AT AUSTIN'S PLANET THEATRE

Powerful Performances Highlight
Kirk Smith's Postmodern Musical Version Of Age-Old Story of Good vs. Evil

FAUSTUS

Up from Hell, Lucifer [Kirk Smith], Mephistopheles [Jason A. Phillips] and devils [Anna Brownsted, Laura Walberg] in Vortex Repertory Company's musical production of Faustus at Planet Theatre in Austin through April 29.

It's an old story: Good vs. Evil. The quest for knowledge. When is enough too much?

Faustus, a postmodern musical by Kirk Smith adapted from the 16th-century tragedy by Christopher Marlowe, brings a new light to a dark old tale. With an excellent cast and the solid direction of Bonnie Cullum, Faustus made its world public premiere on April 6 at Planet Theatre. One couldn't help but wonder if this wasn't how Jesus Christ, Superstar got its start; Faustus has the dynamics and appeal to stay around for a long time.

Smith and musical director Sergio R. Samayoa weave 17 songs with a new-rock beat into the tale of Dr. Faustus, his loyal assistant Wagner, Lucifer and the Devil's legmen Mephistopheles and Beelzebub. One of those songs may someday bloom into an "I don't Know How to Love Him" or a "Memories"; for now, their modernness fleshes out and balances the Olde English dialogue Smith adapts from Marlowe's book The Tragical History of the Life and Death of Doctor Faustus.

Allison Roy dominates the stage with her powerful performance as the power-hungry, magic-mesmerized doctor. Seeing a female continually referred to as "he" immediately puts the audience into a frame of mind where it must suspend its beliefs and prejudices. It works perfectly, just as when the title role in Peter Pan was portrayed by a Mary Martin, a Mitzi Gaynor or a Cathy Rigby. Roy, a veteran member of Austin's Vortex Repertory Company who earlier this year co-starred as Blue in Beirut, runs the gamut from haughty power-seeker and power-wielder to fearful repentant, and brings the audience right along beside her on the emotional ride.

Jason A. Phillips as the tempting Mephistopheles and Lisa Hargus as the loyal Wagner complement Roy well. According to Cullum, the cast has been working on the show since January, and the cohesiveness they've developed was evident in the way they interacted.

Faustus is hungry to know everything, and to wield the power and magic that can only come from the rulers of hell. He must sign a contract of blood with Lucifer, with Mephistopheles serving as their go-between and answering the doctor's questions. When Faustus ponders hell as he signs his soul away in blood, Mephistopheles tells him, "Wherever we are is hell." "If this is hell, then let me well be damned," Faustus replies in his lust to learn it all. Those words come back to haunt the doctor, over whom Mephistopheles later gloats, "Fools that laugh on earth must weep in hell."

Faustus learns of hell, and of the seven deadly sins that bedevil mankind: Pride (Kyle J. Andrews), Covetousness (Anna Brownsted), Envy (Ana Mercedes Torres), Wrath (Douglas Taylor), Gluttony (Mick D'Arcy), Sloth (Laura Walberg) and Lechery (Hargus). The seven's appearances at the end of act one are entertaining, and over too soon; Envy, Gluttony and Lechery are just so good that one yearns to know them better!

Many cast members handle multiple roles in the production, and do it well. Hargus is a pleasure every time she's on stage, be it as the ultimate loyal servant Wagner, as Lechery or as Cornelius, who along with fellow sorcerer Valdez (Walberg) brings Faustus closer to the devil early in the play. There's obvious power in Wagner's servitude, which comes out as he swears love to Faustus as his master agonizes late in the play, and then as Hargus soliloquizes her dead master in the haunting "Fall."

D'Arcy is entrancing in the diverse roles of Gluttony, the Talking Head and the Old Man, who tries in vain to help Faustus regain his soul. He fails there, as the doctor opts for the pleasures of a ménage à trois with the tempting Mephistopheles and Helen of Troy (Torres); but the Old Man has enough strength to ward off Lucifer and his minions when the Temptress Devil (Walberg) entices him with "Dig."

Problems with the performance this reviewer saw were few, though there were some opening-night glitches, mostly with the sound system. The lighting design by Jason Amato (mostly dark and shadows, with fog often rolling in) and the costume design by Dianne Talley (basically, black T-shirts, tights and body stockings to facilitate everyone's movement and extend the mood, with some dark period outfits that were fittingly elaborate) were both excellent. An overture and longer songs would be nice, but those will have to wait for the move to a larger venue where a live orchestra can be used; here they had to make do with taped music, plus bridging radio broadcasts, which didn't always work and were sometimes confusing. The intimacy of the small Planet Theatre stage restricted the actors somewhat, while at the same time keeping them closely connected with the audience.

Those are things to be handled and adapted as the play grows to larger venues; for now, it's a perfect masterpiece for its environment. It takes you right to the soul and the torment of the tale, which is Smith's purpose. He does it well and proudly, just as he also acts the role of Lucifer: his presence and command is always there, always felt.

The premiere of Faustus also marked the debut of High Time cafe at Planet Theatre. After leaving its Congress Ave. home of three years, High Time is in the process of moving its deli, coffee shop and juice bar services to the Manor Rd. location. Full-service hours will go into effect over the next six months, as their space is completed and expanded with restrooms and full plumbing.

Faustus is being presented at 8 p.m. Thursday-Sunday through April 29 at Planet Theatre, 2307 Manor Road in Austin. Tickets are $11, or $7 for students, senior citizens and ACOT members. Sunday is two-for-one ($11), and Thursday is pay-what-you-wish. For tickets, call (512) 499-TIXS; for more information, call (512) 478-LAVA.

Houston's Metropolitan Community Church of the Resurrection Celebrates Its 20th Anniversary This Weekend

Metropolitan Community Church of the Resurrection [MCCR], one of the oldest continuing organizations serving the gay and lesbian community in Houston, celebrates its 20th anniversary this weekend with a variety of special events including a banquet and guest preachers.

MCCR was the first congregation in the Houston area (and remains the largest) to provide an outreach to gay, lesbian and bisexual people. A congregation of the Universal Fellowship of Metropolitan Community Churches [UFMCC], it's an inclusive, interdenominational Christian church which seeks to "...proclaim the Gospel of Jesus Christ without regard to race, sex, color, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identification, physical ability, health status, economic circumstance or prior religious affiliation."

The church officially began on April 20, 1975 with just 43 members, but soon outgrew its original location on Waugh Drive in the Montrose area. The congregation moved to a larger building nearby, but outgrew that location as well, and is now located at 1919 Decatur St. in the historical Old Sixth Ward not far from downtown Houston.

MCCR now has over 425 members in good standing, of whom approximately 10 percent are heterosexual, and continues growing. The church takes an active role in its neighborhood, and in 1994 received the Houston Historical Preservation Society's "Golden Brick Award" for the restoration of an 1890s-vintage house on its property.

In addition to providing various support groups for its members and others and maintaining an archives that mirrors the history of the local and national gay community, MCCR also hosts numerous public events throughout the year. Neil Miller, author of the recently published Out of the Past: Gay and Lesbian History from 1869 to the Present, will speak at the church next Wednesday, April 26 at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. John McNeal, a gay Catholic priest silenced by his church, will appear at MCCR on June 4.

"The vast majority of the people who decide to join the church, or visit, or become involved have felt rejected by their church or origin," said the Rev. Carolyn J. Mobley, who serves as Asst. Pastor. "They began to feel unwelcome in those churches by virtue of those churches' teaching that homosexuality is wrong. At MCCR, we clearly teach that homosexuality is a given... We affirm that sexuality is good, and you can be a Christian and a homosexual and live and die and go to Heaven just like everyone else."

Acceptance is one thing the church definitely strives to convey in its outreach to gay people who have become disenfranchised with mainstream denominations. "The one thing that more people talk about when they walk through those doors, is that they feel loved," said Ron Sparks, Public Relations Coordinator for the church. "Immediately, they don't feel like a stranger."

The Rev. John Gill, who has served as pastor at the Houston church for nearly ten years, leaves this month to assume pastoral duties at an MCC congregation in St. Petersburg, Florida.

The Rev. Elder John Gill, who has served as pastor for almost 10 years, leaves MCCR this month to take a position as pastor of the MCC congregation in St. Petersburg, Florida. "God has blessed me in every imaginable way in service as pastor," he said. "I know that God has great and wonderful plans in store for MCCR. This congregation is faithful, Christ-centered and loving."

Anniversary festivities begin Saturday with a dinner at the Westin Galleria. Musical groups will entertain and special awards will be presented. Tickets are available through MCCR.

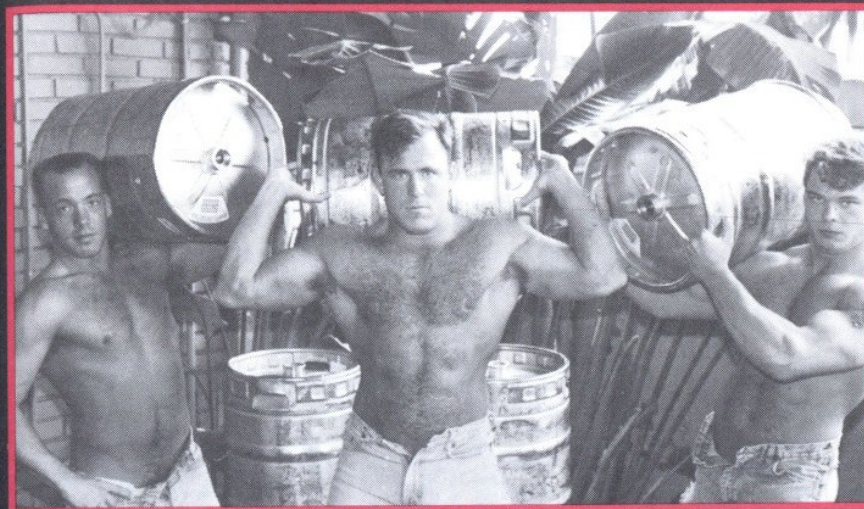

Former pastor Charles (Chuck) Larsen will preach this Sunday's 8:30 a.m. sermon. The Rev. Elder Troy Perry, founder and moderator of UFMCC, will preach at the 10:45 a.m. service. A special service is scheduled for 6 p.m., with former MCCR pastor the Rev. Elder Jeri Ann Harvey preaching the gospel. All three services will be signed for the hearing impaired.

For tickets to the MCCR Anniversary Dinner, or for more information on any of this weekend's events, call the church at (713) 861-9149.

VIVA FIESTA! If you've never been to San Antonio for Fiesta, you need to make this the year. There are plenty of things going on 24 hours a day for the next nine days. Downtown is all blocked off. The rides and attractions are ready to go. The hotels are booked solid. (So you might have to find a new friend to stay with.) And the clubs are stocked to the max with enough of that lovely liquid to ensure that you leave with an oh-so-blurry memory of your visit (or maybe not, but at least you'll be wearing a smile). "Come on down!" as they say on The Price Is Right, and enjoy our city, our music and our culture.

Speaking of Latino culture... Ralph Rosario is at it again with his latest, "Brinca" (Spanish for "Jump"), a hard-hitting, take-it-to-the-bank Latin House track to work you to filth. Now here's the one to kill you... check out Tito Puente Jr. featuring India and Cali Aleman as they recreate "Oye Como Va" (Spanish for "Hear How It Goes") for the '90s. You may remember the song as a Santana classic or, if you're as old as my sister Justin H., the original by Cuban salsa singer Celia Cruz recorded the day after the battle of the Alamo (not really!). And finally, on the Latin front, Gloria Estefan's "Cherchez La Femme" (French for "Look for the Woman"), which will probably be a hit.

Check out Rozalla's latest on Epic Records, "You Never Love the Same Way Twice." It's a mid-to-up tempo Hi-houser, swirling vocals, lovely melody line and driving bass, packaged quite well for across-the-board success. The import has been out for about 6-8 months, but at last Epic got their #*&! together and released it domestically with plenty of clever mixes for your pleasure, including ones by Love to Infinity and K-Klass. Mmm, Mmm, Yummy! CeCe Peniston and Crystal Waters will surely enjoy Those 2 Girls' "All I Want." The track is very much along the lines of CeCe and Crystal, with a bit more of a progressive edge production; nice driving bassline for those of us who're sick of that type of dance music being beaten to death on the airwaves.

Corona is back with "Baby Baby," a brilliant follow-up to "Rhythm of the Night" from last year, available both import and domestic. Very much superior to "Rhythm," this project has much more of a Giorgio Moroder feel to it, bringing Corona into a bigger league as far as dance music goes. Check out the Dancing Divaz club mix.

Yes Yes Yes to Frankie Knuckles and Adeva. Percussive long, user-friendly intro and always-flawless, flowing Frankie melody combined with Adeva's vocal attack will definitely send "Too Many Fish" all the way up the charts to number one, no doubt. For those who are into the more darkish sound, scope the David Morales mix and if you like it "pretty," give a listen to Frankie's classic mix.

Most of what has come in this week has been House music, but there have been a few flickering Hi-NRG gems floating about. One is by a person I had the pleasure of meeting at the Billboard Summit in San Francisco in January (and would marry in a heartbeat). Jeff Johnson releases his cover of the Bee Gees' classic "How Deep Is Your Love," produced by Chris Cox, formerly of Hot Tracks. Jeff's third project, this will probably secure his position in the Hi-NRG family. And another strange house/NRG hybrid, "Anything You Want," by Jodie. The song was written by Jodie and Jackie Rowe of "I Believe in Dreams" fame, beautifully showcasing Jodie's fabulous voice; available on Mercury/UK. While falling under the genre of NRG because of the vocal structure, the track has a clearly House-dominated influence. Expect a lot more of this as House begins to take its rightful place in the dance community, merging with Hi-NRG and wiping out that horrible, mindless Techno crud.

I would like to thank all the deejays across the state who phoned in after the

FIESTA SCHEDULE

Fiesta is the most eagerly anticipated event of the year for South Texans. This celebration of the close of Lent brings people from all corners of the globe to a weeklong party highlighted by parades, street festivals, live entertainment, fabulous food and regal pageantry. The following calendar represents a mere fraction of the planned events, but should provide Fiesta-goers some insight into the grand scale and vivid variety of festivities available. Fiesta is over 100 years old and wrought with tradition — some of which out-of-towners may find surprising. Cascarones, for instance, are hollow, decorated eggs filled with confetti and sold on every corner — prepared for the express purpose of smashing on people's heads. Be alert! Come to Fiesta, enjoy San Antonio and "que siga la tradicion!" (Continue the tradition!)

For more calendar info, call the San Antonio Fiesta Commission at (210)227-5191.

BY BRUCE WILLIAMS

Being gay in the '90s would seem to be a pretty serious matter, what with the dangers of AIDS, hate crimes and the Radical Right. But Dallas comedian Paul Williams has an uncanny talent for finding the humor and outrageousness in everyday life and making his audiences laugh about it—and through the laughter come the building blocks to understanding, tolerance and love.

"Is the audience laughing at me or with me?" Williams mused prior to his one-hour show at the Velveeta Room last Saturday in Austin. "It's a fine line. I'm told by some people that I'm a 'safe' gay comedian, in that I'm not doing anything overly sexual, in-your-face, uncomfortable. At a few points in my show, I want them laughing at me, because that's what I am. The main part of my show is the realization that everybody in Texas knew somebody like me."

The success of Williams' comedy is evident in the enthusiastic crowds he's attracted; his run started March 31, and he's proven so popular that his show has been held over two weeks. It concludes at 9:30 p.m. today (Friday) and Saturday, and then he's off to Kansas City, Oklahoma City and wherever else the message of laughter and tolerance needs to be spread.

Williams started out in show business as part of the three-man comedy group

PAUL WILLIAMS

Dallas Comedian Proud to Call Himself

"The Best Little Homo in Texas"

Less Miserables. He went solo nearly a year ago when the group broke up; his first gig was at the Stonewall during the Gay Games in New York City. Gay and lesbian comedy is the "in" thing right now, and Williams has the confidence and talent—and honesty—to both survive and thrive in the serious business of being funny.

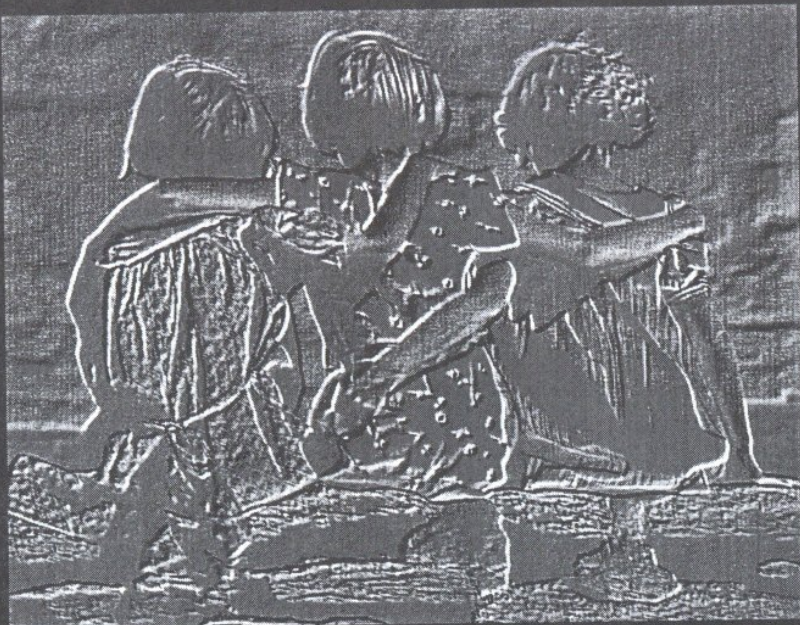

"All the jokes may be different, but it comes from similar things: the experience of being gay," he explained. "One reason gay comedy is... so successful is that, as far as straight comedy [is concerned], every topic there has been done to death."

Does he believe "gay" comedy is a phase?

"From a business sense, I think we all do. It's going to pass; a big question in each professional's mind is, when it does, will we still be hot, will we still have what it takes to make it? In the '70s it was African-American comedians; then women comics were the phase. But I'm definitely enjoying it while I can!"

At the Velveeta Room, Williams is doing a one-hour monologue featuring characters such as Sister Helen the Baptist Firebrand, Stewart the Braniff steward and Williams' favorite, Nelda the real estate broker. He especially enjoys and thrives on improvising as his characters make the audience part of the show.

"That's my favorite part; I really get off on working without a net!" the 33-year-old Baylor grad laughs. "I really like Helen, but there's a lot of comparison to Dana Carvey, and that's unavoidable; I try not to do any of his (Church Lady) stuff. Nelda's my favorite; I can almost get schizophrenic with Nelda with a crowd that knows me."

Williams finds humor in anything and everything, from '60s television and cartoon characters (he teases straight members of his audiences that they must feel like Lily on The Munsters) to "Lesbyterians" (he's leery of them when they "get the gift of tongues") to places like Oklahoma ("the state slogan is 'Oklahoma is OK' because they couldn't spell 'mediocre'). Growing up in a Southern Baptist family in San Antonio provided him rich material to work with, and he mines his personal experiences frequently and cleverly. His best target is his fundamentalist, stick-in-the-mud brother Bruce (no relation to this writer).

"My strict parents are possibly going to drive up from San Antonio to see me today; they haven't seen my solo act yet," Williams said. "They're very supportive and excited about what I've chosen to do. I'm very lucky, considering so many friends I know have been cut off from their families."

Besides his weekend work as a comedian, Williams has day jobs with the Turtle Creek Chorale and an interior design showroom in Dallas. He also emcees karaoke on Sundays at JR's nightclub in Dallas. But it's being onstage in the spotlight that he loves, and he hopes to do more and more of it. He auditioned for "Out There III," a gay and lesbian Comedy Central special, in Los Angeles; he makes his first international outing June 1 in Toronto, and he's also booked for the Bering Community Service Foundation's Tropicana Benefit at the Lovett Inn in Houston on May 7.

"We're working really hard to make everybody laugh," Williams said of gay comics in general, and himself in particular. "My goal is to reach straight people as well as gay, to show the humanity in everyone. My heroes were Lily Tomlin, Robin Williams and Jonathan Winters; when I was 12, I was doing Edith Ann in talent shows—in full drag! I just hope the gay and lesbian community will support any gay and lesbian comedian that comes around; we're trying to make people laugh, and maybe make straights think and accept others a little more."

Fulfilling Dream to Become Miss Gay Houston

Dear TWT:

On Wednesday, March 22, I was crowned Miss Gay Houston after a long night of competition. As Miss Gay Houston, I would like to thank a few people.

First, giving honor to God for blessing me with my talents and giving me the strength to pursue whatever I might want to achieve.

Secondly, I would like to thank many sponsors: Robbyn and Tony of R.A.M. Productions, the New Kon Tiki Club (Galveston), Gentry (Houston), Midtowne Spa (Houston), Beam Enterprises of Houston, and Charles Knox of Houston.

Finally, thanks to my hairdresser, Lupe of Houston; my dancers ZXavier and Sebastian; as well as the many people who have supported me in my career as a female impersonator.

As a native Houstonian, it has been a dream for me to become Miss Gay Houston for as long as I have been an impersonator. I wish the best of luck to all the other contestants entering the Miss Gay Texas Pageant and hope we will all have a great time meeting and getting to know each other in San Antonio in August.

During my reign as Miss Gay Houston, I hope to attend as many fund-raisers and benefits as possible to help in the fight against AIDS and the plight of homelessness, and hopefully be able to assist in all areas and obstacles existing in our gay society. Also, I hope to recruit future contestants and to create a more positive outlook to the public about our way of competition.

Again, thank you, Houston and Craig Henderson of USA Pageantry, and be gay proud!

P.S.: Special thanks to Kofi for all your help.

OnCol Benefits Houston's Assistance Fund

Dear TWT:

On behalf of the Board of Directors, staff and clients of The Assistance Fund, I want to thank the staff of OnCol for their generous contribution of $10,940 resulting from registration fees for the 7th Annual Houston Conference on AIDS in America. Such generosity makes it possible to continue providing services for our clients.

While this amount is the most ever generated from the Conference, we are especially pleased and honored to have been given the Humanitarian Award. This means so much to us, because it validates the important work we at The Assistance Fund are so committed to. Every day, we advocate for our clients acting as liaison with insurance companies, and help with medication assistance. Because of a generous community, we are still able to operate without a waiting list, or a monthly premium cap. For every dollar paid for insurance premiums, $150 is generated in benefits for the greater Houston area, saving and generating $55 million in benefits annually.

While this is extraordinary, the primary focus is still to provide continuation of quality health care until our client qualifies for Medicare.

Once again, a heartfelt thank-you to OnCol and the Houston community.

Greater Tuna's favorite sons, Jaston Williams and Joe Sears, return home to Austin's Paramount Theatre in Larry Shue's smash hit comedy The Foreigner May 2-14. Williams portrays the shy and depressed Charlie Baker, an Englishman who comes to a rural Georgia fishing lodge to take stock of his life. Sears is innkeeper

Betty Meeks, a no-nonsense, goodhearted widow. Performances are at the Paramount Tuesday-Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30, with 2 p.m. matinees Saturday and Sunday. Tickets ($14-$29) are available at the box office, HEB stores and all UTTM outlets.

This evening and tomorrow, April 21 and 22, Houston's Rice Media Center screens two landmark science fiction films, Stanley Kubrick's 2001: A Space Odyssey and A Clockwork Orange. With its breathtaking, innovative special effects and an unconventional approach to its story, 2001 changed the way we look at the movies and the world. In adapting Anthony Burgess' controversial novel, Kubrick turned A Clockwork Orange into a highly unsettling, graphic look at a futuristic Britain in which sadistic punk Malcolm McDowell and his cohorts embark on nightly rounds of "ultraviolence," only to be "reconditioned" by an equally diabolical government. 2001 is at 7:30 p.m., followed by A Clockwork Orange at 10. Admission is $5. For more information, call the Rice Media Center at (713)527-4853.

Fed up with working in a huge multiplex, cinephile Brad reopens a long-abandoned movie palace where he intends to show only the classics in high style, beginning with the same Hercules movie that closed the place 30 years before. That's how Hercules Returns, a new release from Australia to be screened at Houston's Landmark Greenway 5, starts out. The fun begins when he finds out the print he's received is a non-subtitled, Italian language version of the film. After this initial setup, the rest of Hercules Returns consists of an actual grade-Z 1964 Italian-Spanish epic hilariously transformed by outrageous, campy redubbing. Shows are April 28-May 4. For more information, call (713)626-0402.

The Dallas Gay and Lesbian Film & Video Festival opens with the local premiere of The Incredibly True Adventures of Two Girls in Love next Thursday, April 27 at 7 p.m. and the Southwest premiere of Lie Down with Dogs following at 9:30 p.m. Directors Maria Maggenti and Wally White will be in attendance at the screenings, at the Inwood Theatre, 5458 W. Lovers Lane. For more information, call (214)257-4443. [See related news story in this issue for a more complete listing of films on the Festival's schedule.]

The Dallas Theatre Center will present the world premiere of Santos & Santos, an electrifying new play by native Texan Octavio Solis. Set in Dallas, El Paso and elsewhere throughout the state, this epic family saga follows one man's violent descent from high idealism to the dark underbelly of the American dream. Opening night is Tuesday, May 2, with performances through May 21 at the Arts District Theatre, 2401 Flora St. Shows are at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday-Thursday and Sunday. Friday and Saturday performances start at 8, with Saturday and Sunday matinees at 2:30 p.m. Tickets ($9-$36) can be obtained by calling the DTC's box office at (214)522-TIXX.

Fort Worth native Danny Wright performs at the Caravan of Dreams in downtown Fort Worth on Thursday, May 4 for two performances only, at 7:30 and 10 p.m. Wright, a nationally known contemporary New Age pianist, has recorded 13 albums that have sold over two million copies. Tickets ($22) may be purchased by calling Ticketline at (817)877-3000.

WEEK OF
APRIL 21 - APRIL 27, 1995

The Sun enters sensual Taurus as Venus advances into pioneering Aries. Our personal mission strives for more beauty as our quest for love and acceptance acquires all the subtlety of a jackhammer. How can we successfully balance these two divergent energies? Read ahead....

TAURUS: (April 21 - May 21) The Sun in your own sign reinforces your need to annually renew and recharge your energies. Turn inward to plan your personal mission and try not to inflict your powerful personality onto others at this time. Plan new projects now, while the solar transit is strong. Venus in Aries lends a certain hidden verve to all your actions. Intuition is strong and beneficial. Use it advantageously.

GEMINI: (May 22 - June 21) Actions speak louder than words, they say, but now, with the Sun in Taurus, I say subconscious signals outweigh even outright action. Be sure that what you say you want is the same as what you intrinsically desire. Others will see the difference even if you don't, and your whole credibility will be in jeopardy. Venus in Aries helps you to at least garner the troops for a real movement. Forward march, friends!

CANCER: (June 22 - July 23) The Sun in Taurus signals your desire to belong to a group effort. This is not a bad thing as long as you share the group goal and belonging provides you with personal growth. Just because we all enjoy dancing at the same ball doesn't mean we all have to wear the same dress, you know. Happily, Venus in Aries provides you with the rare opportunity to make your mark in the professional arena. It's here that your opinions are truly appreciated.

LEO: (July 24 - August 23) Career opportunities take off now that the Sun has entered sure and steady Taurus. If you've done your homework and have built your professional skyscraper on a secure foundation, it is now time to reap the rewards. If you've been more flash and dance than true patriot, your charade will be forcefully exposed. Want to escape? Venus in Aries provides you with an appealing alternative to facing the music: take a holiday.

VIRGO: (August 24 - September 23) The Sun in Taurus encourages you to expand your horizons, so to speak, either by traveling or attempting a new course of study. Spice up your intellectual talents with knowledge you may or may not need right now. The point is to exercise your mind while Venus in pioneering Aries spices up your sex life. What is a great combination: fabulous sex in tandem with stimulating thoughts.

LIBRA: (September 24 - October 23) The Sun in beneficent Taurus enables you to get in touch with yourself. If you've been struggling with your personal identity vis-a-vis the demands of the straight and narrow world, take heart. This planetary phase will function like a release. You are just fine; others will simply have to adjust. The secret weapon here is Venus in confident Aries, which gives you strong support from partners.

SCORPIO: (October 24 - November 22) Don't go it alone while the Sun is in Taurus. The planets practically demand that you share your space with a significant other; it's probably the only way to find out what is and isn't good for you in a partner. Learn by doing and, more importantly, by sharing. While all this is going on, Venus in directed Aries enables you to plow ahead on the job with fabulous results. If only you could direct some of that into relationships....

SAGITTARIUS: (November 23 - December 22) Feisty Sags don't like orders but now, with the Sun in Taurus, you may have to play the good foot soldier. The secret to success at the moment is to be efficient and exacting. It's a tall order, I know, but the Archer is, after all, a mutable sign. That means we can go with the tide if need be. Happily, Venus in Aries provides a little spark to our play so life continues to be interesting.

CAPRICORN: (December 23 - January 20) Let the good times roll! The Sun in Taurus is an especially happy placement for Capricorns, so relax and enjoy; goodness knows you've had your share of strife and stress recently. Now you shouldn't seek to dominate or be dominated (unless, of course, you're into that scene...). Venus in Aries almost mandates that you entertain at home more. Okay, we'll find the party at your house.

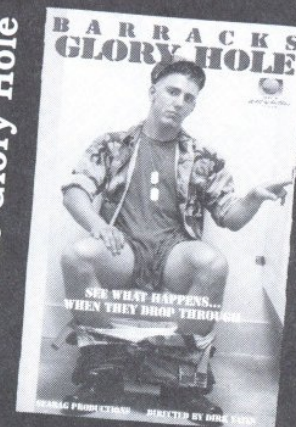

AQUARIUS: (January 21 - February 19) You've fought the battles and carried the rainbow banner for us all, but now, with the Sun in reflective Taurus, you need to concentrate on yourself. There's a lot to be gained from talking to family members, especially when you're still grappling with closeted demons. Remember that the Sun is a strong light and these monsters skrink from the glare. Good thing that Venus in Aries helps you communicate more effectively now that you need it!

PISCES: (February 20 - March 20) The exchange of communication is paramount when the Sun enters Taurus. As shy as Pisces can be, we are sometimes the chatterboxes of the zodiac. This transit works best when we temper our tongues and tune up our ears. At the same time, be prepared to tell it like it is and be crystal clear in your speech; words move mountains. Venus in Aries gives you charisma and confidence. It may be time to announce your candidacy.

ARIES: (March 21 - April 20) Money can buy beauty, I guess, but keep a careful eye on your priorities. The Sun in Taurus stresses overall comfort and sensual security as Venus in your own sign highlights your own personal delightfulness at the expense of others. Venus certainly provides the charisma you need to make things happen, so don't waste this planetary phase on selfish, capitalistic pursuits.

HATE CRIMES BILL ADVANCES IN STATE SENATE

Supporters Say New Legislation Will Strengthen Enforcement.

AUSTIN — Two major pieces of legislation important to gay and lesbian Texans moved closer to becoming law on Tuesday. The state Senate voted the so-called "hate crimes" bill on to its third and final reading, while the House unanimously approved the Senate's amending of its HIV home test kit bill, and sent it on to Gov. George W. Bush to be signed into law.

The Senate voted 23-8 to pass engrossment C.S.S.B. (Senate Bill) 141. The legislation, which will provide police officers, prosecutors and judges with clear statutory authority to prosecute hate crimes, now faces only a third and final reading; that could come by today or early next week.

Supporters of the hate crimes bill in the traditionally more conservative House are waiting for the Senate bill to come through before pushing their own, which is House bill 365. Hugh Strange, press secretary to Rep. Glenn Maxey of Austin, a co-sponsor of the House bill, praised the Senate's progress, noting, "Clearly, the Texas Senate has shown gay people as well as any other citizen of Texas [are] entitled to equal protection under the law."

Sen. Rodney Ellis of Houston, author of the Senate's bill, said, "This bill is intended to eliminate any doubts that anyone might have about the constitutionality of Texas' current hate crimes statute, and any hesitation that law enforcement officials might have had about reporting, prosecuting and sentencing under the current statute. Dedicated people in law enforcement...want clearer statutory authority (to fight hate crimes). This legislation provides that crystal clear language."

The engrossment of C.S.S.B. 141 moves Texas one step closer to adopting language virtually identical to that in the Wisconsin hate crimes statute, whose constitutionality was upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court unanimously in 1993. Hate crimes have been on the rise in Texas; the Department of Public Safety's latest report, for the first half of 1994, noted 197 incidents of hate crimes reported involving 246 victims and 352 offenders. According to the Lesbian/Gay Rights Lobby of Texas, eight gay men were killed in the state last year because of their sexual orientation, which the new law would protect.

"Without specific language saying this is just as serious (as any other murder), the old law wasn't effective," Strange said. "This sends a message to community leaders and young boys that this is not going to be tolerated. It strengthens the rule used by prosecutors and police with a statute they can rely on."

By a unanimous vote, the full House on Tuesday approved and concurred with the Senate's amendment to House Bill 988, which will allow Texans to use an HIV test kit at home as the first step to learning if they've been infected with the virus that causes AIDS. The approved statute now goes to Gov. Bush for his signature, expected today or early next week, and a ceremony may be held in conjunction with the signing.

In other legislation, House Bill 872, which would regulate viatical settlements by the insurance industry, is in subcommittee discussion. Strange said he hopes the bill will move out of the subcommittee and to the full House by the end of the month.

NEW HOUSTON GROUP TO PUSH FOR GREATER GAY POWER AT BALLOT BOX

*'OutVote' Plans to Use Tactics
That Have Benefited Radical Right.*

HOUSTON — A newly formed organization has announced plans to dramatically increase the voting power of the local gay and lesbian community by using tactics perfected by the Radical Right.

In a statement issued last week, organizers said the new group, OutVote, will attempt to raise the kind of money for massive voter registration and sophisticated get-out-the vote efforts that can only be brought in through tax-deductible donations. That approach has been used with great success by ultraconservative groups, as well as by progressive organizations like the Southwest Voter Project, which works to increase the voting power of Hispanics.

Cicely Wynne, who is serving as temporary chair of OutVote, said that after the special Houston City Council election held in January (which saw openly lesbian candidate Annise Parker place third), political activists discovered that about 40% of the Montrose portion of people on the Houston Gay & Lesbian Political Caucus' list were not registered to vote.

Wynne added that activists had already identified about 27,000 likely new community voters on the Harris County voter registration list by doing a special database sort for same-sex households.

Wynne said OutVote was already "on a fast track" to filing an application for 501(c)(3) tax-exempt status by July, and hoped to win IRS approval by September. At the group's first meeting, held April 12, members approved a name and logo, discussed projects, collected dues and set dates for electing a nine-member board and approving bylaws.

To encourage broad-based support, dues have been set low, at only $5. According to proposed bylaws, OutVote's purpose is to "register gay men, lesbians, bisexuals and the transgendered community, educate them about the importance of voting, and motivate them to vote in every election." If approved as a tax-exempt educational organization, OutVote will not be allowed to endorse candidates or be affiliated with any candidate or political party. It will, however, be allowed to educate voters about early voting, polling places and related matters.

Among projects the group is considering undertaking are creation of a voter's guide to be mailed before early balloting begins; development of a fall ad campaign designed to portray voting as an "in" thing to do; conducting a phone survey to determine why so many people are not registered; and getting voter registration cards into the hands of the unregistered through the use of block walks or mailings.

OutVote is conducting a contest to develop a motivational poster that will encourage people to vote; deadline for submissions is May 15. The winning poster (whose designer will receive $300) will be unveiled on Flag Day, June 14. Artwork should be submitted according to the same rules that apply to the Houston Lesbian/Gay Pride Week logo contest.

The next meeting is scheduled for 6 p.m. Wednesday, April 26, at the offices of the Houston Gay & Lesbian Political Caucus [HGLPC], 2700 Albany, #304. Organization bylaws and future projects will be considered at that meeting. Board members will be elected at the group's third meeting, to be held May 17 at 7 p.m. at the HGLPC office.

For more information about the poster contest or OutVote, call (713)522-9837.

DALLAS GAY & LESBIAN FILM & VIDEO FEST APRIL 27-30

Author of 'Images in the Dark' to Present Lecture Next Friday.

DALLAS — The Dallas Gay & Lesbian Film & Video Festival opens next Thursday evening, April 27 with the local premiere of The Incredibly True Adventures of Two Girls in Love at 7 p.m. and the Southwest premiere of Lie Down with Dogs following at 9:30 p.m. at the Inwood Theatre. Directors of the two films, Maria Maggenti and Wally White, respectively, will be in attendance.

As part of this year's event, Raymond Murray, author of Images in the Dark: An Encyclopedia of Gay and Lesbian Films and Video, will present a lecture at 6 p.m. Friday, April 28 on the history of gays and lesbians in the movies at the Dallas Theatre Center, which is where the remainder of the festival takes place.

Following Murray's lecture, approximately two hours of selected video pieces produced by gay or lesbian artists from across the country will be screened.

In Our Own Words: Dispelling Stereotypes will be shown following the two main videos at 9:30 p.m. Directed by John Wimberly, In Our Own Words profiles Dallas gay men and lesbians in an effort to help dispel the stereotypes commonly attached to homosexuals. Also on Friday night's schedule is Daughters of Dykes, a documentary by Amilca Parker that looks at teenagers being raised by lesbian mothers, and Deaf Heaven, a film which compares the AIDS epidemic to the Holocaust. Two Spirit People and Sex Fish/Bowl will be shown that same night. The Festival will also present an 11:30 p.m. screening of male erotic short pieces that includes the winner of this year's "Best Video Award" at the 1995 Berlin International Film Festival, He Is Bold and He Is Racist, He Is Gay and He Is a Fascist.

Saturday, April 29, the Festival begins with several lesbian shorts at 3 p.m. Both and Apart from Hugh will be shown next at 5 p.m., followed by the lesbian feature and Academy Award nominee Complaints of a Dutiful Daughter at 7 p.m. as well as Cancer in Two Voices (at same time). Boys Life, a three-film series which includes "A Friend of Dorothy's," a video about a young man helped to come out by the spirit of Judy Garland, will be presented at 9 p.m. Other titles in this feature are "Pool Days" and "The Disco Years." The latest film from John Waters protege Bruce LaBruce, Super 8 1/2, is scheduled that night at 11 p.m.

Festival passes are now on sale at Tapelenders Video, 3926 Cedar Springs in Dallas.

TEXAS AGENCIES CITED IN TESTIMONY ON RYAN WHITE FUNDING

Director of National Lobby Group Calls AIDS Services of Dallas, Bering Dental Clinic in Houston Examples Of Law's Positive Local Effects.

TEXAS — In testimony before Congress recently, AIDS service agencies in Dallas and Houston were cited as examples of the dramatic and positive local effects federal Ryan White CARE Act funding has had in the fight against HIV. Mark Barnes, Executive Director of the AIDS Action Council, praised AIDS Services of Dallas and Houston's Bering Dental Clinic when he appeared before a U.S. House subcommittee April 5 in support of the reauthorization of the act.

AIDS Services of Dallas provides supportive housing for people with AIDS, with a current caseload of 64 individuals. The Bering Dental Clinic, a program of the Bering Community Service Foundation, was established in 1987 and provides dental and oral care free to people with HIV. Last year, the clinic treated nearly 1,600 patients.

Barnes also cited Project Open Hand of Atlanta, which delivers meals to 1,000 indigent people with AIDS each day.

The Ryan White Comprehensive AIDS Resources Emergency [CARE] Act was originally passed in 1990 as the federal government's first comprehensive response to the care and treatment of people with HIV.

The AIDS Action Council represents over 1,000 community AIDS organizations around the U.S. in its efforts to shape federal policies on the epidemic. AIDS Action was instrumental in helping secure passage of the original Ryan White legislation.

In his testimony, Barnes emphasized that Ryan White is neither a welfare program nor an entitlement. He characterized it as instead a down payment by the federal government on national efforts, mostly funded by private dollars and by local and state governments, to ease the suffering of persons living with HIV/AIDS.

On March 29, the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee voted unanimously to approve S. 641, the Ryan White CARE Reauthorization Act of 1995, and to refer it to the whole Senate for a vote. The bill currently has 48 co-sponsors, and more are being sought. The Senate returns April 24. Similar legislation has not yet been introduced in the House.

PLANS FOR AUSTIN COMMUNITY CENTER ON TEMPORARY HOLD

Cornerstone Reconsiders Location, Stresses Need to Weigh Options.

AUSTIN Plans for The Cornerstone, a community center for gays and lesbians with office space for other organizations and businesses, are temporarily on hold.

One of the tenants of the center, planned for 1501 W. Anderson Lane, was to be Metropolitan Community Church of Austin. In fact, MCC was the major participant in efforts to secure loans to purchase the property.

MCC's planned sale of its present home at 425 Woodward St. to Middle Earth, Inc., however, has fallen through; at the eleventh hour, Middle Earth found itself unable to afford the purchase. The failure of that deal has in turn placed a hold and a big question mark on The Cornerstone's MCC-led purchase of the West Anderson Lane property.

The board of directors of The Cornerstone is attempting to turn the uncertainty into a big positive. On the one hand, the purchase contract on the West Anderson Lane property doesn't expire until the end of April, and The Cornerstone also has the right to exercise 30-day options for up to two months to keep the deal alive while it attempts to restructure its financial plans.

On the other hand, the board is also considering whether the two buildings at the planned site will accommodate all the non-profit groups, religious and cultural organizations, professionals and entrepreneurs who have expressed interest in being part of The Cornerstone. MCC alone has undergone phenomenal growth in its congregation in the past nine months.

"We want to weigh all our options; we don't feel it's a crisis situation," Cornerstone board vice chairperson Julie Weismann-McClain said Monday night after the group's weekly meeting. She had just assumed that post after having served as public relations chairperson, with Jae Arkeen now in charge of the group's PR efforts.

"No actions were taken at this week's meeting," Weismann-McClain continued. "It was mostly reporting and discussion. We feel we're getting closer. We're at the information-gathering stage; we probably won't take action until the last meeting of the month, because that's when the contract expires."

"The Anderson Lane property is still available, still ideal. It just seems now that it's a little smaller than our needs. A large chunk of equity and money from MCC is not currently available, so we're working on new deals and arrangements. The response to The Cornerstone has been phenomenal and positive, and this gives us a chance to make better plans and do the right thing, the best thing, from the start."

In a letter to its primary financial supporters, The Cornerstone's board stressed, "It is important to remember that Cornerstone is not and never has been about a particular address. It is about coming together in strength, about the synergy of a dynamic and diverse people working in concert. It is about building community."

You won't find anything to complain about Wednesday nights, either, now that Jimmie Bartlett's Club W is back, putting everyone in a party mood. Bartender Steve Mies tells us they're accepting applications for the Mr. Brick contest coming up May 7....

Our CRUISE CAMERA found hunky dancer Russell [above, l] getting close to barback Chris "Karen Carpenter" Morrison [r] one night at Zippers, the club that's known for tantalizing its customers with at least two dancers seven nights a week. You'll also find friendly bartenders there every night, like the ultra sexy Zak Hamilton or the ultra butterbutted Steven Mathews....

They're having a big beer blowout at TMC on Wednesday and Sunday nights, with special prices on draft beer from 4 p.m.-2 a.m. Speaking of blowouts, bartender Joe "Daddy" Root may just have one if he tries walking in Wonda's high heels again. Wonda oversees the club's pool tournaments on Mondays, so if you feel like racking a few balls, head to the club that night. HOT TEA welcomes new doorman Marc Schuerman to the bar....

The very first Mr. Headquarters was chosen recently, with J.D. Buchert [above, l] placing as runner-up and Tommie Dodd [r] taking top honors. If you just can't wait to partake, they open at 7 a.m. every morning with one of Dallas' friendliest bartenders, David Spivey. If you like to do your celebrating later in the evening, you're in luck because the club is hopping with men who like men of the leather variety. And manager Dean McBride told us their patio bar is now open, so check them out. W

TWT CLASSIFIED WORKS

Jeffrey Clark Sansaver [above]

Jeffrey Clark Sansaver, 43, shaman and man of "a" cloth, and community volunteer who lived with AIDS for over 13 years, died March 26, 1995. Jeffrey passed away with family and friends surrounding him.

Jeffrey served on boards of many AIDS organizations, cared for dying friends as well as strangers and was sought after as a public speaker through the AIDS Outreach Center's Buddy Program. He delivered flowers to hospital patients and groceries to shut-ins. He consoled families, taught relatives of AIDS patients how to deliver bedside care and held many a person's hand as they took their last breath.

A native of Scobey, Montana, Jeffrey attended Brigham Young University in the early '70s, and later moved to the Metroplex where he worked as a bank teller. He operated his own interior design business and specialized in wall upholstery.

He was a member of the AIDS Outreach Board of Directors, Tarrant County AIDS Coordinating Council and the AIDS Interfaith Network. Jeffrey walked in the AIDS Walk for Life the last two years in Fort Worth.

Memorial services were held March 28 in the Rock Garden of the Kimball Art Museum. Packets of flower seeds were given to all who attended, signifying that "to grow flowers is to continue life!" Pink, purple and white balloons were released as the song "Friends" was played at the closing of the memorial.

Memorials can be sent to the AIDS Outreach Center, 1125 W. Peter Smith; Fort Worth, TX 76104.

Daniel Stiefer

In memory of Daniel Stiefer, who's now gone but will always be loved.
