SEX AND DRUGS SCANDAL IN D.C.

WASHINGTON, DC — Last week a major sex and drugs scandal began to boil over in the nation's capital as one teenage page told Independent Network News of having been approached by several congressmen to perform sexual favors in exchange for drugs and promotions. Additionally, CBS-TV had learned that federal authorities were investigating illicit sex between members of congress and their underage pages.

As ABC-TV explained, to fully understand the scope of the investigation one must know what pages are and do. Pages are under 18, asked and sponsored by members of Congress, attend government classes in the morning, run errands for members of Congress in the afternoon and have no adult supervision at night while away from family and home.

Both young boys and girls are involved. Homosexuality is not the issue of the investigation, TWT NEWS stresses. The issue is rather that of all types of sex with minors and use of drugs.

One former page said he "had encountered homosexual advances" while he was a page. Another said he had "engaged in sex with a member of the House on three occasions, one of them in an apartment in the Watergate complex."

FBI CONDUCTING GAY SURVEILLANCE

WASHINGTON, DC — A concerted nationwide surveillance and investigation program by the FBI into the lives of wealthy, prominent, closeted homosexual men as well as into gay civil rights groups, and the collection of thousands of names of suspected homosexuals in the course of nearly 30 years, have been confirmed by FBI officials and substantiated by FBI documents obtained under the Freedom of Information Act. The undercover program was confirmed to The Advocate's Washington editor, Larry Bush.

As early as 1943, the article discloses, the FBI paid informants to report on the loyalty of American homosexuals, and that one participant in that program was noted sex authority C.A. Tripp, author of The Homosexual Matrix. The article also confirmed that Dr. Alfred Kinsey, founder of the Kinsey Institute for Sex Research and author of the Kinsey reports on sexual behavior, served as an expert consultant to the CIA in establishing both female and male houses of prostitution in the U.S. and overseas.

Information from FBI officials, documents and interviews indicated that investigations using all available investigative techniques, including monitoring private mail and bank accounts, from the early 1960s through the late 1970s, were conducted under a code name of HOMEX or Homosexual Extortion. The article further discussed the FBI's collection of names of suspected homosexuals, the surveillance of gay bars and meeting places, and surveillance, infiltration and use of informants to build files on gay civil rights groups.

U.S. CAN'T BAN FOREIGN GAYS

SAN FRANCISCO — U.S. District Judge Robert Aguilar has rejected as unconstitutional the old immigration rules which had previously barred foreign homosexuals from entering America. The rules violated the constitutional rights of free speech and association for homosexuals, the judge stated.

"Homosexuals pose no threat to national security merely because they are homosexuals. Nor do they pose a threat to the health, safety and welfare of the American public," the ruling said.

Aguilar had ruled in the case of the Lesbian-Gay Freedom Day Committee, which challenged an INS policy excluding homosexuals as "sexual deviants" once they were certified to be homosexual.

Aguilar had issued a temporary order banning the exclusion of homosexuals by the INS during last year's gay pride parade in San Francisco, TWT NEWS recalled.

GAY RIGHTS BILL GAINS MOMENTUM

WASHINGTON, DC — What has become known as the "gay rights bill" (HR-1454), has gained further momentum with the recent signing-on of two more cosponsors—representatives Harold Washington of Illinois and Henry Reuss of Wisconsin. This brings the total sponsor list to 54, which is just one shy of the all-time high reached in the previous Congress.

The addition of the two Midwestern Democrats is most welcomed by the Gay Rights National Lobby (GRNL). TWT NEWS has learned that GRNL is confident other sponsors will cosign before Congress adjourns for the November elections.

ANITA BRYANT DANCE EPISODE

ATLANTA — The woman who led the fight in Miami against homosexuals in the much-publicized "Save Our Children" crusade launched in Florida and who helped defeat the pro-gay Dade County ordinance, has apparently had a further change of heart. Past reports to TWT NEWS had indicated that the woman in question, Anita Bryant, had said she no longer disliked homosexuals. Such remarks were made after her 1980 divorce and move to Selma, Alabama.

Last week, the story further unraveled when Anita's words became pictures as an Associated Press wire-photo showed pro-family Bryant dancing with former gay minister Russ McCraw in an Atlanta disco.

McCraw is remembered as a former evangelist in the gay movement, but has claimed he has been "cured." McCraw is presently engaged in the ministry of "curing other homosexuals."

GAY SEX IN EL PASO JAIL

EL PASO — This West Texas city was rocked to its foundations last spring when several jailers were accused of exploiting gay prisoners in the city jail. Complaints from homosexual inmates that they had been forced to perform sexual favors for nine jailers have been under investigation.

TWT NEWS has now learned that nine of the jailers have been suspended without pay and dismissal notices have been served by Chief Deputy Jesus Reyes. It has been further learned that replacements have been hired.

Although misconduct charges were dropped against two, two others were indicted by a county grand jury on felony charges of violating inmates' civil rights. Maximum penalty is two to ten years in prison and a fine of $5,000, TWT NEWS learned.

SECOND LITTLE LEAGUE COACH SENTENCED

HOUSTON — The second of three cases in the Houston area involving sex with underage little leaguers has gone to court and resulted in sentencing.

Robert Lewis, 48, of 6010 Elm, was sentenced by State District Judge Joe Kegans on June 28 for offenses involving five boys, ages 10, 11 and 12. Lewis, a Houston Little League baseball coach in Sharpstown and a wholesale paper company employee, had shown pornographic movies and magazines to the boys before persuading them to perform sexual acts between themselves and on him, said the prosecutor, Dan Prashner. The incidents surfaced after some of the boys had told their parents.

Lewis was sentenced to ten years in prison on all five cases. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Last week, TWT NEWS reported of the sentencing of a Pasadena Little League umpire who had been similarly charged and sentenced. A third case involving another man-boy sex ring has yet to be heard by a state judge.

"WOMYN'S" MINI- FEST SUNDAY

HOUSTON — Heidi's & Co., a Houston women's store, will present a "Womyn's Mini-Fest" this Sunday, July 11, from 1:00-8:00pm to celebrate one year in business at 1905 W. Alabama. The feminist store carries women's music, t-shirts, resale clothing, jewelry, crafts and plans to start a book-ordering service, Kathleen DeSilva told TWT NEWS.

The mini-fest will feature live music by Lyra and Rawslyn Ruffin, storyteller Alice Shrader, a slide show on "Womyn's" Gatherings and a variety of booths in the parking lot. Balloons, refreshments, haircutting, a clown, a tattoo artist and impromptu jam sessions will enhance the festive atmosphere, Heidi McMunn added.

Admission is free. For more information or to reserve space for a last-minute booth, call Heidi's & Co. at (713) 520-7677. July 18 has been chosen as a raindate, McMunn said.

JOAN & ROSE RODEO MARSHALS

RENO, NV — Comedienne Joan Rivers and recording star Rose Maddox have been named grand marshals for Reno's Seventh Annual National Reno Gay Rodeo and Country Fair sponsored by the Comstock Gay Rodeo Association. Phil Ragsdale, founder and president, told TWT NEWS that it will be held July 30-August 1 at the Nevada State Fairgrounds in Reno.

The three days of action packed events is expected to draw some 23,000 plus visitors from across the U.S. and many foreign countries. Travel agencies across the country are booking tours at a record pace into Reno for this year's annual event, Ann Adams said.

This year's program includes a country fair, concert, steak barbecue dinner and barn dance. There again will be the selection of Mr., Ms. and Miss National Gay Rodeo, selection of best All Around Cowboy and Cowgirl based on competitive rodeo events. Last year, Texas won both Ms. and Miss contests. A new feature has been added this year with the formation of a National Gay Rodeo Marching Band. There will be $10,000 in cash and prizes to be awarded to this year's winners.

Entrants in this year's rodeo finals are winners in their local gay communities. All proceeds from the contest will be donated to the Muscular Dystrophy Association in the community where the funds were raised and given in the name of the local gay community. Last year, Texas was the largest contributor. This year, Texas gays have raised a record $36,000.

GAY AGGIES MOUNT A&M FIGHT

COLLEGE STATION — In April 1976, the Gay Student Services Organization (GSSO) applied for official recognition as a campus organization in order to pass out fliers on campus. Eight months later, University officials denied that request on the grounds that it would be inconsistent with Texas A&M policy. The GSSO immediately filed suit against Texas A&M in federal district court in Houston.

Judge Ross Sterling dismissed that suit on the grounds that a government institution cannot be sued. But, in February 1980, the Fifth U.S. Court of Appeals reversed that ruling, citing a Supreme Court ruling that held that local institutions can be sued. The appeals court ordered Sterling to hear the case.

A four-day trial began on November 16, 1981. Sterling issued his decision on May 22, 1982. He ruled in the University's favor.

The GSSO has every intention of appealing the case in New Orleans. So far, the organization has supported the suit with its own funds. "But it needs and would appreciate help from outside" the GSSO, TWT NEWS was told.

"We are planning a large rally in support of the suit and in support of civil liberties for gays. The rally is set for August 21, 1982. Other details have yet to be decided upon," said Ed Cawley.

MORAL MAJORITY GOING BROKE

LYNCHBURG, VA — The Moral Majority is going broke. As reported by TWT NEWS during the past year, one by one, the various ministry groups operating under the umbrella of Moral Majority and pro-family are facing serious financial difficulty.

The Tammy and Jim Bakker Praise the Lord (PTL Club) TV show has had to forego its cable TV networking and is now facing a similar financial crisis with its syndicated over-the-air television broadcast.

TV evangelist James Robison, remembered for his anti-gay remarks in the past, has been losing money, losing TV station contracts and losing in the Neilson ratings stronghold.

Last week, Ronald S. Godwin of the Moral Majority, said his group's "financial condition is serious enough so if our people don't respond, we're in trouble." He reported that the group barely had enough money to print its June newsletter.

Jerry Falwell had hoped his July 4 rally would bring in the necessary contributions to stave off the demise of his Old Time Gospel Hour on TV. Millions of dollars are needed to keep it on the air.

A similar plight at the PTL Club was described by evangelist Bakker, who said PTL was three months behind in paying its TV stations.

WHO'S BEHIND GAY RIGHTS MOVEMENT?

NEW YORK — The National Gay Task Force (NGTF) has published a new booklet which documents widespread non-gay support for gay civil rights. "Who's Behind the Gay Rights Movement? A Gay Civil Rights Package" offers a remarkable array of evidence at the depth of support gay people enjoy in the non-gay community. Included are resolutions from professional and scientific organizations, non-discrimination statements from major corporations, statements from religious leaders, public opinion polls and quotes from other major shapers of public opinion in America.

Statements are included from such diverse sources as the Lutheran Church in America, the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co., the American Association for the Advancement of Study, Newsday, the National YWCA, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and more than 200 others. The booklet will be a valuable tool for activists to use in their work with the media, in lobbying legislators, in dealing with employers and in building strength within the gay and non-gay community, Lucia Valeska, Executive Director of NGTF, explained to TWT NEWS.

"As we struggle to achieve our rights, it often seems that our progress is terribly slow," Valeska added, "in light of how long and hard so many of us have worked. But we must realize that the gay movement has generated significant non-gay support and that we are winning in our effort to achieve major changes in public attitudes. This booklet demonstrates that we are not a 'lunatic fringe' in American society, but that we—and our friends—are everywhere."

The booklet is one in a series of educational publications distributed by NGTF and funded in part by NGTF Fund for Human Dignity. Copies are available for $3.00 (discounts available for quantity orders) from NGTF, 80 Fifth Ave., New York, NY 10011.

Times Herald Responds

Dear TWT:

Please accept my belated reply to Rick Robinson's letter, which appeared in your March 5 issue [Vol. 7, No. 50], regarding my review of Making Love.

Mr. Robinson has quoted a capsule review, which is a distillation of a longer review which appeared on the day the movie opened. In that review, I noted that the Michael Ontkean character "became" a homosexual in the movie. This is not an attack on the gay community or anybody else. If anything it is a description of a plot deficiency.

The marriage of Ontkean and Kate Jackson is the most deliriously happy pairing since Ozzie and Harriet. There's certainly no indication in the movie's opening scenes that Ontkean is a homosexual trapped in a heterosexual relationship—no sudden bouts of anxiety, no sleepless nights, no dark guilt-ridden confessions to a friend. According to all the conventions by which movies are made, the man is a heterosexual; in fact, he's a very happy one. The only conclusion I could draw later was that he became homosexual.

I agree with Mr. Robinson that this is bad science and worse sociology. That's because Making Love is a bad movie. It certainly doesn't help straights understand gays any better.

Coping with ... holes

Dear TWT:

I guess I have to learn to realize that there are people in this world who hate gays. Since I came out almost a year ago, I've avoided running into them.

Wednesday, June 23, changed all that. While walking to the car after visiting the Boathouse, two "straights" decided to start a brawl with my friend and I. My friend was lucky enough to get back to the bar to get help. I tried to prove how "macho" I was (or wanted to be) and took both guys on. The result was a badly bruised face and butt—mine. I would like to express my deep appreciation to the owner and employees of the Boathouse for helping me cope with these ... holes, and getting my blood pressure back to normal. I hope someday these people get the justice due them, but for now I'll just pray for them.

Dallas Parade Questions

Dear TWT:

Unity? Dallas Gay Pride Week theme. Hundreds worked endless hours in planning, building, rehearsing to make sure Gay Pride Week, and especially the gay pride parade, the success that it was. Thousands attended—others hid away or just didn't care.

As a newcomer to Dallas, I have heard about the fabulous Turtle Creek Chorale—where were they last Sunday? I was told they don't take part in gay activities—if that is true then any gay that supports, donates to or attends any activity given by this group is helping to push us all back in the closet. Either we have gay pride or we don't. Either we all stand together or we shall all fall individually. If the gay community is used then the gay community must stand united and reject that group.

Where were the motorcycle clubs? If they weren't asked to participate in GPW, shame on the parade organizers; if they were and didn't participate, then they are as wrong as the Turtle Creek Chorale and should not be supported!

As we prepare for 1983, I urge those in power to consider asking the Parents of Gays, Gay Businessmen and Women, Gay Professionals, Gay Nurses, etc., to participate in next year's activities.

To those who gave so much of their time, effort and monies, my heartiest

A&M's GSSO

Dear TWT:

Many thanks to the gay people of Houston and especially to Andy Mills and the Montrose Symphonic Band for their support of the gay students in our legal battle against Texas A&M University. We are that much closer to reaching the financial goal necessary for us to continue our fight.

My apologies are extended to the few people offended by our money-making efforts at the Fred Paez Memorial Concert. I will, however, say that I feel for a group of gay people who cannot afford even a word of encouragement, much less 50¢ to help support some young people doing their best to fight for the cause of gay rights. I am really sorry for you.

Further support, both financial and moral, is both solicited and much appreciated.

Houston's "Finest"

Dear TWT:

After attending an inspiring rally that followed a parade promoting unity and togetherness, my feelings of love and brotherhood were usurped by two of Houston's "finest." We were stopped for turning off Avondale at a "wrong" corner, and then we were searched and generally harassed for nearly half an hour. While I was obediently providing one "officer" (and I use the term loosely) with information, my friend was pulled from the car by the other and frisked. Then he searched the inside of my car, leaving it in a shambles. He pulled the floor mats up, reached under the seat and found two napkins containing potpourri for air freshener. He ripped these open, scattering their contents everywhere. All the while, he was laughing and saying, "And you know all of this is legal as hell."

He then found an identification badge from when I was employed by HISD. He asked what I did for them, and I answered that I had been employed as a school psychologist. Well, that reply really broke him up. He amazingly relayed the information to his partner, implying how "sick" it was. Infuriated, I stated that it wasn't any sicker than the two of them. They were obviously on a power trip with nothing better to do in a high crime area of the city but to harass two harmless individuals. This, my friends, is what our tax money goes for, to pay the wages of people who mistake playing "butch" and flaunting power, for acting in a mature, professional and responsible manner.

I only wish that these two policemen could have heard, I mean really heard and comprehended the words of our mayor when she stated that together we can make Houston a better community. Somehow, my feelings of gay pride were taken from me, but only for a moment. Writing this letter and publicly stating my inspiration does more good for me than all of the damage that these two ignorant, uninformed and unprofessional individuals who stopped us could ever do. Thanks for listening.

Gay Pride Thief

Dear TWT:

Well, I got ripped-off during the Houston parade, and what is so bad is my belongings were taken from Donna Day's apartment while we were on the float. You know, it's a crying shame that while we are all out showing what we stand for, one of our own kind is stealing! I even know who you are. I didn't get your name, but I did see you at Donna's apartment. You are 5' 9", black hair, Mexican-American, and in your mid-twenties. . . I don't forget a face!

I hope you will return my wallet, keys and jeans to Donna or to the Copa. If you do, I won't say a word or press charges against you when I see you out again. If not, you will hear from me.

Parade and Clowns

Dear TWT:

I am a 55-year-old straight mother of three and was in attendance at your Gay Pride parade on Sunday, June 27. I have a gay son.

I was very impressed with the floats and bands, but the thing that touched me the most was a poem that a Community

Clown gave me.

Enclosed is a copy of the poem so that you might share it with all your many readers. If the world as a whole ever needed a message, this is it. I have read a lot of things in my 55 years, but have never been touched as deeply.

Dear TWT:

As Gay Pride Week rolls around again, I'd like to thank all of Houston for such a wonderful week. This last weekend was one all will remember for a long time.

There was one group which gave much love and enjoyment to this parade. This group was the Community Clowns. There was one delightful person who gave much love to everyone. He kept saying that everybody was beautiful. He was so full of life and gave a lot to the parade. This made me feel good to hear this from a complete stranger. I would also like to mention how beautiful the floats were and how the bands sounded wonderful.

I would like to say "thank you" and what pride it gives me to be a part of such a great community and not apart from.

Dear TWT:

I would like to express my appreciation for the 1982 Houston Gay Pride parade. I am from New York City and currently visiting your fine city.

The Community Clowns was one unit that I enjoyed very much. These clowns brought much laughter and joy to me.

The floats were very well done and the bands were in perfect harmony.

This chemical mixture made a great day for us all.

CHE Thanks GPW

Editor—The following letter was addressed to Larry Bagneris, Jr., chair of the Gay Pride Week Committee from Citizens for Human Equality (CHE).

Dear Larry:

For five years the community and myself have participated with and watched you and the loyal GPW volunteers assimilate unbelievable resources resulting in stunning displays of our community's self-pride, progressive attitude and serious determination to be "A Part Of, Not Apart From" through the ten days of quality events you coordinate.

... Let me take the opportunity to say that the appreciation and the "thank you's" that you might not receive directly were reflected in the inspiring smiles and thunderous applause projected by the thousands of participants at the parade and the rally. Furthermore, many friends and opinion leaders commented to me what a fine job you have done.

As usual, the Gay Pride Week's events were chock full of new and exciting firsts. Again, a reflection on the people behind the scenes. Larry, from CHE and myself, pass the word: Everything was absolutely incredible, moving, professional and most importantly of all, good clean fun ... a true celebration.

Let the energy of this last week take us to new levels of influence, provide us with bigger and better resources, and develop new and trusting leaders for the quantum leaps our movement must keep making in order to overcome the almost insurmountable forces that continuously throw their mud and their money at our simple goal: that of Human Equality for all. Lynn Ashby & ERA

by Bonnie Dombroski

I just finished reading Lynn Ashby's June 23, 1982 article, "ERA battling holds lesson" [The Houston Post]. Like many others, he has suddenly found time to jump on the anti-bandwagon. I don't know who he thinks he is speaking for when he bestows his infinite wisdom (look out, Dear Abby), but according to him, "If ERA fails, it will not be because of its contents, but because of its sellers. Somehow, some way, the movement became controlled by ardent feminists who were an abrasive, unhappy, overly sensitive bunch. They turned people off, people of all political persuasions. The idea got associated in some people's minds with lesbianism. One ERA supporter was found to have attempted to bribe an Illinois state legislator." Another profound quote, "The ERA movement got undercut by the silly. It got swept up in changing our language to chairperson, peoplekind, Ms.—fad words that shall soon make the merciful departure from our vocabulary. It made the whole shooting match look ridiculous. How can you take an amendment to the U.S. Constitution seriously when someone who espouses it is telling you that the word 'manpower' is chauvinistic? That the name of hurricanes is sexist?" Now for the finale. "Well, it appears to be dying. But it could have been passed. With a little grace, a little humor, less acidity and acrimony, the ERA would be the law. It still might, but no matter the outcome, the movement fell into the hands of mean-minded women who turned off a nation and—given every break known to, uh, peoplekind—they still couldn't pull it off."

"Now we will be in for blistering interviews and articles by some who will rampage against their foes. It will simply prove the point."

If I speak my mind, I am rampaging my foes? The fight for equality for all is a shooting match that has been made to look ridiculous because feminists are overly sensitive to chauvinistic gender labels? Feminists could have had the darned thing passed if only they had shown a little more grace, charm, worn a dress and makeup? Feminists are mean-minded women? I bet men like Alan Alda are surprised to discover that they are actually women or lesbians. (Why were only women mentioned as supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment?) Also, we have been accused of manipulating statistics. Suddenly, the Louis Harris Survey is invalid?

Like many others, Lynn believes the women's movement to be only associated with the fight for equality. Other issues include battered women, child abuse and care, credit, disabled women, employment, health, insurance, media, older women, rape, reproductive freedom and sexual preference.

If women had been good girls and played by the silly rules, we would still be waiting to have a Constitutional amendment guaranteeing us the right to vote.

This article could be interpreted as gloating, but somehow, I see it as grasping for flimsy straws. It expresses the viewpoint (like the 20 or so legislators around the country who have managed to keep national will out of the Constitution) that things are going along well enough and don't need to be changed.

Well, I for one disagree and will continue to do so. I don't think he would lend money to a stranger, so why should I depend upon someone else's grace to ensure my equality. No, thank you, I prefer a written law than be dependent upon the whims of a particular administration or person.

SPECIAL REPORT

Lambda Legal Defense and Education Fund, Inc. The name does not come trippingly off the tongue or easily remain in the memory. But ponderous title notwithstanding, Lambda Legal Defense and Education Fund, Inc., has made a memorable impression in certain courts of this country—and in the hearts of scores of men and women who have directly benefitted from its involvement in litigation in diverse areas—from housing to immigration, from child custody to adult same-sex adoption.

Lambda has compiled an impressive record of success in the courts in a number of crucial areas. One students' rights case (Gay Students Organization vs. Bonner), for example, concerns issues of significance not only to gay students but to all lesbians and gay men. In this case, gay students at the University of New Hampshire were denied the right to form a campus organization by the University after the Governor of New Hampshire threatened to cut off all funding from the University if it provided any money for the gay students' group. The students gained the right to organize, after a court battle, and received official university funding and recognition. The court in this case went so far as to state that gay dances constitute a form of symbolic speech and are therefore protected by the First Amendment.

Lambda has been involved successfully in challenges to the immigration policies of the United States Government and its litigation has contributed to the adoption of less rigid policies. A gay man (in the Matter of Cruz) was granted citizenship when Lambda successfully challenged the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service recommendation to deny him citizenship because of his homosexuality.

Lambda's efforts to overturn the New York State's "consensual sodomy" statute have resulted in great strides forward in an area of fundamental significance for all homosexuals.

In 1979, Lambda became co-counsel in the case of a gay man from Syracuse convicted under the New York State consensual sodomy statute. The case, (People vs. Onofre) was appealed to the Appellate Division—the intermediate appeals court—which, in January 1980 declared the New York sodomy law unconstitutional. In a landmark decision, which attracted national publicity, the court held that personal sexual conduct is a constitutionally protected, fundamental right of lesbians and gay men.

Subsequently, the New York State Court of Appeals, the highest court in the state, sustained the ruling of the Appellate Division. Thus, consensual sodomy is legal in the state of New York and a major step has been taken toward establishing that gay people have a fundamental right to privacy, guaranteed by the Constitution.

Founded in 1972, New York based Lambda has been fighting for its own and for the rights of the gay community from the very beginning of its existence. Indeed, Lambda's first battle in the courts was for the right to incorporate, and as a corporation, organized for charitable purposes, to engage in the practice of law. When in 1973, Lambda won this right, its victory paved the way for other gay organizations to incorporate and opened the door to later decisions asserting the right of lesbians and gay men to form associations.

That some battles have been won and certain obstacles overcome has, in the last two decades, prompted a number of homosexuals—groups as well as individuals—to sit back as though all was well. The truth is that all is far from well.

In twenty-six states lesbians and gay men still do not have the right to sexual privacy; private employers retain the right to discriminate based on sexual orientation; lesbian and gay aliens are still subject to discriminatory exclusion. The effort to obtain full recognition of the rights of lesbians and gay men still has far to go. And no one is more actively aware of it than Lambda.

Seeking to overturn long established discriminatory doctrines and uphold the fundamental rights of homosexuals, Lambda continues to challenge the infringement of the rights of gay people in courts across the country. Legal representation is provided to individuals, groups and organizations in matters which, in the opinion of its Board of Directors, have the potential to advance substantially the rights of gay people as a group, through force of precedent or otherwise. The legal work undertaken by Lambda is done through a system of co-operating attorneys. These attorneys work pro bono, at no cost, on these cases.

In certain cases, Lambda acts as counsel or co-counsel. In other instances, Lambda participates in cases by filing briefs as a "friend of the court." These amicus curiae briefs, requested by individual attorneys or by gay organizations, enable Lambda to introduce important legal, sociological and theoretical information, thus furthering the courts' understanding of the rights of homosexuals.

In addition to Lambda's formal involvement in court cases, it frequently provides information and technical assistance to attorneys and organizations litigating cases or working with gay clients across the country. Through its speakers' bureau, newsletter, and educational pamphlets, Lambda helps inform the gay community about its rights and related legal developments.

In November of 1981, Lambda Legal Defense and Education Fund received an encouraging vote of confidence in the form of a $13,500 grant from the New York University Public Interest Law Foundation. This grant, one of the largest ever given to a lesbian or gay organization, will enable Lambda to develop its Litigation Project on Anti-Gay Legislation.

The Project will address a critical need not met by other existing gay legal defense organizations by providing a staff devoted to developing the legal analysis, strategies and materials necessary for challenging anti-gay legislation on a state and federal level.

The Project will also produce legal memoranda and model pleadings which can be used in future litigation. "Very little research has been done in this area. We now have a unique opportunity to lay the legal groundwork and be prepared should any legislation be enacted," states attorney Rosalyn Richter, who is the Project's director. "We will also be able to examine pending legislation and provide information to lobbyists and legislators on the constitutionality of this legislation," continued Ms. Richter, whose experience as former Executive Director of Lambda is an invaluable asset to her present position.

The Litigation Project has identified several pieces of anti-gay legislation for its research. First priority will be given to the Family Protection Act. Also, of recent concern is the legislation in Florida which prohibits distribution of any state funds to any state supported public or private postsecondary institution that charters or gives official recognition or provides meeting facilities for any group that recommends or advocates sexual relations between persons not married to each other. Another piece of federal legislation is the McDonald Amendment, which seeks to bar any Legal Services Corporation funding for use in cases which seek to promote, protect or defend homosexuality.

Lambda is coming of age at the very time that its services to the gay world are most needed. After nearly two decades of advances in the area of civil liberties, the profoundly changed political climate that came with the 1980 elections has made the passage of broad anti-gay laws very likely.

Tim Sweeney, Executive Director of Lambda, predicts that "in the very near future lesbians and gay men face grave threats to their civil rights."

He follows that statement with the reassuring promise that "Lambda Legal Defense and Education Fund will continue in the vanguard—establishing and defending the civil rights of all men and women in the gay community."

Though Lambda has received foundation funds for the litigation project, the costs of litigation are enormous, and community support is crucial for our efforts. All contributions are tax deductible. And as a litigation project sponsor, you will receive Lambda's quarterly newsletter, which offers in-depth analysis of recent court decisions, updates on proposed legislation, advice on legal matters and information about Lambda's activities. You can also receive the various pamphlets on topics of interest that we produce throughout the year, as well as invitations to speaking engagements, fundraisers and our annual awards dinner. Most important, you'll be helping us win. And when we win—you do too.

The People You Work With

by Stephanie Harris

How many of you know lesbians? I hope that each and every one of you read this with an openness for truth and finish with a respect for lesbians that you never knew you could have.

"A lesbian," according to the Boston NOW Lesbian Task Force, "is a woman who has a primary psychological, emotional, social and sexual preference for other women even though that preference may not be overtly expressed. The term comes from the word Lesbos, the name of a Greek island where Sappho and her followers lived over two thousand years ago, and is specifically derived from the erotic relations thought to have prevailed among the women there. Lesbian is a term that has carried more negative connotations for some women, due to their homophobic conditioning. However, more recently, the word has acquired a strong, positive meaning for women-identified-women in their expression of lesbian solidarity and pride."

We are members of every race, class, religion and age group. We are mothers, sisters, blue- and white-collar workers, black, white, brown, rich, poor, lovers and alone. "We are everywhere, even in the morgue," states Rita Mae Brown [writer]. "We die like anyone else."

We are a significant segment of the gay and female population with the goal to educate people about the benefits and visibility of our lifestyle. We care about women in a way that no one else does.

Traditionally, society has ignored us. The non-gay media, in spotlighting gay males in most articles and programs dealing on the subject of homosexuality, leads the general public to equate "gay" with "gay men." And the bulk of movement literature has traditionally addressed the needs and experiences of gay men, whose lifestyle, in some important respects, differs from that of lesbians.

All of us, as homosexuals, have felt isolated from the mainstream, but it has been worse for lesbians. With fewer social outlets, we have had greater difficulty in establishing a "sense of community" and in organizing a sound political structure.

Being a lesbian is no longer just a sexual statement. It is also a political one, whether the individual woman is aware of that or not. With the advent of the sexual revolution and the gay and feminist movements, women are exploring and defining their own sexual and political needs; to think beyond the prescribed sex roles which have previously limited their human choices, including whom they could love.

Lesbians are evidence that the cultural lessons can be rejected. We challenge the system by rejecting the one basic "commandment" of male culture—"Thou shalt love men"—and by destroying the lie about female inferiority, weakness and passivity.

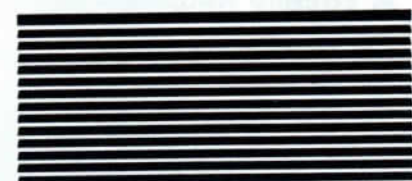

It is very important for the public to begin to understand and appreciate our work and love. Lesbianism is a free and active choice. It is part of our total personhood. It is the source of knowledge we have discovered about ourselves, our lives and our relationships.

The lesbian lifestyle affords greater opportunities for equality, independence and the pursuit of one's individual goals; allows for a deeper level of understanding in relationships since both partners share a personal knowledge of the female experience; affords a new "sense of community" with the emergence of social and political outlets; and encourages women to become stronger individuals and to define themselves instead of allowing others to do so.

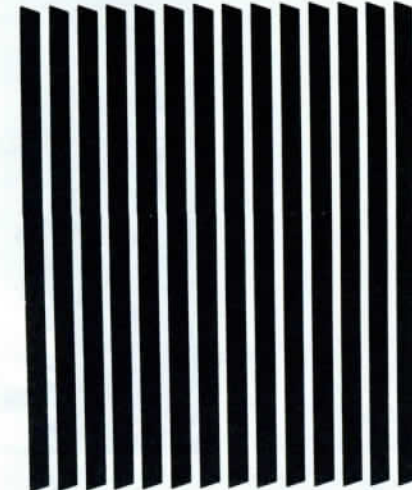

Why am I telling you who we are? Political awareness is one reason. You need to know the people you work with.

"Lesbians are reclaiming their energy for themselves," states Rita Mae Brown. "No lies. We tell the truth. You either like us as we are or you don't like us at all. At least we will all know where we stand." w

Reviewed by David Fields

The people who form the cast of characters in Larry Mitchell's The Terminal Bar are entertaining, with and without hope at the same time, making ends meet and sharing each other's lives. Most of their conversation is about politics, queens, dykes, drugs (which they seem to be on most of the time) and each other. They are friends and lovers who meet for support at the Terminal Bar in New York ("the center of the empire") in 1979. They're mostly lower-income, avant-garde gays who are old enough to have lived in the sixties and to have remembered the events and issues of that era. These issues still play a part in their day-to-day lives and thoughts. This is the thread and cloth Mitchell uses to create this orchestration of conversations and emotions.

The variety Mitchell puts into his parade of people is only one of the entertaining parts the reader finds in the book. The short note he writes at the beginning tells us these characters are based in part on his friends' lives; the source of his realism and emotions of the people we read about. His wild card is to have most if not all the people in the book owning cats.

Their lives, as well as the bar, seem to be mundane, grimy and dark. They live in New York and are on constant watch for either the queer-bashers or the cops that prey on them. This back-drop highlights and emphasizes their humor, whether it be camp, puns or jokes about themselves.

What strikes this reviewer is the message various characters echo throughout the story, in no loud or brassy way, but there nonetheless. This is how one of them says it, "... the military is arming the whole world. Every fascist in the world has enough lethal weapons to poison us all. We all go about our lives . . . like atomic bombs and poisons spilling over the earth and torture and genocide are all normal. How can we go about our lives knowing what we know?" These are the issues of today, as well as of the sixties, and their comments are interspersed throughout the novel. And this does not intrude into the novel's ability to hold your attention and entertain, much to Mitchell's credit. What is even more interesting is the satirical, mocking tone that seems to creep into their oratory.

The main character, Robin, is the focus of his gay and lesbian friends' constant barrage of phone calls and conversation that gives the reader a running commentary on all their lives. They often use their humor to float themselves above the threatening influences, real and imagined, that fuel their off-the-wall paranoia.

Here again in this novel another author has included warm, positive, funny lesbians in his "Terminal Bar." The bar itself is the other focus for Robin and his friends' activities. They spend as much time there as at their apartments, calling each other on the phone. This book is also a fair illustration, for those who need it, of life in the "bar scene." This time this fiction can compete with the reality of life at the bars, day in and day out, taken as it is from Mitchell's experiences.

For comedy, a little tragedy, variety, pathos, a little sex and an enjoyable way to spend a few hours, go to The Terminal Bar.

Man is the warmest place to hide

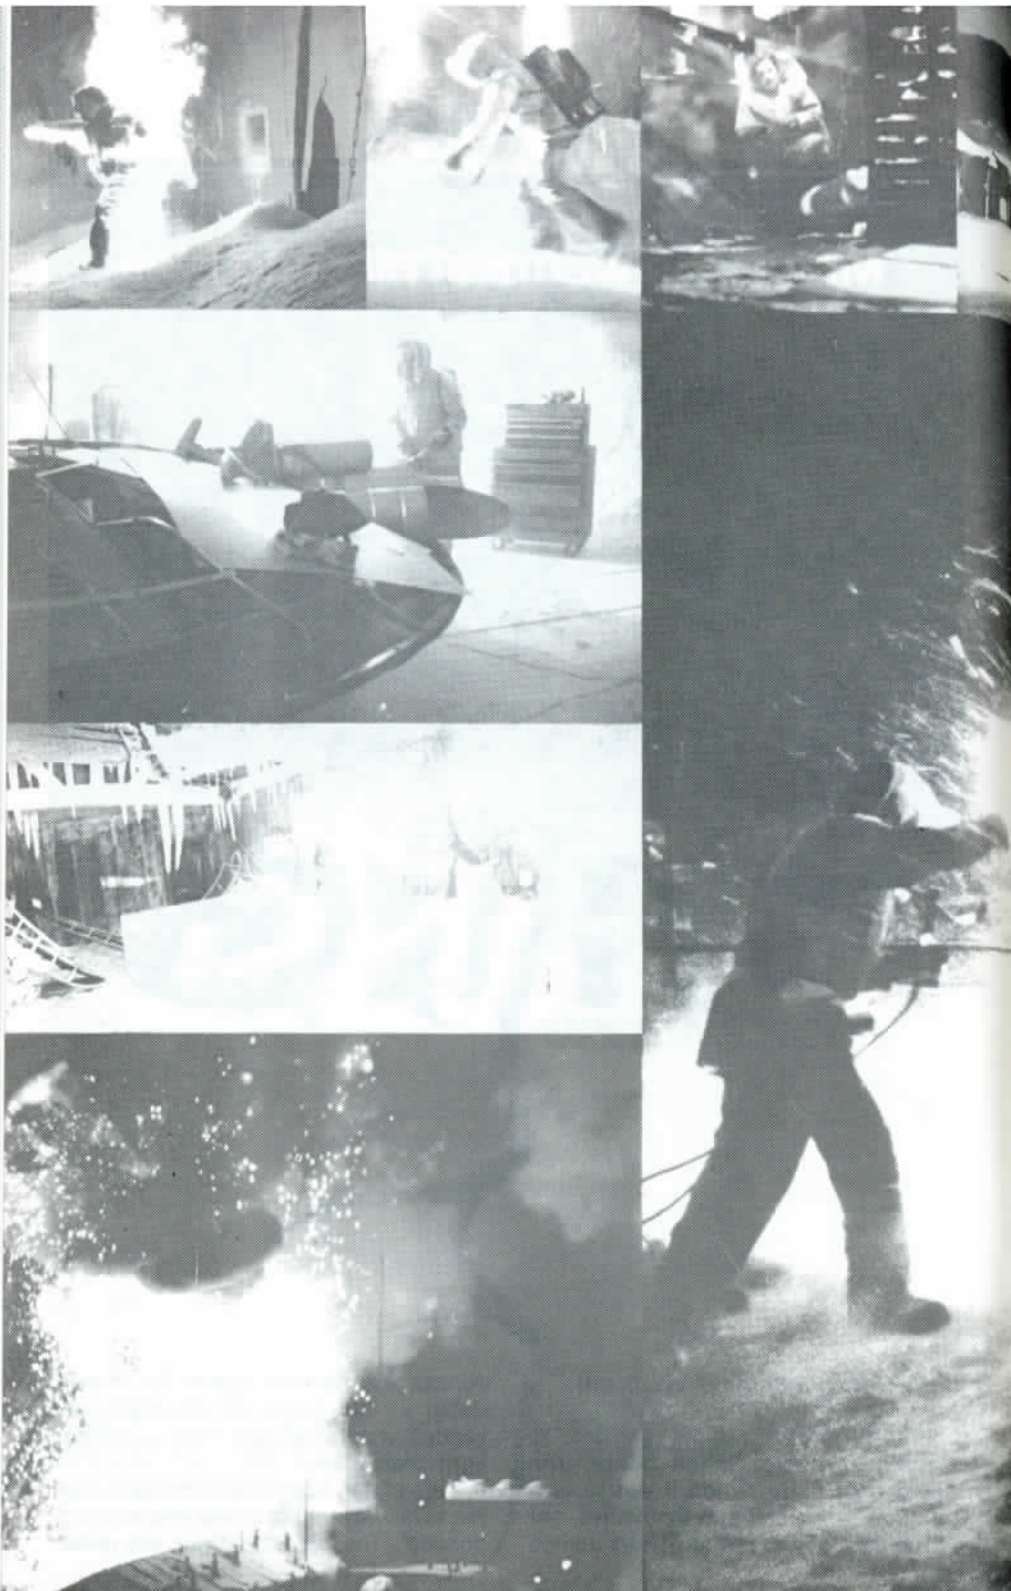

Reviewed by Steve Vecchietti

When Howard Hawks decided to make his science-fiction horror, The Thing, back in the fifties, it was viewed by all as advanced and innovative, not to mention downright terrifying. James Arness (Gunsmoke) made his movie debut in this movie as the highly-advanced vegetable man from a million light years away.

Years later: Special effects have now made movie making a new and exciting concept. The old limitations are gone, and one can create terrifying visuals and emotions on the screen that the old guard producers and directors only dreamed of in the past.

Kurt Russell

John Carpenter decided to redo the Howard Hawks movie now. Today, 1982, when everyone is getting to expect the special effects that slither and blast the screen. Quite a challenge and a pretty scary concept. The Thing, 1982-style.

100,000 years ago, an advanced and incredibly superior space traveler roared into our solar system from far away. His star ship wobbled from some problem. He was in trouble. As the sun blossomed over the blue Earth, his ship screams and slams into our atmosphere and disappears somewhere on Earth.

1982. An American scientific team in the Antarctic, studying nature and the things scientists do on Antarctica. Their meager base is equipped with monitoring equipment and computer terminals that can play chess with the bored men. A dog (Husky) is running across the frozen wastes. A helicopter is chasing it and a determined man is leaning out of the copter trying to shoot the poor dog. The dog runs to the American outpost and seeks shelter. The copter pilot, a Norwegian from the Norway Scientific Team, lands the copter and screams in Norwegian and still shoots at the dog. The Americans shoot the pilot and puzzle things out as they adopt the poor dog.

Kurt Russell (Escape from New York) is the grizzled pilot of the American team, who swigs J&B and appears to have more sense than all the others combined. They find out that the Norwegians have found a spaceship embedded in the ice. And a body of ... something.

Russell brings the frozen corpse back to the American camp. From then on the terror and horror are more than The Exorcist and Alien combined. Carpenter and Russell, as close off-screen friends, have put their heads together on this movie and have the audience in cold-blooded terror from start to finish.

The Thing is a combination of all special effects from Jaws on. This creature is beyond our comprehension—it is able to change form as easily as a chameleon, or better; it is more intelligent than puny humans; and it is trying to do something that we have no concept of at all.

The Thing is the ultimate horror suspense vehicle. Carpenter has been in movies for years, just to make this movie. His purpose was The Thing. He explores the human mind and how limited it can be when confronted by the unknown intelligence of a galactic life-form so different from our own, that it is hard to conceive.

Russell is superb. The supporting cast is negligible in the plot for this movie. All focus is on Russell, the dog and THING.

Now is the time to go to the movies. Now is the time to let yourself go. Now is the time to discover what aliens are all about. Now is the time to meet The Thing. Just don't shake hands.

THE THING

Reviewed by George Klein

The main title of the twelve-million-dollar film The Thing, directed by John Carpenter from a 1938 short story by John W. Campbell, Jr., looks terrific as a spaceship gracefully falls to earth and the screen buckles and cracks and crumbles into an orange, flaming title. Yet the first twenty minutes are enough to demonstrate that the picture isn't going to live up to the visually enticing beginning. It becomes more irritating than frightening.

The movie's premise almost begs for clichés: a group of research scientists at the North Pole uncover a creature which can devour and duplicate any life form, and proceeds to do just that. Kurt Russell, the taciturn leader, has a fine, rugged face with just a touch of blue-eyed youthfulness, and a pleasant, unassuming acting style. He and the supporting cast give a fine ensemble feel to the production, and Carpenter knows how to make a scene look menacing—the eerie, bluish glow in his night shots around the camp have depth and proper atmosphere. Unfortunately, he works with a rather poor script, this one by Bill Lancaster—Burt's son of Bad News Bears fame—which like so much of screen-realized science fiction has little definition or texture, dialogue which falls on your ears like a hammer and great contrivances to the plot.

Carpenter's desire to make a faithful adaptation of the original story rather than a remake of the "classic" 1951 version of The Thing is perhaps too fully realized. Campbell's story is told in the typical pulp, tough-guy fashion: a brief description of the action followed by the dialogue, which childlessly tries to do all the work. The script for the 1951 version, written by Howard Hawks (the producer), Christian Nyby (the credited director) and Charles Lederer, wisely truncates the short story to produce a fast-paced, verbose little film, notable for its mood and style and the eerie, delicate Dmitri Tiomkin score.

Lancaster, on the other hand, keeps the rough-guy approach but provides no exposition, no attempt to create any interesting characters. The script needs a sharp, well-defined center—perhaps more play with the paranoia theme rather poorly developed in the picture ("One of us is a monster, so watch the guy next to you.") or maybe some comical juggling of the super-banal concept of a monster hiding in the dark.

Were it not for the gruesome efficacy of Bob Bottin's (The Howling) undeniably expert special makeup, with men and dogs growing appendages, heads, tentacles and the like through a complex system of mechanical devices, bladders and wires, the film would hold no tension whatsoever. The giant, bald creature (James Arness) in the original surely is no match for Bottin's creation, yet the 1951 film compensates with some wonderfully lively dialogue which provides a foil to the chilling mood of the picture. Trying to hide the inadequacies of his script, Carpenter attempts to let the special effects carry the production.

Not surprisingly, The Thing isn't truly suspenseful. It gets to you, certainly, but in an obvious physical way. You sit in your seat and wait for the cue to be frightened, usually served up by Ennio Morricone's heaving score. The violence in the film is likewise done in a safe, dumb, clinical way: there's no defining pace or style, and none of the strange, lyrical beauty a De Palma has brought to the genre in Carrie and The Fury. You watch it and are completely unaffected and unsympathetic. It's like hanging your wash out to dry.

Will producers and directors ever learn that electrical gadgets and bloody effects alone cannot make a decent picture? Not as long as they can make money from it. The Thing is, ultimately, no worse than most science fiction thrillers, yet like the rest, the only suspense this picture generates is about half-way through when you wonder if the final credits will role.

Clint Eastwood

Reviewed by Steve Vecchietti

Every now and then, a movie will come out that is controversial. Not to the public, but to the people in charge in that magic movie heaven in Hollywood.

The controversy surrounding Firefox, the new creation of Clint Eastwood, has brought those moguls of middle-class movie goes together to gossip and chatter about the outcome of this movie.

Executive producer Fritz Manes has enough faith in Eastwood's creative and technical abilities to back him up one hundred percent. Alex Lasker and Wendell Wellman both pitched in to do the screenplay and both were completely capable.

Firefox is an adventure film with a tang of patriotic fervor tossed in to make it spicy. Clint Eastwood is a bitter, ex-Vietnam pilot who has escaped the madness of American society and lives in verdent splendor up in Alaska. Meanwhile, the Russians have developed a new super-fighter. A plane with no equal on Earth. It has the speed of a rocket, the computer is tied into the pilot's helmet and it takes mental commands in Russian. It is the greatest threat to the Western World since Adolph Hitler. The Americans want it. Clint Eastwood, as the best pilot in the West, is told to steal it and fly it home. He has to get to Russia, travel 600 miles across Russia to the lab and steal it. Simple enough! The following suspense and espionage are equal to that of The French Connection.

Eastwood directs this himself and knows exactly what he wants in a movie. The Russians are shown as human beings (a nice switch) who have failings and virtues just like any other people on Earth.

The jet is stolen and the chase scene and special effects across the skies of Siberia and the Arctic are breathtaking and enormous in scope. The technology of this film is advanced and totally exquisite.

What happens is a little less than exciting, but by that time you don't care. The movie itself is a success.

If you want a change from the science fiction overkill that is around these days but still want those special effects, go see Firefox. Just don't be disappointed by Eastwood's beergut.

SHOWBIZ

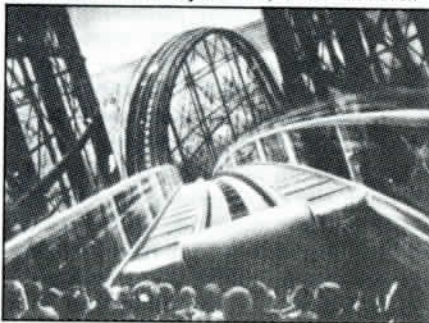

by Jack Varsi

Wide-screen's earliest moment—Victor Mature, Jay Novello, Richard Burton and Dawn Addams in a scene from the first Cinemascope movie, The Robe.

FUTURE TENSE — By the mid-1940s, even with the cultural upheavals that came about as a result of the war, Hollywood movies were firmly established as America's favorite form of entertainment. In those days nearly everyone scoffed at the idea that television could last, much less that it could become a threat to the movie industry. By the mid-1950s, however, television sets were as common as crewcuts and ponytails, and the popularity of programs like I Love Lucy was proving disastrous for both movie makers and movie exhibitors. Desperate to regain their hold on the public, movie people fought back with a variety of new developments: drive-in theaters popped up overnight like mushrooms, 3-D movies had a short run of success, beginning with Bwana Devil (1953) and lasting barely a year, and new screen processes such as Cinerama, Cinemascope, Cinemiracle, VistaVision and Todd-AO were introduced. The result of the battle was that both TV and movies had to improve, and it became clear that both mediums were going to be around for a while. The competition has never really ended. Lately, trend watchers have been predicting that the boom in video-related products, including cable-TV, would bring about the long overdue demise of theatrically distributed films. But, although many of the movie companies are already involved in the video market, there are still movie people who are finding new ways to improve the technical aspects of movie making and distribution in hopes of bringing viewers into the theaters. Douglas Trumbull, special effects wizard for 2001: A Space Odyssey and Close Encounters of the Third Kind, among others (and director of Brainstorm, the still unreleased last film of Natalie Wood), has created a new process called "Showscan," whereby 70mm film is photographed and projected at 60 frames per second, instead of the usual 24. The ultra-wide screen image of this system is said to be dramatically superior in visual clarity. Another new development, a "technically perfect" system of 70mm 3-D film, has been created by the United Artists Theater Circuit who, reportedly, has spent millions on the project. Also being investigated is a new system involving direct satellite broadcasting of high-quality video images to specially equipped theaters where, all over the country, patrons would be viewing the same video-based movie at the same time. All of these new systems, and several I haven't mentioned, have the potential of keeping the entertainment consumer in theaters instead of in living rooms, but none of these developments come close to touching on the major problem in movie theaters today. By far, the worst aspect of moviegoing is having to contend with the behavior of noisy, ill-mannered patrons who are accustomed to talking while watching television. To counteract this colossal hindrance to enjoying films, I, your SHOWBIZ editor, have created a sophisticated new process called "Mums-the-Word," which would equip theaters with vast basements filled with man- (and woman-) hungry alligators. Viewers speaking above a whisper would trigger a sensitive computerized device which would drop them through a trap-door in the floor of the theater.

BEWARE OF ALLIGATORS DEPT — By the time you read this, Tron, a new science-fiction film from Walt Disney Productions, should be giving some stiff competition to E.T., which still has huge lines everywhere it's being shown. Jeff Bridges stars as a computer jock who finds himself trapped inside a video-game computer where he undergoes a series of life-and-death combats. The film, already called a major breakthrough for fantasy, somewhat on the order of The Wizard of Oz, relies heavily on computerized special effects designed to blow your eyeballs out. The cast includes David Warner, Barnard Hughes and Bruce Boxleitner (as the warrior Tron). . . . Robert Hayes, Julie Hagerty, Lloyd Bridges and Peter Graves are returning in their original roles in the upcoming Airplane II: The Sequel, which also features Chad Everett and Chuck Connors. . . . The phenomenally popular Porky's also has a sequel—Porky's: The Next Day. . . . And still another sequel is Triumphs of a Man Called Horse, with Richard Harris returning to the old west. . . . Nick Nolte and Eddie Murphy (of Sat. Night Live) are working on 48 Hours. . . . Jerry Lewis, who'll soon be seen in The King of Comedy, with Robert De Niro, is directing and starring in Smorgasbord. . . . Tammy Grimes returns to the big screen in Moonbeam, co-starring with Michael J. Pollard and Zack Norman.

There's a group around town that is a must for your to hear. Their name is Mata Hari. Maryanne Mahoney sings lead vocals and the lady is quite talented. She has a fabulous jazz voice but can easily drift to blues or contemporary sounds. Susie plays bass and sings harmony. Cheryl plays keyboard and also sings harmony. Mata Hari performs Wednesdays at Bacchus and Fridays and Saturdays at the Lampost. The only complaint with the group is not their fault. It would be extremely nice if you could hear them clearly. There were a certain number of "ladies" who were extremely loud, crude and boisterous while the group was performing. It's ironic that right after Gay Pride Week, with our slogan of unity, I overheard the comment, "Oh, shit, there's men here." Come on, ladies, let us men enjoy their music also. You do not own Mata Hari, and if you consider the members of the group your friends, you will let them grow professionally in all aspects. Incidentally, the drummer's name is Matt, and yes, he is a man.

DIANA PRIDE — Not only has the Diana Foundation of Houston, now in its 29th year, won the Best Non-Professionally built float award in the gay pride parade for the past two successive years, Diana has also shown she can also consistently put together an exceptional annual show. On June 22, Diana put her best heels forward at Numbers during gay pride week to present an excellent blending of video and stage. The mix from wide video screen to wide live stage brought the entire sequence of April's Tower Theatre extravaganza back to life. HOT TEA found Diana's parody on the Academy Awards more entertaining than the real Hollywood event—sans Kodak commercials. The winner for outrageous cinematography in Hollywood was Divine's scratch and sniff Polyester. The winner in Houston—the envelope, please, Priceene Waterhouse—is Diana's camp and vamp Parody-ester!

PRIVATE PARTY — Last Sunday afternoon at Houston's Copa, the fifth annual Christmas In July private party unfurled like Old Glory on the 4th of July. Two personal awards of appreciation were presented to Bob Steel and Kathleen Carman by the lucky 13 hosts: Harold Myrick, Michael Kapusta, C.J. Harrington, Hoke Smith, Herb Parker, Len Love, Eddie Abshire, Larry Harrington, Bob Skinner, Steve Dugas, Don Winn, Bobby Fairchild and Rick Sweval. The HOT TEA is that one gown really did cost $800-plus!

CORPUS CHRISTI — From the Zodiac Lounge, here are the official results of last weekend's Miss Southwest Pageant where Vonda DeLayne relinquished her crown to the new winner—Lisa King! Pauletta Leigh was first runner-up and Vanessa Myles was second runner-up. Next is Mr. Corpus Christi this Sunday, July 11.

$100 BALLOONS — On the 4th of July, hundreds of fans of the Montrose Symphonic Band gathered in the Liberty Bank parking lot across from Mary's to buy a balloon to send up, up and away to help send the band members to Carnegie Hall next Spring. Several of those helium-filled balloons were tagged by TWT Magazine. For each TWT-tagged balloon retrieved back to the TWT Office at 2205 Montrose in Houston, HOT TEA will donate $100 to the band. When last seen, those balloons were drifting skyward and northwestward towards College Station, Austin, and Waco.

RALLY PRIDE — And, the photos from eli's CRUISE CAMERA of Gay Pride Week just keep on coming: At Spotts Park on the night of June 27, thousands gathered for Houston's fastest and zippiest rally ever. Even the entertainment was quick paced and hearable. First came (l-r) Frank Vega, Joseph Sedilla and Doris Day of the talented John Day and Company (see above) with songs of pride followed by Houston's unique Off-Broadway theatre group (see below) performing mini-drama in the midst of laughter and cheers, (l-r) Billie Duncan, James Harvey, Ray Mendez and Claudean Bridges. Fantastic!

QUESTIONS OF WEEK — Dateline Houston: Which bar, for the first time, was invaded by six birthday twinkies accompanied by 30 cupcakes ... From twinkies to bunnies—chocolate flavored and reportedly taste tested by bartender W.D. ... And, where has Chases lightman, blond Doug, chased off to and with whom and what?

RUMOR OF WEEK — The HOT TEA on the streets about Sonny having tossed a drink at The Exile has proven to be false. There was no drink thrown! The official statement from owner Bernice Price is, "I accepted his resignation." Sonny who had been with The Exile for over 20 years told HOT TEA he is currently in private exile and pursuing personal plans. "He was an honest employee," Price added. TWT

LONE STAR CLASSIC '82

HOUSTON — Dirty Sally's softball team has won the 1982 Lone Star Classic which was held in Houston over the Independence Day holiday weekend. However, it wasn't easy in the closely fought competition as The Galleon had beaten Dirty Sally's earlier in the tournament play. The Galleon placed second in the tournament.

Although Houston swept the top two positions, two out-of-city teams placed in the winners circle as The Eagles Nest of New York came in third followed by the Hot Shots of Los Angeles in fourth place.

Other teams participating: Open Range and Cabaret—both of Kansas City; Blue-boys and Tim's Outlaws—both of Tulsa; 69'ers of San Francisco; Independents of Dallas; and BRB, Mine, Voice, A&K, Patch and Jim's Gym—all of Houston.

Pat Vachon and Wayne Romero emceed the awards ceremony on the night of the 4th of July at the Brazos River Bottom which was complimented by Smitty and Ab's good ol' fashioned Texas style bar-b-que. Lone Star Classic committee members Carol Clark and Ferrell Bivins assisted in the ceremony by presenting the handsomely engraved glass plaques to the top four teams.

Lone Star Classic '82 was termed a Texas-size success. Attendance was remarkable. It took three softball fields to handle the many simultaneous games. The committee expressed appreciation to all MSA members and friends who donated lodging for the many out-of-city teams.

As one sports fan remarked to TWT SPORTS, "This was sort of like a gay world series with teams from all over America on the day of America's Independence." Houston is making a strong bid for the 1983 Gay World Series, it has been learned. Lone Star Classic '82 fully introduced Houston hospitality to national gay sports.

WE AGE COORS AT THE BREWERY, NOT IN THE STORE.

Other leading beers can sit in the store for up to 120 days. By our standards, that's not fresh beer. And that's not Coors.

Any beer can get stale as it sits in your store. In spite of this fact, other leading beers can sit in the store for up to 120 days. By our standards, that's not fresh beer.

And that's not Coors. Because freshness means better-tasting beer, Coors takes absolutely no chances when it comes to fresh beer taste. That's why Coors has a 60-day freshness policy, the strictest freshness policy in the beer industry.

This policy assures that Coors is always stocked fresh so your last Coors tastes as fresh as your first. That's why Coors is the beer made for the way you really like to drink beer.

verges on Memorial Park this weekend for the always impressive 31st annual Warren Paine Women's Fastpitch Invitational Softball Tournament. This Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, July 9, 10 and 11 mark the dates for the three-day event.

The public is invited to witness the spectacular art of women's fastpitch on fields 1, 4 and 5 at Memorial Park. TWT SPORTS has been informed that some of the visiting teams include the Orlando Rebels from Florida, the Lakers of Austin, the Hamilton Bears from Kansas City and the Comets of Houston. Teams from all over America are also included.

The prestigious women's sporting event of the year is being co-sponsored by the Metro Houston Softball Umpires Association, the Houston Parks and Recreation Department and Houston's Coors Distributors.

JEFF GREEN TOPS

DALLAS — In July 5 action in the Oak Lawn Bowling Association, Jeff Green of Division B was the star of the night — the only player to win both high game and high series with scores of 216 and 563.

In Division A top honors were split with high game being won by Bill McKnight's 219 while Mike Metcalf's 592 won high series. In Division C, Ronnie Patton's 197 won high game and Jim McCaslin's 530 won high series, reported Ken Begley to TWT SPORTS.

Division A standings: 1) M&M's, 2) Mr. Bill's Boys, and 3) Jacks.

Division B: 1) Union Jack, 2) Crisco Kids, and 3) ET.

Division C: 1) Ma & Pa Kettle Co., 2) Letta Balls, and 3) Bobbie Pins.

TEXAS CHALLENGE CUP

HOUSTON — Houston's Montrose Sports Association has narrowly edged by the Dallas Oak Lawn Tennis Association in tennis at the annual Texas Challenge Cup Tournament. The cup will stay in Houston for a second year but OLTA promised to retrieve the cup from MSA next time, TWT SPORTS was told.

In close singles action, there were eight Houston victories and seven Dallas victories.

Houston singles winners: MSA's Fred Lopez won two sets from OLTA's Ron Duron, MSA's Rich Ryan won two from OLTA's Al Leong, MSA's Jon Colbert beat OLTA's Luther Menke twice, and MSA's David Robicheaux won over OLTA's Brian Starnes twice.

Dallas singles winners: OLTA's Jon Papp won twice over MSA's John Ryan, OLTA's Don Draper beat MSA's Ron Landrum twice, OLTA's Mike West beat MSA's Lester Vela twice, and OLTA's Luther Menke beat MSA's Jon Colbert once.

In doubles matches, the OLTA won six sets while MSA trailed closely winning five.

Sometimes you get more than you're itching for.

Intimate moments can make for pleasant memories, but occasionally, something a lot less pleasant lingers as well—crabs, for example. Now there's RID,* a liquid treatment that kills crabs in 10 minutes and provides rapid relief of itching. RID contains a safe, medically proven natural ingredient at almost twice the concentration of the leading non-prescription product. Each package also includes an instruction brochure and fine-tooth comb for lice and nit removal. You can buy RID at your pharmacy without a prescription and begin treatment at once.

But remember, 38% of the people with crabs have been found to have something worse, like VD. So if you think you may have been exposed to something more than crabs, see a doctor.

As is customary, twice a year STARSCOPE presents its semi-annual forecast for romance. Last January, STARSCOPE predicted the first six months of 1982. Now, at mid-year, STARSCOPE presents your LOVESCOPE for the remainder of 1982.

Since Venus is the planet which rules love, sex and romance, it is only appropriate that STARSCOPE track the movement of this planet through the zodiac for the last half of this year.

As shown in the sky-chart above, Venus begins the mid-year in Gemini. Venus enters Cancer on July 20; enters Leo on August 14; enters Virgo on September 7; enters Libra on October 1; enters Scorpio on October 25; enters Sagittarius on November 18; and enters Capricorn on December 12, where it ends 1982.

During the first six months of 1982, Venus traveled through six signs. Venus now picks up speed as it zips through eight signs during the last six months of 1982. Thus, you'll have to act quickly to take advantage of a faster-moving Venus.

GEMINI: Your best cycle for romance during the last half of 1982 is occurring now, while Venus is traveling through your zodiac sign. This nicely romantic Venus cycle lasts until July 20. Venus will favor your finances in late July and early August. Late August is your best time for a summer vacation. October 1-25 marks the period for another love cycle as Venus will be in your house of love affairs. Marriage is favored from November 18 to December 12, when Venus is in your seventh house of partnerships.

GANGER: Your best cycle for romance during the last half of 1982 begins on July 20 when Venus will be in your own zodiac sign. This nicely romantic Venus cycle will last until August 14. A vacation will be most successful if taken in early October. Love affairs are blessed from October 15 to November 18, when Venus is in your fifth house. Marriage plans are strongly favored from December 12 until year's end when Venus will be in your seventh house of marriage.

LEO: Your best cycle for romance during the last half of 1982 begins on August 14 when Venus will travel through your zodiac sign. This nicely romantic cycle lasts until September 6. Your best time for a get-away trip will be in late October. Venus gives you a fine opportunity for dating between November 18 to December 11 when it will travel through your fifth house of love affairs. Your health should be excellent at year's end.

VIRGO: Your best cycle for romance during the last half of 1982 begins on September 7 when Venus starts a sojourn through your own zodiac sign. This finely romantic period will last until September 30. Venus will also present another romantic period after December 12 when love affairs will be accented through the festive Christmas holidays. Your financial picture is boosted by Venus during October.

LIBRA: Your best cycle for romance during the last half of 1982 begins on October 1 and continues through October 24. Late November and early December are peak times for communication and short trips.

SCORPIO: Your best cycle for romance during the last half of 1982 begins in late October. The period from October 25 until November 17 will be a peak romantic cycle. Your chances will then be at their zenith for love. Venus will help your financial picture in late November and early December indicating that you should make the most of your holiday gift purchasing prior to December 11. After December 12, Venus will bless communication and short trips, making Christmas holiday vacationing most pleasurable.

SAGITTARIUS: Your best cycle for romance during the last half of 1982 does not come into full blossom until November 17 when Venus enters your own zodiac sign. This finely-tuned romantic cycle will last until December 11. A new love for the Christmas holidays will then be indicated. After December 12, Venus will give a positive vibration into your financial picture helping you end the year on an upbeat money note.

CAPRICORN: Your best cycle for romance during the last half of 1982 does not come until near your birthday cycle as Venus will not be in Capricorn until after December 12. This placement is certain to bless your Christmas holidays with romance and happiness. Meanwhile, friendships and social events will be fortunate during early November. Venus will bless your employment picture in early October.

AQUARIUS: Your best cycle for romance during the last half of 1982 occurs from August 14 until September 6 when Venus will be traveling through your seventh house of marriage. Long journeys such as a vacation are indicated by a Venus passage through your ninth house in early October. Early November can find Aquarians enveloped in a new career venture.

PISCES: Your best cycle for romance during the last half of 1982 occurs from September 7-30 when Venus will be traveling through your seventh house of marriage. A long trip would be best taken after October 25 when Venus passes through your ninth house. Tenth house career matters receive a positive Venus vibration between November 18 and December 11, ending the year on an upbeat employment note.

Your career receives a dynamic boost at year's end when Venus starts a sojourn of your tenth house of employment on December 12.

TAURUS: Your best cycle for romance during the last half of 1982 occurs in late October and early November when Venus will be traveling through your seventh house of marriage. This finely-tuned romantic cycle begins on October 25 and ends on November 17. After December 12, Venus will indicate pleasure and romance of a long-distance nature as your ninth house will entertain the positive vibrations of romantic Venus over the Christmas holiday season.

Coming next week: The July 20 New Moon coupled with a partial eclipse of the Sun! ☼

STRAIGHT WIVES AND GAY MEN
A new group has formed in the Houston area for gay men who are married to straight women and who want to keep their marriages intact. We have found that these men have very unique problems, that their wives also have unique problems (if they know). Our group is a peer group made up of men who are concerned about their lifestyle and concerned about helping other men in a similar situation, we are totally a self-help group, no psychologists are present, this group is run for us by us and wives are not present. We will be forming a group just for them. The response from our ads in some Gay newspapers have brought an overwhelming response from all over the state. A group will be forming in the Dallas area within the next few months, followed by San Antonio and Austin. For further information please contact the Alternative Relations Council, ask for Jeff at (713) 772-6424.

Houston. Texas Gay Conference meets at 106 Avondale the second Wednesday of each month at 7:30pm. For information, Jenny Willinter—(713) 869-7231 or Wilde 'n' Stein, 529-7014.
