Carving Out
The Coolest
Dancebar
in Dallas

BY DONNIE ANGELLE

Back in 1993, Lupe and I decided at the last minute to attend the March on Washington. Not because we were loud and proud or because we had a burning desire to show the world how "fabulous" we were to be out in the very gay '90s. No, that wasn't it. I had been booking so many people to the nation's capital to participate in the March that my curiosity was somewhat piqued. I thought for sure that Lupe, who at the time was closeted at work (though not any longer) and who doesn't enjoy huge crowds, would never want to get within 500 miles of the gay media circus the event would surely turn out to be.

I had almost given up thought of attending when my boss, Ruth, asked why I hadn't yet made our travel arrangements to Washington, DC. Having raised a gay son, and very aware of the monumental significance of the March, she demanded that I jump into action and make arrangements for Lupe and me to attend the largest gathering of gays and lesbians in history.

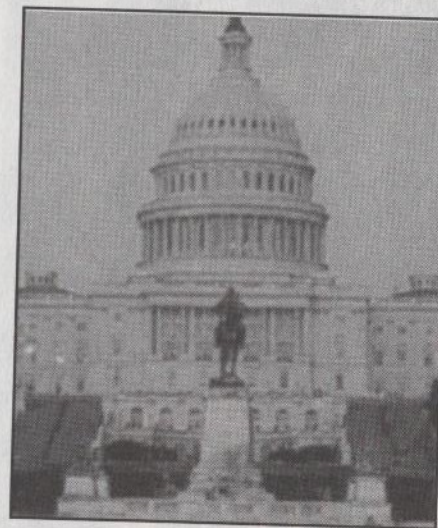

We arrived in DC, wide-eyed and very excited about finally being in the nation's capital. We were anxious to explore the city, which is rich in history and culture, and were filled with the anticipation of connecting with the thousands of gay and lesbian people expected to take part. We checked into the Latham Hotel, somewhat disappointed that we could not find a hotel closer to Dupont Circle (because we had waited so long to make arrangements). Located in Georgetown on M St., the place was a small boutique-style hotel constructed of colonial red brick and housed the world-renowned restaurant Citronelle.

There are several hotels in the Dupont Circle area, as well as dozens of bars, discos and gay-friendly cafes and restaurants. The city is easy to get around in, cab fares are reasonably cheap and we were really impressed with the subway system

A Capital Idea

— ultramodern and spick-and-span clean.

We arrived two days before the weekend was to start, and quickly took advantage of the shorter lines for sightseeing and waiting times at many of DC's restaurants. In the two days before the onslaught, we were our own worst nightmare — voracious tourists! Every day we were up at sunrise, enjoying a morning jog from our hotel to the Capitol and back. The afternoons were spent taking in as many monuments, museums and historical sites as we possibly could. While I always advise travelers to plan their time wisely while visiting a new destination, there is almost no need to in the District of Columbia. Sure, we definitely wanted to see the Lincoln Memorial, the Washington Monument and the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, but to our surprise, there was so much to see and do in Washington that I would recommend adding at least another two or three days to your itinerary just to wander aimlessly about and treat yourself to the beautiful sights.

There is one thing, however, that you should plan for — the weather. While I knew that spring in the capital was sometimes chilly, we were not prepared for the cold snap that blanketed the city on the first two days of our visit. Instead of taking jackets, we had only packed a couple of sweatshirts for our morning jogs. After we spent three days trading the red sweatshirt for the black, the weather finally warmed up as the weekend approached. Funny thing is, when looking back over our snapshots from the trip, we can actually tell what day it was by what color sweatshirt each of us was wearing.

While soaking up all the history, your heart and your emotions seem to roller-coaster — the pride you feel as you gaze into Lincoln's eyes or the sorrow emanating from the deep black marble walls of the Vietnam Memorial. I could almost see the lump in Lupe's throat as we approached it; it definitely does stir the soul. The Capitol is awe-inspiring and the Smithsonian, while you'll never see it all in a day, is incredible. There are tulips and cherry blossoms everywhere. And the Reflecting Pool is definitely a place to reflect.

As the weekend arrived, so did hundreds of thousands of gay men and lesbians from all over the country. We felt like part of a huge family. While growing up in a very small town in Louisiana, I never imagined that there were so many others like me — others with the same feelings and emotions, likes and dislikes, who were enamored of Cher and Andy Gibb, who also went to see Grease four times the first week it opened and who possessed the same smart fashion sense that I had. Armed with dog tags, hiking boots and the prerequisite freedom rings, we marched among the masses and thought we would explode with pride.

This was also the first time I got to see that Quilt I had heard so much about. Laid out from one end of the Mall to the other, it was composed of panels that had people's lives sewn into them, a patchwork of memories from friends and relatives who had lost someone to AIDS. I remember standing over the Quilt and wondering about the lives of the people memorialized by the panels. It was almost too much to bear, but at the same time, I wouldn't have missed it for the world.

This Oct. 11-13, Lupe and I will again visit the nation's capital. Not to march down the streets with our gay brothers and sisters, but to honor the thousands who have fallen to the horrible fate of AIDS. As 45,000 AIDS Memorial Quilt panels (15 city blocks of fabric) are unfolded, volunteers will read more than 70,000 names (a number that now exceeds the total appearing on the Vietnam Memorial). The largest AIDS awareness event in history, the display will take the combined efforts of over 10,000 volunteers. Just weeks before the presidential and congressional elections, the NAMES Project has planned a full weekend of activities designed to ensure that the disease is made a top priority on our nation's agenda.

Interesting facts about the Quilt:

- Total number of those who have visited Quilt displays: over 5.5 million.
- Number of panels: over 31,000 (each panel measures 3x6 feet).
- Number of football fields the Quilt would cover: 12.
- Number of acres it would cover: 13.
- Total weight of the Quilt: 36 tons.
- Total volunteer hours donated to the Quilt (as of 1994): 410,500.
- Countries contributing panels: 29 (including Australia, Brazil, Cuba, Ireland, Poland, Russia, Rwanda, Surinam and Switzerland, to name a few).
- Names you may recognize: Keith Haring, Rock Hudson, Liberace, Robert Mapplethorpe, Freddie Mercury, Anthony Perkins, Vito Russo, Rudolf Nureyev and Pedro Zamora.
- Materials used: Barbie dolls, buttons, car keys, champagne glasses, cowboy boots, credit cards, feather boas, fur, gloves, human hair, leather, jeans, merit badges, needlepoint, pearls, photos, quartz crystals, records, rhinestones, stuffed animals and wedding rings.

The Quilt has inspired people to become involved in their own community's response to the AIDS epidemic. If you would like to make a panel, host a display or get more information about sharing the Quilt with your community, call your local chapter, or call the NAMES Project Foundation at (415)882-5500. If you would like to view the Quilt in October, discounted air fare and hotel rooms are still available.

BY BRUCE WILLIAMS

Peter Brownlie Brings Long Experience and Strong Commitment To His Role As Executive Director of AIDS Services of Austin

Peter Brownlie took over as Executive Director of AIDS Services of Austin this past spring, after spending the last 13 years as Executive Director of Planned Parenthood in Fort Worth. The personable, energetic 50-year-old admits he'd love to go back to Planned Parenthood in a heartbeat — if AIDS could be cured and the epidemic erased.

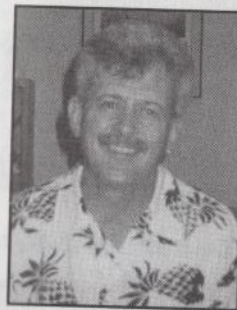

Brownlie knows that, realistically, such a development is not on the horizon. So he's focused on giving his all to the battle against the disease, and on helping and educating people about HIV and AIDS. After all, he's paid a deep personal price: His younger brother Chris died of AIDS-related illnesses in November 1989.

"He was five years younger than me, but we were very, very close," Brownlie said quietly as he spoke with THIS WEEK IN TEXAS recently in his office. "We grew up in New England mostly, and both had our sojourns across the country. We both became advocates, he as a leader of the gay community in Los Angeles....The organization he and a couple of close friends founded has now — sadly — become the second-largest in the nation. As a tribute, it was dedicated in 1988, named for him, The Chris Brownlie Hospice; it was the first of its kind, offering around-the-clock care.

"For the last ten years, I've been involved with AIDS organizations as a volunteer, on boards, volunteer food banks, was among the founders of a couple of advocacy programs in Fort Worth. When the opportunity came to work full time in something I cared about so deeply, I jumped at the chance."

Brownlie is very impressed with Austin, and with the cooperation among AIDS

assistance organizations based in the city. "We get together on a regular basis, make a successful effort to avoid duplicating services, using funds that are available so they're the most effective," he explained. "We're fortunate not to be like Houston or Fort Worth or Dallas, where they have had open struggles for funds and services."

"One of my priorities — also that of our board and our supporters — is to build more of an advocacy position. This is the state capital, where a lot of policy is made. I think we have an obligation to our clients to have a voice in that public policy. Two things have quickly become apparent to me at ASA: One, we have a large number of wonderful volunteers here, and that's a strong starting point to build advocacy. People who care are willing to tell whoever what they care about and why. Secondly, we enjoy strong community support here. I'm impressed with people I meet everywhere, the widespread support they've offered. Finding ways to spread that support will be a priority."

ASA's budget is about $3 million right now, Brownlie noted, 70 percent of which comes from federal grants, state, city and so on. Fund-raising events have been critical in helping the organization better serve its clients and offer community education; that fund-raising continues with events like the Red Ribbon Dinners, which begin their 1996-97 series next Monday, July 22 at Zoot, and Octopus Club events like Octo-Bingo, which has games scheduled Aug.

14 and Sept. 11 at 211 W. Live Oak. ASA's largest fund-raiser is the Walk for Life in October, and plans are already going full speed for that event.

"ASA has grown very rapidly in an eight-year period," Brownlie said. "We serve over 600 people with AIDS, plus all the education work we're doing, and so on. We've outgrown some of our infrastructure; one of my priorities is to do some reevaluation in-house....I don't see a lot of changes in our core services."

"The picture has changed. We've seen more women infected, more and more people of color, too....We want people to know accurately the kind of widespread devastation AIDS is causing, and to look for the most effective way to reach out and serve anybody affected by this disease. At the same time, gay men have been affected disproportionately. ASA's roots are in the gay and lesbian community. This is one of the main endeavors where the fighting of the disease's lead has been taken on by the victims."

"I'm concerned that as AIDS as an issue has become more accepted, the public acceptance of the disease may make it be somewhat taken for granted. We must still make the public aware of the seriousness of this, that it's not going to go away. We've still got so many kids, young people, teens, who are unrealistic about their risk of exposure. That's a big community education challenge."

Brownlie got his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1968 from the University of Minnesota in child development, with the idea of going into clinical child psychology. He was a conscientious objector to the Vietnam War, doing alternative service — and says he thus sort of stumbled into family planning.

Then came AIDS, and his family became one of the many tragically touched by the disease. A friend played matchmaker and connected Brownlie with AIDS Services of Austin, and he found his life's path pointed toward a new goal, an important new challenge.

"There're a lot of generic similarities," Brownlie noted about his work in Fort Worth and Austin. "There're a lot of differences as well, not the least of which is dealing with death and dying on a daily basis. We've made great strides against AIDS. Dealing with people who're at varying degrees of death adds a sense of urgency for me. We don't have time to waste."

Gorgeous Harmonies, Diverse Backgrounds and Fabulous Hair: The All-American Girl Trio

BETTY

Bring Their Unique Pop Sound Back to Austin

Somewhere between the Andrews Sisters and the B-52s, Joni Mitchell and Parliament Funkadelic, we meet to find the wonderfully unique sound and style of Betty, a group Mirabella magazine calls "the world's foremost all-girl, biracial, rock 'n' roll performance trio of our time." Although we don't know whether "rock 'n' roll" would be an accurate description, or that race has anything to do with it, it's quite obvious that Betty's second CD, Limboland, offers listeners a delectable smorgasbord of 13 musical morsels that showcase the group's flair for inventive melodies, provocative lyrics and breathtaking three-part harmonies. Also, the CD can be played on CD-ROM drives, allowing listeners to learn more about the band through videos, performance footage and interviews with the members.

Betty consists of sisters Elizabeth and Amy Ziff and soul sister Alyson Palmer, with whom we had the pleasure of speaking. Their original style results from the combination of their different musical backgrounds; Amy was classically trained, while Elizabeth is more rock-oriented and Alyson comes out of jazz and the blues. This rare musical hybrid has earned them many compliments, including The New York Post's declaration that "These women are strangely delightful. Their personalities are as distinct and bright as their individual voices, and yet the amalgam creates a thing of beauty."

Currently on the road in support of Limboland, Betty continues to perform concerts benefiting AIDS and breast cancer, the pro-choice movement, hospice care and other causes in which they believe.

We managed to steal a few moments of Alyson Parker's time as she was making preparations for the band's Texas leg and four-night engagement at Austin's Esther's Follies, which begins this Sunday.

TWT: We were listening to the CD and the one thing that really overwhelmed us was the harmony. Gorgeous!

AP: Harmonies are Betty's sound. At the very, very beginning of the group, most of our show was a cappella — the first, maybe, three months....And then we started adding instruments in. What's always been most vitally important to us is the harmony. And I'm lucky in that I'm performing with Amy and Elizabeth Ziff, who are sisters. If you know anything about people in the same family who sing together — they have like these same vibrations and tonalities in their voices. So when the three of us sing together, sometimes it makes this really intense chord where you can barely separate whose voice is where. I love that! How did Betty come to be the band's name?

It's the all-American gal's name. We were thinking about the name of a gal on the go, who was sassy and ready to go, and never took any guff from anybody, and that would have to be a Betty. From Queen Betty of England to Betty Grable to Bette Davis to Betty Cooper to Betty Crocker — these are women who know their minds, know what they want and aren't afraid to have a good time.

What about before Betty? How did you, Amy and Elizabeth come together?

While I was in college, I was playing bass in a band and I happened to come home one day and put on the radio when I heard an ad for a bass player for an all-female punk band. I was just kind of intrigued, so I went over there for an audition and, literally, I never left. From that day on I never left. This was back in '81, when all of us were like the little Archies [laughs], "little Bettys." But that was for about a year, then it all sort of imploded. Too passionate and political, you know. But no matter what happened over the next 15 years, for some reason the three of us had all been drawn together. We're like on a mission together. Other musicians would come and go and we would re-form in different bands. And finally, after four or five bands, we got rid of everybody and it was just the three of us. We sang a cappella for a party in Washington, DC at the 930 Club and it was instantly electric. People responded so strongly and so well that we realized this was what we needed to be doing.

How do the three of you come up with material?

There are no hard and fast rules, but generally speaking, one of the three of us will write a song and bring it to the rest of the band to arrange. That's when it becomes a Betty song. For instance, I wrote "Impossibly Blue" and I brought it to Amy and Elizabeth. They put on the most bewitching harmonies I'd ever heard. All those harmonies came from them and pretty instantaneously, I had written just a basic song with acoustic guitar and they gave it that gorgeous Betty twist.

Speaking of twisted...Betty has a huge gay following. Why is that?

That's a very good question. I think it's because we're very uncompromising. We've always been true to our own vision of what it is that we want to do, that we are all kind of outsiders — the three of us — we've never been mainstream in our personalities. And we have such fabulous hair! So are y'all ready to tear it up in Austin with your fabulous hair?

Here's what people can expect: It's pop music, but it's not just music. There's also a lot more that comes across, too. There's spoken word, dialogues and trialogues. And we just want to make sure that, from the moment people walk through the door, they have a terrific, memorable time.

You know, Esther's Follies is our absolute favorite place to play, and we want everyone to know that we adore Austin. This is going to be our third time there, and every time we come there we make more friends. We love Austin men for being the big, strappin' men that you guys are. We love Austin women for being crazy to a fault and just tremendous, and we're looking forward to making all kinds of new friends when we come.

Betty performs this Sunday-Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Esther's Follies, 525 E. 6th St. in Austin. Tickets are $12; for reservations, call (512)320-0553.

While treating the facility's three black patients, she begins to believe that one of them, Rufus, is innocent of the double murder he's been accused of. The play reaches a shocking climax in which the real killer is revealed. Shows are Thursdays (7:30 p.m.), Fridays (8 p.m.), Saturdays (8 p.m.) and Sundays at 4 p.m. (no show July 19). Tickets are $10-$15; for more info, call (713)524-6706.

THE GAY PART OF TOWN

The Fifth in a Six-Part Series
About Dallas' Cedar Springs

Out of the Closet,
Into A Community

"Have you ever noticed how secretive, how furtive gays are? This proves there's something wrong with them." The same critic might then ask, "Why do they have to flaunt? Why can't they just keep their lifestyles to themselves?"

I always respond, "If you'll not flaunt your lifestyle, I'll not flaunt mine." However, there are some gays who feel that this double standard is justified. "Yes, we should hold ourselves to a higher, more dignified standard," they insist. Gone would be the gaudy gay pride parades, the flaming drag queens, the protest demonstrations. Instead there would be regular guys and girls, docile and compliant. Perhaps they're right; who am I to say? But doesn't that imply "be content in the closet"?

My point is, if we were furtive in the past, it was because we had to be. In Texas, we could be sent to prison for 15 years — little or no proof needed — and some were. We could lose our jobs, family, even our children — and some did. We could be beaten and murdered — and we still are. Yet through it all, we managed. Looking back, it wasn't all grim. We were gay before the gay movement.

In the 1930s, Oak Lawn (Lee) Park was a furtive meeting place for gay men. In nearby Craddock Park, North Dallas high school football players, presumed straight, furtively enjoyed no-strings-attached encounters. During World War II, queens "serviced" service men, again straight, who were in town on three-day passes and youthfully horny. Lesbians played softball wearing Metzger's Milk uniforms and masks of heterosexuality. Our men and women have always served honorably, but furtively hidden, in the military.

But times were changing. There were too many of us and we were just too damn important to remain crammed into a closet. Gradually we became a proud people, kicking down the doors and pouring out into the sunshine. But no one person or group actually planned a gay community, a gay culture or a gay part of town. It just happened. First in the major cities on the East and West coasts, and then it spread inland. Oak Lawn just happened to lend itself to that purpose.

In the 1930s, '40s and '50s, the Laven-der Shingle, Maggie's Corner and the YMCA were the gay meccas for men. Our women, with more to lose, were discreet, meeting friends through friends. A "gay part of town" began to emerge in the 1960s and '70s. Nearby McKinney Ave. was, as they used to say, "the swinging part of town." T.J.'s (That Joint) was an after-hours club for women mostly, but men were welcomed. Ron Sue presented excellent drag shows featuring the ancient and very earthy Madame Fertilizer. The Trio coffee-shop was famous for its decor (early Goodwill), its food (down-home good) and its patrons. (Gays, hippies, straights wanting to appear hip and, notably, chicken. Because chicken couldn't get into the bars, the Trio was a convergent point for men who loved teenagers and teenagers who loved to be loved by men.)

On Rawlins, the Bayou was the smart place to be, especially on weekends. It looked very much like a movie set — Ol' Southern Plantation. It had a well-trimmed lawn, a white colonnade porch and an interior of smoked mirrors and scarlet plush-velvet wallpaper! My, my, the arty types and the college kids loved the Bayou!

The first "gay thing" to come to the Crossroads was the Attic Window (1968), where Panda's is today. It was indirectly financed by the Presbyterians as a means of reaching the disenfranchised, i.e., those rebels who wouldn't set foot in a Gothic cathedral with a big pipe organ, robed hierarchy and stained-glass windows. It was supposed to be a coffeehouse and used bookstore. Actually, it was nothing more than the church's effort at serving people who needed people and had no one.

At the same time and down the street, the Methodists opened a home for run-away youth. Many, though not all, were gay and lesbian. The only requirement was that the kids had to call their parents to let them know they were safe. They weren't required to reveal where they were or to return home, which in some cases would have been to homophobic parents.

The Lobo bookstore, where the Village Station now is, originally sold rare and antique books. But someone gave Larry a box of used magazines filled with pictures of pretty naked young men. These were placed behind a curtain in the back of the store. Soon there were more customers behind the curtain than in front. Thus, the first gay adult bookstore in Texas was born.

The first gay bar on the Crossroads was The Candy Store (1971), which later became the Swamp Trash and is today the Throckmorton Mining Company. All butch.

On Dec. 5, 1973, Richard Longstaff opened the Union Jack, a stylish clothing store. Twenty-three years later, the accent is still veddy British but the merchandise has always been very smart gay-international.

The developing community needed a gay publication, right? Several tried, but the first long-time success was THIS WEEK IN TEXAS. The first issue, dated April 5, 1975, consisted of eight pages.

The Rev. Jim Harris told his congregation, then housed in the "Castle in Ruins" on Ross Ave., "We've outgrown this church and need a new home, and that home needs to be in our neighborhood, Oak Lawn." Like Moses, Harris led his people to the promised land in August 1976.

Well, worshippers like to eat out after services, so at one time or another several fancy restaurants opened along Cedar Springs, but then closed. Why? Because the managers misread the gay community.

Exquisite cuisine is nice and all that, but what we really wanted was good food at reasonable prices. Hunkey's, with its down-to-earth menu and its see-and-be-seen outdoor patio, made money the day it opened.

By the time the Oak Lawn Band (following the example of Houston's excellent Montrose Symphonic Band) made its premiere performance by marching down Cedar Springs in the 1980 Gay Pride Parade, there were so many gay bars and businesses in the area that even straights were coming down to see no-longer-furtive gay men and women having a good time. (Is that flaunting?) A man and his woman held hands to indicate, "Oh, but we're not that way." (Is that flaunting?) Anyway, it was proof that Oak Lawn had become known as the "gay part of town" in Dallas.

Cedar Springs, Texas. More than 150 years old, yet new. New because at one time or another, almost every business on both sides of the street has been torched. Arson investigators usually said, "Causes unknown." But there are little fairies who whisper, "They were burned for profit, not from hate." Well...not necessarily. The Crossroads Market burned in April 1987 because of faulty electrical wiring. The February 1989 fire that burned the Dallas Gay Alliance's Community Center, the Oak Lawn Washateria, the Roundup Saloon, Union Jack and Tape Lenders was set not by homo-haters but by one of our own in an attempt to cover up a burglary. But, happily, all were quickly rebuilt, bigger and better.

Despite the up-and-down economy, violence, the Religious Right, AIDS, fires and predictions of its demise, Cedar Springs, Texas continues to grow and prosper. May it always.

REVIEWED BY STEVEN C. LINDSEY

When I tell you I had a terrific night with a queen, a few fairies and a couple of buff men in skirts recently, you'll probably think I'd just spent the evening out on Dallas' Cedar Springs. While that has happened on occasion, in this instance I'm referring to the magnificent production of Camelot at Casa Mañana in Fort Worth. If you've never experienced theatre-in-the-round, or even if you have, for that matter, it's well worth the trip to see this production of the Broadway classic.

Patricia Kies and Noel Harrison star in Camelot, at Casa Mañana in Fort Worth through this Sunday.

Noel Harrison returns to Fort Worth to reprise the role of King Arthur, one which he originally performed at Casa ten years ago. You may know him because of his father, actor Rex Harrison, or perhaps you remember him from his role opposite Stephanie Powers in the TV series The Girl from U.N.C.L.E. But even if you're hearing Noel Harrison's name for the first time, you'll remember it forever once you see his warm, endearing portrayal of King Arthur. Patricia Kies is also giving audiences a bit of déjà vu since she is also recreating the role of Guenevere which she played opposite Harrison ten years ago as well. She has performed in numerous musicals around the country and is working on her second screenplay, Jurassics' Park Bench. Her portrayal of Arthur's betrothed is at once enchanting and exuberant. She has one of the loveliest voices to grace the stage that I've had the pleasure of hearing in recent months.

The rest of the Camelot cast is equally delightful, including stand-out performances by Robert McCormick as Lancelot and Sean Hennigan as King Pellinore. McCormick's cocky-yet-likable interpretation of Sir Lancelot is a privilege to behold. Hennigan brings the most comic relief of any character to the show with his impeccable timing and presence. Perhaps most impressive is the fact that the performers had only about a week of rehearsals for this short two-week run. You'd think they had been doing this musical for months judging from their flawless execution.

In addition to this outstanding cast, the thrill of seeing this musical at Casa Mañana makes it different from any other performance you've seen. For one thing, there are no bad seats. The action takes place in all areas of the theatre, even right next to your seat at times. I had injured jousting practically falling in my lap!

Camelot continues through this Sunday, July 21. Shows are at 8 p.m., with matinees on Saturday and Sunday. Tickets are available through the Casa Mañana box office, (817)332-CASA, or at any TicketMaster outlet. Don't miss out!

JULY 19 - 25, 1996

LYNDA CARTER
BORN JULY 24, 1951

The magnificent Sun changes signs this week, moving from sensitive Cancer to bold Leo. Our personal missions take on a new, assertive, affirming energy and why not? But wait, there's more: Even now, as we begin to feel our personal oats, surprising Uranus opposes the Sun, sparking shocking events that catapult us to greater heights (depths). Hang on, kids; it's going to be a bumpy night...but an interesting one, too.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23) Pink Crabs should plan for retirement with Sun in Leo. Will you have enough? The Sun/Uranus opposition may spark some impatience with the pace and amount of your savings. Remember that the grass is always greener, dear friend, so don't reprimand yourself for expensive times past or deny yourself some fabulous future temptations. The idea is to invest properly as well as enjoy the niceties of life.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23) The Sun in your own sign gives all proud Lions the opportunity to enjoy their birthdays as the roaring center of attention. Strut and fret your month on stage, cousin, and gather in the accolades. Keep in mind that the Uranus/Sun opposition urges you to get out of your old skin and emerge new and refreshed. You can shed your earthly trappings, but the real change must occur internally for it to have any long-lasting impact.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23) Prim, conservative pink Virgos feel mystical and otherworldly with the Sun in Leo. Maybe it's because you have found your mantra by volunteering for a good gay cause. Proud Virgins always feel at one with a serviceable charity, but now the Sun/Uranus opposition brings a "roll up your sleeves" liveliness to the effort. The results: Possible changes in the working patterns of your job or a cleaning out of your closet once and for all. Amen!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23) The Sun in Leo brightens friendships and group camaraderie. This jolly harmony loses a bit of steam, though, when the Sun opposes Uranus. Gay Libras may have an irresistible urge to tip the scales in the social order and welcome a new group of party-hearty devil-may-care pals to the mix. Have fun but don't dump the old crowd. If those wild dancin' feet can wait, buy some foot powder.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) Career prospects take off like a bat out of hell for all queer Scorps with a game plan. Allow the Sun in Leo to provide insight into the political maelstrom, then make your mark. But the Sun/Uranus opposition entangles career struggles with home issues. It could mean that you'll use a big raise to buy fabulous new digs you really can't afford, or you'll accept the opportunity to run the Moscow office.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22) The world is served to you on a platter when the Sun enters Leo. Feast and enjoy, dear queer Archer. It's time to explore vast international opportunities and enjoyments. The interesting thing about the Sun/Uranus opposition is that it may encourage you to cruise the Internet and create a forum for your more insightful and explosive ideas. Lucky fellow traveler, you can explore the exotic and gab at the same time!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) Gay Caps feel warm and tingly when the Sun enters lusty Leo. Sex and intimate merging seem to hit the spot and create a harmony within you. That's the good part. The challenge comes when the Sun opposes Uranus and goads you to greater acts. That's fine if you enjoy being strung up by your patoots, but it could become much too much for conservative Goats. Poor dears, try some Spanish fly instead.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19) Brave Aqueerians will face themselves in the mirror when the Sun enters Leo and then opposes Uranus. The secret throughout this transit is to balance your needs with those of partners. With Uranus in your own sign, the urge to boss the course prove almost overwhelming, with surprising results. "I need to find myself!" you scream. Try looking in another person's eyes.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - March 20) Pink Fish can finally feel more at ease on the job thanks to the glorious Sun in Leo. But no sooner do you feel in command and in control than the Sun opposes Uranus and makes you question the real basis for your happiness and inner harmony. It's fine to question success, but don't upset the appcart just because of a vague internal voice. Maybe all you need to do is change your diet or start exercising to feel refreshed.

ARIES (March 21 - April 20) It's all fun and games for queer Rams. The Sun in dramatic Leo heightens creative pastimes. Expect the unexpected and do things in moderation (look who I'm talking to...). The face-off between the Sun and Uranus can lead you to one (or two or...) drinks too many and an urge to gamble the farm on dubious risks or for the love of friends. On the other hand, it could also provide the spark of creative genius that you often lack.

TAURUS (April 21 - May 21) Queer Bulls are drawn to home issues with the Sun in Leo. Home, relatives and security all come into play. Who said life is dull? The Sun/Uranus aspect throws all these components to the forefront and tosses in career issues to boot. It could be something like relocation or having your entire family meet your boss. Will you come out to Mom and Dad? It can be celebration or angst, but what should you care? Live free and affirmed!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21) Pink Twins are chatty folks. Now, with the Sun in Leo, your banter canters. Communication becomes paramount to your free expression and personal mission. This is great as long as you remember the potential effects of the Sun/Uranus opposition. You'll be tempted to "energize" your surroundings. Do I smell rebellion? So be it. But be prepared to pick up the pieces left after your little tantrum next week.

UPDATES ON RECENT INT'L CONFERENCE ON AIDS PLANNED IN HOUSTON

Lab Markers, HIV in Women and Latest Treatments Among Topics
To Be Covered at Presentations
This Saturday and Aug. 10.

HOUSTON — A person glancing at the front pages or catching the TV news might be forgiven for thinking that the XI International Conference on AIDS dealt solely with high-profile treatment advances and whether they are the long-sought cure for HIV. In reality, the meetings, held last week in Vancouver, British Columbia, covered a wide range of topics, and Houstonians looking for more in-depth information on the conference can attend two updates.

This Saturday, July 20, the Annual Houston Conference on AIDS in America is sponsoring a morning of presentations on the Vancouver event. The program, which is free and open to both healthcare professionals and the general public, will be held at the Edwin Hornberger Conference Center of the Texas Medical Center (formerly the Shamrock Hilton), 2151 W. Holcombe. Co-sponsors are the Center for AIDS and the Montrose Clinic's Houston Clinical Research Network.

The update begins at 8 a.m. with "Laboratory Markers of HIV Disease," to be presented by James Reuben, Ph.D. of the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute. At 8:30 a.m., Celine Hanson, M.D. of the Texas Children's Hospital will present "HIV Infection in Children." Patricia Salvato, M.D. will speak on "The Treatment of HIV Disease" at 9 a.m.

At 10:15 a.m., Gary Brewton, M.D. of OnCol Medical Associates, P.A. will speak on "The Prophylaxis of Opportunistic Infections in Patients with HIV Disease." At 10:30 a.m., Scott Sawyer, M.D. will present "The Ophthalmologist and HIV Disease." At 11 a.m., Dr. Salvato will speak on "Women and HIV Disease." From 12-12:30 p.m., L. Joel Martinez of the Center for AIDS will discuss "Optimism and AIDS," after which a question-and-answer session will be held from 12:30-1 p.m.

Dr. Joseph C. Gathe, Jr., who specializes in the treatment of HIV/AIDS, and Judith G.

Novak, CEO of Park Plaza Hospital, have announced that a day-long update will be held Saturday, Aug. 10 at the Ramada Inn Astrodome/Medical Center. Physicians, persons with AIDS and other health care professionals will make presentations.

"I expect this to be a comprehensive post-conference update," Gathe said, "because we are having input from the community, including patients, politicians and medical professionals."

General topic plenary sessions will be held in the morning covering a variety of HIV-related medical topics from ophthalmology to gynecology.

"Reflective of changes in the epidemiology of HIV in Houston, women, persons of color, children, adolescents and the heterosexual HIV community will be an integral part of this year's conference," Novak said. "Traditionally, women's health care issues have sat on the back burner, but with HIV, tradition could be fatal. We need to provide women with HIV information specific to their needs....[and] so we are actively asking this population to tell us what issues they want to see addressed at this event."

Concurrent afternoon sessions will address a wide range of topics including women's issues, finance/disability, accessing medical care, the impact of HIV on our society, government's role, research/pharmaceutical issues, the media's influence and world issues, as well as education and prevention. A question-and-answer session will close the day's schedule.

The public is invited to attend this update, which will be free (though registration will be requested for planning purposes). Further details will be announced shortly.

Cathedral of Hope Set to Begin
At Turn of Century.

DALLAS — When the year 2000 arrives, construction will begin for a spectacular new sanctuary for the Cathedral of Hope. Philip Johnson, one of America's most well-known and respected architects, revealed his latest design in New York City on July 8, his 90th birthday.

Johnson, who is gay, has described the design as "the crowning jewel in my lifetime of work." He has been praised for his visionary architectural style, evident in such projects as Thanksgiving Square in Dallas and the Crystal Cathedral in Garden Grove, California. It was his much-acclaimed design of the Crystal Cathedral in California that led the Cathedral of Hope to select Johnson when they commissioned their new sanctuary a year ago.

"The new sanctuary will have a profound effect on the gay and lesbian community across the country and around the world," stated the Rev. Michael Piazza, senior pastor of the Cathedral. "It symbolizes strength, steadfastness and continuity for people of faith who have long since been disenfranchised by religious intolerance."

The Cathedral of Hope is already the world's largest church serving the gay and lesbian community and with this new sanctuary, it is ready to look ahead to the next century.

The stunning design is technically unique and breaks new ground through its unique use of concrete, steel and other materials. The new Cathedral will be longer than two football fields and taller than Notre Dame Cathedral, and will have a seating capacity of 2,500. The project will cost $20 million to build and take two years to complete once construction begins in 2000.

"I came to this church because my old church couldn't accept my sexuality," said Coy James, a member of the congregation. "I was not alone. The Cathedral of Hope has grown by 2,500 people in the last decade. We have to build this new sanctuary now to enable us to respond to this growing spiritual hunger in our community."

AUTHOR ERIC ROFES MAKES TEXAS STOPS IN AUGUST

Author of 'Reviving the Tribe'
Will Speak, Sign Copies of Book
In Austin, Dallas and Houston.

TEXAS — Eric Rofes, author of a recently published book that takes a fresh look at gay men and the AIDS epidemic, make stops in Texas next month on a nationwide promotional tour.

Rofes will sign copies of Reviving the Tribe: Regenerating Gay Men's Sexuality and Culture in the Ongoing Epidemic on visits to Austin, Dallas and Houston.

Published earlier this year by Harrington Park Press, Reviving the Tribe argues that gay men should move beyond the "state of emergency" approach to dealing with AIDS and embrace a life beyond disease, focusing on restoring their mental health, reclaiming their sexuality and mending the social fabric of communal gay life. Rofes also urges a reconsideration of HIV education and prevention efforts, advocating a much longer-term approach to reducing infection rates.

"I think it is an amazing testimony to the strength of the human spirit that gay men continue to function in this world," Rofes has said. "It is not my intent [in Reviving the Tribe] to pathologize gay men or to claim that all gay men are walking nutcases. However, I believe many of us suffer tremendous effects of the epidemic which go unacknowledged, unarticulated and untreated.

"I think many of us have reached the limit of our ability to mourn the deaths of loved ones....I think the overwhelming impact of loss, death and illness has taken a toll on men's commitment to themselves and the community and I believe that one of the key factors contributing to continuing seroconversions among gay men is the failure to recognize the horror we suffer."

Reviving the Tribe deals with controversial topics like the gay male sex cultures of the '70s; why "educated" gay men continue to become HIV-infected; changing forms of gay masculinity; the opening of new sex clubs and bathhouses; leaving "rage activism" behind; links between the Holocaust and AIDS; unacknowledged roots in the feminist movement of gay men's response to AIDS; and mass denial of chronic trauma among gay men.

In addition to authoring seven books (among them I Thought People Like That Killed Themselves: Lesbians, Gay Men and Suicide and Socrates, Plato and Guys Like Me: Confessions of a Gay Schoolteacher), Rofes teaches at the University of California at Berkeley's Graduate School of Education. A longtime community organizer and gay activist, he has served as the founding chair of the Boston Lesbian and Gay Political Alliance and Executive Director of the Los Angeles Gay and Lesbian Community Services Center and San Francisco's Shanti Project.

Rofes will appear Wednesday, Aug. 7 at 7:30 p.m. at Borders Books & Music, 10225 Research Rd. in Austin. On Thursday, Aug. 8, he will appear at 7 p.m. at Crossroads Market in Houston, 1111 Westheimer, while on Sunday, Aug. 11, he will appear at 2 p.m., at Crossroads Market in Dallas, 3930 Cedar Springs.

CABLE ACCESS SHOW LOOKS AT HOUSTON'S GAY NEIGHBORHOOD

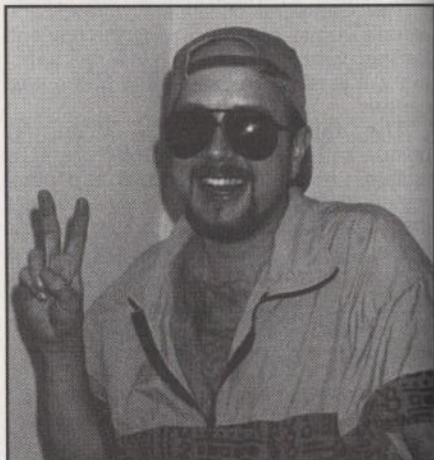

'Montrose 77006 TV' Features Guest Reporters, Satire.

HOUSTON — A new half-hour cable TV show focusing on the city's gay neighborhood premieres this month, with its producer promising a different approach that will take the camera out of the studio.

The first installment of "Montrose 77006 TV" ("77006" is the ZIP code most widely identified with the area as well as its gay population) is hosted by Matt Locklin and features Julie Siska, Ray Hill and Gloria De Young as guest reporters.

According to Locklin, who serves as Executive Producer, "Montrose 77006 TV" is not a soap opera but rather a "humorous, off-the-wall look" around the Montrose area with "wacky on-the-scene reports." The premiere installment features segments from the recent Westheimer Street Fair; interviews on next year's nighttime lesbian and gay pride parade; information about the Pet Patrol; and "Over the Hill," a satirical look by Hill at the Supreme Court's recent decision striking down Colorado's Amendment 2.

"We burned the 'canned' studio interviews and hit the pavement wearing cool shades and queer fashion," Locklin said. "It's a gas!"

"We have fun in 30 minutes, we push it to the limits....but we keep it clean!"

In addition to his work as an advocate for people with AIDS, Locklin has been involved in numerous past efforts at bringing gay and HIV-related programming to Houston, including "AIDS Talk Houston TV," "Montrose Clinic TV," "Life Today TV," "HIV+ Positive TV" and "Meet the Gay Candidates." Siska is Executive Director of the Board of Directors of the Houston Pride Committee. Hill is a longtime activist for the rights of gay/lesbian/bisexual/transgendered people and those in prison. De Young is a philanthropist and has served on the boards of community organizations.

The technical producer of "Montrose 77006 TV" is Ed Volkert III of Infinite Index Independent.

"Montrose 77006 TV" which debuted last Friday, is on the air this evening (July 19) at 10 p.m.; Saturday, July 20 at 1:30 a.m.; Tuesday, July 23 at 1:30 p.m.; Friday, July 26 at 12:30 a.m.; Monday, July 29 at 3:30 p.m.; Tuesday, July 30 at 1:30 p.m.; Sunday, Aug. 4 at 1:30 a.m. and 8:30 a.m.; and Monday, Aug. 5 at 1:30 a.m. The show can be seen on Access Houston Community Television on Warner Channel 17, TCI Channel 41, Phonoscope Channel 72 and Optel Channel 07.

To make programming suggestions, write to Infinite Index Independent, P.O. Box 66690; Houston, TX 77266. Copies of the program (VHS) can also be ordered by sending $16.96 in check or money order (made payable to Infinite Index Independent) to the above address. For more information, or to advertise one's organization, business or activity, call (713)902-2231.

AUSTINteaCIOUS — They're still buzzing about 5th Street Station's Birthday

Benefit Bash, where headliners [above, l-r] Paris Chanel, living legend Nicole and Moan-a Little More and their many talented friends raised almost $1,000. Paris will host another big event, the Summertime Blues Revue, from 9–11 p.m. Wednesday, July 31, to benefit Christopher House, the HIV Wellness Center, the Pediatric AIDS League, Project Transitions and Out Youth Austin; more on that extravaganza later. Special guest Loni Thomas was h-o-t! at last Sunday's Showcase; this week's show includes special guest Wayne Smith. Congrats to Annie, chef supreme of Nina's Kitchen out on the 5th Street patios: she brought 6-pound, 10-ounce Jonathan Michael into the world early July 14! And to think, barely hours earlier, the new-mama-to-be was cooking to-die-for fajitas. Things really happen fast at 5th Street!...

The Rainbow Cattle Company opened for business July 13 in the former Nexus space, even as Bill Bailey and his loyal troops continue to put finishing touches on the country-palace-to-be. Bill promises this will be a club for everyone, so bear with them in these hectic early days. Margie will work her magic from 7–9 p.m. on ChuckWagon Steak Night every Thursday; you bring the meat, they'll supply the fixin's. Best Dressed Cowboy contests will offer cash prizes every Wednesday starting July 24....

Charlie's is preparing for its legendary Christmas in July celebration all day Thursday, July 25; this is one event you do not want to miss! The busy-busy, long lost Lauren Taylor returns to host and headline this Sunday's show, with special guests including Jazsmyne Kelli and the Pecs Unlimited hunks. Scarlett Leigh did a flawless job as guest emcee last Sunday, with Tommie Ross and Kelly Kline keeping the huge crowd roaring. The Men's Best Body contest on Monday, July 8 saw Todd win Best Tan, Army and Robert share Best Legs and Santos show Best Buns; Army promptly donated his share of the prize money to Christopher House....

Naked Grape weekend pianist and Mandate magazine July cover boy David Lincoln Brooks [above, far l] entertained [from l] David, John and Paul as he took a break in his set on a recent Friday night. The Grape is holding its own Christmas in July on Thursday the 25th, starting at 11 p.m. and including a gift exchange and drag show. A Wet Jockey Shorts contest with cash prizes is the new excitement at 11 p.m. Tuesdays starting July 23. Blue Dinosaur Concepts' divas are now running the Grape blackjack table; say hi to Marci for us. And the Sunday brunch is becoming the talk of the town, as more and more groups are gathering at the Grape for its $7 feast from 10 a.m.–2 p.m....

Tom [above] was one of the multitude of happy customers caught on another busy night at Oilcan Harry's. Everybody's bracing to hit new heights of partying when Red Hot V '96 finally arrives July 26-28 — and it'll benefit those fine folks at Project Transitions. Oilcan's still has it all, from a killer pool table (nobody's beaten us there yet!) to flawless drinks to nonstop dancin' to boys with bods you'd die for. And Joltin' Joe is still making five-star fajitas on the patio from 6-8 p.m. every Sunday....

'Bout Time hosts Miss Mona Lee's third annual Comedy Talent Show this Saturday, July 20. There'll be cash prizes, with contestants judged on originality and talent, and everyone's welcome to enter — even Miss Pam & Co. are going to do their version of "Leader of the Pack"! Every Sunday at 5 p.m., 'Bout Time is still cookin' burgers and hosting volleyball fun. And there are pool tournaments each Thursday, so get on the stick....

Two weeks ago it was Scott [above, l] and David [r] and the HOT Bears hosting the Chain Drive's Sunday cookout. Last week the Texas Gay Rodeo Association's Austin chapter did the honors, and their burgers were the best. This Sunday, Adventuring Outdoors makes its debut at the grill; they promise their menu from 4-9 p.m. will include chicken breast sandwiches and more. Any group that wants to raise funds by cooking on the Chain Gang patio one Sunday a month should let GM Dave know. Brace yourself, partiers: Hell Weekend is getting closer, and there's another Bear Moon contest ahead on Tuesday, July 30....

For the best of tomorrow's fashions and today's music, Blue Flamingo is in a league of its own. The place packed early last Sunday to hear Cornpone shake the building, and this place is wild and crazy most every night. There's a fantastic show tonight, July 19, featuring drag performances by Miss Dallas and friends plus the music of Unhung Heroes and Mata Hari. Also coming: This Saturday, July 20, Reclusives and Phantom Creeps; Tuesday the 23rd, Machine Gun TV and 36 (both from Japan) and Royal Pendletons (from Los Angeles); Wednesday the 24th, Chapstick (from San Antonio).

There's nothing quite like an afternoon with great food and friendly people, and a recent Sunday was no different at the Round-Up. Everyone who attended the TGRA's Cookout had a terrific time, especially customers [above, l-r] Terry Weaver, Phil Gonzales, Jason Birdwell, Shayne Morgan and Edd Sherbert. There's also nothing quite like stumbling around on the dance floor knocking people over because the only dance move you know is to spin around like Wonder Woman. Well, even if things aren't that extreme, you're sure to have fun and learn a few new steps with dance lessons at the Round-Up every Thursday and Sunday....

Meanwhile, over on Lemmon, Bamboleo's presents the always-exciting Miss Bamboleo's Pageant 96-97 on July 26. You won't know the answer to that question unless you attend the Turnabout Show on Sunday, July 28!...

Michael Paul Hinkson
July 7, 1954 -
June 20, 1996

Michael passed away peacefully at Dallas' Baylor Hospital in the presence of his best friend, Robert Sparkman. Michael fought the battle with HIV courageously, while still showing others how to give without anticipating anything in return and how to love those around him unconditionally.

Having gone on to a new existence, he leaves behind in this world his mother, Juneann Hinkson; sisters, LaurAnn Gilly, Sandra Altum and Suzie Flow; brothers, Conn and Robert Hinkson; and his partner, Errol Jackson.

Just knowing Michael has made life's paths easier to tread.

E.J.

In Memory of Greg Rexford Gorman
June 24, 1956 -
July 7, 1996

A true friend who will be missed greatly. He is survived by his partner, Geoffrey M.; father, Rex Gorman; mother, Gleta Gorman; two sisters, Kim and Kay; two nephews, all from Missouri, and too many friends to mention.

Till we meet again, Gregory
Love and miss you
Geoffrey

James, Louis, Dale, Mario, Pennzoil friends

Stephen Allen Bryant
July 27, 1952 -
June 24, 1996

A memorial is planned for July 28 at Metropolitan Community Church of the Resurrection at 1 p.m.

He is survived by his partner of 16 years, Joe Duve; mother, Margaret Bryant; sister, Jacki Howard; and brother-in-law, Walt; and nephews, Brian and Brent.

Thanks to Dr. Gary Brewton, the staff at OnCol and the nurses on the seventh floor at Twelve Oaks, who made his final days as comfortable as possible.

Until we're together again,
Joe
