Lot of disappointment in the gay community concerning Neil Simon's latest cinematic scripting effort, The Goodbye Girl. An otherwise hysterical movie romp offering Richard Dreyfuss and Marsha Mason in bravura performances is marred by gay stereotyping. The subplot of the script has Dreyfuss playing a down-on-his-luck actor, locked into performing the role of Richard III as a nelly queen. The one placating dialogue line for gay libbers is far insufficient to balance the audio/visual gay slurs running through the film. (Related commentary on page 27.)

The Metropolitan Community Church in Austin has now moved into its new, permanent home. Or rather, they've moved into their first permanent home. Its located at 614 East 6th and the members are understandably proud. Godspeed, gang. On a related note, members of five Houston service groups, Episcopal Integrity, the Lambda Club, Lambda AA, Dignity and Lutherans Concerned, met over the Christmas holidays, forming an alliance to work together to achieve community goals. A dose of Godspeed to ya'll, too.

On the imported entertainment front, all you fans of Wayland Flowers and Madame will be delighted to know that the duo will soon be winging to Texas. Flying through Texas would perhaps be a better word choice. For those of you who have never seen Wayland and his energetic, kinetic, grande-dame puppet, you're in for a real treat. With performances slated for the end of January, at the O.P. in Houston and Dallas, it should be an entertainment blitz that will have the good folk talking for

So I threw up in the back seat!" Scream, cackle, scream cackle. (And when Madame screams and cackles, you novices take note.)

Also to look for, the upcoming appearance of Grace I Need A Man Jones at Houston's Cuddles. Hit it, Grace!

The selection of Anita Bryant as the "Most Admired Woman of the Year" by Good Housekeeping Magazine should be taken with a "grain of salt," we suppose. How much credence can you give a publication that teaches the evil of women having careers, "How To Look Frumpy" hints, and a carpet swatch centerfold.

WE SURRENDER

For almost four years, TWT has discouraged those who wish to receive our magazine by subscription. But no more. We surrender! We can't take another week of readers calling us to complain that they didn't get to their favorite bar, bath, or bookstore fast enough to get the latest copy of TWT.

We're giving in because we now have the manpower to handle large, weekly subscription lists. But more than that, we now sincerely feel that TWT is growing so quickly that we don't feel guilty taking your money if you're not one of the "first in line" for one of the 10,000 free copies.

Our reading content has tripled during the last month. Joining our regular line-up are the cartoon "Oveta," the erotic series "Fantasy," and the "Cochran" humor essays. Add "Popcorn," "Starscope," "Up Front," and occasional quizzes such as last week's riotous "Just How Gay Are You, Anyway." Toss in the "Guide," "Calendar Texas," periodic film reviews, readers' letters, top-ten disco lists, each week's "Special Feature," and pictures.

Plus "Vera's" big, after-vacation comeback.

Come to think of it, you're right - TWT IS worth getting at home. Even with today's high postal rates.

Don't let TV Guide be the only thrill in your mailbox. You can now get a TWT for your male box each week, too.

The subscription rate is $26 per year (52 issues) or $15 for six months (26 issues). Shorter subscription terms are available at the rate of 75c per week (10 weeks minimum order). Subscription issues will be sent to you by first class mail each Friday. Fill out and mail the attached order form with your payment to our offices.

YOUR 1978 Love Forecast

CAPRICORN

Jupiter, the good fortune planet, will be in your 7th house of marriage from April until September of 1978 making those months best for getting married or deepening an existing relationship. Love at a distance is highlighted in January and February. November would be a good month for a rekindling of romance. The first half of 1978 should bring you happiness and contentment in love while the last half of the year is devoted to inner wisdom.

AQUARIUS

Something that began in the last two months of 1977 is certain to blossom in early 1978 as love that was undercover will now come to the surface. By April your love life style will be more to your liking. You will be more adventuresome in romance in early '78, finding answers to love questions in June and July, and be less disenchanted by next Autumn. The coming year will find you once again back in the driver's seat in romantic matters.

PISCES

You will find the period from April until September of 1978 a lucky-in-love cycle with the good fortune planet Jupiter then in your 5th house of love affairs and entertainment. It is a year when you can feel closer to a mate on a deeper and more mellow plane. Through March you will find yourself accepting more responsibility in romance. Late Summer should be your best love months. It is important not to rely solely on luck in love this year, as next Fall will find you having to relearn how to act positively.

ARIES

The planets seem to protect you in love in 1978. In fact, some of the efforts expended in 1977 will pay off in early '78 romance. June will be your best month for partnerships. March, April and September are months when emotions may spoil an affair. Next October is an ideal time for marriage and next November is excellent for mending fences with a mate. Daily relationships tend to give way to more meaningful encounters in 1978.

TAURUS

With unusual Uranus in your 7th house of marriage in 1978, you can expect some out-of-the-ordinary encounters and affairs. The first half of the year is for new starts in love while the second half of the year will give way to conserving your energies on one special partner. Don't let the past spoil Spring, as Summer will be a time for you to be in control of your love life. Lasting love receives a boost by next Autumn. 1978 is a year of improvement.

GEMINI

1978 should be an easier time for love than last year, as past planetary aspects have taught you many romantic lessons. One who is enamored by you can fall out of love with you in March. But trust is the saving motto. Love will grow deeper by May. June will see you in control, with July finding you with extra zest, and early Fall a time for contacts with a distance. November will take some guarding to keep love alive. Victory in love results in '78.

CANCER

Change is the keyword in 1978 love for Moon children. Most of the change is for the better in the first half of the new year. You will be thinking of yourself first and protect your own interests to avoid hurts. Your home is key in March and September. The past may interfere with love in early summer. August will find you giving off good love vibes which will attract others. Be guarded in love next Autumn. 1978 will spotlight many sudden turnabouts.

LEO

With Saturn now out of your sign, 1978 should be a most happy love year. And with elusive Neptune in your 5th house of love affairs, you will be most outspoken and emotional in romance. If still single, '78 can find you settling into a lasting relationship. The most favorable time is next summer. There will be less strain this year on the home and your relationships. Any disenchantment with love in '78 will be only temporary as you will bounce back beautifully.

VIRGO

Take some chances in early '78 with love and you will reap some rewards by Summer. Many of you have separated from a love, with Saturn having moved into your sign this past Fall. Don't stay depressed. Take a new chance romance by May. The last half of the year is ideal for smoothing out any rough love edges. Your life is going through many changes and you will catch up this year in a fascinating way. 1978 is a year of more action.

LIBRA

1978 will be a year for finding the answer to really living the way you wish regarding romance. Winter is a time for self-protection because Spring can see an affair splintering. But, alas, May through summer will be your best time for dating and being pursued. In fact '78 can find you in affairs with people who never used to be your type. You will be more with groups and social events rather than just one person all the time. You are destined in '78 to blossom forth daringly.

SCORPIO

1978 is a year of changing emotions regarding romance. You will change your mind about affairs and people often in Winter, will become more flirtatious in Spring, and Summer will find love not so localized as in the first half of the year. You will be more domineering in love by next Fall. September could be a scandalous period for you with wisdom taking hold by November. Fluctuation in romantic emotions is a key word for '78.

SAGITTARIUS

Lucky Jupiter starts off the year in your 7th house of marriage and partnerships, which brings you much fortune in such matters. An eclipse in March warns to protect friendships and to protect love in April and May. By June a partnership can reach a new depth of understanding. Late summer will be very social. Be trusting in Autumn to survive inner turmoil. 1978 is a year of opportunity knocking on your love door.

With the Christmas rush of movie releases circuited for another year, its back to business-as-usual for the motion picture industry. Part of this business-as-usual in the new year is the announcement of film awards. The most prized of these are the awards handed out by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, who will announce their Oscar winners for 1977 on April 3. Though the award ceremony, which will be televised on ABC again this year, is still months away, there is already much speculation about both the award winners and the ceremony itself. Oscar will be celebrating his fiftieth anniversary this year, and the ceremony should therefore be an extra special one, especially considering the generally boring and lackluster presentation of last year.

Most of the talk, though, concerns the multitude of fine films and performances that have qualified for nominations. Both Star Wars and Close En- counters of the Third Kind are certain nominees for best film; other probable nominees are Julia, The Turning Point, and Annie Hall. The Best Actor category will be less competitive than usual this year. In a year that saw renewed interest in "women's films" there seemed to be a noticeable lack of good parts and performances by men. Names mentioned as possibilities for best actor nominations are Richard Dreyfuss The Goodbye Girl, or possibly Close Encounters, John Travolta Saturday Night Fever, and Art Carney The Late Show.

The list of actresses being discussed as possible nominees is considerably longer, and more exciting. It includes front runners Diane Keaton Looking for Mr. Goodbar, Jane Fonda Julia, Anne Bancroft and Shirley McLaine The Turning Point, as well as Shelly Duvall Three Women, Sophia Loren A Special Day, Lily Tomlin The Late Show, and Vanessa Redgrave Julia.

its schedule for the first quarter of 1978 with the announcement of a new show called Project U.F.O. Details of the show's content are sketchy, but NBC programming executives have high hopes for the new series, obviously hoping to make the most of the public's renewed interest in the science fiction genre. CBS, meanwhile, shuffled their half hour comedy-sitcoms and added another prime time movie. With neither network announcing any new programming capable of giving their ratings a boost, it looks like ABC will remain on top for the remainder of the season.

Popcorn potpourri . . . War movies are not the box office successes they once were. Productions of A Bridge Too Far, McArthur, and the upcoming Apocalypse Now have encountered serious problems in filming, and the public seems far less enthusiastic about them than in the past. A decidedly different war film, The Boys in Company C, may tell another story. Its due out soon . . .

Norman Lear's syndicated spinoff of MHII, Fernwood 2-Night, is about to surface again in a slightly different format. The talk show takeoff has been renamed America 2-Night and will originate from Hollywood. It will feature the same cast. . . . CBS' new sitcom On Our Own, which is that network's most successful new series this season, is also the only network prime-time series to be produced in New York. If the show is renewed for next season, however, production will be moved to the West Coast. The show's producers say costs are, regrettably, too high in the Big Apple. . . . One of NBC's Big Events for March will be A Tribute to Mr. Television, Milton Berle. . . . All in the Family, the series that spawned a new era in half hour situation comedy and CBS' most popular series of the past decade, will almost certainly end its successful eight year run this season. None of the show's four leading stars or producer Norman Lear are interested in continuing next year, preferring to "go out a winner". . . . Filming of a subway disaster in MGM's film Meteor has reportedly cost $500,000 and used more than a million pounds of mud. The filming, considered by many to be the most ambitious and dangerous undertaking since The Poseidon Adventure, will take three weeks and requires the film's stars (Natalie Wood, Henry Fonda, Sean Connery and Others) to work in knee-deep mud.

Gentlemen,

I have written movie reviews on two films, The Choirboys, and Saturday Night Fever, in hopes that you might print them. Actually, the reviews are more of a gripe as to how gays are handled in both films. I'm especially disgusted with The Choirboys, and if I could get every gay person in Texas to avoid it, that would be great. Or, maybe they should see it. And see that the media is still treating us as if it were the year 1960.

Zac Sterling
Austin, Texas

Your commentary, edited for length, is printed below. There are many who share your outrage, and most of your points are well taken. We question, however, your desire to have copies of films burned, even markedly offensive films. We suspect that this statement was more a product of heated anger and not truly representative of your feelings upon cool reflection. The burning of books or films can NEVER be condoned.

Thank you for your contribution to TWT. -- Ed.

Why must every Christmas bring us a movie that heavily insults gay people? This year we are thrown several slams in nearly all the major films; the heaviest coming from the year's worst and most disgusting film, The Choirboys.

Numerous times during the film, gays are referred to as "fruits," which is nothing new. But how about a jail being called a "fag tank"?

And, should we laugh or cry at the scene in which a young, semi-attractive boy is accused of trying to "hustle" a fat, grotesque, police officer? That's hardly likely. But, of course, a "fruit" will take anything with a dick between his legs, right? And when the boy is questioned about the incident by a police chief, he sobs, (real tears) and sadly replies, "I've known I'm gay for 3 years. I don't know why I'm gay, I just am." Oh, please. This scene would have looked fake on Charlie's Angels, much less this "R" rated film, that claims in it's ads to be "strong stuff."

I'll admit at first glance and as unexpected as it is, the scene where the elderly "Auntie" walks the dyed-pink poodle is funny. But the scene that follows is nothing short of revolting.

The Choirboys is a difficult film to sit through. It insults more minorities than just gays. A chicano man is asked by a policeman, "How would you like me to just pull that greasy moustache right off of your face?", and blacks are gratuitously called "niggers" with every breath. More than anything, The Choirboys is an insult to policemen, themselves. Robert Aldrich has assaulted everyone in the audience, before this filthy, seedy and unamusing film reaches it's long awaited ending. It's power is cheap and unrewarding.

Even Perry King cannot pull himself out of the garbage. Still looking first rate, his character in the film spends a night with a "kinky" prostitute who whips him "to death," causing his eventual suicide. The producers of this movie should be whipped, and all copies of the film burned.

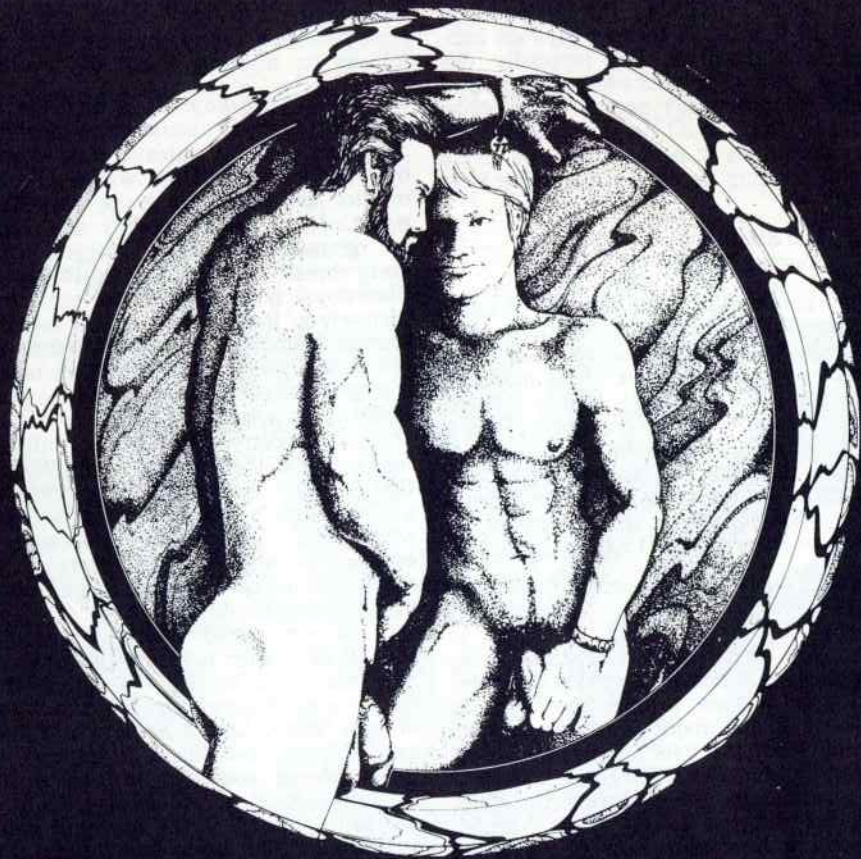

Saturday Night Fever is little better. The movie is more entertaining, but this seems to really be the year to see how many times you can say "fuck" in each frame. And, seriously, how many gay, chicano and black jokes can you throw at an audience in one sitting?

"Look at those spics greasin' up the dance floor," is the line that comes to mind first, but there were others.

In one scene, the Saturday Night boys all make fun of a "pansy" that walks past them, (with a scared little lover) while the film goes on to show them extremely feminine, (especially John Travolta) whenever they get on the dance floor.

If you want to get revenge (purely for fun) for every nelly gay you've seen on screen, see Saturday Night Fever and relish in the nelly straight boys. The only thing that's not effeminate looking about these boys is that they're dancing with girls, some of which look more masculine than themselves.

Except for its size, the old house retained little of the grandeur of its 1939 birth. Just one of those large hulks buried deep inside Houston's Montrose that, so far, had escaped the paint brushes and smoked glass of the house-into-apartments renovators. Eric hoped it would stay that way.

He had a one-year lease on the top floor of the building, opting to live on the upper floor, sensing it would be more secure than the lower. At one time, the owner had lived on the lower floor and rented the upper. But even the owner had long since moved to a more sturdy and modern habitat, abandoning the house entirely. When Eric signed the lease for the upper floor, much to the surprise of the owner who couldn't imagine why anyone would want to live in the drafty, dilapidated relic, it ended a three-year period of lonely vacancy for the aging structure.

But if there were, indeed, soon to be signs of life in the old wooden two-story, they were coming slowly. A coffee pot, a hot plate, toiletries in the bathroom, a gas heater and a mattress on the floor were the only visible indications of promise for things to come. The smell of sawdust filled the seven upper rooms, smells produced by endless hours of toiling Eric expended long into the nights, sanding down the floors. Until that chore was completed, there would be little use in bringing the furniture from storage.

Saturday. The darkened morning sky and cold drizzle offered a peacefulness as Eric slept. Buried beneath several blankets thrown on the mattress, Eric's own body heat provided the warmth that the sole gas heater was unable to provide against the near-freezing temperatures outside.

He slept deeply, oblivious to the dawn. His limbs rejuvenating from the exhausting floor-sanding of the night before. A night that had extended into the wee-hours and left his right arm muscles in near-pain. A pain he had not experienced since those first hectic weeks of training for becoming a telephone lineman several years ago. His muscular loins and arms now made easy work of pole climbing, but were vulnerable to the different muscular demands made by hand-sanding a floor.

Since stripping off his clothes and falling onto the mattress in exhaustion, he had not moved during the night. Such was the intensity of his sleep. The approach of morning was unknown to the dark-haired young man sleeping on his stomach beneath the blankets. Except for his cock.

Buried beneath the blankets and Eric's body, it sought escape. Approaching maximum hardness, it lay wedged between the softness of the mattress and Eric's ribbed stomach muscles. Seeking to dominate ever-increasing amounts of space, it prompted small, subconscious hip thrusts by its owner. With each thrust, it nudged nearer and nearer Eric's navel, until finally, even the small cavity provided by the navel opening was filled with the pulsating ridge that separated the base of the dick head from its shaft. More subconscious thrusting.

Eric shifted his weight slightly, pressing down upon the cock, and moving slightly to the left, freeing the hard, granite-like cock from its confinement. The head, at least. The shaft extended almost straight to the side, crushed beneath the top of Eric's right leg, but the head found freedom. Swelling ever larger as it extended from the side of Eric's prone form.

Although still more asleep than awake, Eric's right hand moved the several inches necessary to make contact with the heated surface of the hard cock head, the base of Eric's thumb nestled gently against the wide slit at the tip.

Through no deliberate action on the part of the sleeping owner, the wrist muscles of the hand flexed slowly, providing slow, back-and-forth rhythms of increasing friction between the side of the hand and the protruding inches of cock. Back and forth. A bit harder now, as quick spasms shoot down the length of the dick, churning tension in the balls. Rhythm is established. Slowly the hand turns, wrapping around the head of the cock, grasping the extended inches. Squeezing, pulling. Pulling more and more of the dick free from beneath the sleeping leg.

As awareness begins, Eric begins pelvic motion as he slowly awakens. Subtle sliding as he crams his circumcized cock down hard upon the mattress and then eases back letting the full length of the shaft enjoy hard friction as it is pulled back against his pressing leg muscles. The head of the cock is pulled backward by hip movement until it is buried beneath the leg. And then quickly rammed forward, inch after inch, where the cock agonizes beneath the corded leg muscles, and then beyond where the head is grasped and pulled firm by Eric's calloused hands.

More heated now. Eric rolls over on his back, giving his dick desperately needed freedom. No longer tame. No longer controllable. That fat, thick cock that normally hung long and free inside Eric's right pants leg was soft no more. Only the velvet softness of the stretched skin provided contrast to the rock-hard shaft and head.

Pulling on the cock head, as though trying to force it to make contact with the sensitive, hardened nipples on his hairy chest. Pull that cock head. Pull that cock head. Make it feel good. Yank it. Tug it. Rub the thumb hard over the head of that dick.

Now the other hand comes into action. Maintaining a vice-like grasp on the swollen head, Eric takes his other hand and begins shoving the shaft to the right and left with a clenched-fist grasp. Pull the head. Tug on the shaft. Hard. Harder. Pull so hard that the balls begin to be forced up inside the body. Release the head. Scratch those balls. Rub the inner thighs.

Grab the head again. Grab it hard. The left hand twists the cock shaft in one direction. The right hand twists the cock head in the opposite direction. And keep pulling. Arch the back. Grab, pound, and beat that massive hunk of cock as it points higher and higher toward the sky.

Now the up and down movement. Along the entire length of the shaft. The right hand near the base, against those balls. Squeeze hard. Harder. Move that hand up and down slowly. In identical motion with the right hand that is jacking-off the cock-head end of that dick.

Grab that cock. Harder. Harder. Make it feel good. Pull on it with both hands. Make it reach the sky. Release. Pack and forth on the shaft. Slide that skin over that hard cock. Beat. Beat it. Jack it off! Both hands. Pull. Feel those balls ache. Harder. Faster. Much faster. Feel that "come" building up in your balls, baby.

Beat that meat! Rub the cock head with your thumb. Pound that cock against your leg! Grab it. Again. Harder. Fast now. Up and down. Faster. Grab that hard meat. Yank on that piece of meat.

Wrap both hands around that big cock. Up and down. Up and down. Squeeze those cock veins. Make it hurt. Faster. Up and down. Up and down.

You're going to shoot, Eric. Feel those balls swelling. Get ready. Pull that cock! C'mon kid, harder! Faster. Hurt it. Pound it! Get ready to shoot that load.

Beat that meat, telephone lineman. Make those muscles work. Grab it hard with those rough hands! Get ready. It's about to shoot. Shoot that big wad of come out of those balls. Make that come explode down the length of that fat, thick cock. Feel it? Feel it? Keep

Release. It was done. A good feeling. Eric licked the come from his

I don't know what to do with my body when I die. I tell myself not to worry about it. Not now, anyway. I think I should first learn what to do with the damn thing while I'm alive. But still, the problem plagues me. I find myself in distinct puzzlement regarding my remains.

The topic is, admittedly, distasteful. Just the phonetic sound of the word "corpse" is, by itself, motivation for finger-induced gags. Such an ugly word. Robert Redford dies, he becomes a corpse. Bette Midler dies, she becomes a corpse. Jack Wrangler dies, it becomes a corpse. George Burns is a corpse, but upon death, can be expected to turn a definitely-darker shade of gray. Death is a bitch.

The intital consideration when pondering self-disposal is one of quantity. Do I want to take it all with me, or pass some of the parts around? Relinquishing certain body parts to the medical profession for transplant is the most generous thing to do, I'm sure. I'm certain there are lots of anxious physicians eager to rummage through me in search of eyes, kidneys, a liver, blood or anything else that appears to have some mileage left on it for a waiting patient. The overjoyed patient, in turn, would no doubt send a lovely wreath to my funeral and send out expensive "Thank You" cards to my relatives, probably aluminum foil cards in blue envelopes.

But I keep seeing reruns of old Viking movies on television and remembering that Oden, the Viking god, doesn't grant an after-life to those who return to the Pearly Gates with fewer parts than when they left. And I worry about how much influence this Oden character has Up There.

And suppose you do pass out parts before you "go," electing to enter heaven Ala Carte, there's still the problem of disposing of the remaining hulk. And getting rid of that is as difficult as trying to lay-away a complete set.

The once-living human body. Once so alive. Once so vibrant. Once so joyful. Once so innocent, not counting that night behind Gregory Gym. That once-living human body now reduced to a corpse. A motionless form. Stiff. Clammy, pale flesh. That begins rotting from the bones within mere seconds of the final heartbeat. Oh, cruel fate! What's to become of me?

Buried. God, it would be awful. Spending all that time in clothes picked out by your mother. Unthinkingly dooming her first-born to Final Rest in a three-piece suite from Sears. Complete with a second pair of pants. Which she would fold neatly at my feet. May God restrain me from rising at the funeral and shouting "Geeeee!" to all in attendance.

The hair would be worse. Mothers never seem to forget how your hair looked when you were in the sixth grade. And that's the way they want it kept! (It's a major year for Moms, sixth grade. You've outgrown dragging her to Valentine's parties with shoeboxes covered in red crepe paper and are still too young to get into any really serious trouble. Especially if you were in the sixth grade when Leave It To Beaver was in prime time.) When I die, my mother, beyond-the-shadow-of-a-doubt, will storm the funeral home with a comb in one hand and a picture of Jerry Mathers in the other.

Cremation, anyone? Surely nothing could be as unpleasant as burial, rotting away in a suit from Sears and a face that should be shouting "Wally, Wally!" Cremation. An efficient word. Sounding so neat, so clean. Too bad it's just a synonym for "the searing of flesh," "the charring of facial features beyond recognition," and, "the total consumption of human form by sputtering flames, fueled by human meat fat globules." My, how the sweet-sounding pleasantries do crumble upon inspection.

And what about the left-over ashes? In all the movies, the True Love of the deceased always flings the ashes into the sea. Or onto the top of a mountain. Or from an airplane, coast-to-coast.

Personally, I think that once-baked, one should not be expected to suffer additional humiliation. Rather, they should be permitted respite, in toto, in one of those nice, ornate urns. I think that by that time, I will have suffered sufficiently to merit avoidance of being thrown into the sea, on top of a mountain, or out of an airplane, coast-to-coast. I've always been terrified of heights, enough is enough. Just let me rest in my urn. On the knick-knack shelf. Between Mom's exact replicas of the two Japanese statues Lucy Ricardo had over her fireplace.

A choice. It's got to be one or the other. You will be buried. Or you will be burned. Some of you, I know, would look very nice "stuffed," but that's illegal in most states unless you have a personal relationship with Roy Rogers, who, after hauling Trigger and Bullet to the taxidermist, is now believed taking bids on Dale.

If, like myself, you have difficulty abiding either selection, we should perhaps make no decision at all. Don't make any provisions for self-disposal. Let your relatives worry about it. Let the problem be on their shoulders. The blood on their hands. What are they bitchin' about? They're not the one who died!

So I pass the problem to you, dear relatives. Do with me what you will. I trust your judgement. I respect your wishes. I await your decision. But know, relatives and lovers, when it comes time for a decision - I AM taking names!
