Alternative Visions

Excerpts from satisfied clients of Alternative Visions:

I think what has impressed me the most is the unique way they've managed to combine being professional with such a sincere, personal approach . . . I highly recommend the service to anyone interested in a safe, novel approach to meeting new people.

All of the women I've met through Alternative Visions have been really interesting, and we have shared common interests. Your ability to "match" personalities and interests is what makes your service so important and successful.

We did my [video] taping last Thursday evening, and I want to thank you for making it a comfortable and pleasant experience. I was real nervous at first but felt that it went really well. You and Trudi are doing a great thing for our community. My thanks to you both.

. . . I will take this opportunity for allowing me to meet _____. Without your service, the odds are that neither one of us would even have met each other. . . .

_____ is absolutely the most beautiful woman that I have ever met. I knew what I was waiting for, and it was without question worth the wait.

Trudi Phoenix-Stinson and Wendi Stinson-Phoenix met at a lesbian resource center in Dallas. They felt a strong connection at their first meeting, and they talked about their dreams together. Trudi felt the lesbian and gay community deserved a quality system for helping to establish and maintain relationships. Thus, the idea for Alternative Visions (AV) was born.

Wendy had been working a year and a half at a Dallas abortion clinic, having just graduated from college with a degree in counseling. Trudi had had a career in sales, with awards from Dale Carnegie and Zig Ziglar. Trudi asked Wendy to be her marketing director for the company she wanted to start up, and she agreed. The couple has been together about five years, and AV will be four years old in September. Their competitors in Dallas and Houston have since closed their doors. Here in Houston, AV took on the clients of the former service at no extra charge. They felt that this action was well worth their time, for it would help preserve the reputation of dating services for the gay and lesbian community.

What makes AV different from other dating services is the spectrum of services offered. They want to be known as the love service for the gay and lesbian community. Not only is AV a commercial service, but it also qualifies as a personal service, with its owners seeking to empower their clients. At this point, they see themselves as humanitarian philanthropists—though without the money they'd like to back this up. They want to be able to make an impact.

When a client comes in, they sit down and talk to her. She is asked to complete an eleven-page personality profile that shows the value system, the goals, and the interests of the individual. This method differs from computer matching. Trudi and Wendy prefer to match their clients by getting to know them very well. The owners of AV want to be sure their clients are ready for a relationship before introductions begin. They make sure clients are ready emotionally and otherwise (a background check is also run on each applicant). Sometimes, clients are referred to counseling. In her practice, Wendy teaches "Power Tools" which she describes as tools for living. Some of the tools for relationships include creativity, commitment, and trust. She plans to write a book about what makes relationships work.

The next step of the service requires that a video be made of the client. When Wendy and Trudi determine a potential match, the two selected women view each others' videos, and if mutually acceptable, then phone numbers are exchanged. First names only are exchanged at this point. This process works especially well for clients who are patient. The service is regarded as a one-year process. Every two to three weeks, a client views three to five videos. After each viewing, a client lists what she liked and what she didn't like about each one. If the likes outweigh the dislikes, this is helpful in determining a potential match. If clients are happy with the woman they date, they can let AV know that they want to date exclusively. Their membership is then placed on hold status, and no time is lost from their contract with AV.

Ninety percent of AV's clients are degreed professionals. Some are new to the area, and others are somewhat shy. Many of them have everything they want in life, having devoted a lot of time to their careers, except for a relationship. Now, having achieved their goals, they wish to share their lives. Clients mostly meet according to their own arrangements, but other meetings occur as well. Two women, selected by Wendy and Trudi as a potential match, viewed each other's videos and said "no" on the basis of what they saw. Then, they met each other at a picnic and hit it off right away. They have been together ever since.

There are three to four social activities per month. One workshop a month deals with an aspect of relationships. About 30-35 regular members go to the workshops on relationship-building offered by AV each month. The next workshop, to be held in the Montrose Library on June 20, will be "What's Their Secret?" and features couples who've stayed together for ten or more years. The cost is $3.00 for non-members. July's workshop will be "Blessing Your Ex and Moving On," a program by Odelia Mendez. Last month, the first issue of the organization's newsletter came out. This issue lists the mission of the organization:

The purpose of Alternative Visions is to provide quality services to gay/lesbian/bisexual and transgender professional singles in our community with the opportunity to participate in the selective introductory services, social programs and workshops available to them as members . . . ; to encourage the creation and maintenance of solid, healthy relationships; to unify and strengthen ourselves . . . with our passion, knowledge, communication and pro-activism; to educate ourselves and each other about the nature of and potential for strong, healthy relationships and to offer a safe place for these to occur.

Houston Women's Festival to Offer Full-Scale Entertainment

Musicians, comediennes, artists, vendors and artisans will share their talents at the second annual Houston Women's Festival Saturday, September 21st, at Garden in the Heights, 3926 Feagan, one block north of Memorial Drive.

Continuous live entertainment will highlight the rich musical tradition of the Gulf Coast region. Jazz, blues, rock, and folk are just some of the musical styles that will be heard throughout the day. Austin singer/guitarist Nancy Scott will perform her humorous, toe-tapping tunes. Also from Austin, Diana Jones will share her heartfelt and insightful songs.

Local favorite Girls with Guitars will harmonize on original music from their recent CD. Comedienne Nancy Ford will entertain the audience with her diverse and flourishing repertoire. Liviya, fresh from her performance at the Houston Music Awards, will share her gutsy, powerful tunes. Also, singer/guitarist Rawslyn Ruffin will please local fans with her solo appearance. These are just some of the talented performers who will share the stage at the Houston Women's Festival.

Indoors in the Main Hall, festival goers will be treated to a multi-media art exhibit curated by local artist Laura Kellner. The art show is yet another way to experience and celebrate the rich cultural assets of the country's fourth largest city. Some of the displayed pieces will be available for purchase by patrons of the arts.

Throughout the festival, a marketplace of vendors will display handmade crafts, including hand-carved wooden objects, candles and clothing, native American Indian jewelry and dream catchers, and items imported from other continents.

Businesses and organizations will highlight their services to the community. Information about non-profit organizations will be available at a free community booth. Games, activities and prizes will also be offered throughout the day.

Festival hours are from 1 p.m. to midnight on Saturday, September 21st. Tickets are $10 in advance, $12 at the door and are available at Inklings Bookshop and Crossroads Market. The Garden in the Heights is an indoor/outdoor facility located between the Heights and Montrose. The event will be held rain or shine.

The Houston Women's Festival produced by The Athena Art Project, a non-profit organization. For more information, contact: HWF P.O. Box 66604, Houston, Texas 77266-6604; (713) 868-1910; e-mail address AthenaArt@aol.com.

AssistHers

care team project

The goal of AssistHers is to help women live a normally as possible while coping a life threatening or debilitation illness. Volunteers are trained and supervised in the provision of direct care such as emotional support, meal preparation, shopping, hospital and home visits, pet care, plant and lawn maintenance, transportation, and other assistance.

Volunteers work as members of a Care Team. Since Care Teams are assigned to one client, it is realistic to expect two visits a week from volunteers.

Those eligible for service are women whose emotional, social or sexual relationships are primarily with other women and who have a debilitating or life challenging disease, illness, or condition. Assistance may extend to a woman's partner, caregiver, or family.

Services are provided regardless of ability to pay, and regardless of age, race, ethnicity, or economic status.

First volunteer training: mid-September 1996
Contact persons: Tori Williams or Susie
Rokes: 713-552-9445. PO Box 131605, Houston, Texas 77219-1605.

Alternative Visions

Wendi sees her current position as the best job she has ever had, for it combines all their talents. They liken themselves to "women in the village," for their desire to know everyone, to listen and observe. And, if something does not work, they find another way. AV is not just about introducing people, but following members through and helping them to stay in relationships. Wendi says their clients have taught them what they need to do.

They describe themselves as very persistent. Their business has grown largely by word-of-mouth, and being LiB members has been very important to AV as well. Their client base continues to expand, and for those seeking a capital investment, there are stock packages (mostly purchased by women) available. AV is gearing up to go public and preferred shares will go on the market. They plan on being the first openly gay company on the stock market and want to put forth a professional image. Future plans include going on-line soon. They hope to take their business nationwide. They want to plan socials for members with children and for couples. Future sites for branches of AV are Austin, Seattle, and New York.

One of the ways in which AV goes beyond the call of duty is in trying to meet the needs of the community, even if the need does not expressly fit in with their central purpose. One example of this is their Safe Friends Network, where gay men and women can meet each other for the purpose of friendship. They decided to provide this service in the hope that this will help to integrate our community.

Wendi is an artist whose work decorates the offices of AV. Trudi enjoys movies and going to the beach to relax. Making videos is another of her favorite pastimes, so she often brings along a camera. The couple has celebrated a holy union.

For future program or membership information for Alternative Visions, call 526-8223.

Inklings Book Corner

Throbbing, panting, moaning...if you were writing an erotic scene, what would it be like? Okay, easy enough, you say. Let's make it a little more challenging. Your assignment is to write an erotic story about sex between two gay men. The assignment for gay guys is to try to imagine the physical and emotional nuances of lesbian attraction and sexuality, and write about those.

The result of this gender-bending exercise is a fun book called Switch Hitters: Lesbians Write Gay Male Erotica and Gay Men Write Lesbian Erotica (Carol Queen and Lawrence Schimel, editors, Cleis Press, $12.95). I think the best way to read these stories is out loud with at least one other person, second-guessing the authors and their understanding of a gender they've never lived. For instance, William Mann has his lesbian creations look for anonymous sex under a pier, and describes the feel of a sensuous breast as "soft like solid foam." Say what? Lucy Taylor does a more credible job of imagining an interlude between two guys on a hot July 4th—at least it seems credible to me, a lesbian. On second thought, though, what do I know about it? Anyway, decide for yourself whether the authors are convincing, and whether they had expert advice.

Well before I started writing these reviews, a book came out that I've been recommending ever since, and I'd like to mention it to those who may have missed it. Out of Time by Paula Martinac (Seal Press, $9.95) won the Lambda Literary Award for Lesbian Fiction in 1990. It's a delightful story about a contemporary lesbian couple, set in the antiques world in New York City. Martinac's writing is rich with texture and complexity, while remaining lots of fun to read. A lesbian ghost from the 1920s haunts one of the characters, setting up some interesting dynamics between history and passion, and the members of the couple.

For those who've been waiting for the latest installment in the soap opera of certain famous lesbian lives, it's here: Judy Nelson's autobiography, Choices: My Journey After Leaving My Husband for Martina and a Lesbian Life (Birch Lane, $21.95). After all how many other women are ex-lovers of both Martina Navratilova and Rita Mae Brown? Photos are included, and an inside view of Rita Mae's emotional life that you might not find elsewhere. Other readings about these three women: Sudden Death, Rita Mae's fictional account of life on the tennis circuit with a world-famous tennis player, Martina: The Lives and Times of Martina Navratilova, Adrienne Blue (Birch Lane, $19.95), and Love, Zena Beth, Diane Salvatore's fictional account of an affair with a famous Southern lesbian author (Naiad Press, $10.95). (Oh, whoever could it be?!)

Happy summer reading!

Quotes and Soundbites From Feminist Booksellers on The Importance of Feminist Bookstores to Feminist and Mainstream American Culture

"We are in feminist bookselling to educate, to end sexism, racism, ageism, homophobia, classism, and all the other inequities that threaten our society and survival, and to create a safe space for our sisters and brothers. We are in the business to change the world. Feminist bookstores are in it for the long haul and are proud to be part of a larger movement for social change."
—Theresa Corrigan Lioness Books, Sacramento, Calif.

"The demands on a feminist bookstore are high. In addition to selling books and running a business we also do referrals, sell tickets, provide emotional support, listen, and lots of other things that can only exist when customers matronize the business. It's hard, sometimes, when you know someone buys lots of feminist books, but the only time they come into the store is to post a flier."

—Pokey Anderson, Owner, Inklings Bookshop, Houston, Tex.

LIB PLANS SUMMER ACTIVITIES

HOUSTON—An Uncommon Legacy Foundation, Inc. is a non-profit group dedicated to funding lesbian-specific projects, ranging from medical research to television productions. Founded in 1990 and incorporated in 1993, the foundation in 1994 began its scholarship program, handing out a total of 30 $1,000 scholarships to lesbians across the United States. A Houston chapter of the Uncommon Legacy Foundation is under development at this time.

At the July 19 monthly meeting of Lesbians In Business (LiB), Lory Masters, a member of the Uncommon Legacy board of directors, will review the role of the Legacy Foundation, the grant/scholarship program and planned upcoming visits by Rita Mae Brown and Margarethe Cammermeyer on Aug. 11 at the Four Seasons Hotel. The meeting will be at 7 p.m. in the Innova building of Greenway Plaza.

LiB's August meeting, scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday, Aug. 16, will feature writer and performance poet Niobe' Ngozi. Niobe' is an African-American poet, mother, educator and humanitarian. She is best known for her provocative poetry and prose, which addresses social and political issues affecting women's lives.

LiB presentations are $3 for members, $5 for non-members.

The WAND is a monthly publication of Womynspace, a 100% volunteer organization. Opinions expressed in articles printed herein do not necessarily reflect the views of the editors of the WAND or the Womynspace organization as a whole.

Submissions to the calendar: Groups may send us notice of their regular meetings and special events by the 15th of the month for next month's issue. We are glad to network with other groups that work for social change and share a feminist perspective.

Submissions of articles, poetry and cover art should have positive, coalition building content. Articles may be submitted on IBM 3.5" diskettes, ASCII or WordPerfect format. Please use 3" columns for typed submissions. Sign and include a phone number. WAND Layout is scheduled around the 20th of the month. Check the calendar for date or call 664-9215. We need community support to ensure the WAND is a comprehensive networking directory for the women's community. WAND distribution is 2,000 copies.

Houston Area Participants Wanted Survey of Violence in Same-Sex Relationships

Only recently has physical and sexual violence within gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgendered relationships begun to be studied. Estimates indicate that anywhere from 25% to 50% of lesbians and gay men report physical violence in a committed relationship. In addition, at least one study indicated that 12% of gay men and 31% of lesbians have been coerced sexually by an intimate partner. Although illegal, such incidents are unlikely to be reported to law enforcement nor is the victim/survivor likely to seek help through social service agencies.

Dr. Susan C. Turell, Assistant Professor of Psychology at the University of Houston-Clear Lake, in cooperation with the Montrose Counseling Center, the Houston Area Women's Center, and the Montgomery County Women's Center, is conducting a survey to determine the scope of this problem in the Houston community. This survey is designed to be the first step toward more education and discussion of the problem within the gay and lesbian community, more victim/survivors seeking services to end the violence, and better service provision by providers.

If you would be willing to participate in filling out a 20 minute survey, or would like more information, please contact Dr. Turell at 283-3332. You may also pick up a survey at the Montrose Counseling Center and Inklings Bookshop. All answers are confidential and anonymous.

We proclaim that all people are created in the image of God, and affirm that each person, regardless of age, economic status, faith history, ethnicity, gender, mental or physical ability, marital status, sexual-orientation or lifestyle, is a beloved child of God and worthy of God's love and grace.

We support the full participation of all persons in every phase of church life. Through education and informal discussion, we will strive to better understand those who are different from ourselves to bring about a more accepting society.

We recognize ourselves to be a reconciling congregation within our conference and choose to officially associate ourselves with the reconciling congregation movement as a sign of hope and through this association to foster the spirit of reconciliation and a movement toward inclusiveness.
