UP FRONT

This week we will discuss some of the new gay religious groups that are forming throughout Texas.

Recently several branches of Affirmation/Gay Mormons United have formed in Texas. Affirmation is the gay Mormon's response to their church's anti-gay stance.

Even if your faith doesn't want you, there is room for you. You just have to take the initiative.

Over the years many gays have left their faith because their church does not want them, or even condemns them.

Gays in most major religions have formed support groups to provide opportunities for worship, fellowship, friendship and psychological help and support. Some of these are Dignity (Catholic), Integrity (Episcopal), Concerned Lutherans, and Lambda (Unitarian).

Perhaps the largest gay-oriented religious group in the world is the Universal Fellowship of Metropolitan Community Churches. UFMCC was founded just over ten years ago. Since then the UFMCC has flourished.

Also, on a more local basis, a new fellowship has formed in Austin and Dallas called the Holy Trinity Church. So, for those who have felt uncomfortable in the past in their own church, perhaps some of the newer gay-oriented religious groups can give more meaning to one's beliefs.

Here's issue number 191.

Week of November 25 - 30, 1978

FOR ALL SIGNS: The last week in November finds the sun now firmly in Sagittarius with the Moon playing catch-up until Thursday November 30 when both the Sun and Moon will be in conjunction (same place in the sky). This is called a New Moon. A New Moon ushers in a vibration ideal for starting any new projects to produce a fruitful outcome. Here is what the Sagittarian New Moon means to your sign.

SAGITTARIUS: The month ends with a New Moon in YOUR sign, a once a year phenomenon for each sign. It is now your time. The new moon occurs in your first house of personality. You are, therefore, in cycle to begin any personal projects, a self-improvement program or become the leader in a business deal.

CAPRICORN: The month ends with a New Moon in your twelfth house of innerself. Therefore, it is an ideal time to withdraw from society for a couple of weeks to allow you to re-examine yourself and where you are going. Time spent alone will bring you much renewed energy and strength to face your responsibilities and goals.

AQUARIUS: The month ends with a New Moon in your eleventh house of friendships. Therefore, it is an ideal time to get involved in the social whirl as the holiday season unfolds, as you will not only meet important people who can help you, but you'll also have the opportunity of meeting that special someone. Join in.

PISCES: The month ends with a New Moon in your tenth house of career. Therefore, it is an ideal time in the first two weeks of December to further your employment matters, your promotions, and your station in your own society. Now you can rise to the top and lead. Business projects will be lucrative.

ARIES: The month ends with a New Moon in your ninth house of travel and education. Therefore, it is an ideal time to start any journeys, to begin a course of study or to take care of health problems. Be sure you are very attentive to all details regarding these areas.

TAURUS: The month ends with a New Moon in your eighth house of shared resources. Therefore, if you can help it, try not to get entangled in a financial web with a friend. However, it is a good time to start a new joint business deal with a business partner. Do not mix friends and money!

GEMINI: The month ends with a New Moon in your seventh house of partnerships. Therefore, it is an ideal time in the next two weeks to plan a wedding, to plan a business merger, or to join in a partnership for mutual profit. All matters of togetherness are favored and spotlighted. Do not go it alone!

CANCER: The month ends with a New Moon in your sixth house of health and employment. Therefore, it would be an ideal time to get a health problem checked, a good time to start a diet/exercise program, and a beneficial time for ironing out any co-worker employment difficulties.

LEO: The month ends with a New Moon in your fifth house of love affairs. Therefore, it is an ideal time for the next couple of weeks for social affairs, love affairs, dating games, entertainment, parties and fun. Now would be the time to go mate-hunting if you are looking for a life-long partner.

VIRGO: The month ends with a New Moon in your fourth house of the home. Therefore, it is an ideal time for the next couple of weeks to go house-hunting. Financial matters with real estate, home redecorating, change of address and domestic moves are now under favorable aspect.

LIBRA: The month ends with a New Moon in your third house of communication. Therefore, it is an ideal time for the next couple of weeks to get into traveling, letter-writing, talking on deep subjects, phone calling, soliciting and signing contracts. This is not the time to be a recluse. You'll benefit from contracts.

SCORPIO: The month ends with a New Moon in your second house of money. Therefore, it is an ideal time for the next couple of weeks to invest, buy, sell, save, budget and to do practically anything related to financial matters. It is a most advantageous cycle for making money.

ENTERTAINMENT by Ajax

POP MUSIC

If you think you hear the melodious sounds of Olivia Newton-John, John Travolta and the Bee Gees every time you're within earshot of a radio or stereo, relax. You're not suffering from auditory hallucinations or aural flashbacks. Thirty million copies of the Saturday Night Fever soundtrack album have been sold. The Grease soundtrack has logged nearly 10,000,000 in sales to date, but it is selling at a rate that is 40% greater than S.N.F. for the same period of time.

Grease has also captured the fancy of several foreign nations. The Dutch and the French have purchased over 200,000 units. In Germany 250,000 copies have been sold and the English have spent over 200,000 pounds to hear the "melodies" of the 1950's reconstituted by the hype artists of the 1970's. Nonetheless, Grease and Saturday Night Fever are taking the world by storm. Does anyone have an umbrella. . .

When Santa Claus wings his way across the Northern sky this Christmas, he won't likely be toting too many albums. CBS Records has upped the price of the recordings of six of its top stars. It will now cost Santa $8.98 instead of $7.98 to purchase Chicago's "Hot Streets," Billy Joel's "52nd Street," Heart's "Dog and Butterfly," Santana's "Inner Secrets," Ted Nugent's "Weekend Warriors" and Boston's "Don't Look Back." Warner Brothers also plans to issue Steve Martin's new comedy LP at $8.98.

These pre-holiday price hikes are not going unnoticed. The Philadelphia-based Recording Industry Competitive Trade Foundation is mapping out an anti-trust civil suit against the major recording companies for price fixing. The suit is based on evidence that all companies will raise LP costs to $8.98 before Christmas. How about a nice tie?

THEATRE

If the economy is in poor shape, you certainly couldn't prove it by looking at some of Broadway's lavish productions. In spite of soaring ticket prices, which are now ranging from $15.00 to $22.50, producers are assuming that audiences want to savor the most spectacular effects that live theatre can muster.

The Crucifer of Blood, a Sherlock Holmes thriller by Paul Giovanni, features five separate sets, uncommon for straight play, and includes a spectacular lightning storm as well as a boat chase along the Thames River. The cost of these scenic elements exceeds $100,000. Another scenically ambitious show is King of Hearts, the Joe Stein - Peter Link - Jacob Brackman musicalization of the 1966 Philip De Broca film. This 18,000 pound, $150,000 set features a multitude of moving parts and reaches to the top of the proscenium opening. However, the biggest (and best) is yet to come. Ballroom, directed by Michael Bennett (A Chorus Line), is currently in production at the American Shakespeare Theatre in Stratford, Connecticut and will open on Broadway in December. The main set is a mirrored, old rose ballroom which is mounted on a huge turntable so that it may swing into view. The technical requirements are so complex that it required four weeks just to assemble the set and all of the sophisticated lighting equipment.

Producers are obviously gambling that audiences want more and more spectacle. They'd better be right. There are a lot of anxious backers waiting to see the balance sheets on these shows. . .

RADIO

It appears that the New Year is going to usher in a respite from the family viewing hour. Sears, Roebuck and Company is planning to sponsor original radio plays on CBS Monday through Friday beginning February 5, 1979. Sears will be investing a small fortune in the hour-long 26-week series. Full details on the program, which will air from 7-8 p.m., are not yet available, but plans call for a different type of radio play — comedy, drama, westerns and melodramas — to be broadcast each night. It may not be Broadway, but then again it's not "The Gong Show."

ZACHARY!

by John Gardner

"Trudy," Grandmother Pruse droned, "I want you to remember that your going to live with your Uncle Zachary was the wish of your parents. They wrote it in the will and it looks like there is nothing I can do about it."

"Yes ma'am," Trudy replied. "I know."

Trudy answered in the saddest tone she could find, attempting to suppress her jubilation at not being subpoenaed to remain in The Morgue forever. Even at the age of seven, Trudy sensed what living with Grandmother Pruse would have been like.

"But until you're 16," Grandmother Pruse continued, "there's nothing I can legally do to keep you here with me."

Grandmother Pruse could not have known the reassurance Trudy found in her words.

"Of course, when you do reach sixteen, and if you're still alive, remember, dear child, you will always have a place here with me. And don't worry about the costs. I have ample funds to support you for three or four years. Even five. If absolutely necessary."

Although Trudy couldn't fathom a fate so ill that it would drive her back to Grandmother Pruse, she politely acknowledged the invitation.

Grandmother Pruse's usually insincere tone then took a sharp turn toward sheer and satiated sinisterism.

"Did your parents, God rest their souls, ever tell you anything unusual about your Uncle Zachary? Did they ever tell you anything about his . . . ah . . . you know?"

Trudy repeated what her mother had said about Uncle Zach's "infinite capacity to love." Even though Trudy didn't exactly know what "infinite" meant, she could tell by her Grandmother's expression that she had not given the desired response.

"That's not exactly what I meant, dear," Grandmother Pruse prodded. "His habits? His personal habits? Did they ever say anything to you about that?"

"If they did, I don't remember it," Trudy truthfully replied.

"Well, Trudy," Grandmother Pruse began, "it breaks my heart, really it does, to be the one that has to tell you. The one who has to tell you the really evil truth about your Uncle Zachary. But it's something I've got to do. I can't let you go off to Sodom without at least a warning of what to expect. What you should guard against."

Grandmother Pruse's involved voice, usually reserved for monetary matters, aroused Trudy's already over-active curiosity enchantingly.

"There are some things, Trudy, that people, good God-fearing Christian people — people like me, and you — just don't do. They don't do it! They don't even think about doing it! And they don't even think about not thinking to think about it! They just don't!"

Trudy's mind raced through all the vices of which a seven-year-old girl is knowledgeable. She couldn't think of a single one that hadn't, at one time or another, been committed by her grandmother, her late parents, or herself.

"There are some activities in which civilized people don't indulge."

The worst thing Trudy could think of was alcoholism. But she didn't think that could have been the answer. True, Grandmother Pruse had expressed guilt over driving her son, Trudy's father, to drink — even before he Almost Graduated From High School. But grandmother's voice implied worse things than an inclination to boozing it up.

"It's called going against the norms of society," Grandmother Pruse continued lecturing.

Trudy was about to explode with childish curiosity.

"Some people don't react toward other people in the normal way. They deviate from the . . ."

Trudy heard a car drive up. Grandmother Pruse stopped talking. Moving swiftly across the Civil War Authentic Souvenir rug on the floor, she manipulated herself to the window, waddling up to the sill.

"Dammit! He's here!"

Somewhere Restaurant

1525 Westheimer - 528-8474

MORE FREE PARKING NEXT DOOR

Grandmother Pruse was unmistakably disappointed at having her story-telling session interrupted. But as anxious as Trudy was to find out what the old lady had been talking about, the lack of an ending to the story was more than offset by the relief that Uncle Zach was there and hadn't forgotten about her. At any moment, Trudy expected angels and harps to shower down!

"We'll finish our conversation later, young lady. Before you leave." Grandmother Pruse said it in such a way that it came off more as a warning than a footnote. But then, that's exactly the way the elder Pruse had meant it.

Trudy heard a car door open and then shut. She followed Grandmother down Bleak Hall to the front door. Her Brontosaurus waddle was a bit more fast-paced than usual. A Triceratops, perhaps. But even so, Trudy thought their pace was unbearably slow. If everyone moved at the same speed as Grandmother Pruse, Trudy thought, there would have been no need to invent the wheel. They finally arrived at the door, even before there was a knock. Grandmother Pruse pushed Trudy toward the hall, away from the door, and stepped outside, while instructing Trudy to "Stay here."

The door had been closed less than a second before Trudy placed her ear against it — to listen and learn. To learn the fate of her future, and the future of her fate.

e look down a long and winding road bracketted by the Audiences of Texas' Gay Bars. A Crimson Figure appears far away. A light breeze stirs an applause of recognition into a standing gale. It's DONNA DAY dawning as TWT's..... ENTERTAINEROF THEYEAR

More applause, cheers, stomping and applause! All much deserved by Ms. Day, who succeeds twice-elected Ernestine with the Honor of Being Elected by the Public, the Highest Award in Show Business.

Tuesday, November 14 was a lively night at the OP Houston as the twelve most popular entertainers entertained a portion of the audience that elected them. Selected by four thousand-plus voters from over seventy-five personalities all over the State of Texas, the Twelve were invited to perform their finest numbers in one of this year's biggest Show of Stars. Presiding over the proceedings were Miss Gay America, Rachel Wells (performing a couple of snappy numbers herself) and former Mr. David, C. J. Harrington, Co-EmCee.

And now, before we announce the Twelve, Howard Neese, OP manager, will present a special Humanitarian Award to "Disco Grandma," honorary EOY for the second year. Thank you, Mary Thelma.

FANFARE! The TWELVE and their vote tallies:

10 PM SHOW THURSDAY NOV 30

MISS RIKI — ANGELA ARRON

HOT CHOCOLATE — MICHAEL ANDREWS

A GAY CHRISTMAS CAROL will be presented at the I/O Off Westheimer Theatre December 13-17 as adapted, re-written and produced by Norm Scott with Patrick G. Lamp directing. In the re-write Tiny Tim is not hung tiny, Fred is married to a heavy leather number and Bob Cratchit is a closet queen. The Cruise Camera photo (above) was taken at rehearsal. It should be a real hoot seeing Scrooge as a transvestite. Really!

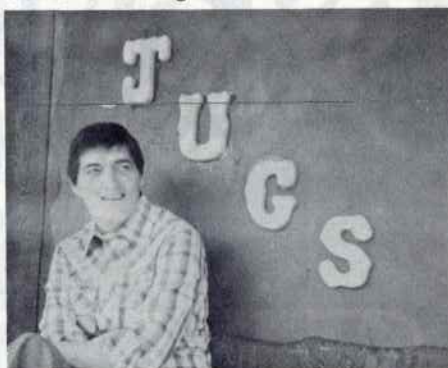

GALVESTON: "Dickens on the Strand" will usher in the holiday season on the island this December 9 with Robert's LaFitte presenting a bawdy 19th-century drag show continuous from 5pm. . . Mary's II is presenting 10pm drag every Friday on their new stage. . . and Tom Rose has opened a new lounge called the Guest House near the Galvez Hotel. The grand opening party will be Friday, December 1 with free beer and buffet starting at 7pm, so y'all come! Good luck, Tom!

HOUSTON: The Club Houston muscle pageant will be at Numbers Nov. 28, so start flexing. . . the popular Mustang Band plays next Tuesday night at the Brazos River Bottom. . . Mary's will host a "frisco party" this Sunday for Darryl Billiu. . . the Locker's annual Slave Auction Dec. 1 will also include a $100 scavenger hunt. . . the Tool Box is doing a hard hat special on Tuesday nights and a beer bust on Saturdays.

STREET SCENE: The hot grease is that Miss Dee's fifth annual Christmas party is coming to the "circuit". . . where it belongs!

ILLUSIONS '78: "A Dream Is A Wish Your Heart Makes" was the theme of last Sunday's super production at Numbers. Randy Zachery as a Geni granted Angie DeMarco three wishes which were fantasized into reality by the Ron Abshire Dance Corp, Michael Andrews and Rachel Wells. A trip into the '40's, to the time of Jesus, down into hell and back to Disneyland ran the gamut with Rachel stealing the show as Jesus Christ, Superstar, a number that won her the title of Miss Gay America in Atlanta. Illusions will be back next month!

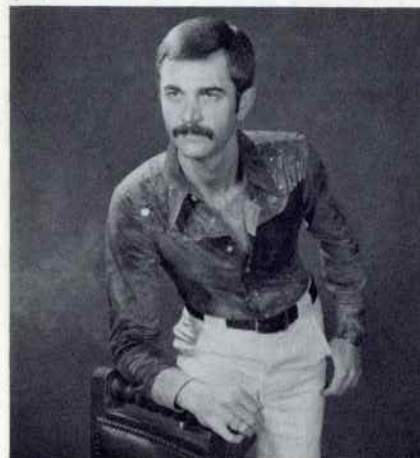

DALLAS: Comedia Del Austin will play at Aunt Tootsie's Cabaret this weekend and having seen this hilarious romp into Canterbury Tale spontaneity we highly recommend reserving tickets. . . CBS-TV show "Dallas," although in the bottom 20% of the ratings race, is the only network show to be renewed for the season's remainder as all other new CBS entries are being axed. . . the United Community Church of Dallas will host the Third General Conference of the United Christians Fellowship November 10-12. . . the wet jockey shorts contest at the Eighth Day on Wednesday nights is getting some hunky contestants to walk away with $50. . . time is running out to enter the Mr. Cowboy Texas contest at the Wild Crowd Saloon Nov. 29. . . and the Cruise Camera has returned from Jugs where Joe (photo below) is the popular and friendly manager of this busy Dallas women's bar! Right ON!

TIFFANY JONES is back in Texas. In her recent two-man show with Eartha Kitt at the Midnite Sun, the Texas Tornado gave us a taste of the gay white way by singing the song she sang as Lola in "Damn Yankees," the touching "What Makes A Man A Man." Welcome back, blonde bombshell!

CASEY STAR (photo above) is the new Miss Gay USA-Oklahoma, who was crowned Nov. 13 at the OP Tulsa. First runner-up was Mr. Tim and second runner-up was Lisa Goodman. Next, on the RM Productions sked is Miss Gay USA-Texas in early February, followed by Miss GAY USA-California on Feb. 25-26 in North Hollywood at the fashionable Mayflower Hotel

DOUG MOWERY is a hit at Baja Sam's! He has signed for a six-month engagement, coming direct from Delmonico's in the Galleria Plaza Hotel where he played since its opening a year ago. Doug (photo above) says a third album should be out this spring called "Live At Baja Sam's." Crowds which have been getting bigger nightly are responsive, the food is excellent, the drinks are hearty, the waiters are very good-looking, and the prices are moderate. Thank you!
