6 CHAT

Gay couplings provide plenty of gossip as Elton says he wouldn't marry longtime partner David Furnish, k.d. fields nagging questions about Melissa's ex, and Anne and Ellen may rub shoulders in court.

10 FITNESS

It's so tiny that 10,000 of them will fit on the period at the end of this sentence. But cryptosporidium can cause widespread devastation in the body. Here are some common-sense tips to avoid infection.

does all the piano work on the new album, and will on any recordings he releases in the future, he says.

"I am the piano man. That's what I'm best at," Elton says. "And that's why I'm so happy with the new album."

Another Elton aside: Women Talking Dirty, the first movie from his production company, Rocket Pictures, gets a gala first screening on September 28 at the Scottish People's Film Festival in Glasgow. Set in Edinburgh, its all-star cast features Helena Bonham Carter and Gina McKee and tells the story of the friendship between a free spirit and a shy cartoonist.

k.d. lang is still fielding questions about Melissa Etheridge's memoir, The Truth Is ..., which alleges that the big-boned Canadian crooner had a one-night stand with Etheridge's ex, Julie Cypher, soon after Cypher and Etheridge got together.

Let's just say it's still a touchy subject.

"With all respect, that was 11 years ago," lang huffed during an interview with the New York Post's Barbara Hoffman. "The fact that it's still being talked about is a good opportunity for me to reflect on the person I was and the person I want to be.

"I know what happened and [Melissa] knows what happened, and I think that's all that really matters."

lang says despite the incident, the two remain friends.

And lang also says, like her overseas compatriot Elton John, she sees no kids in her future.

"I'm not maternal," the 39-year-old singer says. "I love kids but I don't feel that's my calling. I look at myself as a fruit tree (what?) and my natural purpose is to produce fruit — music and songs."

America's most famous estranged gay couple may get dragged into a courtroom by America's most dysfunctional family.

because Heche's mother, Nancy, is recruiting powerful allies like DeGeneres to help her challenge her daughter's tell-all confessional, Call Me Crazy. Nancy Heche is reportedly considering a suit against the book's publisher, Simon & Schuster, seeking to squelch distribution of Anne's memoirs in Britain, where the tome is due out next month.

In the 250-page autobiography, Heche says her late father (he died of AIDS in 1983) was a bisexual who sexually abused her repeatedly. Heche also alleges that her mother was aware of the abuse but did nothing to stop it.

Nancy Heche rejects the claims, saying she could find "no place for myself in the lies and blasphemies of this book."

Heche, 32, was involved with Ellen for three years before walking out on her in August of 2000. A day later she was found wandering semi-naked in the California countryside high on Ecstasy. She told police she was waiting to be picked up by a spaceship that would take her to another dimension (sounds to Q like she was already there).

In the autobiography, dismissed by most critics as nasty and poorly-written, Heche claims the incident was her final battle against insanity that has haunted her since childhood, when she was infected with herpes by her father, Donald.

Heche also wrote that when she broke up with boyfriend Steve Martin, her mom tried to hedge her way in.

"I called my mother to tell her about the break-up," Heche claims in the book. Her mother's response, she says, surprised her.

"Steve must be devastated," Nancy Heche allegedly replied. "Do you think he would be willing to go out with me? I always thought he liked me."

Heche writes that her fling with Ellen was her one and only lesbian relationship, which fell apart when DeGeneres became increasingly dispirited as ratings for her previous sitcom plunged.

"So I left her. I realized I was not a lesbian — I was just crazy," Heche writes.

Her family members remain skeptical about Heche's claims of insanity.

"As we can all attest, having witnessed her brilliant exploits over the years, Anne has many ways of getting the attention she wants," said her older sister, Susan.

Straight people we love — Marion Winik

PHOTOGRAPH BY TODD WOLFSON

E-mail inboxes have been clogged with forwarded sentiments concerning the Pentagon and World Trade Center attacks. Some thoughtless jerks circulated cryptic predictions of Nostradamus, and many were phony quatrains not found in French astrologer's oeuvre. Thanks a lot, assholes.

Of the more hopeful messages streaming around, one written by NPR's Marion Winik, stood out as an inspiring and pragmatic opinion to help relieve the suffering. Her Mothers Against Symbolism and Indiscriminate Revenge commentary, which aired on All Things Considered two days after the attacks and was later transcribed, reminded us that big buildings full of people were destroyed — not symbols of American power, riches or world domination. She writes, "If terrorists wanted to destroy a symbol, they could have gone to the Statue of Liberty, at night. They could have paint-balled the Washington Monument."

"It's fine for something to be a symbol if it's in a poem or in a philosophical argument. Once you're in a real world with real planes and real bombs, there's not much use of thinking of something as a symbol," she says from her home in Glenrock, PA. "Letting it be a symbol is giving in. Anytime you start losing the grip on other people and how very real they are, then you start to wander into the area of megalomania and bigotry — like Jerry Falwell, who's obviously crazy."

Winik says the overwhelming response to her piece is similar to reactions from her 1994 memoir about assisting the suicide of her gay husband, Tony, who died of AIDS complications.

"I don't even remember if I had e-mail back then, but I got like 800 letters. However I'm really in awe of how this new piece is getting around, and I know it's because of how people are feeling and how much they want to share ideas that mean something to them with others," she says.

In 1997, Winik — who's now married, teaches in Baltimore and raises a family with op-ed writer Crispin Sartwell — wrote First Comes Love, an account of her passionate marriage to Tony.

"In the course of my pre-interviews for Oprah, I found out that Tony had at least one affair — this guy who described that they were fuck buddies. And this out after my book was published and Tony was already dead," she says. "But that was the whole issue of what our marriage really was. What can a marriage between a gay person and straight person be? And to what extent was it a big romantic love union? Those are wise questions that the book is about."

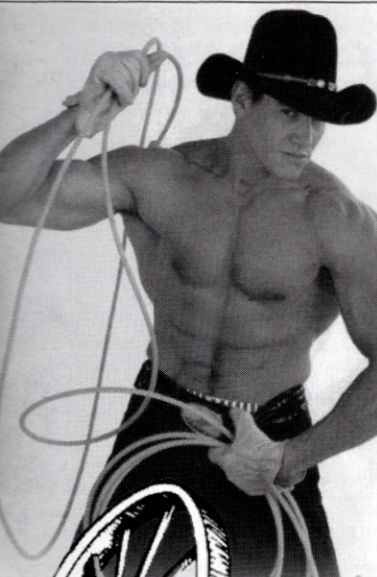

Winik now leads a different life than her younger "shooting heroin and getting beaten up on the Lower East Side" days. She cares for five children and has given up half of her twin-engine urge to party.

"I now live in South Central PA — nothing but cows and country out here. I have always loved fun, and still do. But in my youth I had this bad combination of loving fun and being self-destructive. And that's changed. I still love laughing and having a vibrant edge of life, but what's different now is that I'm so relentlessly positive," she says.

She still has lots of great memories about Austin. With her new one-year-old baby, she fondly remembers how good Tony was as a father — his natural ability to care for infants. She's also working on a new novel about a love triangle that's set in Austin. And she misses Oilcan Harry's.

"I had so many great times there. If I was going out on my birthday — even after Tony died — to me, it was the funnest place to go. It was so easy to hang out there. I wish it was out here, that's for damn sure," she laughs.

Tiny organism poses huge threat

Crypto savagely attacks GI tract, resists treatment

by michael kasten

Michael Kasten is a certified fitness instructor and writer based in Fort Lauderdale. His column appears weekly in QTexas. He also writes for Men's Fitness and Exercise for Men Only. He may be reached by e-mail at Mkworkout@aol.com.

Over the period of this previous month, my dear friend and neighbor has been in and out of the hospital many times because of dehydration, severe diarrhea and significant weight loss. No one seems to be able to do anything for him and, as a result, his health continues to deteriorate. Now, he cannot come home because he is too weak to be moved. Confined to a bed where he spends much of the day nauseated beyond comprehension, he lies waiting for a miracle.

As a result of a severely depressed immune system due to the symptoms grow worse. Patients with CD4 counts lower than 50 may develop severe symptoms.

The parasite is spread by drinking contaminated water, eating contaminated food, by unprotected or sloppy sexual activity (I'll explain later) or by having the parasite on your hands and then transmitting it to your mouth. Basically, you can contract the disease by putting anything in your mouth that has touched the stool (visible or otherwise) of an animal or human. Cryptosporidiosis is not spread by contact with blood.

you can take. Always wash your hands before eating and preparing food. Wash your hands thoroughly after gardening, after touching pets and after touching anything that may have had even a remote chance of coming in contact with human or animal stool.

Practice safer sex. As I have said before, being sloppy in bed means not being aware of where your mouth and hands have been. The high incidence of hepatitis and other sexually transmitted diseases among gay men indicates our laziness when it comes to practicing safer sex.

HIV and other factors, he has become afflicted with a debilitating intestinal parasite called cryptosporidium parvum. "Crypto," as many folks call it, is a one-celled parasite that cannot be seen without a very powerful microscope. It is so small that over 10,000 of them would fit on the period at the end of this sentence.

For most people, crypto may not show any effects. Others may suffer diarrhea, stomach cramps and upset stomach, sometimes accompanied by a slight fever. For still others who are immunocompromised, like my friend, crypto is a serious, long-lasting and sometimes fatal disease. Most doctors agree that the severity of crypto symptoms is in direct relationship to a patient's CD4 cell count, with symptoms typically worsening as the CD4 count declines. Patients with CD4 counts below 200 may develop symptoms. Below 100, Crypto is very difficult to treat, and there is no cure. Some drugs like Humatin and azythromycin used in combination are prescribed in an attempt to treat this disease. But the disease causes the bowel to become inflamed and unable to absorb nutrients or medicines, so drug therapy is difficult. A drug available in Mexico called NTZ is also used with another medication, Roxithromycin (also not approved here in the U.S.), to treat this parasite. Both treatment regimens have a 40-50 percent chance of lessening the parasite in the intestine. With those figures and the seriousness of this disease, prevention is (in my mind) the only rational solution.

These actions can help protect you not only against crypto, but also against some other serious diseases.

Washing your hands frequently with soap and water is probably the most important step

More and more gay men are rebelling against the idea of safe sex and are turning to unprotected sexual experiences. Infected people may have crypto on their skin in the anal and genital areas. Rimming is quite likely to spread the infection, so you should avoid it, even if you and your partner wash well. Always wash your hands after touching your partner's anus or rectal area. At the very least, be conscious of where your hands are and then where they go after. It may just mean that rimming may have to be taken out of your sexual repertoire after you experience a slightly compromised immune system. The exclusion of this type of pleasure is a small price to pay for good health.

Some other things to keep in mind when thinking about safeguarding yourself against this terrible disease: Avoid touching farm animals, use disposable gloves if you must clean a litter box and wash your hands afterward. Be careful when swimming in lakes, rivers, pools or using hot tubs. Don't swallow water in any of these places. Peel your fruits (after you wash them) and cook all your foods well. Cooking kills crypto.

Drink safe water. You can drink distilled water or use reverse osmosis filters. Also, buy a filter that removes "absolute 1 micron" and states "Standard 53" and "cyst removal" for an NSF-tested filter that works against crypto. Canned or bottled soft drinks are deemed safe but ice tea and or fountain drinks are not since they use tap water that mixes with the tea or syrup to make the beverage.

To ensure that the filter you buy removes crypto, you can call NSF at 1-800-673-8010.

And finally, treat yourself well by maintaining good health 24/7! Drinking and partying excessively and not maintaining good sleep patterns all contribute to a depressed immune system and can compound your body's inability to fight infection and parasites. I am not afraid to state that my dear friend probably would not be in the shape he is in now if he had kept good care of himself.

If you are HIV positive, find out why you deserve to have a healthy life. If you find yourself partying even occasionally, you may want to seek out a therapist who can speak with you about your feelings about your deservedness to a healthy, productive life. Too many of us seek slow ruination (mostly subconsciously) because we truly do not believe we can or deserve to have a healthy life. Take the time to live healthy by exercising, sleeping well, maintaining a healthy diet and staying away from alcohol and drugs.

To learn more about crypto or other parasites, contact the CDC National AIDS hotline at 1-800-342-2437, and the CDC National AIDS Clearinghouse at 1-800-458-5231. These hotlines are also Spanish and deaf-access friendly.

I wish you the best in your quest for the best for yourself!

Compilation nation

Some great compilation CDs worth checking out beat

by jimmy smith

Native Texan Jimmy Smith writes about club music news and trends. His column appears weekly. He can be reached by e-mail at Qbeatstx@aol.com.

first, I would like to thank the 200-plus people who e-mailed in the past week just to make sure I was OK here in New York. Although I am still traumatized, afraid of what may happen next, I can assure you that the beat will go on! Throughout history people have always relied on music for inspiration in trying times.

When the dust finally settled last week I found myself spending lots of time digging through my CD collection as well as the tons of my own mix CDs that Bermudez, and he tears it up nicely (even if he is a breeder). If you like the harder-edged stuff, then this little gem is for you. It's filled with tracks like have accumulated over the years. (I sure do miss being behind those turntables every night). That being said, I thought I would let you know about some really great compilation CDs that are currently floating about.

One label that always puts out lovely compilations is LA's 4-Play Records. (FYI, one of the owners of this label, Randy Sills, used to be a DJ at the Bonham Exchange in San Antonio.) Anyway, check out the latest on the Circuit Sessions series. Volume 9 is mixed by cutie-pie Joe "Roaches,"

Tata Box Inhibiter's "Freet," Dave Aude's "I Can't Wait" and more juicies. Joe, are you sure you like girls?

But wait! Let's back up to Volume 7. This one is mixed by Barry Harris (of Thunderpuss fame). Now I have to say that Miss Harris turned it out like a true homo. Pietro in da House's "Big Muscles," Ralphie Rosario Energy Factor #10's "Climb To The Top (Reach)," Donica's "Ain't What I Expected," and Harris & Cox's "Fuck Me Harder" are some the items on this disc. No wonder they named it Afterhours — Harder, Deeper, Faster. This one is a must-have.

Next up, step back in time with the Forever Disco Queens. It's a lovely 2-CD set from France. You know a gurl can never have enough of "Knock On Wood," "More More More," "Boogie Oogie Oogie," and "We Are Family" in your collection. But there are a few things that aren't quite so played out as well, such as "Get Up On Your Feet" by Carte Blanche, "I Don't Want To Be A Freak" by Dynasty, and "I Like Plastic" by Marcia Raven. Of course if you play this at a party, don't forget to spill some poppers around the room so you get the full effect.

Now here's one that you can't be without. Check out DMA Presents Energy 92 7/5 Dance Hits, a joint venture between DMA Magazine — the longest-running dance music publication in the U.S. — and Chicago's WKIE, Energy 92 7/5 — the hottest dance music radio station in the country, headed by Chris Shebel, program director, and Harry Legg, assistant program director and music director.

This one is filled with some of the biggest records of the year. Records by artists such as Da Buzz, Kim Sozzi, Modjo, Ultra Naté, Rockell, Sarina Paris and more will have you worked all up into a mess. "I Turn To You," "Castles In the Sky," "Dive Into The Pool" — what more could you ask for in a CD?

And that's the beats.

And don't forget that Tuesdays are Urban Beats nights at the Forum, with the lovely Goldie Haynes appearing at midnight.

Rowdy Women — Wanna see a load of fierce women knocking each other's brains out? Check out the Women's Professional Football league game between Austin Rage and Houston Energy. NFL rules rule at TPF games, and this one's Saturday, September 29 at the Old Del Valle High School Stadium, 2409 Shapard. Turn North on Cardinal Loop at the entrance to Austin-Bergstrom International Airport. Admission is $12.

Women-Only Run — Bound By Desire, an Austin-based group of self-described leatherdykes, presents its premier annual event, the Hunt, on Oct. 12-13-14, but the registration deadline is Oct. 1. All participants for this women-only leather run must be pre-registered. The highlight of the weekend is the Hunt, where submissives/bottoms hide in the woods until captured by the tops. Safe, sane, consensual play is then negotiated. For complete details and pre-registration information, visit www.boundbydesire.org.

Libra (September 23-October 22) Tuesday's Full Moon in your opposition sign of Aries will be energizing your urge to mate and set up house. Don't just grab the first cute guy you come across, though (remember what happened last time?). Some tension on the home front could offer the momentum you need to finally move out.

Scorpio (October 23-November 21) A minor but nagging legal matter should be all settled by the week's end. Look into that real estate investment very carefully before committing. Unexpected company drops by on Sunday with good news. Have the tires on your vehicle rotated ASAP. That bout with insomnia is just about over with.

Sagittarius (November 22-December 21) The hits just keep on coming, Sag (and so does the money). Your incoming cash flow has rarely been stronger. Don't push yourself too hard on Saturday. News from a distance brings mixed emotions on Monday. Take some time this week to go over and realign long range goals.

Capricorn (December 22-January 18) The Full Moon this week is in a definite stress aspect, but this can be used to your advantage, Cappy. It can spur you on to new and greater heights, especially where career is concerned. Your love life, however, is quite another thing. At this time it's just not your top priority, but that'll soon change.

Aquarius (January 19-February 18) You'll have five solid days of achievement and satisfaction out of seven. Only the first and last days this week offer any real challenges. You should be able to cut away a lot of dead wood that's been holding you back. Look for the general pace of life to be very fast on Wednesday. Watch your temper on Friday.

Pisces (February 19-March 20) Your intuition should be at its peak, and inspiration flows like a stream. This looks to be a free-flowing and finely-tuned week, Pisces. Planetary aspects are blowing at your back. Nothing can stop you from attaining a special goal. Increasing your workout regimen might help with that restlessness.

Aries (March 21-April 19) The Full Moon in your sign on the 2nd is also the annual Harvest Moon. This usually brings good luck (financial and otherwise). Whatever type of "crop" you've been nurturing over the last few months will come to fruition. It might be a good idea to distance yourself from that sexy but unreliable love interest.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) As often happens in life, as one door closes another one opens right up. It's a time of change and uncertainty for you, but don't give up hope. Comfort zones are safe and familiar, but sometimes they become a liability. This is why things need to get shaken up occasionally. Hang on and enjoy the ride, Taurus.

Gemini (May 21-June 21) The good news is that you look and feel great, and love is in the air. The not-so-hot news is that financially you're on extremely shaky ground. It's only a temporary situation, Gemmy, but you've got to cut out all impulse buying, pronto. There's no shame in clipping coupons or going to early-bird specials.

Cancer (June 22-July 22) This week looks to be pretty much business as usual, but a surprise romantic encounter on Wednesday could have you running on empty come Thursday. Don't let the boss push your buttons (he's just going through a rough time of it). Cut down on your caffeine intake to help soothe those frayed nerves.

Leo (July 23-August 22) Though the pace of this week will be sort of frantic, you'll remain firmly in control. Quite a few people will seek out your advice on various topics. Make sure those end-of-month financial statements are in perfect order. It's not the right time to renovate your place, Leo. Wait until at least November for that.

Virgo (August 23-September 22) September promised you much more than it delivered, but October will more than make up for it. Keep career goals realistic for the time being. Try not to borrow large sums of money if you can help it. An intriguing new acquaintance is definitely worth pursuing, but it's best to move slowly.
