MOTHER

Not to be outdone . . . The Star presents the 1st annual M.O.T.H.E.R. Awards

Do you remember about three years ago, when there were only four awards shows? The Tonys, the Grammys, the Emmys and the Oscars — sounds like a family, doesn't it? And only two people in the whole wide world had won all of them (Liza and Barbra).

Now there are about twenty. I guess everybody should have a chance to win something. And it sure is nice to see all those stars at once on your very own television — and they appear free! What more could a producer want? I'm sure they pay the presenters something (union dues, dahling!) but then again, the honor of doing it at all makes it all worthwhile. Of course.

And now it's my turn. The Mother of the Heavens Earthly Rewards society (M.O.T.H.E.R.) has long since announced the winners of 1977 (carried last week in every major newspaper — out-of-town) but you get all the inside Poop! Here goes. . .

Everyone was asking me what movies I thought were the best last year. Well, you know me — I like just about everything! In fact, my two favorite movies of 1978 so far have been The Creatures (they were kicked out of Hell) and House of Insane Women (which could have been my life story — for God's sakes, I was wrecked).

So here it is — the ten best movies of 1977. Now do recall that I have done quite a bit of traveling lately so many of these films haven't come to Texas or Louisiana yet. But when they do come, tell them Mother sent you!

Andy Warhol's Bad. So bad it was good.

Suspiria. The closest thing to a Vampire Movie on the silver screen in 1977, the year of Interview with a Vampire (the best book of 1977). So spooky and shocking, I thought I was watching three Carries at one time!

In the Realm of the Senses. Any movie that ends where a guy get his dick cut off can't be a loser. I loved every gory (but erotic) minute of it! However, I was disappointed that they didn't show his girlfriend running through the streets of Tokyo with his bloody weenie (it was based on a true story). Those Japanese gals really know how to do it!

Equus. The horstest with the mostest. This cute blond number masturbates while riding and stroking horses, so what else do you need? Richard Burton? You better believe it!

Ruby. A really terrible movie, but since it took place at a drive-in theater that was showing The Attack of the Fifty-Foot Woman (my all-time favorite) all is forgiven. In fact, it made me want to "Attack" again, but when she came on TV a few weeks ago, I passed out even before they ordered fifty cases of elephant tranquilizer for her!

Close Encounters of the Third

Kind. See you in Andromeda, darling! But what the hell should I pack? And how many suitcases!

New York, New York. I don't care how ugly some people think Liza Minnelli is, I just love that goon, hoof line and stinker! And Robert de Niro — well, I'd eat him anytime!

Valentino. I just don't get to see Rudolf Nureyev nude that often. I mean, it hadn't been since the Waldorf Astoria, 1968! And let me tell you . . . but what can I tell you? If you saw the movie, you saw — It.

The Turning Point. It showed Anne Bancroft as a vampy transsexual prima ballerina suffering from terminal crow's feet. And Shirley McLaine as her comrade-in-menopause — a trumpy Housewife. (Warren Beatty must be embarrassed shitless by his sister's performance.) And did you ever picture Mikhail Baryshnikov as a primping queen? (All this and more.) The script is so serious you just have to laugh.

Diane Keaton. I really can't decide if I liked her more as Annie Hall or as Mr. Goodbar's trick. She was so funny in Annie . . . and she was so Dead in Goodbar! Gosh, if they had made that movie in Houston, they would have called it Looking for Mr. Corill

Next week: The ten worst movies, and why I puked at each and every one of them!

Church leader says congregations should stop worrying about homosexuality

The issue of homosexuality distracts churches from more important concerns, such as world peace, nuclear arms, social justice and hunger, the highest elected official of the United Presbyterian Church in the United States told a reporter from AP.

Rev. John Conner, church moderator, says that during months of travel around the country he finds himself forced to discuss the issue of homosexuality in the church. United Presbyterians are waiting for a report on homosexuality by a special task force appointed by the General Assembly in 1976.

BEST OF STIOUX

FIGLEAVES

HOROSCOPE

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): You've plowed many a straight and narrow furrow but this week you should relax and slacken your pace. Let the fields of your mind lie fallow. Fling your bones into bed and do some creative dreaming. Week cuddle's to a close.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Demands and challenges make this week, and you'll need lots of old-fashioned fortitude just to muddle through. Concerning secret plans ... pretend you're the Sphinx. Week which began with a bang is very apt to end with another bang.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Questions will be asked. One who probes should be given short response. I repeat ancient advice: Always tell the truth, but don't always be telling it.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): If you are in the mood for romance (and you usually are), stay alert. Shy admirer may send weak signals. Pick them up. Week ideal for illusion and need to join hands, forces or whatever.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Credit crunch best handled by honesty. Interesting newcomer may come tippy-tapping onto your horizon. Keep dance pants handy. End of week you feel wasted away after so much excitement. What do you expect when you spend so much time in Margaritaville?

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Concerning relationship with dear one, compassion is key which unlocks door to understanding. Important goals can be achieved if you do your part. Just don't expect your part to be a paltry fifty percent. Get the drift?

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): No silent brooding allowed this week for you have too much to do. Work, play, dance, sing and by last day your cup bubbles all over the place. All things considered, a happy (but rather messy) week.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Change looms ahead and career/family matters take a turn. Accept new role gracefully. Love is a bridge which spans chasm separating you from dear one. Cross it. On last day, you can pitch outmoded ideas into dustbin.

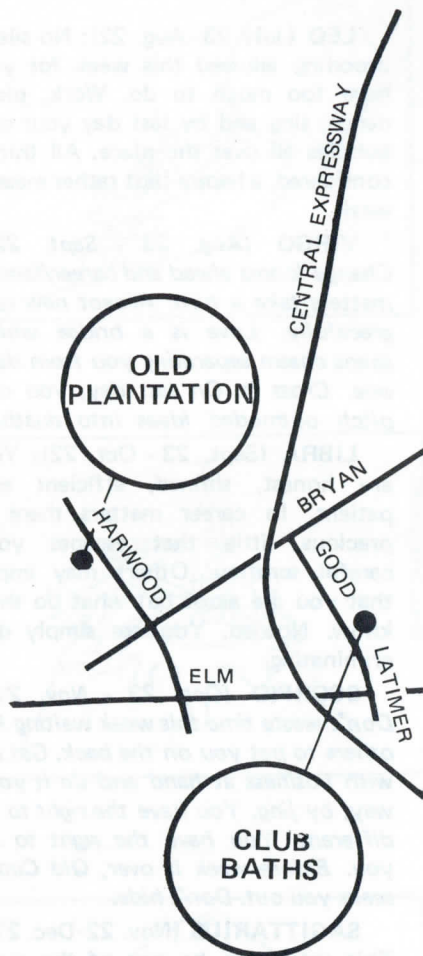

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): You are honest, shrewd, efficient and patient. In career matters there is precious little that escapes your careful scrutiny. Others may imply that you are aloof but what do they know. Not so. You are simply discriminating.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Don't waste time this week waiting for others to pat you on the back. Get on with business at hand and do it your way, by jing. You have the right to be different. You have the right to be you. Before week is over, Qld Cupid seeks you out. Don't hide.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): This week can be one of the most important of the entire winter. In spite of January cold, your creative talent surges. Trap new ideas. Nail them down on paper before they fly away. Dreams highlighted.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Put original ideas into motion and don't fuss and stew about how others may react. You can take giant step forward, Simon says. Jupiter says, Now get cracking.

Look... THE STAR has...

News

The Star covers "the news," including local and national gay news. When gay people protest, when gay people march, when gay men and women gather, The Star writes about it. In fact, The Star is the only gay publication in Texas-Louisiana that professionally covers "the news."

Mother

The Star's star columnist is Mother.
She writes the gossip... all the rumors from the bars, baths and bookstores. Mother also frequently goes on trips to report back to Star readers about the places they may visit. Trips during the past year included New York, Ft. Lauderdale (twice), Philadelphia, Washington,
San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Figleaves & Stioux

Hotfoot stars in Figleaves, a zany collection of characters from "down under," each week exclusively in The Star. Also, back now in The Star, the adventures of Chad and Dan, two gay guys in situations all gay men recognize and appreciate.

Horoscope

A horoscope written especially for gay men, to guide cruising and other social activities.

Directory

A quick, handy listing of names, addresses and phone numbers of gay clubs and other businesses.

What's Goin' On

A day-by-day listing of the coming week. All the special and regular events at clubs which support The Star.

Maps

All Star Supporters are pinpointed each week
on maps of Houston,
Dallas, New Orleans and other cities.
