220 AVONDALE IN HOUSTON

up front

Greetings, gang.

Far be it for us to burden you with our problems, to place at your feet the trials and tribulations of assembling this week's issue of TWT. You guys have your own problems, and God knows there is nothing more boring than listening to the tales of woe of others. Aw, screw it, — sit back and be bored!

Sincerely, I trust that your week has been less hectic than have the past seven days around here. Is there no end in sight! In the past five months, you guys have forced us to go from a 48-page magazine to a 56-page magazine. Then, from 56 to 64, followed by the ever-popular 64 to 72. That change almost killed us, yet, damn if I don't turn around and see the necessity for an 80-page magazine just around the corner. Please, guys, we know you love us (and we love you, too) but, in the words of my Aunt June, HAVE MERCY!

And not only must each issue be larger, the total number that must be printed has increased substantially, so copies can go to the new advertisers. The printing place and the bindery have demanded a 24-hour back-up on deadline, which for reasons I won't explain, adds another day to the staff's work week! Well, thank you!

Coupled with all this technical crud, on which I have failed to elaborate and will continue to fail to elaborate, look for you copy of TWT at your favorite location on Friday instead of Thursday. Get it? Got it? Good!

Despite being swamped with ads, I trust we've still managed to assemble a collection of features and columns you will find vastly entertaining. Actually, if you don't find them vastly entertaining, that's okay. It's that vastly entertaining shit that's got all our asses here at TWT in a fatigue sling! Oh, the price of popularity.

Peace and heat,
Here's number 168.

comment

Dear Editor:

After the 167th issue of TWT came today, I had to take time to respond to the letter from M. Stevenson in that issue's Comment column.

What M. Stevenson has to say is a mixture of fact and fiction relative to the Coors boycott. As things now stand in Texas, the Houston Gay Political Caucus has, by vote of the caucus, ended the boycott. The Dallas Gay Political Caucus continues its boycott.

Entering into the boycott, Houston GPC defined what we were boycotting and why. We boycotted all Coors products until such time that Coors, as an official matter of corporate policy, agree not to discriminate against gay persons in employment and promotion, and that the corporation agree not to advertise in any publication that always expresses an editorial policy against the basic rights of gay Americans.

On both issues Coors has met the criteria set by Houston GPC. When the criteria is clearly defined and full met, one has no honorable choice but to keep one's end of the bargain. Dallas GPC has, to my knowledge, not yet defined its criteria for the Coors boycott. From M. Stevenson's letter, I think the rationale has something to do with the personal political beliefs of some members of the Coors family, but I'm not sure, since Dallas GPC has not officially or precisely stated a rationale on the boycott.

As to polygraph testing, Houston GPC discussed and considered making an issue of polygraph testing, in general, or of the wording of some of the questions asked in Coors testing, specifically.

Houston GPC rejected both approaches to the issue.

M. Stevenson is mistaken about the Coors employee's union. Coors employees are members of the Teamsters Union. The original strike was called by a local union with AFL-CIO connections, but the majority of Coors employees joined the Teamsters union and went back to work. On women's issues, Coors settled out of court on an equal employment suit and has so far kept their end of the bargain on those issues (under court supervision for another year).

Direct Coors family and foundation contributions to stop the progress of gay rights and/or the rights of women have not been proven to be worth the value rumors would suggest.

Members of the Coors family are well known as conservatives in the political arena. If Dallas GPC wishes to wait until Coors family members see the light and become liberals, I anticipate the Dallas boycott will take a long time to reach settlement. In the time Dallas waits for Coors liberal salvation, Houston GPC will move onto more pressing and important issues, all the while celebrating the Coors surrender.

Ray Hill
Houston

Hill is a prominent, Houston-based, gay activist and was negotiator for the Coors/HGPC settlement. He's a valuable asset of the Texas gay community. Stevenson, active in the Dallas GPC, is a popular freelance writer of gay-related articles and a frequent contributor to TWT. He's a valuable asset of the Texas gay community. Even valuable assets differ in opinion now and then.

Dear Editor:

I have just returned from my third attempt to register people for Town Meeting I. I was met with such total apathy that I felt compelled to write this letter. In my two years of involvement in activism, I can only remember one occasion when the gay people in this city were really unified and involved in the supposedly collective struggle for our rights. That was last June at the rally in conjunction with Anita's appearance before the Bar Association. Before and since that event the gay "community" — if you can call it that — has been completely apathetic to the cause of activism. It was obvious enough then what Anita was trying to do. If you think she's finished, take a look at St. Paul, Eugene, and Wichita.

I have had people tell me that they weren't going to Town Meeting because the cost is five dollars. How anyone can sit in a bar and say something like that with five or six empty glasses in front of him is absolutely incredible. It's not incredible, it's disgusting! I have also encountered people who haven't even heard of Town Meeting. That's not surprising. These bar queens don't have time to read the paper, they're so busy hopping from bar to bar trying to find the man who will be their Prince Charming for the evening.

Naturally, you can't expect the mindless bar queens to have heard about Town Meeting on the television. They spend their time from 5:30 to 10:00 fluffing up for the hunt, and then fly off to the bar. Obviously, there are other things in life more important to these sad creatures than their human rights and dignity — finding a trick, getting drunk, ad nauseum. Then there are those who feel intimidated about attending a function of this sort, even though there will be steps taken to protect one's anonymity. I am fully aware that there is a certain amount of legitimate apprehension about one's identity as a homosexual, but I am tired of people using the closet to justify their abject apathy. It is readily apparent to anyone who is observant that those people who frequent the bars on a regular basis are the same ones who are always "in the closet."

Of course, these people have absolutely no qualms about complaining of our oppression, or about what a bitch Anita is. I am absolutely convinced that there is a significantly large number of gay persons in this city who do nothing but live from trick to trick. You know who you are, and we know who you are. You are just as much a part of the decor of the bar as are the paint and light fixtures. These people would be incapable of uttering an intelligent thought if it were written on a piece of paper in front of them. They would be unable to carry on an enlightened discussion with a melon. They have what I call "bar mentality" — which is tantamount to having no mentality at all.

WEEK OF JUNE 17 - 23

FOR ALL SIGNS: There's a stellar spectacle in the sky these June nights — a four planet cluster! To the naked eye you'll see all four! Near the bright star Regulus, in the Leo constellation, is the red planet, Mars. Less than a degree below Mars is yellowish Saturn (you can see the rings with medium powered binoculars). And below Mars and Saturn you can see a very bright, white star, Venus. Below it is a somewhat dimmer star, Jupiter. The cluster appears high in the Southwest sky after sunset. Quite a treat for stargazers!

GEMINI (May 21 - June 21): With Mercury moving into your second house of money, on the 17th, you'll find yourself becoming more practical than usual. And, with the Sun making its annual return to your sun sign, your energy level and health should be above average. CANCER (June 22 - July 23): With Mars joining Saturn in your second house of money, you may find some worthwhile returns coming in for past efforts and endeavors. Mars is energy and causes financial activity. Venus and Uranus make a nice aspect for romance on the 23rd. A solid week ahead!

LEO (July 24 - August 23): Mars is disrupting your lifestyle and love life, causing you to take a long look at just where you are, in terms of a relationship. Remember, the best days for romance are yet to come. The 29th and 30th hold more promise than the previous 28 days of June combined.

VIRGO (August 24 - September 23): Your social life may slow down somewhat, with Venus now moving into your 12th house of the innerself. And, with Mercury and Mars in favorable aspect on the 18th, some new love affair may start with someone just met. Concerning health, your first house planets point toward increased energy.

LIBRA (September 24 - October 23): Around the 18th, the planets point toward a happy and social time. Business may mix well with pleasure. In health, the only thing to fear is doing too much, too often. There is so much going on. Any recent career advancement remains easily handled.

SCORPIO (October 24 - November 22): This may be the week you either take a journey or plan one. Venus and Uranus point towards an unusual love trip. For two years Saturn has been hampering your career. That is now soon to pass. You may get a glimpse this week of easier times ahead.

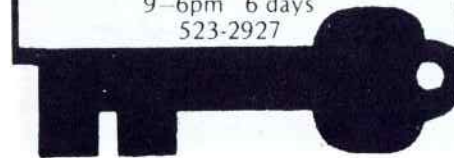

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 - December 22): Your usual independent nature has been throttled lately with so many planets poised in your 7th house of marriage. Archers who are attached may find themselves traveling together happily. Singles are thinking more in terms of two than just one. Health is normal.

CAPRICORN (December 23 - January 19):

The 17th and 18th are good days for marriage to receive a stellar boost thanks to Venus and Jupiter. The Moon and Saturn get into the act around the 20th for romance. So, it's a hot week for the cautious and plodding Capricorn, who sometimes think he is above such physical pleasures.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 19):

You often whirl through life stirring up friendships, but never really stopping long enough to deepen them into a total involvement with another. The 17th of June could see you entering a new chapter, when you quit fooling around.

PISCES (February 20 - Marcy 20): Your hopes and wishes could become reality around the 17th and 18th. And, the action planet Mars, which entered your 7th house of marriage on June 13th, can now make you more partnership-orientated. With Jupiter still in your 5th house, you can expect good fortune in pleasure.

ARIES (Marcy 21 - April 20): On the 17th, when the Moon, Jupiter and Uranus make a favorable aspect, you could enter into some agreement or contract that will be fruitful. However, the 18th may be a barren day for health, but nothing serious. Travel and sex are still highlighted.

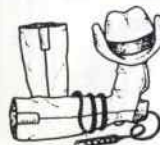

TAURUS (April 21 - May 20): Now that Mars has entered your fifth house of love affairs and entertainment, you can expect this action planet to stimulate these happy areas, starting on June 13th and lasting through most of July. Around the 18th you may almost get talked into marriage. It's up to your free will as to how you respond. You may take the leap.

Annual Broadway report: "About average," "healthy," "normal," these are the terms used by Broadway watchers to describe the current season on the Great White Way. Seven plays or musicals produced on Broadway this season earned the title of established hits. Several others show promise of achieving that status.

A multitude of established talents returned to the Broadway stage this year, in various capacities: directors included Mike Nichols, Arthur Penn; among choreographers were Bob Fosse and Harold Prince, and actors and actresses as Carol Channing, Jason Robards, Richard Kiley, Tammy Grimes, Mildred Dunnock, Liza Minnelli, Barry Nelson, Vincent Price, Mary Martin, Hume Cronyn, Jessica Tandy, Colleen Dewhurst, James Whitmore, Anne Bancroft, James Earl Jones, Eartha Kitt, and Shelley Winters. The theatre is indeed alive and well. For Texans journeying to the Big Apple this summer, here's a brief list of the current hits and promising attractions:

The Act, a starring vehicle for Liza Minnelli, concerns a nightclub singer attempting a comeback. Barry Nelson co-stars with Minnelli, who received a Tony (Broadway's Oscar) for her performance. The show is scheduled to close next month.

Chapter Two, written by Neil Simon, is a story of love the second time around, based on Simon's own first marriage. It will probably run indefinitely, with several casts.

Deathtrap, directed by noted director Robert Moore, is a classic whodunit written by Ira Levin.

Dracula is a revival of the classic drama about a guy from Transylvania. Frank Langella was nominated for a Tony for his performance.

The Gin Game is a simple story about two old people. Mike Nichols directs Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn in the play, which was nominated for several Tonys.

Man of La Mancha, another revival, concerns Don Quixote and his quest for the impossible dream. This current adaptation is judged by many to be the best ever.

Touch of the Poet, another revival, stars Jason Robards in the Eugene Ibsen classic. Robards was nominated for a Tony for his performance.

Promising attractions: Ain't Misbehavin', a musical revue of the hits of jazz great Fats Waller, won the Tony for Best Musical, as well as several others; Dancin', a tribute to the art of Bob (Cabaret) Fosse; Da, Tony winner for Best Play, is a serious drama by Hugh Leonard about his Irish father; On the Twentieth Century was the upset winner for several Tonys, and deals with passengers on a cross-country train trip at the turn of the century.

Popcorn potpourri: United Artists, eager to cash in on the phenomenal box office success of Woody Allen's Annie Hall, which won several Oscars, including Best Actress Oscar for Diane Keaton, is licensing an Annie Hall fashion line. They've created an official Annie Hall look, and are considering opening Annie Hall boutiques across the country. Diane Keaton has wisely refused to have anything to do with the project . . . The opening release date of Warren Beatty's new film, Heaven Can Wait, has been delayed a few weeks to give another Paramount Pictures release, Grease, a chance to score big at the box office. Grease, which co-stars heartthrob John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John, opened in major Texas cities recently and drew long lines at the theatres. Heaven Can Wait, in which Beatty co-stars with Julie Christie, will make its debut around the Fourth of July.

The U.S. Catholic Conference, in their usual role of defenders of our nation's morality, has slapped a condemned rating on three current films. The new Burt Reynolds film, The End, and A Different Story both were condemned because of subject matter. "Trashy to the core" was the Conference's description of the current box office blockbuster, The Greek Tycoon.

Muhammed Ali, reporting to work on his Tobacco Road starrer, was quoted cling the life of an Indian woman, to be titled Walks Far Woman . . . CBS has on the boards a three hour movie dealing with the life of superstar Judy Garland . . . Betty White is considering starring in a made for TV movie for CBS about a frontier western woman, titled Wild Horse Annie.

The life of Freddie Prinze will be the subject of yet another CBS TV-movie . . . Matlovich Vs. The U.S. Air Force, the NBC TV-movie chronicling the battle of an Air Force sergeant forced to leave the service because of his sexual orientation, mysteriously never made it on the air this season. Perhaps the network has decided to wait until the time is right . . . Jon Voight won the Cannes Film Festival Best Actor award for his performance in Coming Home, and Jill Clayburgh shared Best Actress honors for her performance in An Unmarried Woman . . . Liza Minnelli's contract for her current Broadway show, The Act, will expire July 1.

Quick popped review:

A Different Story: Perry King and Meg Foster star in this story of a gay man and lesbian who meet and eventually fall in love. Though the film is full of flaws (King's wooden acting, dreary, overly-dramatic script, bad lighting and sound), the basic idea (gays have all the regular human emotions, too) is a good one.

All of this has caused me to come to a conclusion that would have horrified me a few years ago. Like every good liberal, I used to think that people were born with certain rights, that people had these rights by virtue of the fact that they were human beings. I have, unfortunately, had to reappraise this belief in light of the recent experiences I have had in trying to motivate people to get involved.

In ancient Athens, people were expected, indeed compelled, to take an active part in the affairs of their community. It was the duty of every citizen to pull his share of the load. I think it should be the same now. Those people who choose to view the civil rights movement with apathy would do so only with the knowledge that they are on their own when they are slapped in a cell on 61 Riesner Street. These people should be warned that, when they have been beaten to a pulp by some thug outside the bar, there will be no activist around to hear their sob story. They should not complain when they are busted for violating 21.06. These people should not come running to the activists when they are fired from their jobs for being gay.

Anyone who refuses to stand up for his or her own rights should not expect someone else to do it for him/her. I am frankly tired of seeing our rights in particular, and the movement in general, go down the drain because of these sycophantic worshippers of Bacchus. Donna Summer, Cutty Sark, and Givenchy aren't going to do much good in the ovens.

K. Stewart
Houston

Some most-spirited remarks. We agree wholeheartedly with your disdain for gay apathy within the community, but question the implication that anyone should be compelled to activist participation. You have clearly and correctly stated the woes that could befall an apathetic gay citizen, but beyond that application of logic and reason, what methods to compel or force into activism are acceptable to so strong a civil libertarian as yourself?

With the exception of the guys who work in the mailroom, we are pleased to print your letter. (The mailroom men, expecting an avalanche of mail in response to your Comment, fear the vacation they expected to begin next week may be in jeopardy. They're probably right.)

-Ed.

Dear TWT,

We seek to understand ourselves, to reach out and grasp the life that has been given to us, as well as millions of others.

Some people look down on us, for they do not understand us.

We are all the same. But some have cast restrictions. Our lifestyle is different, so many tend to scorn us.

They do not understand how love can be shared if it doesn't conform to their standards. But who are they to set the standards of our lives? God put us here, too.

We do not know why God made us different than others, but God put forth upon this earth many ways of life.

We offer love and compassion. We offer beauty, and we offer understanding to those that seek understanding.

We were not just placed here by magic, but through God's love and the conception of love between two souls.

Let us all reach out for understanding and then we all can obtain happiness.

I know from experience that this is a problem that needs attention. (The cut on my big toe is experience enough.) Also, the use of tennis shoes or some type of foot wear while in the water could be mentioned.

Dear TWT,

AAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA

HHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH!

This is the only word I can use to describe my feelings at the thought of Life With Vera being put to rest.

Gays have been fighting long for their rights. And believe me, the battle is far from being over. But, as in any struggle, one must take an occasional moment to re-generate. This is usually accomplished through humor. And what better humor than gay humor? Gay humor is written by gays, about gays, for gays. And gentlemen, once we loose the ability to laugh at ourselves, we have lost the battle.

And, besides, what could be more tragic than for Vera to be put to rest after an expensive facelift?

I urge you, please keep the column in TWT. Last week, Vera was almost crushed in the Pritchard mansion, and now this?

AAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAHHH
HHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH!!!

Sincerely,
D. Riley

It's no secret that I'm 31 years old. Nor is it classified information that, during my lifetime, I've been through a lot. That I am able, day after day, to continue to breathe, bathe, walk upright, and maintain rudimentary typing skills provides constant amazement to those who know me well. Like my pusher.

Yes, yes, this kid has had it rough. However, if the good really do die young, I figure I'm going to be around for lots of days to come. I have not been good. I have worshipped at the altar of Instant Gratification and it's beginning to show.

When the time comes to meet my Maker, I'm not worried about what God thinks about the condition of my soul. It'll pass inspection. But I must confess that I do fret a bit over what my Maker is going to say about the condition of the body I'm returning.

"What have you done to the body I gave you!" God'll scream.

"Lovely weather we're havin', ain't it," I'll reply, attempting to change the subject.

There is no denying, however, that if people were cars, I'm definitely a "call a wrecker" job. Likewise, if reincarnation is reality, someone is going to come up with the short end of the stick if they try to come back in this heap I'll be leaving behind. My warranty has expired.

I base my bodily concerns on intuition. Mere intuition. I have no proof that my body isn't a specimen of health rivaling Pat Boone's or Mark Spitz' (and I certainly don't plan to go all the way out to the doctor's office to look for any.) Yet, there's this little voice in the back of my head that says, "Carl, your body is for shit!" The voice is little, not polite.

I hear the voice when I light a cigarette. I hear the voice when I eat a Twinkie. I hear the voice when I smoke a joint. I hear the voice when I take acid. When I do all four things at once, I hear a barbershop quartet! And on really festive nights, I have to lay-in choir robes!

In optimistic moments, I console myself with the reassurance that my body couldn't possibly be ruined on the inside — and still look so good on the outside. Okay, I'll admit that some wear and tear is evident on the surface level. Some character-building lines around the eyes. A flattering tautness to the face. A seasoned look. Actually, I like to think that it's not so much age that shows on my face as it is wisdom. (Yes, Phoenecia, a person CAN be THAT smart!)

If my body is rotting internally, however, so be it. That's the price you pay for having a good time. Given the chance to do it all over again, I'd change very little. For if there's one important lesson I've learned in my 31-year life experiment, it's that the only gratification in life worth a damn is INSTANT GRATIFICATION! Do it! Live it! Be it! Now! Auntie Mame said "live, live, live," and, brother, I listened!

I hate savers. Don't save money for a rainy day. Go out and squander it while it's still sunny. Don't save anything! Live for today. Rape! Loot! Pillage! Whatever. Don't hold anything back! Don't put off! Don't wait! Do it! Tonight! You can use my apartment if you want.

Wayne On The Keyboard
— Naturally

An example: God preserve us the gorgeous gay stud who makes the rounds each night, parading and preening for adulation — and then goes home alone. As he leaves, I'm tempted to grab him by the arm and say, "Oh, child, whatever are you saving it for!" But they never learn. The beauty contest winners of yore soon become the oldest-living Mr. This and the oldest-living Mr. That. And they die virgins. Such a waste. Knowledgeable of the fun inherent in abusing a bad body, I shudder to think of the joys that some people pass up by failing to abuse a good one.

Are you living life to the fullest? Take this simple test. Pretend it is Saturday night. Okay? It's Saturday night wherever you happen to be. Now think about this. It is also Saturday night in New York. In London. In Los Angeles. In San Francisco. If that doesn't bring a tear to your eye, you are not leading life in the fast lane. Not living life to the fullest. In short, you are dead.

A lot has been said about what the word gay does or does not mean. I have my definition. Gay means not dead. Although looking around me, I sometimes have my doubts.

C'mon, beat the drums, brothers! Live!

fantasy

Editor's note —

In the past, episodes in the TWT reader Fantasy series have had two shared characteristics. They tended to be rather lengthy and incredibly butch. Cocks, balls, fist-fucking, chains, leather, and Crisco — for pages and pages. Like I said, very long and very butch.

This week, however, a change of pace. Short and sweet. Very sweet. Variety is the spice of . . . etc., etc., and all that crap.

In my Fantasy I am dressed in drag, wearing baby blue drawstring pants and top, white three-inch wedge heels with a matching shoulder bag, a long ash-blond wig, lots of silver jewelry and a long white rabbit coat.

I go into the store I usually shop at but nobody recognizes me. I get in line at the counter where a virile sack boy, that I haven't been able to keep my eyes off of for a year, is working. The sack boy is about 18 years old, six foot one, brown hair and eyes, a very macho mustache, a very good tan and quite well built. He sacks my groceries and asks if I would like for him to carry them to my car. Walking out to the car I can feel his eyes penetrating my ass as I saunter along.

I stop at a new black Corvette, unlock the door and tell him to put the groceries behind the seats. He is telling me what a fantastic car I have as I watch him.

"If you think it's that great, how would you like to take it for a drive, dear," I say, hoping I can get close to him for more than just a few minutes.

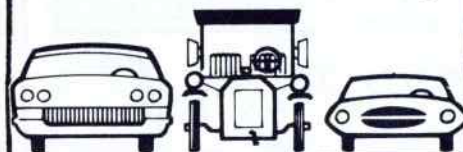

After the store has closed I come back and let him drive my car. With every "ah" and "oh" that he makes, while shifting gears, my desire to give him a blow job builds. After he has parked the car in the deserted lot, he starts to get out. I touch his hand and say, "Wait. I forgot to give you a tip. Would you prefer a dollar or a blow job?"

"I beg your pardon," he says beginning to laugh raucously.

"You heard me," I say, as my hand moves from his hand onto his crotch, which is packed into a pair of snug jeans, "Which would you like?"

He closes the car door and a broad smile comes across his face which turns up the ends of his moustache. I take his shirt off and lick his nipples. He pulls my head up and French kisses me as he runs his hand down my back onto my ass, gently squeezing it.

He takes off his shoes and while he is working with the snap on his pants, I suck and lick his toes, which makes him moan with masculine power. He peels off his pants, and as I look up his calves, past his muscular thighs, my eyes come to rest on a pulsating ten-inch rock-hard cock, with an ample set of balls, all surrounded by a thicket of curly brown hair.

His hands have gone behind his head and his smile has turned to an expression of raw sexual desire. My tongue works its way up his legs over his thighs, until I am licking his balls. He puts his legs over my shoulders, turning side-ways in the seat, and as his skin comes in contact with my fur coat he starts to quiver all over. My tongue finds his asshole, and after a slight resistance, slides all the way in. By that time he is begging for me to suck him off, (almost to the point of tears, he wants it so bad). my face through his pubic hair I comply greedily, until his hands lock on my shoulders, his back arches, he screams in ecstasy and my mouth fills with his bitter-sweet juices. He slumps down in the seat breathing hard, as sweat runs off his body onto the red leather upholstery.

After a few minutes he gets dressed and after a long French kiss I give him my phone number and tell him to ask for "Julie."

MISS GAY TEXAS is this weekend, June 17 and 18th, at Dance City in Houston's Galleria area. Over $1,000 cash prizes money will be awarded at the culmination of the two day affair. The current title holder, Donna Day (photo above) told "TWT," "I never had the chance to thank you for choosing Houston as the root of my success. When I came to Houston, back in 1973, I was a nobody. But thanks to Jan Russell, I got a start at the Hi-Kamp. Texas has the most talented female impersonators in the U.S.A. I would also like to thank Eartha Kitt, Tiffany Jones, and Jennifer George, and YOU, the gay people of Texas, for giving me the chance to represent you."

DONNA DAY said she hopes to continue serving the gay community. "We gays SHALL overcome 'cause we have come a long way. I am proud of being gay. I love to entertain because that's my life and my living. Let's get it together and work together. That's what it's all about, togetherness. In closing, I wish all the contestants good luck in the Miss Gay Texas 1978 Pageant. Thank you for a wonderful year!" This Sunday night Donna will crown her successor in the glitter event of the year.

INSTANT TEA: The Miss Universe II Pageant of Ft. Worth was held last June 7 and Patricia Wyatt was crowned winner, with Raina Lee as first runner-up, and Alice Phallus as best talent . . . Oh really . . . Mike and Rick celebrate their 9th on the 19th . . . Happy birthday to Danny at Lafayette's Southern Comfort . . . Houston's Ram Rod collected a penny for Town Meeting from each person last Saturday ($4.01 total says John) . . . Ms. Take II holds a 7-9pm champagne brunch next Thursday as its appreciation night for gay parents and parents of gays . . . Sunset Blvd in San Antonio spotlights Jessica Landa and Rachel Wells (Miss Gay Georgia) with Pauletta Leigh and Riki next Tuesday . . . And Jerry Vanover will make his comeback at the Midnite Sun later this summer.

J.J. VAN DYCK did such a hell of a show at D-III last Sunday that he's coming back next week. J.J. (who out of drag is into S&M, and we don't mean sneakers and mascara) stopped the show with the world's oldest stripper act . . . The OP Follies show last Sunday in Houston was the best produced in a long, long, time said many showgoers who delighted to the full scale, well rehearsed production numbers with Naomi, Carmelita, Chocolate and Les Boys (keep it up) . . . Sundance in Dallas will do a Military Show and Uniform Trip July 4 . . . Crews Inn celebrates their 6th birthday next Monday with non-stop happy hour prices and a midnite surprise drawing from Ray . . . And there's a "talk about hot" bartender at the One Way Inn named Tommy who spins his wheel of fortune every half hour for drink specials . . . Best check him out!

MARTHA TURNER (photo below with Jeff) was the Deva of Soul last Sunday at the Inside/Outside Theatre. The show was stopped earlier than planned as neighbors complained of noise, but Ed, Jeff, and Terry are working on a plan to soundproof and baffle the outdoor stage so that Martha's next three shows (June 18, 25, and July 2) can go uninterrupted. She's ever hot, ever dirty and can really dish the girls between songs.

CARMEN DEL RIO returns to Houston this weekend for two shows. The Latin Bombshell from Vegas will make two appearances this Sunday. Carmen (photo above), will guest at the Midnite Sun for the 6pm matinee, then she's off to the OP for a completely different show at 10:30. Welcome back, Carmen, from the city of slot machines and roulette wheels to two of the hottest stages in the Southwest, the MS and OP.

#s OPENING . . . Numbers Disco Theatre in Houston opened last week amid a flurry of curiosity. The club, which has a Hollywood decor, features a spacious dance floor flooded in electric moods reminiscent of the mother ship in "Close Encounters," flashing light beams, a stage that is the envy of any drag queen, a T-room plastered in nude photos, courtesy of Studz News, a quiet balcony bar overlooking the dance floor, and disco music courtesy of DJ's Scott Manning and Ram Rocha.

TOWN MEETING received all door money Friday night at Numbers with Disco Grandma and Ray Hill joining in an inspiring dedication speech. Town Meeting has already inspired a front page story in the "New York Times," a column in the "Washington Post," and an international report on the BBC in London. It's last call for Town Meeting tickets at Astroarena.

DID YOU KNOW that the Montrose Activity Center is going to bring suit against the Houston Civic Center for refusing to allow a variety show to be held at Jones Hall on June 16. Joan Baez was singled out as being unacceptable because of her activities earlier this decade . . . Gary Van Ooteghem says, "The show will be rescheduled when the Civic Center or the courts strike the censorship clause" . . . And as Naomi said at the OP Sunday "Kill it . . . This is not going to become Jimmy Green Cheverolet Disco" . . . And you should know that Houston's bar/club/business owners were honored with a June 6 party at Jerry Kauffman's Briar Patch and Auntie Mame's Deli for support in Town Meeting I.

IF WE KNOW, . . . Naomi Sims returned to her home town of Lafayette to the second anniversary show at Southern Comfort and wowed Cajun country . . . Naomi also emceed the Dong Show at Soixante Quinze. Winners were Scott Houston doing Judy Garland and Kim Morgan doing Liza Minnelli . . . Hot Chocolate has returned from Peachtree, Georgia where she won the title of Miss Gay Atlanta with her mix of Shirley MacLaine's and Linda Clifford's "If My Friends Could See Me Now" . . . Ernestine recently visited St. Louis to perform with French Dressing while Claude Sacha is off filming the new Bette Midler movie . . . The New Orleans Club in Corpus Christi is gearing up for the Miss Gay Southwest Pageant July 1 . . . The Miss Gay West Pageant will be held at the Capri Club in Odessa with $1,000 in prize money . . . And, Cheree was the busiest gal in town last Sunday, doing three shows in a five hour span . . . Midnite Sun, Inside Outside, and finally, the Old Plantation . . . ALLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLL-right!

HOT JUICY GOSSIP . . . Soixante Quinze has booked Houston's Steppin' Out singers, who, in a disagreement with the Alley Theatre, told the Alley several unprintable comments and walked out on Alley director Nina Vance . . . The Gemini party last Sunday at Venture-N was true to its crazy wacky sign as skittzy as a Gemini can be . . . San Francisco's gay city councilman Harvey Milk keynotes the Fifth Texas Gay Conference meeting in Dallas this weekend. Can you imagine Houston with a gay councilman? . . . United Cab Co. (523-9393) is the only way to ride in the Montrose if you're gay. Yellow Cab is trying to pull rank on United, who is united in their policy of friendliness toward gays . . . Some censored surprises are in store for the fourth birthday party July 1-4 at the Bourbon Pub in New Orleans . . . Dolly Parton will countryize Austin this Friday night with a performance at Municipal Auditorium. Well known as a friend to her gay fans, she could well be seen at some smart Austin gay bar . . . The Galleon's Jay Allen is busy pursuing a career in design and construction of straight discos, with one of his creations in San Antonio opening this week and another due to open in Austin later this summer.
