A&M's GSSO IS DENIED PETITION

COLLEGE STATION — The Gay Student Services Organization (GSSO) of Texas A&M has had their petition denied in a written ruling of May 19, by Judge Ross Sterling. In a surprise decision, the judge ruled that since GSSO was basically a social group of friendships and social affinities, it therefore could not be protected by the First Amendment.

Because Texas A&M does not recognize social groups such as fraternities, GSSO could not be recognized.

GSSO attorney Larry Sauer told TWT NEWS that they had argued that GSSO was a service organization—not social. GSSO found the decision a surprise since Sterling has had a reputation of ruling in favor of First Amendment protections.

GSSO told TWT NEWS that an appeal with the Fifth Circuit Court in New Orleans was the next legal move provided enough funding could be mustered.

A favorable ruling is eventually likely since three similar circuit courts have ruled favorably in the past in such cases, Sauer explained.

DALLAS TIMES-HERALD PRO-GAY EDITORIAL

The Dallas Times-Herald has responded to recent and continual violence in Oak Lawn with the following editorial entitled, "No Double Standard." TWT NEWS reprints the important newspaper's objective stand on the issue for state-wide consumption.

"We are pleased that Dallas Police Chief Billy Prince has promised to hold a series of meetings with homosexual leaders to 'establish a dialogue that will hopefully improve relations,' a development arising from charges of police harassment of the gay community," the editorial began.

"Charging the so-called 'straight' singles bars on Greenville Avenue are not subject to as many spot checks as establishments frequented by homosexuals, Dallas Gay Alliance president Don Baker says, 'Our group supports law enforcement as much as anyone else. But we want to make certain the laws are enforced equally throughout Dallas.'

"Chief Prince said he will review complaints that police officers are entering any one bar, or group of bars, four or five times a night without sufficient provocation of bonafide complaints. We welcome his review.

"We do not expect the Dallas police to give special treatment to the gay community or to gay establishments in the city. If there are more complaints and a higher crime rate directly related to certain liquor establishments, then the police obviously must spend more time patrolling those areas.

"But a double standard of law enforcement for different neighborhoods is unacceptable," the editorial concluded.

VOTE ON GAY CHURCH DELAYED TILL '83

NASHVILLE — The National Council of Churches was to have voted last week on the controversial question whether to officially admit the Metropolitan Community Churches of America. However, as reported by TWT NEWS last week, it was doubtful that the matter could have avoided being tabled.

Last Thursday, as expected, after a 45-minute debate the 260-member governing board of 32 Protestant and Orthodox churches that make up the generally liberal council, voted to defer for one year a vote on the matter.

It appears that the decision to delay voting until 1983 is a compromise rather than a defeat for MCC. "While disappointed, I feel very positive about the process," remarked Nancy Wilson, co-director of MCC. "Anything that keeps the door open is, from our point of view, a victory," she added.

Agreeing with Wilson, "This was a positive vote that indicates the seriousness of our intent to do justice to this question," concluded James Armstrong, president of the National Council of Churches, whose remarks came at the conclusion of the three-day semi-annual meeting.

METHODIST BISHOP SAYS GAY IS NO SIN

DENVER — "I clearly do not believe that homosexuality is a sin," Bishop Melvin E. Wheatley, Jr., said recently. The statement has rekindled a controversy in the United Methodist Church.

This week, in Los Angeles, a seven-member investigating committee was to meet to consider accusations made against Wheatley by groups in nearby Boulder, Colorado. They accused the Denver bishop of "disseminating doctrines contrary to the established standards of the church." The hearing committee will function as a grand jury, noted AP religion reporter, George W. Cornell.

The Boulder group has also accused Wheatley of malfeasance by appointing an avowed homosexual minister, Rev. Julian Rush. Rush, 45, had served for five years as Education Minister in the Boulder Church before disclosing that he was a homosexual. His statement stirred such a controversy that Rush was transferred to the Denver Church last November, to become an associate minister to community concerns of St. Paul's United Methodist Church.

Thirty members of the congregation recently issued their own letter, however, and praised the bishop "for his courage."

ing little leaguers to perform sexual acts with him and each other. The manager was held on two counts of indecency with a child and two counts of aggravated sexual abuse based on interviews with four youths. Dozens of others are suspected of having been involved in the man-boy sex escapades during the past two years while Lewis has been managing teams in Sharps-town in southwest Houston.

The story surfaced last week when a 12-year-old told his parents about going to Lewis' home with other boys at 6010 Elm and being shown pornographic magazines and movies in order to be enticed into performing sexual acts on each other or on Lewis. The youth said Lewis did not use force and that Lewis told the boys "they weren't doing anything wrong."

SOUTHWEST AIRLINES TO HIRE MORE MALES

DALLAS — U.S. District Judge Patrick Higginbotham has cleared the way for more males to be hired by Southwest Airlines. The judge ruled last week that 15% of the flight attendants and 12% of the ticket agents must be men by December 1, 1984.

The decision resulted, TWT NEWS noted, following a ruling last summer that the Texas-based airline was guilty of sex discrimination when after Gregory Wilson, 29, had filed a class action suit claiming the airline's women-only hiring practices violated the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

LINCOLN, NEBRASKA UNLIKE AUSTIN, TEXAS

LINCOLN — Both Lincoln, Nebraska and Austin, Texas are capital cities of their respective states. Both are also the homes of their respective state universities. Both are also clean, healthy, growing cities. But there the similarity ends, notes TWT NEWS.

Lincoln has no gay beach, no big gay discos, only one bookstore, only a handful of gay activities and no anti-discrimination laws protecting gays.

While Austin overwhelmingly voted last winter for equal housing protection for gays, Lincoln last week overwhelmingly rejected by a four-to-one margin a proposal to extend the same protection of local anti-discrimination laws to homosexuals. Lincolmites called it "The Gay Rights Amendment."

There is some good news, however, emanating from the Lincoln election as that mid-western city has now been thoroughly educated about gay life, reported Scott Stebelman, co-chair of the Lincoln Coalition for Gay and Lesbian Civil Rights. Although disappointed in the election, Stebelman stated that their primary goal had been accomplished—a goal "to educate the public."

"History is on the gay side," he added. "Had the voting been limited to those under age 40, the amendment probably would have won." And, Lincoln is becoming younger.

BLACK AND WHITE MEN ANTHOLOGY

SAN FRANCISCO — Gay Sunshine Press has told TWT NEWS that they will publish the first comprehensive anthology on Black and White men, with special emphasis on the Gay Black experience.

Poems, short stories, oral histories, essays, art work, photographs, and personal reminiscences—from the most scholarly to the most sexually explicit—are being sought for possible inclusion. Particularly welcome are submissions from Third World people dealing with Black-on-Black as Black-on-White life, TWT NEWS was informed.

The anthology will be edited by Mike Smith, founder of Black and White Men Together and editor of the B.W.M.T. Quarterly. All material with a self-addressed, stamped envelope for return, should be sent directly to Smith for consideration: Black and White Anthology, 279 Collingwood, San Francisco, CA 94114. The deadline for receipt of submissions is October 1, 1982.

TEXAS FEDERATION OF GAY ATHEISTS FORMS

AUSTIN — The Gay Atheist League of America has informed TWT NEWS of the formation and conglomeration of its Texas-based chapters into what is being called The Texas Federation of GALA.

Chapter leaders and members from Houston, Dallas/Ft. Worth and the newly-formed University of Texas Chapter at Austin, will meet in Austin, June 5, to discuss plans and goals for the new Federation. "Through a state-wide coalition of GALA chapters working together, Gay Atheists hope to be able to monitor better those violations of separation of church and state that directly or indirectly affect the rights of gay men and women across the state and nation," a spokesperson told TWT NEWS.

For further information about the proposed Texas Federation of The Gay Atheist League of America, write GALA/Houston, 3317 Montrose, Suite 1193, Houston, TX 77006, or write GALA/Austin, P.O. Box 8644, Austin, TX 78712.

CARL SAGAN SUPPORTS GAYS

SAN FRANCISCO — Carl Sagan, noted astrophysicist, and producer of the popular PBS-TV science program "Cosmos", has sent a letter of support to the Lesbian and Gay Associated Engineers and Scientists (LGAES) concerning the rejection by Science News of LGAES advertisement. Carl Sagan said in his letter, "In my opinion you have a just grievance, particularly from an organization ostensibly devoted to scientific objectivity."

Science News is published by Science Service Inc. a non-profit corporation. The ad was originally rejected by E.G. Sherburne, the publisher. The rejection was backed up by Glenn T. Seaborg, Nobel prize winner professor at U.C.-Berkeley who is the President of LGAES has launched a petition drive to prominent scientists and also prominent science fiction writers. The results of the recent petition drive to science fiction writers are being accumulated and will be released later. LGAES will then renew its petition drive to scientists.

Science News to date has refused to give any reasons for its rejection of LGAES ad. LGAES plans to continue its campaign to the end, Edward H. Sebesta, President-LGAES, told TWT NEWS.

RUMORS FLY ON RIGHTS NOMINEE

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Just when the gay community was basking in a rare victory, the withdrawal of anti-gay Rev. B. Sam Hart from consideration as a member to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, the Gay Rights National Lobby (GRNL) has informed TWT NEWS that his replacement is no better.

GRNL has just learned that Robert A. Destro, former General Counsel to the Catholic League on Religious and Civil Rights, is being considered for nomination to the commission.

Destro's personal views on justice for gays are unknown at this point. However, the Catholic League on Religious and Civil Rights, which has close association with the anti-gay Far Right journal The Wanderer, brought suit in the late 70s to try to block IRS tax-exempt status for gay rights organizations.

In a similar nomination fight earlier this session, the individual nominated was forced to withdraw because he had connections with the "Liberty Lobby," another Far Right groups which espouses anti-Jewish sentiment.

Steve Endean, executive director of GRNL, stressed to TWT NEWS that Destro's possible nomination to the rights post is only rumor and speculation. Endean indicated that GRNL, as the community's lobby at Congress, would carefully monitor developments and would work closely with Frank Scheuren, president of Dignity and a GRNL board member, and with others to research Destro's stands in case of his possible nomination.

GAY MAILING LIST SEIZED

CONCORD N.H. — Local police have seized the confidential gay mailing list of members of the Concord, New Hampshire Men's Group. The group's secretary, Herbert Clapp, said he was threatened with imprisonment "if he didn't turn over the list."

Clapp was working at the CNHMG office when two officers appeared and drove Clapp "back to his apartment, took the mail list and a copy of the February newsletter and brought them to their police chief. They returned twenty minutes later with the list saying that copies had been made for Chief Perry Eaton and for the State Police."

When asked why the gay list had been seized, TWT NEWS learned that "the unprincipled action came as a result of an investigation into the murder of a local gay man." If Houston police were to seize the GPC mailing list or the Dallas police to seize the DGA mailing list everytime there was a murder in these two large Texas gay communities, the lists would have been seized and updated almost monthly, an observer noted.

Fortunately, neither GPC or DGA has ever had a serious problem with the confidentiality of their mailing lists, as did the group in New Hampshire. Great care has always been the hallmark of the GPC and DGA to keep the lists secret.

Where is the New Hampshire list?

Chief Eaton told the Boston Gay Community News that he no longer had the list, but had returned it to Clapp. The State Police, however, according to Paul Barbadaro, an attorney in the New Hampshire Attorney General's office, are retaining their copy. Eaton also contends that Clapp voluntarily gave up the list. W

COMMENT

In this column, readers exchange ideas with other readers and with our editor in a public forum. Address all letters to: Comment, TWT, Montrose Ventures Building, 2205 Montrose, Houston, Texas 77006. All letters become the property of TWT and must be signed (if you don't wish your name printed, please specify). And PLEASE keep your letters short.

Round Three!

Editor: During the past three weeks, TWT has reported on the continuing debate between Ray Hill, George Barnhart and Gary Van Ooteghem concerning the court testimony over obscenity standards regarding a film which was confiscated from Houston's French Quarter by HPD vice. With the printing of the following letter, TWT bows out. Each party has had equal unedited time.

This is round three! If there is to be a round four, TWT suggests the three parties fight it out in a public debate.

Dear TWT:

In my many years of submitting copy to print media, it has never been my practice to take a self-defense stance. I would, however, welcome any invitation to a public forum that would allow Gary Van Ooteghem and I to discuss our different points of view on the subject of prosecution/defense testimony.

I would like to advise TWT readers that almost all of the "false, malicious gossip" credited to my origin, I read (parenthetically heard) for the first time in Gary's letter in TWT's COMMENT column last week.

Gary seems to have mistaken a court proceeding, that could result in the imprisonment of a projector operator, with an intellectual discussion of the relative popularity of manual manipulation of the sphincter muscle. If Gary's freedom had been on the line, the value of intellectual discussion would probably be less!

I note, however, from his aloof indignation, that Gary is not apt to manually manipulate the projectors or sphincters.

Ray Hill
Houston, Texas

Dear TWT:

That does it!

If GVO wants a fight (see Vol. 8, No. 9) (and probably loves it), who am I to deny pleasure?

Above tacky comments were thrown in just to get everyone's attention. Now trapped as you are, we shall continue . . .

Gary Van Ooteghem has a self-perpetuating persecution complex coupled with a driving compulsion to prove it to everyone!

That's it! It never occurred to me until now why Gary does all the insanely weird things we have all seen him do . . . (we who used to work for and with him know that experience most of all).

And in order to prove that persecution complex to everybody else, thus justifying his reason for believing that everybody is indeed persecuting him (as they must be doing) are doing so because he did something dumb and stupid to set himself up so everybody would persecute him—so he could go around telling everyone how persecuted he really is, so he could in turn justify his persecution complex . . . and so on.

Did anybody follow all of that?

Dear Gary:

News Flash! No longer do you have to feel obligated to wear the heavy, weary mantle of martyrdom. War torn and worn, it doesn't fit anymore (old as it is), it doesn't wear very well . . . and it doesn't get you into the best clubs in town anymore like it used to.

Relax! Lay the thing down!

And, you don't need to keep coming up with new material all the time to endeavor to keep the image up and alive.

Bless your heart, Gary, you are welcome to all the notions you ever want to have about your personal feelings regarding any and every aspect of sexuality in general, in gay sexuality in particular, in lifestyles and customs . . . and costumes. And in regard to your opinion about any and every sideline venture that sexuality and sexual activity per se may take a person in their natural, normal, healthy sexual adventures throughout life . . .

Your opinion, which (true to your complex) you have likened in similar nature to an asshole . . . is your own! No, hay! Nobody bothers a damn about your right to think all of that stuff ... it's okay!!!

Frankly, I think that those kinds of opinions are really an invasion into everybody's own private life ... and not anything I really have a right to have an opinion on ... but if you want to have an opinion about somebody else's trip ... well, go to it ... that's your own affair.

But, the other side of that "coin" is that when you take that viewpoint, by whatever names you may possibly call it ... by whatever judgmental standards you may arrive at that viewpoint ... by however you may base that viewpoint on facts or theories (or films you never even saw; just heard about from the prejudicial preparations of Vice Sergeant before a trial) and ... you set yourself up as an "expert witness" (utilizing the name recognition clout your community has given you) and you take a stand in a court of law for the prosecution—and against your brothers' rights to self-determination (both of his lifestyle and his viewing habits) so that your debilitating testimony directly affects the ongoing battle for the right to choose, in a negative way ... that's something else again! In order to do that Gary, you knowingly walked into that courtroom in full complicity with the Houston Vice Squad, so to place into public record (as barristers are fond of saying) remarks that paralleled or at least approved of the same sinister elements of censorship, discrimination, harassment, and denial of human rights, freedom of expression and freedom of choice with which this Houston Gay Community has had to deal with for many years ... and against which a community business and a well prepared line-up of educators, journalists, and community leaders and business people were fighting literally for their very lives!

Brother ... you simply just picked the wrong place, the wrong time, and the wrong forum to crow about all your attitudes! And if you can't see that, and react in a positive and constructive manner (without threatening legal castration and throwing a tantrum like a whipped brat) because a few stout hearts had the guts to call you on it ... what's the sense of wasting further energy discussing it?

And that's the name of that tune.

Lesbian Rape

Editor—The following letter was sent to the Houston Post regarding the rape of a lesbian. (See related TWT NEWS story on page 17 of last week's issue, Vol. 8, No. 9.)

Dear TWT:

I just read in Sunday's paper (4-25-83, P.10A) that a jury in Cincinnati found a man innocent of assaulting a lesbian because the jury agreed with the man that he was trying to 'help' her. Wow. I hope that not everyone in Cincinnati is inclined to perform such good works. I wonder if this decision will apply, by extension, to other crimes? ("Well, gee, your honor, I took that money to try to help the bankers, so they wouldn't have to waste time counting it all at the end of the day ...")

If this is representative of the logic and morals of Cincinnati residents, quick! Where can I buy a roadblock?

Best Music in Town

Dear TWT:

Over the past few months, my girlfriend and I and other straight couples have been to Numbers 2 to dance. After our third visit there, I would just like to say "thanks" for making us feel comfortable and welcomed in the club.

There haven't been any ugly remarks or impolite stares like we thought would happen. And vice-versa; we are not there to stare and comment, we are there for one thing: to dance. You have the best music in Houston. Your sound system, lights and music combined make for a super club.

Take it from this disco-lovin' straight boy—our clubs are boring compared to this.

So, the next time you notice some straight couples dancing at your club, don't mind us. We just happen to know where the BEST MUSIC in town is.

HEPATITIS UPDATE

by Don Ritz, M.Sc., M.T.

If you've ever had hepatitis once, can you get it again? Are there two or three different types of hepatitis? What are the main symptoms? Can you become immune to the disease? These and other questions are answered in the following medical essay prepared by Don Ritz, M.Sc., M.T., who recently graduated with a degree in Biology and is currently working as a medical technologist in Dallas testing patients daily for hepatitis. This, the fourth and final article on hepatitis, contains new information and further clarifies the clouded misconceptions about the disease.

Hepatitis, accurately defined as an inflammation of the liver, is a disease which may be caused by several sources, among which are viral, drug or chemically-induced, bacterial, parasitic and auto-immune. Viral hepatitis is the type that is most commonly referred to.

Type A hepatitis (formerly called "infectious hepatitis") is the most common form. It has been estimated that approximately 40% of the U.S. population have had type A hepatitis at some time in their life. Type A hepatitis is most common among children and young adults.

The incubation period for type A hepatitis ranges from 15 to 40 days. The active virus has been found in the feces 10 to 14 days before the onset of symptoms. Usually the virus has been completely eliminated from the patient by the time symptoms have begun to appear. Consequently, it is not true that one "is most contagious" when these symptoms are present.

The major pathway of infection is through the "oral-fecal" route. This means that the virus is passed in the feces. If proper hygiene and sanitation are not utilized, the infected person may contaminate anything that (s)he comes into contact with. Consequently, the virus may be passed through food which has been contaminated and not properly cooked. Of course, when you think of all the various aspects of sex and sex play that gay men engage in, you bet that the virus can be passed through sexual contact.

The main symptoms are fever, loss of appetite, pain on the right side, just below the rib-cage, nausea, diarrhea and jaundice. Several of the liver enzymes are also very elevated. The main function of the liver enzymes is catalysis (speeding up) of the many biochemical reactions in the body. Enzymes are not responsible for "filtering out impurities from the blood." While the liver is responsible for detoxifying many poisonous chemicals and drugs, it is the role of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood.

Antibody response occurs approximately four weeks after initial exposure to the virus. With the development of antibodies and with rest and proper diet for an adequate length of time (three to six months), the liver gains full recovery. Progression to chronic liver disease or to the carrier state has not been reported. Because of the development of the antibody, the patient does gain immunity to infection by the virus. This antibody remains detectable indefinitely, and hence, the individual remains immune. Mortality due to hepatitis A has been estimated at 0 to 1%.

If a person is exposed to the type A hepatitis virus, and (s)he does not know if (s)he has the antibody to the virus, gamma globulin may be given. While receiving the gamma globulin shot will not guarantee prevention of infection by the virus, it has been estimated to have an 80% effective rate. Consequently, it's much better to take the shot and increase your odds of not getting the disease.

Type B hepatitis (previously known as serum hepatitis) results from the hepatitis B virus. Type B hepatitis was previously best known as a form of post-transfusion hepatitis or as a hepatitis associated with the use of illicit injectable drugs. However, over the past few years, it has been learned that infection can be acquired through many other means. Persons at greatest risk are the sexual contacts of individuals with hepatitis B. The active virus has been found in most body fluids, including saliva, semen, blood and cervical secretions.

With the exception of the symptoms it produces, hepatitis B is quite unlike hepatitis A. The hepatitis B virus incubates for a 10- to 12-week period before producing symptoms. Although the symptoms for type B are basically the same as type A hepatitis, they are usually more severe and prolonged.

Complete recovery from hepatitis B occurs in 75 to 85% of all patients. This results in the development of several different antibodies to the hepatitis B virus. The liver has complete recovery, and the patient is immune to infection by the same strain of type B virus as long as (s)he maintains the antibody known as the "hepatitis B surface antibody (HBsAb)." It used to be believed that the HBsAb remained for the person's lifetime, and hence (s)he was capable of having a lifetime resistance to that strain of hepatitis. It has recently been learned that the HBsAb does disappear many years after recovery, and the person no longer retains their immunity. It is possible to gain a second infection to hepatitis B while one does have the HBsAb. This, however, has only been found when an individual has been infected by a different genetic strain of the hepatitis B virus. Occurrence of a second infection of this nature is extremely rare.

Five to 10% of the people infected by hepatitis B virus maintain the actively replicating virus for as long as six months to several years. This group does risk the possibility of chronic liver disease, but the majority have only mild, asymptomatic infections. Mortality due to hepatitis B is estimated at 1-10%.

Recovery from hepatitis B is similar to recovery from type A. It requires much rest, proper diet and minimizing anything which might be considered "foreign" to the body, e.g., drugs. It is necessary to emphasize the importance of lots of rest, proper nutrition and no drugs or alcohol for a good length of time after you feel that you have completely recovered. You can't exercise your liver like your muscles. When your liver is not diseased and is functioning properly, it really performs some miraculous tasks. However, when it's diseased, thousands of liver cells are destroyed and have to be regenerated. If you return to a routine of trying to function on four to five hours of sleep, start taking drugs or drinking alcohol too soon, you can damage your liver a lot more than what the virus could have. There are actually more cases of cirrhosis of the liver (which is permanent) resulting from hepatitis and people who try to do too much too soon, than there is from alcoholism. If your doctor tells you to go home, stay flat on your back, eat a high protein, high carbohydrate, low fat diet, and nothing else, you bet that is exactly what he means. Do it for the length of time he tells you to. Relapses of hepatitis do occur when the liver is not allowed to fully recover, and relapses are much more severe.

If a person should come into contact with a person with type B hepatitis, a globulin shot, specific for type B hepatitis, may be given. This shot gives the individual antibodies against the disease and has been very effective when administered soon enough. Recently the Food and Drug Administration approved a vaccine against hepatitis B. The vaccine was released for availability to high risk groups. Sexually active gay men have been classified in a high risk category for type B hepatitis. This vaccine is worth investigating. Ask your doctor for information concerning the vaccine.

A third type of viral hepatitis has recently been described. It is named "non-A, non-B hepatitis." It has earned this name due to the fact that the individual has hepatitis, which appears to be viral in nature, but cannot be identified as type A or type B. Non-A, non-B hepatitis is typically associated as a post-transfusion hepatitis. Nearly 90% of post-transfusion hepatitis cases have been identified as non-A, non-B. Currently, very little information is known about non-A, non-B hepatitis.

All three types of viral hepatitis are similar in the symptoms they produce. Likewise, they are all similar in that some individuals, who are actively carrying the virus, may be completely void of symptoms. It has been estimated that as many as 50% of those who have had type B were totally asymptomatic. These asymptomatic individuals develop antibodies to the virus, and become immune to the particular virus, without ever knowing that they have had the disease. Both types A and B hepatitis may be transmitted through sexual contact, and both types are very common among male homosexuals.

When we think about the future of America and our own place in it, many of us are paralyzed with fear, or totally confused about where to begin to contribute positive change and progress. The first step is to realize we have choices, individually and collectively, and that there are, therefore, alternate futures based on those choices. With the ever-growing communications networks used by the public, business and government (telephone and television), we can receive and soon transmit feedback on issues and reach a consensus for action faster and more effectively. This democratic ability to voice our choice-decisions is part of the note of cautious optimism Paul Hawken, James Ogilvy and Peter Schwartz strike in futures research documented in Seven Tomorrows. They provide seven possible scenarios or alternatives that reflect the presence and result of possible choices available to us. More importantly, the authors pinpoint the link and connection our choices have with the future we will live in, showing that we have power and influence to control our lives and that there is hope for a better future.

The research in future studies this book is based on was done by the Stanford Research Institute International. The purpose was to provide realistic goals, plans of action and input to the public and, based on our awareness of these alternatives, flex our decision-making muscles and exercise our options. As they state, "[their purpose] is to increase awareness of potential crises that face humankind and to highlight the role of human choices in determining the future." The scenarios draw on the sciences of statistics, systems thinking, politics, social structure analysis and planning for their construction. Each scenario is an extrapolation of trends in several fundamental areas in the economy and society, written in a somewhat fictionalized style giving color and interest to otherwise dry recitations.

These "driving trends" are in reference to energy, climate, food, the economy and values. The first three concern mostly world resources and climate, and the last two refer to the politics, religions and ethics that provide the broad criteria for social (and otherwise) decisions. The different scenarios are based on variations of these factors, some probable and some seemingly improbable. The "wild card" effect is necessary because factors and combinations of factors occur without warning, such as a new energy source, accidental or purposeful destruction of food or crop-producing land, or the complete domination of the socio-political scene by fervent religious fanatics creating a repressive theocracy such as in Iran. The tone and style is not overly technical and is not filled with technical jargon that would discourage the reader from continuing.

In their summary and conclusion, the authors find that certain broad pre-conditions must exist to form a more stable and growing future. As society becomes more aware of the diversity of its people, and its conflicting needs and priorities, society must accommodate this with compromise and trade-offs. It must recognize the contribution each group can make and integrate them into a new social consensus and fabric. More and more the economic and survival needs of society require the cooperation of all groups for continued health and growth. Even more than ever the need for gay people to gain respect and legitimacy as another productive input for the future is clear. The best point of Seven Tomorrows is that we can make the future better, we do have power to influence it, and everyone's contribution is needed. W

*Long Live the

by Linda Parks

As the human species seeks to develop a society where the female can take her place as an equal with a male, it might be interesting to take a look at another society that has a unique system whereby the female not only controls, but also does all the work. That society is inhabited by bees.

If anyone questions the logic of the beehive's operation, it can only be judged by the successful manner in which it works. There are never any uprisings or rallies to change the way things are done, as it is merely accepted as the way of life. And the way of life dictates that the female bee actually works her life away, while the male bee, called a drone, does absolutely nothing except mate with the queen bee to reproduce the species. The only drawback to this seemingly desirable fate is the fact that after the drone has done his "job," he is then killed by the females, known as neuters. And so a short, but perhaps happy life is ended after the male bee, who does not even have a stinger with which to defend himself, has impregnated the queen.

The queen, being the solitary ruling figure in the hive, is catered to and cared for by the female bees. She will lay as many as 2,000 eggs a day, and these eggs are cared for by the females. The queen, being the only perfect bee capable of laying eggs, holds the highest position and most regarded role.

It's interesting to note that the working females manufacture what is called "Bee-bread" that they feed to the young bees. An adult bee dines on honey.

You might wonder how bees end up with always ONLY one queen. They figured this out too, in their plan of things. When a queen dies, a young working bee three days old is selected, its cell enlarged, its food changed to "royal Jelly" (a specially produced nourishment used to create only a queen bee), and it grows into a queen. It is not known how the lucky bee is selected to become a queen, as the bees keep this a secret.

Bees even thought about over-population of a hive, and thus, when a hive becomes overstocked, a new colony is sent out, under the direction of a queen bee. A colony may range from 10,000 to 50,000 bees.

So when you break it all down, bees in their scheme of things make slaves of females, use males as sex-objects only, and set a single female up as "Lord and Master."

I do not believe that the human species desires to follow the example of bees; however, one might see some characteristics in a bee's society that resemble the human being's past way of life, where the female has been expected to remain in subjection to the male, and in certain conditions, the male has enjoyed a sexual freedom above that of the female. The differences being that human females have not started killing the males after the sexual act of reproduction is completed, that human females are not armed to do so, while males are defenseless, and that human females are not willing to be "neutered" in order to provide a ruler with the distinction of being "perfect."

However, the human species is changing its society's attitudes and way of life: no longer is the female willing to marry in order to produce a child, no longer is the female willing to do all the "dirty" work, while the male is regarded as superior, and no longer is the female willing to simply produce the "bee-bread" and feed the young. The human female is a far-cry from a bee, and yet, she might look closely at the bee to examine its way of life and make a fresh start at creating a human society where the female is held in mutual respect with the male, and where no individual or group is set apart, to be forced by tradition or law, to engage in activities or set in standards contrary to individual pride and self-esteem.

To bee or not to bee—I do NOT want to be a bee!

THE ROAD WARRIOR

Reviewed by Joseph Michael

DON'T BOTHER! But if you liked Heavy Metal, you'll probably like this. The title of the film hints how violent this successor to the Kung Fu/bang-bang bunk truly is. It's a primitive collage of ideas from other violent films of untalented quality. As Gilda Radner would say, "What are you trying to do? Make me sick?"

The overly-exaggerated characters and leather costumes are all too reminiscent of the art by Frazetta and some local bars I yawn to mention. However, these are the redeeming qualities of this film! So, thank you, Warner Bros., for giving my eyes something to feast on while I was about to fall asleep.

The plot is simple: Good guys have gasoline and the bad guys want it. Good guys decide to run away with the gasoline. Long chase scene with oil tanker that is supposed to have the gas. It turns over, some 25 deaths-by-force later, and (surprise! surprise!) we find out it was really holding sand. The bus with the gas took off in some other direction earlier. Probably to find another movie to be in. Hard to believe that it took three men to write this thing that has next to no dialogue or brains.

Mel Gibson ("the good guy") in The Road Warrior

It's a lie that this plastic fiasco was "strikingly original." This film could be aptly described as Smokey And The Bandit Meet The Hells Angels, minus scenery. And it makes me wonder what the drug trade in France is like if it won a grand prize for the science fiction film festival: it makes no point as sci fi normally does. Then again, my flyer didn't say what grand prize it won. Worst film?

As one viewer summarized the 90-minute experience, "A trashy film—of epic quality." I couldn't have said it better.

Reviewed by Harry Deutsch

It seems as if most any season, there is this one movie which captivates an audience without special effects, without renowned box-office headliners, but with real-life people in credible, everyday situations and the end result is refreshing all the way through. Two other pics that come to mind which sported such a crisp, upbeat outlook are Break- ing Away and My Bodyguard.

And now there's Diner. Written and directed by Barry Levinson this Diner leaves you hungry for more. The tale is set in the late '50s. We witness five young men who love to hang out at a greasy eatery to grab some grub and take part in loose and lively bullshit sessions. The main topic, of course, is sex, followed by making out, followed by how to pick up the chick of one's choice and get lucky.

One of the characters, Boogie (played low-key and highly convincingly by Mickey Rourke), is a gambler. He challenges the other boys into a bet that he will be able to get a beautiful blonde to put her hand on his most favorite organ on the first date. It is 1959, mind you. Boogie succeeds in a packed movie house with the help of a medium order of popcorn as his most crucial prop. Kevin Bacon, a fine actor with a loony grin, plays a wild and crazy guy of the gang who is most of the time on booze and acting out some zany stunts; for instance, one night a traditional Christmas manger scene gets a new twist as he takes over the leading role in the crib, clad only in his boxer shorts. Then there is Steve Guttenberg as Eddie, the football nut who is fixing to get married but demands that his future wife first pass a comprehensive trivia test to demonstrate her football expertise and compatability. Daniel Stern is excellent as Shrevie, the only one in the group who is already married, but still feels more at home and much more at ease in the company of his friends.

None of the characters in Diner is one-dimensional. It is easy to feel for them and laugh with them. Diner is a film about buddyhood, about the closeness of young men before they enter the next stage that society holds ready. The guys crack jokes about marriage, yet they know that this is where they are headed and somehow they sense they will always be looking back with sentimental envy to their days at the diner.

Her "official" movie debut is in the current film Fighting Back where she co-stars with

ALL RIGHT ALREADY DEPT — Rocky and Rocky II were HUGE box-office successes in, respectively, 1976 and 1979, and, by the time you read this, Rocky III should be cleaning up as well. Rocky III reunites, once again, the original cast of Sylvester Stallone, Talia Shire, Burt Young, Carl Weathers and Burgess Meredith. In this third and final episode of the "trilogy," Rocky Balboa is seen trying to maintain his World Heavyweight title while contending with other personal and professional problems. Actually, the script has been something of a secret, but the filmmakers have promised that the film contains a number of surprises in both character and plot.

Tom Skerritt and Michael Sarrazin in a tale about a group of people trying to counter urban violence. Stage and film director Hal Prince once said of Patti LuPone: "She has that hypnotic quality of great performers." It's still probably too early to tell if Patti can make it in films, but Fighting Back gives us the opportunity to see a remarkable actress whose work has run the gamut from Restoration comedy to "Don't Cry for Me Argentina."

MAKING TRACKS DEPT — Quincy Jones, still basking in accolades and good record sales of his The Dude album, is currently producing the follow-up to Michael Jackson's phenomenal Off the Wall album. Already completed is a duet with Jackson and Paul McCartney. Also, Quincy reportedly has been meeting with film director Steven Spielberg about a "joint" project. How many of you know that Quincy Jones used to be Leslie Gore's producer? Can I see a show of hands? ... One of the fastest rising newly-released albums is the elegantly packaged cast album for Broadway's Dreamgirls. That's the current hit show that chronicles the career of a "fictitious" black singing group called the "Dreamettes" aka the "Dreams." Three guesses who the show is loosely based on. (If you guessed either "Diana," "Mary" or "Flo," then you're 1/3 correct.) Dreamgirls was directed and choreographed by Michael Bennett, the genius also responsible for A Chorus Line. ... If anyone cares, the original members of the Vanilla Fudge rock group have reunited and are looking for a recording contract. ... Heart's new album is Private Audition. ... Millie Jackson's new single is a live cover of Rod Stewart's "Passion." ... Marshall Crenshaw's new album, Marshall Crenshaw, is something of a throwback to Buddy Holly and rock-a-billy, and it even has a few Phil Spector touches, but it's also one of the freshest sounding debut albums in a long time. Check it out if you like simple but powerful rock 'n' roll. Incidentally, Crenshaw has toured around the country in various companies of Beatlemania. His role: John Lennon.

"Simple but powerful" Marshall Crenshaw

IN MEMORIAM — This column has been somewhat remiss lately by neglecting to mention the passing of some SHOWBIZ notables, but I hope this brings us up to date. Character actor Warren Oates (In the Heat of the Night,

Warren Oates in The Border

The Border) died April 3 at the age of 53. Lenny Baker, who won a Tony for Broadway's I Love My Wife and starred in the film Next Stop Greenwich Village, died April 12 at age 37. Don Wilson, long-time sidekick and announcer for Jack Benny, died April 25 at age 81. On the same day, Celia Johnson, a distinguished British actress best remembered as female lead in the 1945 film Brief Encounter, died at age 73. Character actor Tom Tully, a veteran of numerous TV shows and films, nominated for a Supporting Oscar in 1954 for The Caine Mutiny, died April 27 at age 85. Hugh Marlowe, an actor remembered for such films as The Day the Earth Stood Still and All About Eve, died May 2 at age 71. Helmut Dantine, an actor who was frequently typecast in WW II films as a sadistic Nazi, died May 3 at age 63. Hugh Beaumont, best remembered as Beaver Cleaver's father in the Leave It To Beaver TV series, also died recently. And just about everyone in the recording industry was shocked at the untimely death on May 8 of Neil Bogart, founder of Casablanca Records and Boardwalk Records. Bogart, an entrepreneur and starmaker, was instrumental in establishing the careers of Donna Summer, Kiss and the Village People, among other acts too numerous to list. He was 39.

River Oaks Center, 1988 W. Gray, Houston, TX, 526-4327

The SL-2000 is the first Betamax Video Cassette Recorder that's actually small enough to fit comfortably in a bookcase. But don't let its smallness and lightness fool you.

It has a whole lot more than size going for it. Like BetaScan high speed picture search, Swing Search in normal and slow speeds, a Linear Time Tape Counter. And the Tuner/Timer has a wireless Remote Commander.

With the Tricon Color Camera, you can take home movies away from home with instant replay right through the eyepiece.

All of which makes the Sony Betamax Component System the biggest Sony value ever.

Come in soon and see how easy it is to pick one up.

THEATRE

by Dean Malone

Not one to "go overboard" concerning the art of mime, I went to opening night of Mummenschanz at the Tower Theatre (Houston) with a somewhat skeptical outlook. Was I ever shocked. This is one of the most unique, unusual and entertaining performances I have ever seen. That's saying a lot for there to have been nothing said.

Mummen means "game" in German and Schanz means "chance." This makes the concept of Mummenschanz most remarkable. Instead of the usual whiteface, the cast (consisting of three persons) wear various masks of which you've never seen the likes. This comes from Swiss history where medieval soldiers wore masks while playing games of chance, thus concealing their emotions.

The performers use various props

(usually worn on their heads) to tell a story. At first the story is not quite clear, but quickly acknowledged after characters and objects of varying intensity are formed through rhythmic movements and the bizarre use of inanimate objects such as paper bags, geometric shapes and even rolls of toilet paper. Believe me, you've never seen them used this way. The stories emerging from these objects are what really throws you off. I won't spoil it for you by going into minute detail, but you won't believe what tales can be pulled from a simple bag or block.

For a visual experience you've never had so naturally, Mummenschanz is a must. The production plays through June 6 at the Tower Theatre.

Remember: what's mime is mime, and what's yours isn't.

VISUAL TRAVESTIES

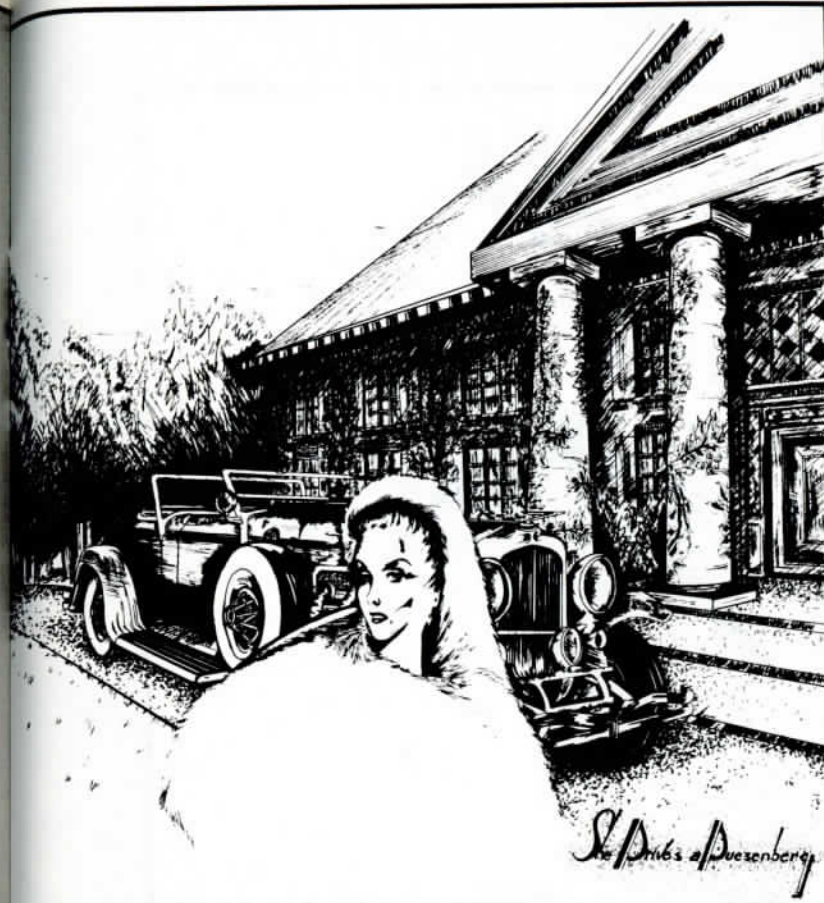

ink and watercolor
by Mark Ferrin

I find it very difficult to think of myself as an artist. I don't want to take myself that seriously. I am very sensitive to those folks who consider life a very serious business. But then, I don't participate. I just draw.

I haven't the vaguest idea what they meant or mean, but that's not the point. I thought that if I could make them look exactly the way they did in person, then somehow the whole idea would make sense. It never did. ➤

Drawing has always been a form of exorcism for me. By expressing my attitudes of hedonism, the noise in my head is confined to a dull roar, making it, all in all, a far nicer place to be. I thoroughly enjoy seeing someone else react to what I do. And yes, it would be very nice to make a career of this. However, I am only just starting to learn. ➤

But then, the technique an artist uses is not nearly as important as the vision he originally saw. As long as I can go on learning, that's really all that's important. There's a moral there somewhere, I'm almost sure...

BIG D TEA — Tia Karr has won the Miss Fitzhugh North pageant with Angela Dior as first runner-up and Lady Vashti as second runner-up. Incidentally, Rod Comdey is Fitzhugh North's new show director.

LEE PARK — Last Sunday night six straights jumped and rolled three gays at Lee Park in Dallas during a Radio Q-102 rock concert. DPD trailed the six to Church's Fried Chicken but were unable to fry them on any charges because they claimed the gays had solicited them for sex. However, HOT TEA has learned grievances will be filed with DPD Internal Affairs.

CLINIC BREAK-IN — Between 7pm last Sunday and 2pm Monday, the Montrose Clinic, through its back door, was burgled of office equipment, new microscope and stereo. No drugs or patient records, fortunately, were disturbed. No leads at press time. Witnesses are asked to contact Dick Adams, (713) 528-5531.

HOT TEA by Chuck

QUEEN'S POINT — Recent heavy rains in the D/FW metroplex have flooded Lake Dallas. Charlie Hott and Howard Metz flew a reconnaissance mission over the splash day site and reported to HOT TEA that Queen's Point was still under water! Consequently, Dallas' Splash Day has been officially rescheduled for July 4. Didn't this happen last year?

DALLAS DIRT — Over $1,000 was raised for Karposi's Sarcoma at the recent Taxi-Sum-Sundance sleaze show which was sponsored by the Wrangler Motorcycle Club . . . Houston's Ron Yost, Bobby Konrad, Lord Mac and Mike Macadory treked north for the important fund raiser . . . Peebles will move to Lemmon Avenue and Throckmorton in late June . . . the first three days of June will mark the three-day grand opening of the new Golden Unicorn which Dale Howard and Ray Martin have resurrected proudly from the ashes of Alcatraz . . . and the wet sand of Queen's Point has been dried out and sifted onto JR's floor for this weekend's indoor splash-trash day!

WEAR WHITE — Tale of two cities! If in Houston, wear white to show off your tan at the Galleon's "white night" party . . . If in Dallas, wear white to Oak Lawn Transfer's "fantasy in white" party. Both break-outs into summer are this Memorial Sunday!

AUSTIN — Dirty Sally's of Houston is coming to take a bite out of the hill country apple on Rio Grande . . . contrary to rumor, Stud Lounge remains what it has always been . . . get goosebumped all over this Sunday night at the Boathouse when Debra Dejean sings her hit "Goosebumps" and more . . . the Private Cellar presents a Best Tan Contest this Sunday night after hippy hollow hour . . . the Mustang Band plays for urban cowboys next to Red River's new cured dance floor this Memorial weekend . . . and, if you've never been to Texas' only gay nude beach, Hippy Hollow on Lake Travis, there is no better time than this busy Memorial weekend to discover how you, too, can tan your white buns! ➤

NEW BOOKSTORE — A new cruise palace has opened on Houston's Gulf Freeway off the Howard exit. It's two wide screens are certain to become the Talk of the Town—which, by the way, is actually the bookstore's name. HOT TEA's East Texas source has disclosed that it's huge with 26 booths plus assorted alleged pornographic goodies.

KIDNAPPING — Last weekend Naomi Sims and Jahonau Reis kidnapped the mouthy Brandi West and deposited her at the posh Galvez Hotel in Galveston. But it was wasted tip money as Miss West chose instead to spend the night face down in the sand on a nearby beach—or, so she has been told! Yes, Brandi has decided to leave Texas for the summer! Watch for a sealed letter in next week's COMMENT column.

HOUSTON HUMMINGS — If you ever wondered if the hot guy in apartment X69 was gay, you found out last Sunday when you saw him dancing at Chases among the swarming 1400 Richmond Party . . . Bob Williams and the Trail Riders really had the honky tonk dancing at full throttle at last Sunday's Hi-Neighbor Party at EJ's . . . to show her appreciation for last weekend's surprise birthday party at The Ranch, Saigon Sally's authentic Chinese cooking class begins this Sunday as you get to eat the preparations.

CLASS OF '62 — TWT's Chuck and Jim were not prepared for the Love-In at Miss Charlotte's last Sunday when the Dick Clark of Drew Street ordered them front and center into the twist contest.

The American Bandstand applause meter, however, scored highest for Dallas' Robert Lopez and Victor Garcia in their 60's grease attire (see CRUISE CAMERA photo). What happened to Chuck and Jim? Well, they were disqualified for leaving the highschool dance to retrieve the TWT-MOBILE before it was whisked off by a well wisher in a tow truck.

TOWER THEATRE — Performing the wide gamut of "Themes from James Bond" to "America," last Saturday night's concert at Houston's Tower Theatre by the Montrose Symphonic Band was thoroughly electrifying. Variety spiced the program with a surprise debut of the Bone Sisters on trombones and a double applauded encore of patriotic music iced with flags and batons. Conductor Andy Mills' sister presented flowers, Disco Grandma added her grace, and we all sang "America" together. The only flaw was low attendance. As Mother Ruth so aptly told HOT TEA, "It's too damn bad that this theatre is half empty when across the street they're packed and spending more than the price of a ticket." Yes, Ruth is still alive and talking . . . and the Montrose Symphonic Band is still getting better and better! In fact, they may be invited to Carnegie Hall!!

WILLS WILTS — Perhaps it's a trend. Last week Kelly Marie cancelled Village Station and The Copa. This week, Viola Wills has opted to play Florida rather than Numbers in the green paper chase for bigger bucks! Not surprising since Miss Wills also just recently cancelled her Warehouse 28 performance in Nashville. In show-biz circles, it's called "breaking your contract." Through quick maneuvering, Numbers has replaced Viola with not one—but two live acts!

CHERI & SMOKEY — Cheri and Smokey Robinson were supposed to appear together at Houston's Arena; but after cancellation—yes another star cancellation story, folks—the Copa snagged the group, Cheri, who will be on stage this Friday. Instant live entertainment!

MDA CARNIVAL — It was Rudy who was the first to dunk Briar Patch's Jerry Kauffman in the Marion Coleman Cooler of icy water at last Sunday's fund raiser in Houston . . . others baptised unmercifully included Rick, Ron, and Marion herself . . . San Antonio's handsome blue-eyed Mr. Gay Rodeo candidate, Bill Rowlands swept in from the Alamo City with the Snuffy's sponsorship . . . also hawking the booths was Different Drum's personable Ron Martin . . . The Texas winners for the Mr., Ms. and Miss Gay Reno Rodeo will be selected at Houston's Holiday Inn on Sunday, June 6. ►

FORT WORTH — After being closed for remodeling, the Come Along Inn reopens this weekend as the city's only gay honky-tonk . . . the dreaded Phallus returns to her hometown for a Memorial Day OP show . . . Dena Kaye continues to pack the houses of 651 and Korral . . . also on the acclaimed list is TLC's new piano bar . . . the bottom line is in on MCC's fund raiser at the Lumber Company and it's a whopping $1,430 . . . condolences to Gordon Mason of the Corral on the recent passing of his father . . . no, Big Mama did not throw that drink that hit TWT photographer, Al Macareno—it was another illuminary who zinged that fit of passion . . . and, the legendary Raina Lea and her gay dance theatre group have triumphantly returned from two nights in Longview—next stop: Omaha!

COWTOWN CAPER — Dateline: Fort Worth (more specifically, downtown). For those seeking out young male fresh flesh around the "quarter palaces" beware of three Anglo, long-haired males driving a brown Toyota. Their invitation to "get high and party-hardy" can lead to the use of knives, loss of coins and jewels, plus bruises as a local bartender testified to HOT TEA!

MUGGINGS — It has been disclosed to HOT TEA that three black men have been mugging gays in Montrose around Pacific Avenue. Broken ribs, stolen billfolds, black eyes, bruises to the neck, hitting with lead pipes and long lonely chases on foot in the night are the adjectives which describe this latest outburst on Montrose mayhem. Two victims, Steve and Gary, said they "now carry shotguns" for protection! Be alerted.

NAME DROPPER — Jim Smith of Houston will manage the new Dirty Sally's Apartment in Austin . . . no new leads in the Dallas murder of John McDonald—not to be confused with another John McDonald also of Dallas who remains very much alive and well at The Hidden Door . . . Marvin Sievers has departed Houston's Fitness Exchange to manage the Dallas club as Larry Rigsby has moved on and out . . . good luck . . . and run-off candidates Larry Evans and Frumencio Reyes will appear at a HGPC-GHC political rally this Sunday afternoon at Mary's. TWT

IGBO THIS WEEKEND

DALLAS — The Oak Lawn Bowling Association is set to welcome the second annual International Gay Bowling Organization (IGBO) Championship Tournament this Memorial weekend.

Teams from Atlanta, Chicago, Seattle, San Diego, Denver, Honolulu, Toronto, New Orleans, New York City, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Corpus Christi, Houston and Dallas will participate, TWT SPORTS was told.

On Friday afternoon, May 28, there will be a beer bust at the Wooden Nickel followed at 8:00pm by registration at the Round-Up Saloon.

On Saturday, May 29, competition begins at 9:00am at Bronco Bowl, 2600 Ft. Worth Avenue, and continues until 8:00pm.

On Sunday, May 30, tournament bowling resumes at Bronco Bowl at 9:30am and concludes at 3:00pm.

On Memorial Day, Monday, May 31, there will be a country and western teatime, beer bust and free hamburger post-tournament get-together at the Round-Up.

The four-day event has been billed as the biggest gay bowling tournament to ever be held—and Dallas is the host city!

CONNORS RESIGNS

HOUSTON — Robb Connors has disclosed to TWT SPORTS of his resignation as Assistant Director of Special Projects for MSA effective May 19. In his resignation, Connors cited his lover, peers and certain board members who were "not in harmony with my decision to resign."

Connors told TWT SPORTS his duties "had been compromised." The untimely delay of the distribution of the first quarterly MSA newsletter and untimely scheduling for an appointment with parades, etc., regarding the Gay Pride Week MSA float, were listed as reasons.

Connors added that he wished to maintain his position as secretary of the Eddie Chavez Mixed Bowling League where "my responsibilities were respected and acknowledged by my reelection."

SOFTBALL RAINOUT

HOUSTON — Because of last Sunday's downpour, all MSA softball games were rained out. "The games will be made up throughout the season," Jerry DeSale told TWT SPORTS.

No games are scheduled for this Memorial weekend since MSA softball had scheduled a holiday. After two weeks of being idle, games will resume on June 5 and 6.

CHAVEZ LEAGUE

HOUSTON — In the Eddie Chavez Mixed Bowling League, these are the standings as released to TWT SPORTS by Robb Connors.

1) For A Few Daddy's More, 2) Kindred Spirits and 3) The Rockettes. Over 200 game leaders were Louis Schneider (215) and Richard King tying Bob Schulman (202).

MSA BOWLING

HOUSTON — Steve McConaughy leads the league on May 21, having bowled both high series (623) and high games (234 and 236). Other series leaders were Louis Schneider's 605 and P. Dalton's 603. Dalton's 230 placed second for top singles followed by Phil Blakeway's 224.

Division A standings: 1) Daddy's; 2) Barnyard Hoers; and 3) EuroTan.

Division B: 1) Five Easy Pieces; 2) Bushwackers; and 3) EGS Protein Supplement.

Division C: 1) Hole; 2) Black & Blue Balls; and 3) Slow Hand.

Division D: 1) Happy Trails; 2) Gator-Aide; and 3) Galleon One, reported Sam Immordino to TWT SPORTS.

THE TWT MACHINE

As every good gay citizen of Texas has known for nearly a decade, the letters "TWT" have always stood for This Week in Texas—the name of the magazine you are now reading at this very moment.

Thousands of these little books called TWT are printed each week with the TWT symbol on the cover. Additionally, many readers display our silver and black TWT bumper stickers on their automobiles. Hundreds more wear t-shirts and tank tops emblazoned with our TWT emblem. Yes, gay citizens know about TWT.

Even the government knows about it, as the TWT emblem was registered as our trademark with the U.S. Patent Office years ago.

We would have thought KPRC-TV,

Channel 2 in Houston, would have known it, too, since newsperson Paula Zahn and her news cameras were in our offices less than a year ago filming a story on the GPC.

We even thought, perhaps, Sugarland Bank might have known about TWT, too, as they have several real-live gay customers—yes, folks, actual homosexuals actually bank at Sugarland State Bank—which brings us to our enthralling, but amazing, little-known story, friends and neighbors.

It seems that on the morning of Monday, May 10, TWT Magazine received several telephone calls from several gay customers of Sugarland Bank telling us, "You won't believe what they're doing out here . . . Channel 2 is in the lobby filming a story on the new TWT

MACHINE!"

"TWT machine?" we asked.

"Yes, it gives the time, weather and temperature. I've been gay all my life and have always believed that our 'gay bible,' TWT, stood for This Week in Texas. Now all of a sudden that's been shattered by a machine which tells me TWT also stands for time, weather and temperature."

At first, we were typical non-believers, but after receiving our third phone call, we began wondering, "Maybe there really is a TWT machine. Let's watch Channel 2 tonight and see if this is for real," our art director passionately suggested.

Later that day: It's 5pm. We turn on our very own TV set. Sure enough, there's ace weatherman Doug Johnson, who "laughs a lot, but really is a very good weatherman," anchor Ron Stone has told us, on the tube, actually showing video tape of an honest-to-goodness, real-live TWT machine.

"My God, it's for real! There really is a TWT machine," exclaims our editor.

The next day: In great anticipation, the mail arrives and tucked neatly away in a secret envelope are our new TWT machine telephone stickers, which we all hurriedly stick to our telephone machines so we can dial the new TWT machine at a glance.

The next day: Page 9 of the Missouri City newspaper, The Mirror, arrives under secret cover, delivered by an actual homosexual living in Missouri City. The headline of Sunday, May 9, reads: TIME, TEMPERATURE, WEATHER BY PHONE COMING TO SUGARLAND. Furthermore, it's on the "Business Scene" page.

The newspaper story unfolds by stating Sugarland becomes the first of many communities in the metropolitan Houston area expected to have the local weather forecast by phone provided by KPRC-TV's meteorological staff under the new Time-Weather-Temperature (TWT) service.

Located directly on the Sugarland

State Bank's premises, the new digitally-operated Audichron TWT System provides the correct time, current temperature and weather forecast; the story went on and on.

According to Frank H. Cofer, vice-president and marketing director of the Audichron Company, the pioneers and inventors of the new system, TWT Service is expected to become available in more than 72 communities in the greater Houston area under the uniform number, (713) 844-7171, the article concluded.

"It appears that before it's all over, Houston will be invaded by 72 TWT machines," our bookkeeper quickly calculates. "Reason enough not to fire him if he can add that quickly," responds our owner.

Several days later: Our telephone rings for the 69th time about this damn new machine. The receptionist says there's an avid TWT reader on the phone who wants to know if we're going to sue the TV station and the bank.

"Tell him no," answers the publisher. "Tell him we're not going to sue because ... uh ... gays also bank at banks, watch TV and ... uh ... most of all, need to know the time, weather and temperature."

"Makes sense to me," responds the caller.

"Makes sense to me, too," says our owner. "I guess we won't fire the publisher either. But maybe we ought to fire the promotion director who designed that big, tall, lighted TWT sign on Montrose Boulevard out in front of our building!"

"But why fire him," queries our secretary, "he doesn't work at the bank."

"I know, but it's his fault TWT doesn't have a flashing time-weather-temperature section to our sign."

Hmmmm, time-weather-temperature — an idea whose time and temperature has indeed come.

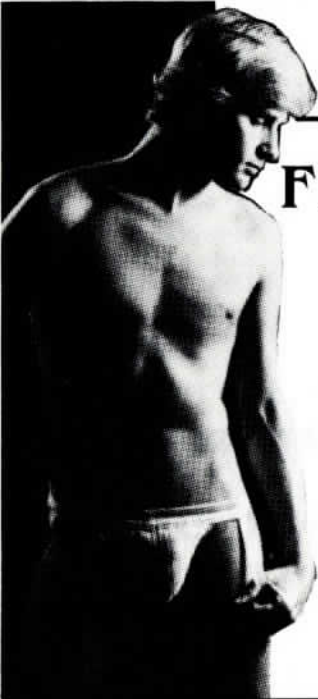

TWT vs TWT?

No!

TWT loves TWT.

LOVESCOPE for JUNE

FOR ALL SIGNS: As June begins, the Sun and Mercury are at home in Gemini. Venus is trailing one sign behind in Taurus. Mars and Saturn are still triangled with Pluto in Libra. Jupiter is still going backwards in Scorpio, and Uranus and Neptune are still plodding through Sagittarius. This month's Full Moon occurs on June 6, and the New Moon occurs on June 21. Thus, the stage is set in the sky for your June LOVESCOPE!

GEMINI: During June, the planet of love, Venus, spends the first three weeks of the month in your twelfth house of behind-the-scenes activity, keeping romance on the back burner where it's quiet. However, on June 25, your June LOVESCOPE picks up immeasurably when Venus moves into Gemini for a summer visit. Romance should peak in July. However, romance will be exceptionally dull until June 13, when your ruling planet, Mercury, stops going backward and resumes forward motion.

GANGER: During June, the planet of love, Venus, spends the first three weeks of the month in your eleventh house of friendships, causing early June to be a busy social time. Jupiter helps boost romance and admirers since this largest planet in the solar system is still in your fifth house of love affairs all during your June LOVESCOPE.

LEO: During June, the planet of love, Venus, spends the first three weeks of the month in your tenth house of career, giving a boost to favors and promotions in your employment. Domestic affairs are blessed by Jupiter which remains in your fourth house of the home where it brings good luck to the homefront. Romance can find you in your June LOVESCOPE when you are busiest.

VIRGO: During June, the planet of love, Venus, spends the first three weeks of the month in your ninth house of travel. Thus, a long distance affair is indicated in your June LOVESCOPE. Romance can find you while on a summer trip. With Jupiter bringing good luck to your third house, communication, such as letter writing or telephoning, can also yield love talk. Love is not to be found in your backyard during June.

LIBRA: During June, the planet of love, Venus, spends the first three weeks of the month in your eighth house of sex! Your June LOVESCOPE message ends here. Short and sweet! Simply combine Venus (love) with the eight house (sex) and you have the perfect gay mixture for lust during the first three weeks of June. Others find you sexy!

SCORPIO: During June, the planet of love, Venus, spends the first three weeks of the month in your seventh house of marriage. There is no finer time of the year than now to pursue serious romance as Venus is enticing you into the marital sector. Your typical Scorpio sting and jealousy may be extremely sharp, however, at this time during your June LOVESCOPE.

SAGITTARIUS: During June, the planet of love, Venus, spends the first three weeks of the month in your sixth house of health. This is excellent for benefiting your physical well-being. When you feel healthy, you feel more romantic and typically independent and adventurous, which are true Sagittarian traits. Your good health is tantamount to harmonizing with your romantic drive. Note: your ruler, lucky Jupiter, remains in your twelfth house, keeping most of your romantic pursuits secretive during your June LOVESCOPE.

CAPRICORN: Venus, the planet of love, is in your fifth house of love affairs during the first three weeks of June. This is an exceptionally strong period for dating and finding new admirers. Others will be drawn to you like a magnet. Your usual serious Capricorn nature may find such an abundance of frivolous romantic opportunities to be in conflict with your true nature to fret and worry, as your June LOVESCOPE develops.

AQUARIUS: Venus, the planet of love, is in your fourth house of the home during the first three weeks of your June LOVESCOPE. Your usual independent and scattered nature may be strained, as you are not in the mood to roam and flea at this time. Home is where the heart is—or wants to be during June.

PISCES: Venus, the planet of love, is in your third house of traveling during the first three weeks of your June LOVESCOPE. A short trip can yield romance. A love letter or phone call from an admirer is to be expected. During June, romance beckons from afar. Pleasure trips are strongly indicated.

ARIES: Venus, the planet of love, is in your second house of money during the first three weeks of your June LOVESCOPE. You may spend money in the name of love. You may shell out hard-earned coins. On the other hand, you may seek out a partner for financial motives rather than purely romantic reasons. With Mars in your seventh house of partners, you can expect a typically fiery Mars triangle to entangle its web around any impulsively conceived union.

TAURUS: Venus, the planet of love, is in your first house of personality during the first three weeks of your June LOVESCOPE. If serious romance is high on your mind this month, you'd be well advised to make your romantic moves now, before Venus exits Taurus on June 25. Last chance!
