GAY CONGRESSMAN WINS 7TH TERM

BOSTON — Remember U.S. Representative Gerry E. Studds, the Democrat from Massachusetts who was censured by the House last year after admitting he had an affair back in 1973 with a 17-year-old male page?

Well, Mr. Studds, undaunted, went boldly forward and ran for office again, running against a county sheriff, Republican Lewis Crampton. When all the votes were counted in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts on election night, November 6, Studds had shocked the conservative world by winning in a landslide—taking sixty percent of the popular vote.

While many Texans are toiling with doom and gloom analysis of the conservative groundswell that swept the national election, it comes as extremely bright news to TWT NEWS that while many of our non-gay but pro-gay candidates were defeated, the one who was actually an admitted gay person won hands down.

"I don't care what he does in bed," an elderly lady told the Boston Globe. "All I care about is he's a damn good congressman! That's why I voted for him and I'll do it again."

AUSTIN GAY LOBBY DOUBLES ITS EFFORTS

AUSTIN — When the 1985 session of the Texas Legislature convenes this January, the gay community of Texas will have two lobbyists working on Capitol Hill watchdogging gay rights—doubling the clout of the gay community.

This year, LGRA will have extra help on Capitol Hill from the Bar Owners Association of Texas, a.k.a. BOAT, which has hired Bettie Naylor as its chief lobbyist. "We are pleased that BOAT is going to be a new lobbying force in the upcoming session," LGRA co-chair Pat Cramer told TWT NEWS/Austin.

"This will add visibility to the many facets of the total gay and lesbian community of Texas," she explained.

Naylor, long-time lobbyist of LGRA, chose earlier this year to take employment with BOAT. This decision subsequently created a vacancy for LGRA's chief lobbyist which, Cramer said, "will be announced around December 1."

Several hard working lobbyists have already applied for the job of being LGRA's primary lobbyist, and whoever is selected will work closely with Naylor. As a result, the gay lobbying effort in Austin will be beefed up—doubled in the 1985 session.

DREADED ANTI-GAY BILLS FOR 1985

AUSTIN — Each season when the Texas Legislature is in session, a rash of dreaded anti-gay bills hang in the balance, waiting to be introduced for passage. The 1985 session promises to be no exception.

Investigative work by the gay lobbying effort of the Lesbian Gay Rights Advocates on Capitol Hill in Austin reveals three dangerous bills, two of which may be introduced by a conservative Republican state representative from central Texas.

TWT NEWS/Austin has learned that one of these bills would require all people in Texas who have been diagnosed with AIDS to carry a card saying they are infected with the mysterious disease.

Another bill would make it a state law that the words "sexual orientation" never be added to the list of protected classes of discrimination in any Texas municipality or county. This would smack directly at Houston's January 19 referendum and also hamper efforts in Dallas by DGA to get a similar measure passed there.

A third bill is aimed at Texas A&M University and other state schools. "That proposed law would deny any state school of state funding for its gay student organizations," LGRA's Pat Cramer said.

Of course, LGRA hopes to stymie these anti-gay bills in committee before they ever reach the floor of the House or Senate for a vote. In the past the gay lobbying effort has been mighty successful in its efforts to derail such bills.

REFERENDUM VOTE NEEDS $100,000

HOUSTON — "Our biggest problem going into the January 19 referendum battle is money," the Rev. Bill Oliver, campaign director for Citizens for United Houston, told Houston bar owners last week. "Of the half-million dollars needed to successfully wage an effective campaign, $100,000 needs to come from the gay community."

Addressing the bar owners group, Oliver said, "Your clientele will be affected by the outcome of the vote," as he made an appeal for club owners to raise money on their own.

A plan to hold a citywide benefit show at the Summit on a Thursday night, at which time all bars would be asked to close, was quickly quelled for two reasons. Most felt that an event similar to HGPC's Tina Turner Gay Pride Show at the Summit of 1983 would be too costly and would run the risk of likely being poorly attended—a gamble.

Club owners also felt each bar could better devise their own fundraiser which would be appropriately acceptable to their differing clienteles. For instance, Rich Hebert of the Drum pledged that funds from their November 30 auction benefit would be donated to the referendum. Oliver Pierson of Dirty Sally's of Austin and Houston, pledged his clubs could raise $5,000. TWT magazine confirmed it would send out a statewide envelope mailer to its 42,000 readers in early December so donations could be easily mailed in as a holiday gift.

It was encouraging to hear Rita Wanstrom of the Double R Saloon report that many non-gay groups and businesses have joined the referendum fight. Supporters now include such heavyweights as the League of Women Voters, the Jewish community and the Presbyterian churches of Houston.

"The key to winning this referendum is to diffuse the gay issue," Bill Oliver explained. "Our opponents like the Klu Klux Klan, the Moral Majority and Councilman John Goodner feel they can win if they can keep the newspapers and television news calling it a gay rights ordinance. Instead, we need the media to start calling it a non-discrimination ordinance."

"Right now, the press is doing what Goodner wants—making it a gay issue," Oliver explained. "But the non-gay community is nervous about the vote. These businesses are not yet ready to let the KKK dictate city policy."

When TWT NEWS/Houston asked about the outcome, Oliver predicted "a low turnout at the polls will help gays. Also, 30% of our support will come from the black community."

OPINION POLLS ON GAY RIGHTS VARY

HOUSTON — Two separate public opinion polls on gay rights in this city have produced opposite results. A TV poll shows most Houstonians favor a gay rights ordinance, while a newspaper poll shows the opposite.

The most recent poll was taken November 14 by Warner Amex Cable-TV. During a debate between Councilmembers John Goodner and Eleanor Tinsley on Houston's sexual orientation referendum, viewers were asked to respond to the question, "How do you plan to vote?"

At the outset of the program, 61% said they would vote for it, while 39% were against it.

Later, at the end of the program, the same question was repeated to see if any minds had changed. They evidently had, as an hour later the yes vote dropped to 53% and the no vote rose to 47%.

Councilperson Eleanor Tinsley, a proponent of equal rights for gays, said, "I'll settle for 50.1%." Opponent, Councilman John Goodner, was overheard to say as camera faded away for a commercial, "We haven't had one single call tonight [against]..."

Several weeks earlier, prior to the November 6 election, Dr. Richard Murray of Rice University conducted a poll on behalf of the Houston Post and KPRC-TV. That poll produced almost opposite results.

That pre-election poll asked, "In recent years, laws have been passed to protect the rights of women, blacks and other racial and ethnic minorities. Would you favor or oppose extending such legal protection to homosexual Americans?" 53% said they were opposed and 31% said they were in favor, the public opinion poll showed.

Since both polls have a plus or minus error of about five percentage points, and since both polls show each side winning by no more than about five points, TWT NEWS concluded that current opinion on gay rights in Houston is a tossup—too close to call.

As a result, both sides have their work cut out for them—to educate the public on the issue before election day, January 19, 1985.

HOUSTON BAR ORGANIZATION

HOUSTON — The Houston Organization of Bar Owners, a.k.a. HOB, held their monthly meeting on Wednesday, November 14, upstairs at the Barn, at which time attorney Jim Kuhn advised the group to keep their newly-formed organization simple and loosely structured.

As a result, there are to be no dues, no bylaws, or other restrictions placed on membership. "The purpose of HOB is not to tell bar owners how to run their business or where to buy," President Alan Pierce of HOB stated. "I want to make that point emphatic," he added.

HOB members agreed that liquor prices at the wholesale level need to be investigated further, since different bars are paying different prices from each other, often from the same seller.

Bar supplies were also among the topics discussed. Danny Villa, sales representative for Citywide Wholesale, told the group he had researched prices to make his company's price list extremely competitive. "We don't have three different price lists," said Villa. "I want only the minimum profit needed to operate on," he stated.

Jim Dodson of the Venture-N urged all Houston bar owners to join the statewide Bar Owners Association of Texas, a.k.a. BOAT. "We need an honest lobbyist in Austin like Bettie Naylor to watchdog our industry and our rights," he said.

The next HOB meeting will be on December 12, 2:00pm until 4:00pm, at the Venture-N. "We will continue to meet on the second Wednesday of each month," Pierce told TWT NEWS/Houston.

ARLINGTON IS OUT OF THE CLOSET

ARLINGTON — "Out of the closet: Arlington split over gay rights." That was the front page headline in the October 29 Fort Worth Star Telegram, one more wave of emotionalism to wash ashore locally over the Randol Mill Park issue.

On the left remains Arlington City Councilmember Jim Norwood, who explained his crusade against Arlington gays, "I feel like I was called by God to serve on City Council. I need to uphold the beliefs that got me there. The Bible addresses sexual activity and pinpoints homosexuality as an abomination to God."

On the right is Allen Saze, a political science professor at UT-Arlington, who commented that if any group is discouraged from moving to a community, it might not end there. "Once it starts, where does it end," he said. "As long as people abide by the law and they do not injure anyone, they have the right to freedom."

Caught somewhere in the middle is Burvin Hines, president of the Arlington Chamber of Commerce, who maintains his city is "not a permissive community." He adds, however, "Neither am I on a witch hunt. I abhor abnormality. I just don't see it in my daily life."

Meanwhile, residents living near Randol Mill Park on Gaywood Street have signed a petition to change the name of their one-block street. It seems the name of their street has been the target of jeers.

Although they haven't come up with a new name, TWT NEWS/Fort Worth learned that the city fathers would require the new name to also begin with a "G" to conform with the adjacent neighborhood streets which follow in alphabetical order.

ELF LOUISE'S 14TH CHRISTMAS PROJECT

SAN ANTONIO — As the holiday season approaches with increasing rapidity, the Elf Louise Christmas Project is gearing up for its fourteenth year "to help make Christmas joyful for children."

"We have less than two months to organize the elves, order the toys, put on a WOAI radiothon on December 7-8, take applications and appeals for help and then deliver the toys by Christmas day," Elf said.

Each year the gay community of San Antonio has continued to be an integral part of the annual Christmas project, and this year's effort promises to be equal to the holiday task.

When is the project? Elf told TWT NEWS/San Antonio that "Our holiday project will be open from 9:00am until 9:00pm, seven days a week beginning after Thanksgiving on November 26 and continuing until December 25, 1984. Come by. We'd enjoy having the opportunity to show you around and what we're doing with your donation."

FARO'S NEW AIDS SERVICES MANUAL

DALLAS — The Federation of AIDS-Related Organizations AIDS Action Council has reported the completion of its goal of publishing a manual of support services for people with AIDS.

The Manual is the most comprehensive guide now available to federal, state and local support services for people with AIDS. The manual will soon be mailed to member organizations. In Texas, FARO member organizations are: Dallas Gay Alliance, KS/AIDS Foundation-Houston, and the Oak Lawn Counseling Center.

Any person with AIDS who needs assistance of any kind, from Social Security Disability benefits to Supplemental Social Security Income, Medicare, and other forms of assistance, should contact one of the member organizations for information, board member Mike Richards told TWT NEWS/Dallas.

FARO's AIDS lobbyist is Gary MacDonald, who began his work as the executive director of the AIDS Action Council this month on November 1. MacDonald worked for the U.S. Information Agency as a foreign service officer for eight years. He also worked in the Middle East before being assigned to Washington, D.C. in 1982.

In January, 1985, MacDonald and the AIDS Action Council will begin to lobby in earnest for more funding in the fiscal year 1986, concentrating primarily on research funding as well as significant additional monies for treatment therapies research and psychological services for people with AIDS.

Also starting in January, FARO will publish an AIDS Action Update which "will detail the latest information available on AIDS research and funding issues," Richards said. TWT

San Antonio Pride

Dear TWT:

I have only been a resident of San Antonio since May '83 and, in that short period of time, have seen first-hand much of the gay community, its activities and leaders. Dr. Toby Johnson's letter [TWT COMMENT, Vol. 10, No. 34] only confirms what I've felt about some of the members of the Alamo Human Rights Committee and the San Antonio Gay Alliance: their "holier-than-thou" attitude towards fellow gay San Antonians—and gay Texans.

I was once referred to as a "common bargoer type" by one SAGA supporter, because I wasn't as riled up about some gay issue as he was. Sure, I enjoy going to S.A.'s bars, and I'm not the first to wave a banner against injustice or other causes the AHRC or SAGA choose to, but I am a gay person.

Just because I don't lend my time, money and efforts to organizing community projects like Gay Fiesta or politics doesn't make me any less concerned about gays as a whole. I merely live from day to day and do my small part by voting and generally by just "being there" at various community functions.

I've been going to school and working, trying to keep my head above water, so I won't have to move back to my hometown . . . , which is truly the definitive "sleepy little town on the river" with no gay organizations, no gay bars and no gay news. . . .

In San Antonio I feel liberated as a gay person. I have been exposed to more fellowship, love and understanding by gays here than could have ever been possible in my life before. I can find very little to complain about—except maybe for AHRC's or SAGA's seemingly constant whining.

I don't know where Dr. Johnson's been hiding, but S.A.'s gays are anything but closeted. We're everywhere, and . . . we're a pretty happy bunch.

Dear TWT:

The most-wanted gay publication in Texas is never to be found in Fort Worth. We try to keep a complete set for reference, but end up catching only one or two a month.

They literally are gone within a couple of hours after they are put out. They are stolen out of guys' back pockets. Send more! Or charge money for them if you must!

Frank Roper, board member
Tarrant County Gay Alliance
Fort Worth, Texas

Dear TWT:

I've been reading TWT for many years and enjoy it more all the time. I guess I'm not alone, as it seems like it's getting harder and harder to find your magazine each week here in Dallas. I know the copies at the Crews Inn go faster all the time.

I'm willing to pay to get my copy of TWT each week, and I know lots of my friends feel the same way. Some of us are over 40 years [old] and like to read.

Maybe if we all paid a quarter or more, you could print more, so you wouldn't run out so soon.

Thank you, and think about it.

We have thought about it, and we may have to start charging . . . at least 25¢. Comments welcomed.

Act Like a Lady

Dear TWT:

I would like to take this opportunity to reply to Stacy Renee's letter in TWT [Vol. 10, No. 34] for November 9-15, 1984.

I believe as a titleholder, as well as someone who has been doing drag for many years, Sabrina DeLorean showed very poor sportsmanship at the Miss Louisiana, U.S.A. Pageant. If the trauma was so intense, Miss DeLorean should have decided not to go on stage. Instead, she went on stage, did not win and had a fit that caused pain for someone else. . . .

First, it was Lisa King and now Sabrina DeLorean. Don't you boys realize that you are trying to give the illusion of being a lady? I have never known ladies to act this way, and if you can't control your butch tendencies when you are in a dress, then don't put on dresses. . . .

In closing my response, I would like to say that performers should get a better prospective on what they are trying to achieve.

William E. Weaver

A Crown for a Crown

Dear TWT Readers:

On October 19, 1984, I traveled to Shreveport, Louisiana to compete for the Miss Gay Louisiana U.S.A. title. Upon arrival, I was told not to compete, but as a dedicated performer and competitor, this only strengthened my determination to enter the pageant.

Upon hearing the decision of the judges, I was filled with anger, hurt, and above all, disappointment. Because of the emotional impact of the events, my emotions got the best of me, and I used Racine Scott as my outlet.

Before I had time to think about the repercussions, I walked past Racine as she was being photographed and intended only to throw the drink in her face, but I did not realize how close I was to her and struck her in the mouth with the glass chipping her tooth. The rest is as you have heard.

I want to express my sincerest apologies to Racine and also to everyone who ever thought I was a grand person. Being in jail and surviving the trauma of all this has broken any breath of grandeur I may have possessed. Jail is a harsh place to have to learn a lesson. Fortunately, I have always been a strong-spirited person with a great sense of pride in my achievements.

This business is hard to survive in, and you always have to stay on top. I am taking care of Racine's tooth, and it is a small price to pay for the loss of a five-year career, titles, friends and, above all, respectability. As a result of this calamity, Sabrina De Lorean, the competitor, died that night in the jail cell, alone. I only hope the people who respected Sabrina will always remember the true element of who and what she was.

Again, my deepest apologies to Racine Scott, Miss Gay Louisiana U.S.A., and my most heartfelt thanks to Mr. Jerry Byrd. Sabrina De Lorean

Dear TWT:

The November 14 Referendum Debate between Eleanor Tinsley and John Goodner gave me a clearer picture on the sexual orientation ordinances. Eleanor Tinsley covered herself with verified facts and statistics, proving that the many myths often used by mudslinging politicians are based completely on the ignorance that created them. She displayed unquestionable support for our community and the ordinances we are fighting for. We owe her a big Thank You for her genuine support.

John Goodner's homophobic, indirect answers and fictional statements did not bother me, and his rudeness didn't affect me. It did bother me when he described a letter from twin brothers, both doctors, both gay, serving the gay community, opposing the civil ordinances our community now fights for. Whether they agree or disagree doesn't concern me, but Goodner's claim of possessing a letter, from whom he described as "respected gay doctors serving the Montrose area" who express opposing views concerning the ordinances we deserve and must fight for, does. This statement by Goodner was the only thing he had to say that actually squashed me! If some members of our community oppose NGTF and GPC's time and energy fighting for our civil rights, discuss it with them.

This referendum campaign just got off the ground and has two months to go. We need all the ammunition we can get. I can't believe we gave them ammunition they now have used against us and probably still will. The past several Gay Pride slogans express Unity, Strength, and Determination for Equality. Our fight will prove it!

And then again, Goodner may have just blown another circuit and created more fiction for his campaign against us . . . I hope so.

THE REFERENDUM

THE FUTURE AFTER THE ELECTION

by Ray Hill

The sky has not fallen, nor is it the end of civilization as we know it. But we have sustained some serious losses in the recent election.

First, the good news: the Houston GPC Bloc Vote is in good shape, and our strength is greater than at any time in our history. Our candidates for the Texas Legislature were successful and our U.S. representative, Mickey Leland, has been re-elected for another term. Our candidate for sheriff of Harris County takes office January 1 to begin a four-year term. Harris County attorney, Mike Driscoll, was re-elected handily with our support.

And now the bad news: we failed in our attempts to elect a sane U.S. senator from Texas. Our endorsed candidates for president and vice president led only in those precincts where we have influence, predominantly black and heavily Hispanic precincts. We lost every Harris County judicial race as well as the three fourteen-county appeals district races in which we had made endorsements. Our only successful judges were: John Hill, chief justice Supreme Court, and Sam Houston Clinton, Criminal Court of Appeals.

What does it all mean? Quickly put: we are in the most defensive position we have been for many years.

Further, we have lost some valuable defensive tools on which we have relied upon in times past. Foremost among these losses is LOST MOMENTUM.

This is the first election in which we have been so devastated. In every previous election the majority of our candidates have been successful. This time most of our [endorsed] candidates went down in defeat.

They did not lose by wide margins; they just did not win!

There will be plenty of words wasted trying to explain why. I will leave those for others to write. I'm not so worried about "why" as I am about the answers to the question, "Where do we go from here?"

The first thing on the agenda is the referendum. Suddenly we are way behind our opponents. Our previously successful campaigns had us lulled into a dangerous sense of complacency. That success-induced apathy is now closing in on us, isolating us from political reality. It's a simple fact: we are going to lose the referendum unless we launch a well-financed, well-planned campaign. We certainly have a qualified campaign manager [Bill Oliver]—but the money is simply not there yet.

Unfortunately, there are those who do not understand the importance of the [Houston] referendum and the ordinance it protects.

Congratulations from

LYNN CHRISTOPHER
Entertainer of the Year Ft. Worth

I have seen actual letters from well-to-do members of our community asking the mayor and council to back off the issue. Some of the same folks are giving megabucks to churches where the petition was passed around and signed. These gay equivalents to "Jews for Hitler" need their priorities adjusted. Perhaps the shock of exposure would wake them up.

If we lose the referendum, Houston's Gay Political Caucus will continue to screen and endorse candidates. Some of those endorsed will be successful. Others will not be. The Montrose Clinic and the Montrose Counseling Center will continue their efforts, as well as MCCR and the other churches and groups offering their services to our community. But the city of Houston will continue to discriminate against us in hiring, firing and promotions as well private employers, large and small.

Maybe those among the more fortunate of us who never have to fill out employment application forms miss the point of protected job security. And perhaps the costs of this campaign will have to come out of the pockets of those of us paid by the hour or month. If that is going to be the case, I resent the other benefits enjoyed by the scabs higher up the economic ladder. After all, was not their sexual activity just as illegal as ours before the Baker vs. Wade decision, and will they not be recriminalized with the rest of us with changes in the composition on the U.S. Supreme Court or the Texas Legislature?

Why then must we do all the work on this referendum and contribute most of all the funds needed to run it? Insofar as I know, there is nothing about surgically-trained hands and those trained to open law books that prevent them from also stuffing envelopes or dialing numbers off phone lists, or writing checks payable to Citizens for United Houston.

The referendum is coming as surely as the dawn is tomorrow. No one can call it off. It will not go away. And it is going to cost well over $500,000 to win on January 19. Its loss means people will lose their jobs, educations will be worthless, credit cards will have to be returned, cars repossessed, and so forth, ad nauseum.

When discrimination becomes legal by popular vote, discrimination will become a popular activity—in the private as well as the public sector. Discrimination breeds discrimination.

We can count on the support of the minority communities, the educated segments and academia of the city, and most of the women. But we are going to have to pay this bill ourselves!

If we win, our job will be easier in the city elections this fall, and we can approach the primaries in the spring of '86 with real optimism and from a position of strength. If we fail, it will be bad weather through all those seasons and for several years to come.

In 1985 the Houston GPC will be ten-years old. The initial "hard-core" have mostly wandered off to be replaced by a younger, more diverse and dynamic larger group of people whose fresh ideas have augmented the original plans. We will depend on a broader coalition of like-minded human rights groups to accomplish our goals.

The reality of the referendum is that it is actually those groups that comprise the rest of our coalition that the opposition is really after. We are chosen as a strategic target, because it is felt that we are the weakest element in that coalition. We are considered the most vulnerable. If we cannot pay the costs of our defense, they guessed right. They will win by default. And ultimately, the whole of our coalition will lose.

But the failing is not in our leadership. The caucus has never had stronger or better-prepared leadership. If we fail, it will be due to the lack of commitment the community at large has to winning and keeping its own worth and freedom. We cannot expect Bill Oliver or Sue Lovell to convince each of us that our jobs and our careers are worth protecting. We must each convince ourselves and invest in our own security, each according to his or her ability to contribute. We can do that, if we will.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE DEBATE ON THE GAY RIGHTS REFERENDUM

BETWEEN HOUSTON CITY COUNCILPERSONS

ON THE RIGHT

On January 19, 1985, voters in Houston will decide if the words "sexual orientation" should be added to the list of non-discrimination classes in Houston's civil rights hiring code. On that date, voters will decide if it's all right to discriminate in city employment on the basis of sexual orientation.

As the election approaches, the controversy heats up as supporters of both sides campaign. On Wednesday night, November 14, on Houston's Warner Amex Cable Channel 3 (local access), councilmembers John Goodner and Eleanor Tinsley debated the issue. Goodner (from the left) opposes the issue; Tinsley (from the right) favors the issue.

Published are HIGHLIGHTS of that debate as monitored by TWT NEWS/Houston.

TINSLEY — I am for this ordinance because there's proof that homosexuals have been discriminated against. They should have protection from being fired or hired just because they are gay.

GOODNER — I'm not against equal rights for homosexuals. But I am against giving status to a minority that chooses its lifestyle.

TINSLEY — There is new evidence [hormonal] that one's sexual orientation is caused around birth. It's not something they choose. It's not a matter of choice. It's decided at an early age. It's like being preordained to be black or left-handed.

GOODNER — I'm concerned. [Although] lesbians have one of the lowest incidents for health disorders, many [gay] males are getting AIDS. And I don't want our children to be with gays serving as role models. I think we have a right to discriminate in our parks department where the employees come in contact with children, in our fire department, in our police department or anything else.

TINSLEY — I've checked with the city, and most sexual assaults against children are committed by heterosexuals. Homosexuals account for less than 5%. In fact, [sexual assaults on children by homosexuals] is so low the city doesn't even keep records on it.

GOODNER — This ordinance is not the end; it's the beginning. Sue Lovell of the Houston GPC said they would have gone for a fair housing ordinance if they would have had the support on council.

TINSLEY — Sue told me she didn't say that, and unless you have it on tape to prove it . . .

GOODNER — I don't want our city to be like San Francisco or other cities where this has been tried.

TINSLEY — John, there's nothing wrong with San Francisco. It's a beautiful city. At least 40 other cities have similar ordinances. New York, Philadelphia, Tucson, and Austin, Texas. I want Houston to be among the cities that do not allow discrimination.

GOODNER — But, other than the one case which City Councilmember George Greanias says he has proof of, there is no discrimination. If we had discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation, then we wouldn't have so many gays in city government now. [In an effort to show that all gays are not in favor of the ordinance, Goodner said,] I get calls from gays, too. Even the Doctors O'Brien are incensed by this being brought forward, because they say it sets their program back. I have a letter from them saying they are opposed. [When a viewer called in to ask who they—O'Briens—were, Goodner responded,] They are identical twins—prominent homosexuals in Montrose.

TINSLEY — There are to be no quotas set on how many homosexuals are to be hired. Gays would not be included in the city's affirmative action program. It's really very simple. All it says is that it's not all right to hire or fire someone just because they are a homosexual.

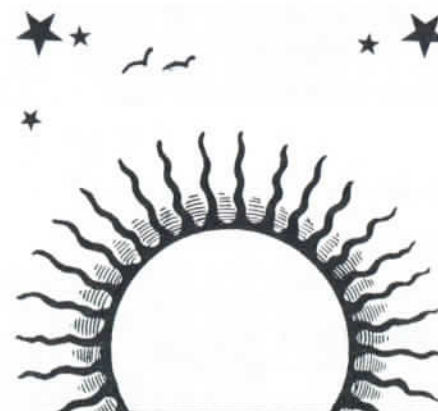

GOODNER — What bothers me is the way this whole thing was rushed through City Council. People resent this.

TINSLEY — That's a ridiculous statement, John. It wasn't shoved through. It was first brought up on December 7 by Councilman Anthony Hall. It was brought back to Council in May—three times. Then Mr. Goodner placed an ad in the newspapers which brought out a mob. They came to Council. I've never seen such intolerance and venom.

HOST — They misbehaved as honorable citizens. Is this going to become a religious issue?

GOODNER — I do not want this issue to become a Christian issue.

TINSLEY — This has nothing to do with religion. To me, discrimination is immoral and wrong.

DALLAS AND HOUSTON GAY BLOC PRECINCT VOTING
IN THE NOVEMBER 6, 1984 ELECTION

HOW OAK LAWN GAYS VOTED

■ DGPC endorsed candidates who won their precinct.

Since we had a lot of gay losses in Dallas, we need to remember that we now need to increase our presence in the Republican Party more than ever before. By the same token, gays cannot decrease their presence in the Democratic Party.

Looking at the overall Dallas County vote totals, when you come back into the seven core DGPC-targeted precincts, it shows that there is about a 19% difference in the vote that DGPC-endorsed candidates picked up. If you look at a map of Dallas County precincts, our seven core gay precincts jump out at you.

Where it is most noticeable is in those precincts of ours which went for Reagan but then jumped over to go for Doggett. In a lot of the cases, Doggett outpolled Reagan in our precincts where we had clear-cut choices of a candidate [Gramm] that was gay-baiting our endorsed Doggett.

I think that any time you get an endorsed candidate in our precincts, you will normally see in about every election over the last several years a 19% pickup in votes for the endorsed candidate.

The only difference this time was in the presidential race. I had said all along that I didn't feel our endorsement of Mondale would change many people's minds. It was an individual choice. But once you drop below that top-of-the-ballot race, our voters tended to follow the gay bloc voting in our core precincts.

When voters got down to the Dallas County sheriff's race, the same thing happened. Whereas the overall county vote totals were about 36% for our endorsed candidate [John Vance], when you come back into Oak Lawn, his vote total jumps back into the over-54% margin.

In this race we had a candidate who did not necessarily engage in gaybaiting. In fact, our opponent was very careful not to say that our candidate was endorsed by DGPC. His position was that he would carry out whatever the law was. He played it very cool and was non-specific. Even so, our endorsed candidate picked up about 19% more votes in our Oak Lawn core precincts.

Thus, I definitely do feel that the Dallas gay bloc vote still does carry when it's clear to our voters where a candidate stands on our issues and position. It's particularly true when one of the candidates uses gay-baiting.

■ HGPC endorsed candidates who won their precinct.
*KLEV.—KLEVENHAGEN

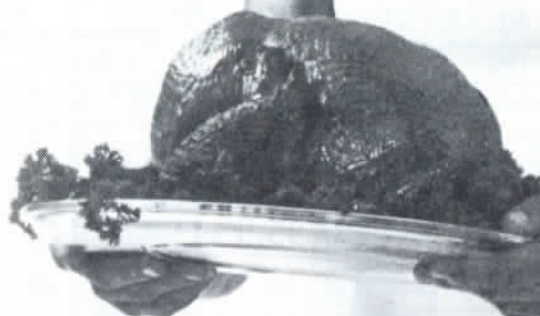

In the seven core Montrose precincts, the Houston GPC endorsement at the presidential level resulted in an unprecedented majority of 53.4%. Six of the seven precincts supported the GPC-endorsed candidate, Democrat Mondale, with the seventh narrowly going to Reagan.

In 1980, with the GPC endorsement, President Carter won five of the seven precincts, with the endorsed candidate receiving 52.6% of the two-party vote, and 46.2% of the total vote, including Independent John Anderson. Contrastingly, in 1976 with no GPC endorsement in the presidential race, only three of the seven precincts went to the Democratic nominee who obtained only 49.6% of the vote.

Even greater support is shown in the U.S. Senate race. The endorsed candidate won over 60% in all seven precincts. In those precincts he won 64.6% of the vote, compared to 42.6% in Harris County and only 41.4% in the state of Texas.

In the Harris County sheriff's race, again the GPC-endorsed candidate, Klevenhagen, won handily with 66% of the vote in these precincts, providing him with 52% of his county-wide margin of 4,931 in a race with over 800,000 votes cast.

In the down ballot races, which consist of numerous judges and other jurisdictional officials, the GPC-endorsed candidates received approximately 65% of the vote in these precincts. Contrastingly, they were losing overall, with deficit margins ranging from 43% to 48%, a noticeable spread of up to 20% in most races.

While GPC-endorsed candidates did well in the core precincts, they were, with minor exceptions, swept away by the fundamentalist conservative movement that some of our own gay/lesbian community supported, knowingly or unknowingly, by voting for these non-endorsed candidates or not voting at all.

James Sicner—collage artist—brought his art to Economos, Works of Art, 2503 River Oaks Blvd., Houston, November 17, 1984.

From Palm Springs to New York ... Mexico to Italy, his works may be viewed by the art traveler, but in Texas, one may view the achievements/accomplishments of this intense artist at Economos.

Since childhood, Mr. Sicner has been painting in the collage medium. Works often relate with architectural projects at which time mural painting becomes a part of the structure, relating to the purpose and functions of that task space. Works may be simply pictorial (standing alone) or in a series, like the small series of 5" by 7", three-dimensional art studies that have been on exhibit recently.

A varying theme is reflected in the development of "Man's Evolving Images Printing and Writing," a panoramic collage of literary illusions; both allegorical and symbolical, as presented at the Maddox Library, Trinity University, 715 Stadium Drive in San Antonio. Measuring fifteen feet by eighty feet, this mural—the largest in the world—which took four-and-one-half years of work, is a composite of documents and illustrations recalling history from the clay tablets of man's early environment and communication to man's walk on the moon.

Always the vision is into a fresh and forceful language of contemporary art expressing the times with strong key subjects in an interpretation that invests every area of the media surface. Mr. Sicner, a believer in the energy of the universe and the communication of the mind, is able to depict today's art without the avant garde quickness which separates him from the Expressionists and places him in the reality of a master artist of today.

Selections for the collage come from different media: literature, illustrations, prints, lithography, etc. ... all building from the preliminary studies through the completed composition. The flow which gives the works the life and vibrance of this exhibition is rarely seen today. With patience and time, glazes, over-painting and frame work all areas of study as the work progresses to completion. Areas of work that the viewer may well perceive but not knowingly conceive, in the first viewed expression, is the vast research, not only in media application, but in regard to the subject matter and its complete message.

To the serious art collector that wishes to own a piece of work by James Sicner, one may visit Economos, Works of Art, and join with those like the Denver Art Museum, Museo de Arte Moderno, Mexico City, or The Museum of Modern Art. You may choose to visit galleries in Rome, Paris and Copenhagen, or you may visit Economos, Works of Art, in Houston to enjoy fine art.

One of the newest books (Sept. '84) published by Alyson Publications is out, called Firestorm, by Gerald Wening. It joins a whole slew of other, similar books that can be said to form a genre of their very own. The plot usually includes a gay protagonist who must stand up to a narrow-minded, conservative and/or fanatically religious politician/community leader/preacher. In Firestorm, Matt Justin does not exactly stand up to Reverend Gerald Renalski, though.

Jim is the preacher's son, is openly gay and has just recently moved from the city with his family to the small farming community of Willow Glen. He will soon be leaving for college, but then fate steps in. Matt Justin, his wife Marie and their three-year-old son Greg all live on their farm. Matt does all the chores, and he is behind. Upon meeting the Reverend, who wants his son to do some morally-rectifying hard work, Jim becomes Matt's new farmhand.

Thus the stage is set, and soon Matt's "straight" facade melts away under the revealing gaze of Jim's eyes. Even though Matt has been married to Marie for four years, and almost immediately after Jim comes out to him, Matt says the three magic words, "I love you." The credibility and willingness to believe Wening, that has been built up with the reader to that point, is totally lost. All Matt's conditioning as a straight male seems to magically disappear, even though he has not once had sexual longings for, or activities with a man before.

Two other problems stand out. One is the rather pedestrian treatment of the subject with little depth to the characters, and the other is the unfortunate fact that this type of story has been done so many times before. The Jerry Falwell-type character is too easy to punch on, and the outcome, for this type of book, is too predictable. Wening does attempt to have the reader care about what happens to some of the characters.

What infuses characters with life, making it easier for the readers to identify with them, is the emotional side of the character. Unfortunately, Wening forgets that for his fictional beings. We are left with characters who have no internal motivation for the things they do, no strong emotion that spurs them on or diverts their way.

Firestorm is a pleasant, mildly entertaining book, if for no other reason than from seeing the fundamentalist preacher go down in defeat, his plots backfiring. We do see the preacher motivated by hate—irrational and all-consuming—but this reader was not convinced, did not feel that hate he is to have felt for gay people.

PHAR LAP

Reviewed by Harry Deutsch

Anti-Depressant

In case there are any people left who haven't yet OD'ed on the Rocky syndrome, maybe they should catch Phar Lap, and they'll have a decent chance to go over the edge. Not that it's a bad movie. Just predictable, that's all. To the majority among you who don't have the foggiest as to who or what Phar Lap is/was, here's a rundown.

The time is the late 1920s and early '30s in Australia, and Phar Lap's a rather scrawny-looking horse that's been bought dirt-cheap for the sole purpose of winning big on the race tracks of Down Under. The horse's physical appearance is described as a cross between a sheepdog and a kangaroo. No wonder that the odds of its standing a chance in the galloping circuit are astronomical. It's your guess what'll happen next... Correct. The scrawny creature soon turns into a winner.

Before that, we witness some hard-core—in lieu of the more appropriate word, cruel—training methods, which an unfeeling, ambitious trainer (Marti Vaughan) administers. The horse aims to please under all circumstances. Its owner, Dave Davis (Ron Liebman), is an opportunistic creep. The only sensitive person around is stable boy Tommy (Tom Burlinson), who demonstrates some honest horse-sense. Phar Lap features the sort of slow-motion footage that seems to be a must for a race-track picture of its kind. It is often nice to look at; the acting is sincere and competent.

The book by David Williamson is based on a true, traceable story that inspired a Depression-torn world. It is family-oriented, non-controversial and repetitive in its neck-on-neck racing sequences and the spectators' elated reactions. Some seemingly global anti-Semitic sentiments of the time are merely touched upon. The film ends on a sentimentally sad note, as did the real life of a galloper with an unmatched career do spirit.

Sweethearts Tommy (Tom Burlinson) and Emma (Georgia Carr).

Just the Way You Are

Reviewed by O. Flores Alvarez

Peeping Tom

The new Kristy McNichol movie might be called Kristy Sleeps Around instead of Just the Way You Are. In the space of 1½ hours, Kristy gets in bed no less than five times, with three different men/boys.

Kristy plays Susan, a young flute player who has polio. She seems to be a pretty nice woman; she is talented, nice looking and about to embark on her first European concert tour. She also seems to have a sense of humor about her polio, keeping it all in perspective. Yes, for the first ten minutes of the film, you think she is a decent person. Then, while on tour in France, she gets this crazy idea to have her polio-affected leg taken out of its brace and put into a cast, then hang around a ski resort, where everyone is supposed to think that she has a broken leg instead of polio. There she finds out that she's the life of the party. Everyone looks at her differently—no more pitiful glances, just out and out leers for her sexy uncrippled body.

As the acting, writing, and direction are all up to par (and they are), my main objections to this movie are its messages.

First, Susan is engaged to a nice junior executive stock broker. Great guy, you think. He doesn't seem to care about her polio. Later you find out the guy is gay and has only taken up with Susan as a cover. Message: a social outcast and a cripple make a great pair.

Second, Susan ignores all the real love that is around her—from parents and friends, from boyfriends who want to be with her but need a little time adjusting to her polio—and chooses one-nighters as a sign of love. Message: only sex is love.

It's a good sign from Hollywood—a movie with a bankable female star dealing with the serious, much-ignored subject of physical imperfection; it's just too bad they got the message wrong. Instead of fooling men into falling in love with her, Susan should have been able to keep her brace and win their love all at the same time. Instead of sensitizing the audience to people with physical imperfections, Just the Way You Are becomes a teenage bump & giggle show with a gimp as the lead. Tacky, really tacky.

NAMING NAMES — To paraphrase Andy Warhol once more: in the future everyone will either star in or be the subject of a TV miniseries. How about both? That's the case of Shirley MacLaine, who is planning to portray herself in a miniseries adaptation of several of her soul-searching autobiographies, including Out on a Limb. Don't count on any special effects from the Steven Spielberg/George Lucas crowd, but do count on the necessity for keeping a very open mind. . . . Speaking of Spielberg, did you know that he owns the "Rosebud" sled from 1941's classic Citizen Kane film? He got it at an auction a couple of years ago and paid a record (for movie collectibles) $60,500. . . . Whatever happened to Ronee Blakley the remarkable singer-songwriter and actress who received an Oscar nomination for her appearance in Robert Altman's wildly acclaimed 1975 film Nashville? In a little less than a decade, Ronee has graduated to "mother" roles (as they say), and in her latest film—A Nightmare on Elm Street—she is seen as the mother of the character portrayed by newcomer Heather Langenkamp. A variation on the tried and true teenscream formula, A Nightmare on Elm Street comes from the perhaps demented mind of director Wes Craven—the ex-literature professor who gave us 1977's The Hills Have Eyes. And the supporting cast for A Nightmare on Elm Street includes still another "whatever happened to" face from the past. Do you remember John Saxon? . . . Supergirl is already upon us, and Helen Slater, who debuts in the title role, is already at work on another film—the tentatively titled Fair Is Fair, which is filming in Corpus Christi, Texas. . . . Amy Madigan, that talented young actress who portrayed widely disparate characters in Streets of Fire and Places in the Heart, will be appearing in Laundromat, a two-character story for HBO. The other character will be portrayed by none other than Carol Burnett. . . . And another twosome, Robert DeNiro and Martin Scorsese, may collaborate on an upcoming film biography of George Gershwin. . . . In other cable news: Dallas star Priscilla Beaulieu Presley will be traveling to another southern city—Memphis—to host a Showtime special salute to her ex-husband, the late Elvis Presley. The special, titled Elvis Presley's Graceland, will air on January 8, which would have been the rocker's 50th birthday. (Suddenly I feel like shooting up Geritol.) Another interesting tribute to Elvis is a videotape called Elvis '68 Comeback Special, which will be available in December. . . . And in the déjà vu department: you may have heard that the classic French farce The Tall Blonde Man With One Black Shoe, a film released in 1972 and followed by a sequel two years later, is being Americanized and remade with Tom Hanks as star. With a new title—The Man With One Red Shoe—the film will also feature Dabney Coleman, Charles Durning, and Jim Belushi (brother of the late John Belushi). . . . Oh wait, there's more déjà vu in the reissue department. Can you believe the stuff they are digging up and dusting off these days? I mean, now Universal Pictures has restored the original 113-minute print of 1954's The Glenn Miller Story, starring James Stewart and June Allyson, and come next fall we'll get to see it—complete with a stereophonic soundtrack! And there is also interest in restoring and reviving a 1935 RKO film called Becky Sharp, which was the first-ever technicolor feature. Well, it's always nice to see Miriam Hopkins

Helen Slater: from up in the air to Texas.

Although the main attraction for most holiday filmgoers this season will undoubtedly be 2010, Supergirl, The Cotton Club, and Dune, these blockbusters are by no means the only attractions for the more devoted among us. Robert DeNiro and Meryl Streep, who co-starred together in The Deer Hunter, are reunited in Falling in Love—a "bittersweet" romance set in New York. Michael Keaton, Joe Piscopo, Maureen Stapleton, and Dom DeLuise are on screen together in the gangster parody Johnny Dangerously, which has a title song by "Weird Al" Yankovic. And the original pecker himself—Pinocchio—is back in the annual Disney reissue.

Robert DeNiro, Meryl Streep and Pinocchio: holiday attractions.

TEXAS by Rob Clark

Samantha Samuels

EDITH MASSEY — Last month, "Edie" Massey, also known as "the egg lady," died of cancer in Los Angeles.

Edie was discovered working as a barmaid in Baltimore by filmmaker John Waters in 1971. He immediately cast her in his first feature, Pink Flamingos with cult star, Divine. Her most recent film, Polyester, garnered this tribute from Newsweek: "The guaranteed scene-stealer is the eerily unhinged Edith Massey, a performer so genuinely eccentric that it is not clear whether she deserves an Oscar or a 24-hour nurse."

Encouraged by John Waters to pursue a stage career, Edie toured the country with her own band since 1977. Gina Schock of the Go-Go's got her start in Edie's original band, The Incredible Edible Eggs. Edie has appeared at virtually every major underground club in the U.S.

In 1982, Egg Records approached Edie with the idea of making the cult star a recording star. Her debut recording, a picture disc single released through Thunderbolt Record Distribution, features an Edie original, "Punks, Get Off the Grass," and an unforgettable remake of the Four Seasons' classic, "Big Girls Don't Cry."

Since 1972, Edie had her own store, Edith's Shopping Bag, in Baltimore across from the bar where she was discovered.

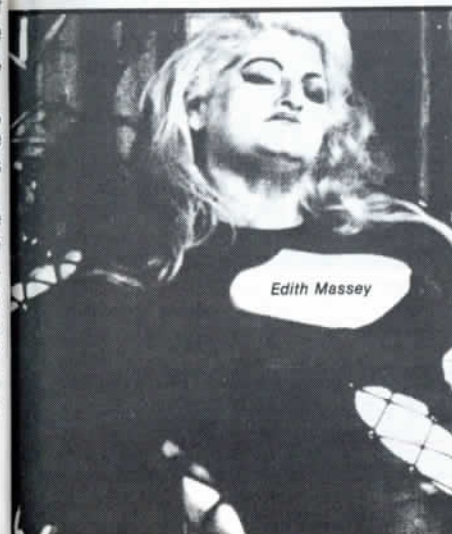

Those who met and worked with Edie all said the same things about her. She was a very warm performer and a genuine friend. She was always there to help, whether it be for the many AIDS benefits she performed at, or the many clubs, gay and straight, that called upon her for worthy causes; she was always available.

CABARET CIRCUIT — Studio 13 in Houston (1318 Westheimer) has a full week of entertainment for you. On Monday will be Kim Yvette; Tuesday, (the fantastic) John Day; Wednesday, Roxie Starr; Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Lee LaForge. All shows are from 9pm to 2am.

Samantha Samuels hits the stage for one week only at Rascals in Houston beginning November 27. She sings on-stage with her musical director Eric Vetro, and they put on quite a show. (That's putting it mildly). November 23 and 24 are your last two nights to catch Montgomery, Plant & Stritch. On Monday, November 26, Donna Corley and Charlene Wright sing their lungs out.

Patrick's in Dallas presents Sheila Ceaser and Carol Weiss from November 21 through December 8, Wednesday through Saturday, beginning at 9:30pm. Each Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Mark Carroll performs through November.

FRED & EHTYL — The Sons & Daughters of Fred & Ethyl will be presenting their November show on Sunday, November 25 at Backstreet Basics in Austin. Curtain time is 11pm. Reserved seating is available by calling (512) 477-3391.

Edith Massey

This show will feature such popular characters as Jerry Falwell, Anita Bryant, Miss Kitty, The Pointless Sisters, Maude & Ethyl, The Carpenters, Lawrence Olivier Newton's John and the usual amount of unusual surprises.

Producer/director Frank Benge also reports that the December 30 show will be their Best of 1984 production, and a special Salute to the Wonderful World of S&M show is planned for early in 1985.

80 WAYS — The current production at Risky Business in Houston is called Around the World in 80 Ways. They have assembled a cast of some of the finest talent in Houston, many from the Montrose area, and feature exceptional musical arrangements, lavish costumes and some of the most outrageous comedic moments their stage has seen.

Dancing cocaine bags, harem girls and a street mime are only the beginning of a fabulous night's entertainment. Later, it is inevitable that Carmen Miranda and a chorus of dancing bananas brings down the house. 80 Ways runs Thursday through Saturday evenings at 8:30pm. Call (713) 528-3611 for reservations.

The run of the very popular Surrender Dorothy has been extended, and you can pick up free tickets at TWT for this show, which runs Tuesdays and Wednesdays through December 22.

GAY TRIVIA — It's finally here! With America's fascination for trivia, there has been a trivia game created especially for and about gay men and women. Gay Trivia™, created by Fabu Enterprises, Inc., in Washington, D.C., includes nearly 2,000 questions about gay history, lifestyles, personalities, politics, the arts and entertainment.

Gay Trivia is compatible with popular trivia board games, yet can be played on its own and is compact enough to be played anywhere—on the beach, in the car . . . in bed, for that matter.

The questions cover early history ("Who was Nero's lover? and 'What pope was called Our Lady of Pity?"), recent history ("What kind of shop did Harvey Milk operate on Castro Street?"), politics ("Who was the first openly lesbian state legislator in Massachusetts?"), entertainment ("What actor played Steve Carrington's first lover on Dynasty?"), and lifestyles ("What button is left undone on a pair of 501's?").

While there will be national distribution of Gay Trivia in retail stores in 1985, the creators of the game can fill mail orders immediately. The price per game is $19.95, plus $3 shipping. Checks or money orders should be made payable to Fabu Enterprises, Inc. and sent to 1419 Twenty-Second Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20037. Visa and Mastercard accepted. For more information (or phone orders), call (202) 463-0790 between 10am and 7pm EST weekdays, and mention that you read it in TWT.

WOMEN'S COMEDY — The music and comedy club, Humoreske of Houston, presents An Evening of Women's Comedy on Thursday, November 29. The show will star Cheryl Holliday and co-star The Humorettes and the all-female improvisational group of Toni Potts, Dee Macaluso along with comedienne Lisa Gehman and Diane Kelly.

For reservations and information, call (713) 780-8343. Humoreske is located at 3750 S. Gessner at Westpark.

MONROSE CHRISTMAS CONCERT — You are invited to join the annual Christmas Concert by the Montrose Symphonic Band on Saturday, December 8, 8pm at Lanier Middle School (Woodhead at Westheimer) with special guests, New Orleans Men's Chorus and the Bayou B'lue Singers; then on Sunday, December 9, 5:30pm, at the corner of Montrose and Westheimer (Mary's), the invitation is extended for the lighting of the Montrose Christmas Tree and caroling through the neighborhood. Call (713) 527-9454 for more information.

TEXAS STUFF — Look for Dena Kaye to make a San Antonio stop at the Country Corner Saloon on December 14.

The Old Plantation presents Norma Lewis live in concert next Friday, November 30. Be sure and see her, as well as all their shows, which now run seven nights a week.

Margaret Reynolds put on quite an act at the recent Fur Fashion Show at Rich's in Houston. Along with her classic disco hit tune, Keeping On Holding On, she worked the crowd with lots of other up-tempo songs. She had the folks dancin'!

Speaking of shows, Lana Kelso and Jerry Ferro put on quite a show at the Grand Opening of Buddies in Dallas. Buddies will continue to frequently bring in musical acts for you in the future.

The Gabriel String Quartet will perform at the Christ the King Lutheran Church (2353 Rice Blvd.) on Thursday, November 29 at 8pm. The classical concert is free and open to the public.

NEW CHOCOLATE BAYOU — The Chocolate Bayou Theatre Company has announced its plans for a new theatre building, to be constructed next door to The Paradise Bar and Grill (401 McGowen) in Houston. Their 1984-85 season will bring you, Angry Housewives, Schereazade, Stage Struck, Master Harold . . . and the Boys, Zastrozzi, The Master of Discipline, Doctors and Diseases, To Gillian on Her 37th Birthday and The Gift of the Magi. For further information, call (713) 759-9840.

speaking of flesh, the Crossing wants to know how well you know some of the men of Austin. On pages 2-3 you are asked to match front ends with rear ends. Isn't that Granny, seventh from the left or is she second from the right? Go ahead. Make an ass out of yourself and enter . . . evidently the gang at Backstreet doesn't have their heads up their asses either, as they're going all out for their second anniversary on Pearl Harbor Day, December 7, by closing for four days of extensive remodeling and de-greening of the club.

MR. TEXAS — Time is drawing short to enter this year's annual Mr. Texas Pageant which will be held this year—for the first time—in Austin at Oz on Saturday, December 1. Produced by He and She Productions, all proceeds will benefit the Texas gay lobbying effort, via BOAT.

To enter, simply bring your $50 entry fee made payable to BOAT, to the 3:00pm registration-rehearsal at Oz on the afternoon of the pageant. See pages 92-93 for rules and regulations. See you in Austin for Texas' biggest male pageant.

TATTLE TALE — Dateline Houston, specifically Avondale Avenue, along the street of glitter and bustle that never closes: safe and secure on Dirty Sally's patio, her majesty's court witnessed a puff of smoke come out the chimney, followed by a second puff. Could it be that there would be two winners of Miss Avondale this year—a dual monarchy? Indeed! Gathered for a 10:16pm royal family portrait are (top row, l-r) Sally's king, Oliver Pierson; Five & Dime's queen, Ray Dareing, who was last year's winner; along with the dual 1985 monarchy of John L and Larry Phillips; (bottom row, l-r) former Miss Avondales, David Williams and John Junkins with Pricene, this year's run-"her"-up. "You had to have won this title before to understand what it really means to be Miss Avondale," a retired monarchette tried to explain to HOT TEA.

ABC TEA — The keynote speaker at the December meeting of the Alamo Business Council, a.k.a. ABC, will be Hap Veltman who will make some predictions on the growing and developing gay community of San Antonio. Hap is not only owner of Bonham Exchange and several bustling restaurants, but has also continued to be a prominent mover and shaker on various boards and committees in city government. The December 4 meeting will be at the Marriott on the River Walk. 7pm—cocktail hour, 8pm—holiday dinner followed by Veltman's address.

SAN ANTEAONIO — Timmy's Tea: it's now official. ALICE DOES DALLAS — Throckmorton Mining Company, the cornerstone of Dallas' gay crossroads, celebrated its 8th anniversary Thursday night with a giant bash. Some of Big D's hottest bartenders took time out to pose for my CRUISE CAMERA (see above, l-r). That's James, Randy, Jay, Tom and Robbie. Later, assistant manager Jay Williams (below) and manager Larry Allen (r) took a break from the celebration. Congratulations to TMC from HOT TEA, not only for the success of their anniversary, but also for being the #1 gay bar in the entire state of Texas, according to the latest TABC figures. Later in the evening, the party moved around the corner to the Round-Up, where their Cedar Springs Variety Show raised over $3,500 for the newly located Oak Lawn Counseling hand for the evening were (above, l-r) Tex Massey of the Ranch, Frank Caven of Caven Enterprises and Bill Hargis of the 8th Day. Speaking of benefits, next Thursday's Mr. Dallas contest at 4001—another Mr. Texas preliminary—is a fundraiser for OLCC's Aids Action Project and Gayline. TARRANT TEA — This Saturday, the Tarrant County Mining Company will present the Miss Tarrant County Mining Company Pageant at 11pm. Stop by this Tarrant County hot spot and celebrate this event with Justin and his staff.

IMPERIAL TEA — The Fort Worth Imperial Court of the Golden Lions has successfully completed its 4th annual Halloween candy drive. The campaign was far more successful than any year in the past, breaking last year's record which had been the best to date. Through the Imperial Court, the gay community of Fort Worth contributed almost $500 in cash and candy. All cash was used to purchase candy, which was packaged in individual portions by court members. All the candy was delivered to the children of the Fort Worth State School before Halloween. The gay community is proud to help those who are less fortunate than we are to have a better life. Although the candy drive is over, the court is still accepting donations for toys for tots and the court food bank.

Our STARSCOPE stars this week are: (l-r) Harpo Marx (Nov. 23, 1893), Ricardo Montalban (Nov. 25, 1920), Robert Goulet (Nov. 26, 1933) and Boris Karloff (Nov. 23, 1887).

WEEK OF NOVEMBER 23-29

NOVEMBER SKY— Now that the eclipse of the New Moon on Thanksgiving Day is behind us, all stargazers can settle down and enjoy the good planetary trends that proceed until the end of the month. In case you haven't noticed, the Milky Way has swung around since last summer and now runs in an east-west direction. Meanwhile, the Great Square of Pegasus is high in the southwest sky.

Mars In Aquarius— The entrance of Mars into Aquarius on November 16 ushers in a late-autumn cycle that is bound to see some unusual happenings in sexual relationships. Unexpected encounters with strangers would not be uncommon during this cycle since Mars rules your sex drive and Aquarius holds domain over the orthodox.

Venus With Jupiter— The topic of this week's STARSCOPE message is the great conjunction between Venus and Jupiter which occurs at 8:15pm this Saturday night, November 24. Basically this conjunction brings about good luck in most matters, especially love.

Not only is this conjunction very powerful in your own starscope, it's also very visible to the naked eye in the early evening Texas sky in the east after sunset. For weeks, stargazers have been watching these two huge bright white planets move closer together in the evening sky. This Saturday night, they will be as close to each other as astrology will permit.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov 22 - Dec 21) This Saturday night's massive conjunction between lucky Jupiter and lovely Venus occurs in Capricorn, placing this very beneficial conjunction in your second house of money. Consequently, this is a wonderful time to cash in on any investments, start a new budget, save earnestly, and make wise purchases — especially on items of beauty, art, music and romance.

CAPRICORN: (Dec 22 - Jan 19) This could be one of your luckiest times of the century, as lucky Jupiter and lovely Venus form a conjunction in your own zodiac sign of Capricorn this Saturday night. Use this wonderful time to scoop up lots of love, money and healthy ideas. Lady Luck is on your side. You could be very, very lucky in love. Don't stay home. Be visible, so the right person can find you under the Venus-Jupiter conjunction.

AQUARIUS: (Jan 20 - Feb 18) In case you feel sexier than usual, it's likely because Mars, the planet which rules your sex drive, entered your own zodiac sign of Aquarius last week on November 16. Of course Mars can also make you more nervous than usual. The good things in life will likely come to you in your quiet moments when you are alone, as this Saturday's Venus-Jupiter conjunction occurs in your twelfth house of the inner self. But of course, most of your truly happy moments have usually come from within.

PISCES: (Feb 18 - Mar 20) This Saturday night's massive conjunction between lucky Jupiter and lovely Venus occurs in Capricorn, placing this very beneficial conjunction in your eleventh house of friendships, hopes and wishes. Under this most beneficial spell, some of your fondest goals can be realized. Take a chance as Lady Luck is on your side. Social occasions can bring much joy.

ARIES: (Mar 21 - Apr 19) Your career receives one of its biggest boosts of the year this weekend when lucky Jupiter and lovely Venus form a conjunction in your tenth house of employment. This is a time when lady Luck smiles on your career. If unemployed, this is an ideal cycle to take job interviews. If already employed, then now is the time to advance yourself in the eyes of your superiors. What you do will be noticed and rewarded.

TAURUS: (Apr 20 - May 20) The good thoughts you have about taking a trip during the holidays are due to the benefic Venus-Jupiter conjunction which occurs in your ninth house of travel this Saturday night. This coming together of these two powerful and benefic planets blesses all journeys. It's also an ideal time to tackle any legal problems you may have or unravel any marital entanglements.

GEMINI: (May 21 - Jun 21) Other people's money flows into your pocket as lovely Venus and lucky Jupiter form a conjunction in your eighth house this Saturday night. If someone owes you money, now would be a splendid time to collect. Those engaged in endeavors to sell to the public, entertain the public or protect the public are also blessed. Public endeavors will be rewarded with monetary gifts.

CANCER: (Jun 22 - Jul 22) This may be your best time of the century to make marriage work, since lovely Venus and lucky Jupiter meet in the sky in a heavenly conjunction this Saturday night, smack dab in the middle of your seventh house of marriage. If single, there will never be a better time to find a mate. If married, there will never be a better time to deepen existing ties and iron out any problems. Happy marriage.

LEO: (Jul 23 - Aug 22) This Saturday night's massive conjunction between lucky Jupiter and lovely Venus occurs in Capricorn, in your sixth house of health and employment. If you find yourself working this weekend, co-workers should be very cooperative, and superiors should notice your good deeds and hard work. It will be rewarded. Healthwise, this is an excellent time to improve your diet by diving head first into a new diet or exercise program, by turning over a new leaf of less alcohol, drug and tobacco consumption. Use the lucky Venus-Jupiter conjunction to get any ailments properly diagnosed, treated and cured.

VIRGO: (Aug 23 - Sep 22) This is going to be a splendid time for dating, as this Saturday night's Venus-Jupiter conjunction occurs in your fifth house of love affairs. Since Venus rules love and Jupiter rules luck, you should be very lucky in love. And there will be lots of love, too, since this great conjunction operates out of the house that rules romance. Make yourself visible and available. You won't be sorry.

LIBRA: (Sep 23 - Oct 23) Your home-front is blessed by this weekend's Jupiter-Venus conjunction which occurs in your fourth house of the home. Since Venus rules romance and beautiful things, the opportunity to cozy up your home turf with new purchases such as music, paintings, and adornments is enhanced. They will be wise purchases since Jupiter's luck guides you correctly. As the holiday season begins, your home should be a warm, lovely place to enjoy.

SCORPIO: (Oct 24 - Nov 21) The art of communication comes to a peak this weekend as Venus and Jupiter form a massive conjunction in your third house. Your ability to sell is high. Your knack for saying the right thing to the right person at the right time is enhanced. Your effectiveness in what you say and write hits the mark. Others allow you to lead, actually trusting to follow you. Travel plans are also blessed. There should be no delays or problems with journeys.

COMING NEXT WEEK: YOUR DECEMBER LOVESCOPE — a monthly STARSCOPE forecast for romance. ♀

MTC HOU-TEX HOU-TEX IV

HOUSTON — Tournament director Rich Ryan pulled off the biggest and best Hou-Tex to date as Montrose Tennis Club hosted its national tournament, Hou-Tex IV, November 10-12, in MacGregor Park. Singles champions were determined in classes A, B, and C and doubles champions were crowned for classes A & B.

Championship A Singles had 25 entrants. Arnie Barba, the #1 seed from Panorama, California, proved true to his seeding as he swept to the championship without dropping a set to four opponents. He closed out Don Kessler 6-2, 6-3 for the title on Monday. On Sunday, Jim Winters from Escondido, California, forced Arnie to buckle down, giving him his toughest match of the tournament, 6-2, 7-5. Houston's Jim Kitch won the Consolation Bracket.

B Singles had 22 entrants. Again the #1 seed, Jim McMillan, also from Escondido, swept the title, beating four opponents. The first three were straight sets, but in the finals Jim dropped the first set to San Francisco's Gavin Middleton, who had upset the #2 seed David Robicheaux, in his march to the finals. He came back to win the second set 6-3, but had to really get after it for a 7-5 victory in the third set for the championship. David Robicheaux played on through the consolation bracket and beat Rich Corder for the consolation title.

C Singles had only eight entrants, but David Robicheaux's son, Richard, held on to win the championship, 2-6, 6-3, 6-0 over San Francisco's German Arias. German was the consolation runner-up in 1983, so he was really playing well. Richard's game is vastly improved too, as his title attests! Houston's Bill Green (Ron's) won the consolation over Dallas' Margaret Wilson, MTC's Rich Corder reported to TWT SPORTS/Houston.

A highlight of the tournament was the National Title in Doubles. Thirteen very high-quality teams were entered from across the nation this year. Houston pro Tim Calhoun and teammate Don Kessler upset the #1-seeded team of Arnie Barba and Fred Orange, president of the Los Angeles Tennis Association. Orange/Barba lost the first set 5-7, but broke back to take the second set 6-4.

Class B Doubles was won by David Robicheaux and his partner Jim Sterling, again proving the Seeding Committee correct. Their match with Dallas' John Papp and Margaret Wilson went to three sets, before Robicheaux and Sterling won 7-5 in the third set. There were some really close matches when the final set was "extra games." David Lester and Rick Perkins teamed to win the consolation B Doubles over Robert Arriaga and Danny Casillas.

The Galleon was co-sponsor of Hou-Tex IV and was the site of the tournament buffet Saturday night. "Spirits were high, and the Galleon patio proved to be a great place for players from all over the country to unwind and enjoy the Texas hospitality," Corder said.

OUTDOOR GAYS

HOUSTON — The members of this city's Outdoor Gays group are enjoying the long Thanksgiving holiday weekend on a camping trip in the beautiful Big Bend National Park. This weekend's event is being well attended. But camping is not the only event the outdoor group participates in.

"We now have sub-groups interested in bicycling, scuba diving and skiing in addition to our camping and hiking," spokesperson Dennis Milam told TWT SPORTS/Houston. Contact Bill at (713) 697-9553 for details.

NOVEMBER RACES

HOUSTON — This has been a busy month for Frontrunners, as two races took place last weekend. One race was out of town in Victoria on US 59 South, while the other race was for local runners wishing to remain in town.

Meanwhile, running through Montrose continues its weekly tradition this fall. "The course varies each week depending on the wishes of the group," Randy Cumbaa told TWT SPORTS/Houston. "Usually we wind through Montrose or Hermann Park."

New runners are encouraged to participate on Monday evenings at 6:00pm; simply come to Bell Park on Montrose Boulevard. For more Frontrunners information, (713) 521-2921.

BILLIARDS UPDATE

HOUSTON — In the MSA Pool League, Thanksgiving week found three of the four previously unbeaten teams losing. The Ranch Hands now lay claim to the top position with a 4 win-0 loss record, league secretary, Dennis Lord reported to TWT SPORTS/Houston.

Bacchus and The Barn are now tied for second place with 3-1 records. Kindred Spirits is now in fourth place.

Want to Give Good Ad?

Is it time for you to have a classified affair? John Preston and Frederick Brandt can show you how to have active fun or play passive games with the personal ads. In their new book Classified Affairs, they'll tell you how to write an ad that really stands out; what to expect when you place or respond to an ad, and even what all those funny little abbreviations mean. Send $8 (postpaid) to Alyson Publications, Dept. P-25, 40 Plympton St., Boston, Mass. 02118.

Come.
Let Us Seduce
You Into Our World of Safe Sex.

With Our 1985

PlaySafe

Playmate
Calendar.

We're 13 Houston men. One Mr. PlaySafe 1985; one Mr. PlaySafe for each month. We're eager to share with you our world of fantasy ... of reality ... of SAFE SEX.

We're offering two items to introduce and promote Safe Sex. The first is a 28 page calendar including 13 enticing photos of our PlaySafe Playmates for 1985.

The second item is a black & white checkered bandanna. Ideal as a "silent signal" indicating your preference of Safe Sex. Be sure to remember your friends and loved ones—with Christmas just around the corner, both the calendar and the bandanna would make great stocking stuffers!

Enclosed is $8 (includes $1 shipping) each for _____ calendars and $5 each for _____ bandannas (B & W checkered).
