KATE CLINTON

Perhaps the most popular lesbian-feminist humorist today, Kate Clinton has created a comic tradition that empowers and liberates her audience. Critics have hailed Clinton as "the country's greatest unnatural resource" and have described her as "building a comic tradition that empowers and elevates women".

Her funky humor contains no references to dumb blondes, no nagging mothers-in-law, no fat ladies, no racial put-downs and no demeaning sexual innuendos. Describing herself as a "recovering Catholic," she takes aim at venerable institutions, such as religion. ("Some days in the Catholic Church are a lot like double coupon days.") In fact, Clinton believes that she is the first comedienne ever to appear with a back-up group, "Kate Clinton and the Vessels of Sin."

Clinton's comedy is definitely not for the straight-laced or the up-tight. Her act includes routines about born-again lesbians, abortion, alternative lifestyles, and even touches on breast cancer. ("Thanks for the mammaries.") Clinton maintains that she lambasts the institutions that she feels oppress us, while celebrating the women's culture that unites us.

She has written and recorded three well received albums of her whys cracks, "Making Light," which tries to illuminate these "dark, heavy times," "Making Waves," which definitely rocks the boat, and "Kate Clinton: Live at the Great American Music Hall". Clinton's comedy is definitely not for the straight-laced or the up-tight.

The celebration of the female experience is a constant thread spinning through Kate Clinton's humor. Laughing together is a form of survival, she things, "an intimation of women in community." She believes in "making light . . . light enough to see where we are going in these dark times. Light enough to make women visible to each other." It's her passionate hope that the old cliché is true: "She who laughs, lasts."

hazelwitch productions

The goal of Hazelwitch is to produce high-quality, reasonably-priced events (women's music, drama, comedy, workshops, and films) that will empower individual lesbians and feminists in our community, and to provide the broader community with a nurturing space to enjoy women-identified culture with us.

Hazelwitch consists of six volunteer producers -- Cherry Wolf, Tori Williams, Pokey Anderson, Sherry Collier, Janice Reed, and Gail Eldridge -- plus dozens of others who are constantly helping us schlep, mail, set up and tear down, host, procure, etc. Hazelwitch began producing in 1981, continuing a heritage of women's production companies in Houston that goes back to 1975.

NANCY VOGL

Singer, songwriter, guitarist Nancy Vogl has been a pioneer in "women's music" ever since that genre invented itself in the early 70's. Then she sang in the original Berkeley Women's Music Collective, one of the first persistent and widely exposed feminist ensembles to melodize women's concerns. Today, Vogl is regarded as one of the most forceful, lyrical and competent guitarists on the club, campus, and concert circuit.

Her shows are filled with original work, stories, history, and traditional tunes with a contemporary turn. Her songwriting reflects the grace and humor of the 40's show tunes, the heartbreak of the 50's country ballads, the clean picking of 60's folk, and the solid power of 70's acoustic rock -- all this with lyrics that are reflective, challenging and visionary for the 1980's.

HeartSong

Houston Area Womyn's Chorus

Innately, we know the power of music. Yet, many of us are surprised to find we can sing so well and that our chorus can sound so lovely. We are discovering that music comes from within, has always been there and is sweetest when shared. By sharing the music in each of us, we collectively raise a larger voice --our voice, which now has a life of its own. It sings the melodies of our lives, our loves, our very souls. It is, we are "HeartSong".

KPFT RADIO 90 FM

a unique listening experience

Tonight's show is a benefit for KPFT Radio. Not commercial, not college-connected, KPFT is unique in Houston. KPFT gives broadcast access to an extraordinary panorama of people from the local community -- over 100 volunteers each week broadcasting from a variety of viewpoints, utilizing over a dozen kinds of music and eight different languages. One of KPFT's priorities is offering access to women, and last year the station won a statewide award for its coverage of women's issues. Among the programs of special interests:

KPFT RADIO 90.1 FM

Traffic Jam -- MONDAYS, 4 pm - 5:30 pm

Mary Helen hosts an adventuresome mix of rock, pop and women's music to get you through the Monday afternoon traffic.

A Woman's Place -- TUESDAYS, 8 pm - 9 pm

Clara and Deborah host interviews, poetry, NOW news and music from a feminist perspective.

Wilde 'n' Stein -- TUESDAYS, 9 pm - 10 pm

Jack and Bob host news and views of the local and national gay community.

Speakeasy -- WEDNESDAYS, 8 pm - 9:30 pm

With guts and grace, Hitaji hosts community conversations about tough topics: racism, poverty, family dysfunction, etc.

Breakthrough -- FRIDAYS, 8 am - 11 am

Pokey and Cherry host one of KPFT's most popular shows, blending diverse women's music, interviews and news, plus a weekly calendar of feminist events.

Pick up a free program guide in the lobby tonight to find out about all KPFT's shows, from ragas to reggae, from funk to punk. Or, call the station at 526-4000 for more information.
