston.

Next Bong Show scheduled is May 23. Something really special on tap, tune in later for more details.

Flaming Chef

White pepper is only for appearance

In answer to a question about my last column, the choice of white pepper was cosmetic, not taste. Black and white pepper taste the same but in light colored sauces or food the white pepper won't show.

And so back to the sauces! Remember the white sauce? Good, but let's talk about hollandaise.

First, it's not easy (a lot of top chefs cannot make it, but it's a necessity for many things so the ingredients you need are:

egg yokes (no white at all)

clarified butter

Lee & Perkins

lemon juice (fresh)

white wine (1 cup per 10 yokes)

Now, to make it: In a double boiler put your yokes and the wine. Whip until firm (not scrambled or hard). It should be creamy.

Remove from the heat and start to add butter by dripping it very slowly whipping constantly. The butter should be warm but no hotter than the egg yoke.

(If it separates, forget it. Start over but don't throw away. Put it in the freezer.)

When you have added as much butter as you need for the quantity you're making, slowly whip in the lemon juice and the Lee and Perkins.

C'est Fine!

Now some additional notes: When I say "whip," I mean whip. Don't stir. The oil of the butter is heavier than the egg and you must get enough air in the egg to handle the butter.

Also never refrigerate. It'll keep two days at room temperature.

Secondly, if you think you're slow at adding the butter, slow down. There is no such thing as too slow, but one drop added too fast will separate it. Good luck.

Now, variations on a theme. You've made your white sauce but you're serving a chuck roast. White sauce will never do. How about sauce Sazerac.

In one small sauce pan make your white sauce.

In another, saute:

1 small onion

1/4-lb. butter

5 medium mushrooms

(diced but not washed)

1 teaspoon beef base

1/4-cup red wine

Cook together until all ingredients and liquid are brown. Add it to two cups of white sauce.

If it is not brown enough to suit you, add more beef base, a bit at a time, until the desired color is reached.

Careful. Color is not as important as taste. So taste it often.

And now the my-god-he's-cute-and-coming-for-dinner-and-I-want-to-impress-him-but-don't-know-how dinner entree for two.

Take steaks and in a very hot skillet with oil brown on all sides. Then wrap them in pastry dough (crescent roll dough) and place in a 350° oven until the pastry is brown and puffed.

Serve. The meat will be medium rare.

Bon appetite and T.T.F.N.

Honeybee Records.

Caliope Records has released the original theme of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" with an added disco beat. It's by the New Marketts and available on a commercial twelve inch disc.

Idris Muhammads' LP, "Turn This Mutha Out" (on Kudu), contains a couple of interesting cuts. One of the best is "Could Heaven Ever Be Like This," nine minutes long. The other cut is "Tasty Cakes" at four minutes.

The album was produced and arranged by David Matthews, producer of the hit, "Boy, I Really Tied One On" by Esther Phillips.

Salsoul has now released "Sweet Dynamite" by Claudja Barry, an LP that has been remixed by Tom Moulton and includes a longer and better version of this superb slice of disco-throbbing get-up-and-dance boogie title cut, previously on the European London label.

Kellee Patterson has finally come up with a winner — in fact, a smash — "Turn on the Lights" at seven minutes on a twelve inch disc. I knew all along that this fine, talented lady would someday make it. Give a listen and dance!

The flip is a sped up version of the past hit, "I Love Music."

door prizes — Lizards in the audience won Peterbilt caps, Mini Park T-shirts, drink tickets from the Venture-N, Typhoon Tessie's and the News Room, "Kansas City Trucking Co." shirts and lots of tickets to the movie of the same name, which had its grand sneak preview later (cum time in the old town tonight) and will have a exclusive run at the Mini.

No, I am not a PR-lady for the Mini Park, but I wouldn't miss this for all the sperm in Chinatown.

And speaking of sperm, the Mini Park crew took Bong Show emcee Rex Rod to Cody's for dinner after the show, and they could barely stop him from jumping off the patio to protest the new restaurant's no-jack-off policy.

And speaking of Chinatown ... No, I won't get into that right now, and besides, she's probably holed up somewhere in Oklahoma by now, and I'd only be aiding and abetting if I was to say much more.

Tidbits

My spies tell me that Stewart Beach was packed with CRC's (Cute, Rich and Clever — thank you, Marge Crumbaker) for Splash Day last weekend, with nary a mother in sight (they were all at the Midnite Sun for Mother's Day drags, and speaking of drag, the famous Tommy made his comeback at the Depo last week after suffering dozens of stitches his first time out. It's called "knees mixed with glass" on the menu. Now where was I ...

Oh, yes, the beach. In fact, the only noticeable no-show was Miss Sun, who probably spared a lot of pale first-timers the lobster reds. But clouds or no, it was fun for all. To the Kon Tiki later (and that's not the last you'll hear about that pagan haven).

Next week, Splash Day II — you just can't get enough of that wonderful stuff.

I must stop here — I'm due back on planet Earth any minute now. 5 ... 4 ... 3 ... 2 ... 1 ... see you there!
