Can We Talk?

Visiting On-Line Chat Rooms Can Lead to New Friendships and Even More...

If you don't think you'll be exploring the World Wide Web soon, that's probably what the 15.2 million people currently online in the United States once thought — in addition to the 6–7 million other people worldwide now online. A marketing report by Jupiter Communications projected that by the year 2002, a mere five years away, the electronic web will explode and over 50 million U.S. citizens will be conversing on the Internet, while worldwide it will also explode and reach another 30 million people, tuning out their television sets and “booting up” their home computers.

And most of those people, including you, will eventually land in chat rooms.

Chat rooms are places in cyberspace that bring people together from all over the world. You'll meet a dazzling array of people in these “cyber-cafes” who may just want to chat about the weather or their favorite movie star, or they may have randier thoughts in mind.

For the most part, you'll be talking to total strangers, whether they're located in your city, across the U.S. or elsewhere around the globe, and everyone else online is potentially listening to your conversation. Always remember that the Internet is a reflection of society as a whole. There are a lot of good guys out there, but there are also some bad ones, no matter how friendly they may sound.

Never give out your online password; you should also be hesitant about giving out your phone number and especially your address. If someone wants to meet you in person, do so in a public place, such as a restaurant or other establishment where people congregate, for your first encounter. There've been several newspaper articles lately about people coming to harm after meeting cyber-“friends.”

All that said, chat rooms can be fun and can lead to some good friendships, even if they're just electronic ones. It's still nice to converse with someone and keep up with each other's lives. You may even develop a romantic interest online that eventually turns into one in real life. But again, follow the safety guidelines for meeting people.

Here are a few things I discovered when I first went online. In chat rooms especially, a few things threw me initially. For instance, if you're talking to someone and they say “IM me,” they're saying “Instant Message me,” which is a private communication between you and that person that others can't read. It zips from your computer only to that of the person you want to talk to.

Some internet service providers, such as America Online, have “buddy lists” so that you can include people in your own personal electronic “address book.” That way, you'll be able to keep track of your “buddies” when they come online — and you can then find out where they are on the electronic web (for instance which chat room they're in) and go to them if you wish or send them e-mail or an Instant Message. I have about 30 people on my buddy list and the feature lets me keep track of who's online. Are you in a chat room now, Jerry?

Another thing you should consider before you go into a chat room is your online “profile.” Not all services provide members with profiles, but if they do, you should think about these as carefully as you do your online name. These profiles are how some people find you and what they might read before they decide to Instant Message you or send you a message in a public chat room. The profiles include your real name if you want, if you're using a nickname online; your birthday and age if you care to give them; hobbies; other interests; and a favorite quote. I've had numerous people IM me simply based on my profile without even being in a chat room, most likely from a "keyword" search that included one of the words in my profile. (For some reason, my inclusion of adult video star Jeff Stryker's name in my profile has elicited numerous contacts, and not just from men, but women as well!) If you're talking to someone and have pulled down their profile, write down both their online name and their profile name because, as I've said, the two could be different and it might be hard to find the person with just the profile name.

An Internet "etiquette" has evolved to guide the conduct of people talking in chat rooms. For instance, don't type in all caps; doing so is considered "shouting." Try to keep your messages short, and abbreviate (use "u" instead of "you," for example) whenever possible to keep things zipping along. And while free speech is of paramount concern on the Web, remember that not everyone may want to hear about your sex life or other aspects related to it, so if you really want to talk about such things, Instant Message someone or go to a private chat room. These private rooms allow you and another person to chat about just anything and get a lot more personal. "Cybersex" sometimes occurs in these locations, or so I've been told!

If someone says "lol," it means they're "laughing out loud," hopefully at something you've just said that you meant to be funny. If they key in a :) figure (a colon followed by a closed parenthesis), it usually means they're "smiling" at what you've said or something they themselves have just written.

Someone in your room may want "age and sex checks." That means they're looking for someone of the same age or sex; or someone may simply type, for example, "21/M," which means "21-year-old male (or "21/F," that is, "21-year-old female," etc.).

Something useful that I discovered were the "hidden" chat rooms. America Online simply lists generic chat rooms, for example "gay and lesbian room 1, 2 or 3, etc.," but there are apparently hundreds and hundreds of other rooms that have cropped up, which probably started out as private but have developed lives of their own. I found one, Las Vegas M4m (Men For Men), which led me to think that surely Dallas has one, and indeed it does. So if you're tired of "gay and lesbian chat room 26," say; try typing in the name of your city followed by M4M or (W4W) on the "private chat room" listing and see what pops up. You might also find other people devoted to a special interest of yours by using this method.

Also remember that if you want to save your conversation online, you can always print it out. Make sure that what you want to print is the first window showing on your computer screen, because that's what your printer will assume you want printed. And don't get too far behind, because it may not print page 1 of your conversation if you're on page 8 already. You can also print chat room conversations and Instant Message conversations.

Some people may want to send you a "gif," a picture of themselves. When that occurs, you have to go to your e-mail, download the picture, save it in a file and then open that file. A lot of times, the people sending you those pix won't want you to print them out, so they'll apply a safeguard that will shut down your computer if you try to. Unfortunately, you never really know when they're using such safeguards. If you want a picture of yourself to send to others, you'll need a scanner ($200-$1,000); otherwise, there are services that will scan pictures for you (usually at about $5 a picture) and then send them to you on disk. After you've been online a few weeks, I'm sure you'll be getting junk e-mail with offers for the service.

Another thing I really wasn't prepared for, but that has occurred almost every time I've gone into chat rooms, is the presence of gay bashers. The rooms I've chatted in are clearly marked "gay and lesbian," so it's always amazing to me that the bashers show up. But rest assured they probably will. The best thing to do is to ignore them, but if you do engage them in conversation, once again, do not give out any private information whatsoever. Some of them may be closet cases, and really want some gay contact without being able to admit it, but others may want to do you real harm. Usually they eventually give up, or everyone else in the chat room surfs off to a different room or moves to a private chat room. The bashers don't seem to be very intelligent, and it's hard for them to figure out where everyone else went!

That's it for now. Keep riding the waves, and if you have some suggestions on chat rooms or the Web, or some great Web pages, e-mail me at my home computer, ChrisDalas@aol.com.

PARK ONCE... PARTY ALL NIGHT!

REVIEWED BY BRUCE WILLIAMS

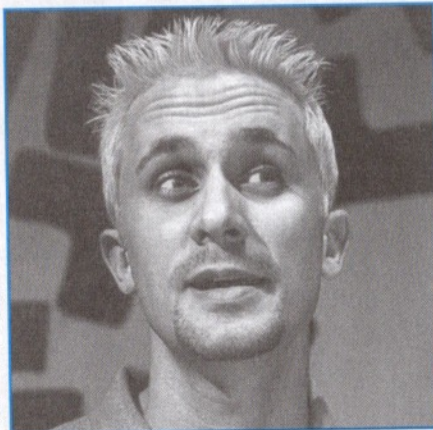

Rob Nash really puts a lot of actors and actresses out of work with his one-man shows.

But that's okay. Nash steps into and out of a variety of roles so easily and smoothly that seeing his one-man repertory company in action makes you feel as if you've made 20 or 30 new friends and interesting acquaintances.

Although he now resides in Los Angeles, Nash is a Texan through and through. He was born in Houston, where he got through 13 years of Catholic schooling, then moved to Austin to get a B.A. in English from the University of Texas and to plunge himself deeper and deeper into life as a performer and writer. He's won acclaim from coast to coast and overseas with his previous one-man trilogy, 12 Steps to a More Dysfunctional....

Now Nash is back with the first in a planned four-part serial on life at a Catholic high school. Freshman Year Sucks! is labeled a work in progress, and it's receiving its world-premiere trial run at Austin's Planet Theatre before the author/star takes it back to the West Coast. This is Nash's third show for the Planet, and it has been earning raves and favorable buzz during its three-week visit to Central Texas.

Freshman Year Sucks! centers around three boys in their early teens and their first year at the selective Catholic private school Holy Cross. Ben Collins is your normal, sweet, sensitive, curious everyman who just may be gay but prefers to fight the possibility. Johnny Down is the gruff, argumentative, narrow-visioned lothario who hides his insecurities behind an I-know-what's-best-for-everyone attitude. George Daly is the overweight, finger-in-his-ear follower whose mom is dead and whose red-neck dad still takes a belt to him.

Nash does a remarkable, superb, job of presenting three-way conversations, just by a slight turn of direction, a new inflection in the voice and distinctive mannerisms.

The performer throws in a slew of auxiliary characters (this reviewer counted 21) who round out the three boys' freshman year experiences.

No matter when you went to school, Freshman Year Sucks! is guaranteed to strike some familiar chords: the wild teachers, each with his own way of presenting his subject; the bullies, represented by our hero/trio's prep-jock classmate Everett Evans and his older brother Kyle; the older generation, authority figures like parents and principals and other school officials, who seem rarely to have a clue about how to relate to the students; the opposite sex from the nearby all-girls Catholic school, who can uplift and divide our hero/trio with a word, a gesture and a bat of the eye.

Nash uses his three heroes to portray three different approaches to the same challenges of the early teen years. He's at his best and most focused as Ben, whether brilliantly miming the perils of gym class showers or the boy's discovery of his writing and acting skills under his two favorite teachers, Mr. Smith (speech and driver's ed) and Gary Powell (drama teacher) — both of whom also sense and try to help bring out that part of Ben that he yet refuses to recognize.

The stage is minimally set, as Nash employs just a chair in the middle and a cot back against one wall. Yet he artfully takes one through a wide range of experiences, from George being hung on a wall by a wedgie to Johnny making out with his girl Maria on the cot to the boys going to confession. The humor is fast and fantastic; when George confesses, "I'm a Baptist," his listener tells him, "Well, I can't forgive you for that!" and adds hastily, "That's a joke!" to set the uneasy youth's mind at ease. Johnny falls while trying to climb up to Maria's window, which prompts him to point out to her as he lies on the ground, "See, Maria? I love you enough to hurt myself!"

The technical support Nash receives at the Planet is excellent. The sound design by Brad "The Whipping Boy" Hastings and Peter Malof is great, with Hastings (of local radio station 101X) having compiled a great mix of music that takes you back to the class of '85's freshman year. The lighting, designed by Michelle Lehman-O'Brien and Brad Butler and operated by Kirk Smith and Brendon Walsh, compliments Nash's movements. Everything keeps the attention nicely centered on the star, and helps him more easily make the rapid and frequent character switches.

It wouldn't be spoiling the plot to divulge that the boys mend their friendship after a split early in the second act, or that the trio help convince Mr. Smith not to move to San Francisco "to move in with an old college roommate." After all, there are three more school years (and three more installments in this tetralogy) to come. Everything turns out pretty cool, and the boys look ahead with the hope that sophomore year "has got to be better." For now, we the audience can only appreciate and applaud Nash for a fun, insightful visit to what certainly was a special time — even if it may have sucked!

Freshman Year Sucks! completes its limited world premiere showing at 8 p.m. today and Saturday, July 18 and 19, at Planet Theatre, 2307 Manor Rd. in Austin. Tickets are $12, and seating is limited. For reservations and more info, call (512)454-TIXS.

His work could be classified as indie-rock. Some prefer to call it metal. But there are also hints of hip hop, rap, even elements of jazz intertwined in what could aptly be described as a "cut-and-paste" production style. A style that the artist himself describes as "mutant." He's an artist whom many have dubbed the "Majesty of Trip Hop." Of course, we're speaking of the genre-crashing Tricky, and his new Island LP Pre-Millennium Tension.

"My foundation was hip hop, but my hip was weird. So it became this thing called 'trip hop.' But I don't want to be pigeonholed. I've been on the rock charts, hip hop charts, blues charts, jazz charts — I like the fact that I can bounce. I don't agree with the name 'trip hop.' If I supposedly invented it, why not call it 'Tricky hop'? I want to know who came up with that name."

Pre-Millennium Tension picks up where 1995's Maxinquaye left off, but this time around the trip hop elements of the tracks are less out in front, while the more aggressive percussion and groovy counter-melodies ride brighter in the mix, "equalizationally" speaking. "The lyrics on Pre-Millennium Tension are furious. And musically, I think it's the closest thing to punk in a long time. Not punk as in loud guitars, but as in the energy and the whole attitude," Tricky explains. Featured vocals for this new project, along with his own deadpan rap growls, are by Maxinquaye's Martina (who has been working with Tricky ever since their collaboration on "Aftermath," a brilliantly tangled melodic melange of several years ago that ultimately led to their signing with Island). They also share a daughter as well.

The songs jump around from a tripped-out interpretation of Cajun blues on "My Evil Is Strong" to a harmonica-driven jungle rock for "Sex-Drive" to reggae on "Christiansands" to "Bad Things," a take on gangsta rap. The tracks "Vent" and "Ghetto Youth" feature a sort of spoken word "rant," spoken in a Jamaican patois by a guy named Sky, whom Tricky met while he was in Jamaica cutting the album. Lyrically, the collection is segregated into tracks made up of loads of jumbled words with no coordination at all and tracks that deal with specific topics. And although his music is technologically based, Tricky has a way of coming across with a very raw, organic quality while maintaining a passion that's often missed in this type of music. It's almost like one of those ransom notes in which different letters are cut out and pasted together, but in a way that ultimately relays the message to the reader — on, in this case, the listener. "That's why it speeds up and slows down, 'cause I'm playing little melodies, riffs, drum patterns, strings straight from the sequencer. It's live music."

"When people say I don't write music, I say, 'That's exactly what I do!,' the artist exclaims. "It's just that I can't concentrate on anything for too long. Making music is like painting, drawing when you were a kid. You take a crayon, draw a line. When you've had enough of that line, you draw another line. It's the best fun."

In the track "Tricky Kid," the resounding line is "It's a new age," a reminder of the forthcoming new millennium. Explains Tricky: "It's a new age, unsafe, where no one's the king of anything — hip hop, jungle, trip hop. We're really vulnerable. So we all have to keep moving."

Performances are at 8 p.m. Thursdays-Saturdays, with a special show on Wednesday, July 23, and a 2 p.m. matinee this Sunday, July 20. For reservations or more info, call (512)244-0440.

The Toilers and the Wayfarers, Keith Froelich's award-winning film about gay youth, begins its premiere theatrical engagement Friday, July 25, at the Dobie Theatre, 2021 Guadalupe St. in Austin. For tickets or more info, call (512)472-3240.

Theatre Three in Dallas presents Lee Blessing's Nice People Dancing to Good Country Music. It's described as "a funny, feel-good comedy about love, and what passes for love, in a good old boy bar on the outskirts of a major Texas city." Since the bar has a great jukebox and the bar owner's pickup has a great radio, the play is suffused with classic country music commentaries that parallel the action of the play. Shows are Thursdays-Saturdays at 8:15 p.m. and Sundays at 2:30 p.m. through Aug. 3. Tickets ($12.50-$25) are available by calling (214) 871-3300, or at the box office at Theatre Three in the Quadrangle, 2800 Routh St. in Dallas.

Perhaps one of the nicest things about beating your head against the wall is that it feels so good when you stop. Start feeling good this week, kids, when lucky Jupiter "sextiles" stern old Saturn. Suddenly, you come through the pain and experience the enlightenment; the monkey on your back retires to Palm Springs and opens a banana stand. Relax and collect the rent.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23) Be proud of who you are; It's the mandate of Jupiter-sextile-Saturn. Pink Crabs must not leave themselves at the mercy of the straight and narrow world for their personal identities. Jupiter unleashes a sexual torrent that cannot be denied (by you or anyone else). Compromise isn't in the cards, honey. Walk in the sun with your head held high. Wear sunglasses to avoid the glare.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23) Proud Lions hate to wear collars and leashes. If you've been feeling restricted by relationships, maybe the Jupiter-and-Saturn sextile will give you mental room to roam. It will be possible to alleviate the sense of suffocation with a few well-placed words. Depending on the words, this can mean a happier balance within the partnership, or total freedom. Your choice.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23) Energy has been at an all-time high premium; do you use it up at work, at the health club or with lovers? Wouldn't it just be nice to simply have more oomph, instead of parceling out the meager portion you can currently muster? Fret no longer, proud Virgo; Saturn-sextile-Jupiter expands the capacity of your motor and increases your speed and efficiency. Now try for a new chassis.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23) Partners might have been putting a damper on your good times. Is it the quest for a perfect person or the reality that we're all human that has led you to a jaded assessment of relationships? Hang up that Garbo routine and allow the Jupiter/Saturn aspect to liven up relationships. We should "vant to be alone" only on bad hair days.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) Home has been a delightful refuge from work but now, during the Jupiter-and-Saturn sextile, both aspects of your life fall into harmony. Strategic gay Scorps can overcome hardships or blockages on the job and apply these lessons in any family squabble or home-based project. Or, conversely, bring the affirmation of your homelife into the workplace.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22) Poor proud Archers have been victims of "creative blockage." Ideas just won't come, and you may have been feeling like an old piece of dried toast. Thankfully, you can wallow in butter during the Jupiter-Saturn sextile. Creative ideas flow freely; why not use this magnificent energy to push our political agenda one giant step forward? Speak out while the speaking out has impact.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) There's no need to worry about overhead. The sextile between Saturn and Jupiter temporarily alleviates any monetary concerns involving

CDC REPORTS LARGE DROP IN U.S. AIDS DEATHS

*Report Monday Continues Decline Cited Last Year;
But Women and Minorities Still Lag Behind.*

U.S. — The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention announced Monday that AIDS deaths had declined 19 percent in the first nine months of last year, compared with the same period in 1995. The statistics, which show unequal improvements among different groups, include the first ever drop the CDC has reported in HIV-related mortality among women.

AIDS deaths among whites dropped 28 percent, while among blacks AIDS deaths fell 10 percent and among Hispanics 16 percent. The decrease among men was 22 percent, but among women only seven percent. African Americans now account for 41 percent of all AIDS cases in the U.S. The disease is increasing fastest among women and minority groups.

The CDC data, which built on a smaller drop announced last year, also indicate that heterosexual transmission of the disease is increasing in importance, with smaller increases reported among gay men and intravenous drug users.

The fall in AIDS deaths was attributed to a drop in the increase in new cases and to new drugs available to treat the disease. But the period covered by the latest statistics began before protease inhibitors, the latest major advance in AIDS treatment, became widely available. Many experts believe those drugs will have an even greater impact on the death rate, but the very high cost of such treatments will keep them out of the hands of many people even in the U.S.

"The statistics released today underscore the need for a concerted national effort to remedy the inequities that exist in access to federal HIV prevention programs and health care services — inequities which significantly contribute to the spread of HIV," Daniel Zingale, Executive Director of AIDS Action, a national AIDS policy and advocacy organization, said at the group's State of AIDS Forum held Monday. "Increased efforts are needed to educate all Americans, but particularly women and people of color, about the reality of HIV transmission. HIV prevention must communicate the unvarnished truth about AIDS across social and cultural lines."

Zingale called on the federal government to push for greater funding of HIV prevention, care and research efforts, and specifically to expand Medicaid eligibility so that more people with the disease — especially women and members of minority groups — can obtain state-of-the-art care.

The State of AIDS Forum brought together leaders of leading AIDS service agencies, Clinton administration officials, public health and AIDS policy experts, clinicians and people with HIV for discussions of the challenges facing people with HIV.

In a related development, on Tuesday a subcommittee of the U.S. House of Representatives passed a fiscal year 1998 funding bill that calls for a $250 million funding increase for AIDS care, prevention and research programs, including a 79 percent increase for the AIDS Drug Assistance Program. In the Senate, an appropriations subcommittee proposed an $8 million increase for the Housing Opportunities for People With AIDS program.

TEXANS ELECTED OFFICERS OF NAT'L GAY DEAF GROUP

*Scot Pott Chosen As President, Steven Hunter As Secretary by Rainbow Alliance of the Deaf
At Biennial Convention.*

KANSAS CITY — Two Texans were among new officers elected during the 15th convention of the Rainbow Alliance of the Deaf, held July 1-6 in Kansas City. The event, held every two years, drew 274 participants from around the U.S. and other nations, including Russia.

Scot A. Pott of Houston was elected President of the Alliance. Pott, who served two two-year terms as Secretary of the organization, has been a member of the Astro Rainbow Alliance of the Deaf since 1989 and has served as Deaf Outreach Program Director with the Montrose Clinic for six years.

Steven Hunter of Austin was elected Secretary of RAD. Hunter has been Coordinator of Deaf Services at AIDS Services of Austin since April.

Also elected to lead RAD were Ralph Lesley of Wheaton, Maryland, who was chosen Vice President, and David Newman of Indianapolis, who is the group's new Treasurer.

The next RAD convention will be held the week of June 15-20, 1999, in New Orleans. That event will be hosted by the Acadiana Rainbow Society of the Deaf. The Houston group lost a bid to host the 2001 RAD Convention to the Northwest Rainbow Alliance of the Deaf, of Seattle.

However, ARAD did win the bid to host the Mr. and Ms. International Deaf Leather Contest in the year 2000. The IDL contest for next year will be held in Amsterdam and in 1999 will be held in New Orleans. For more information, e-mail Scot Pott at Pjancott@aol.com or visit the World Wide Web site DeafQueer.org.

The Rainbow Alliance of the Deaf was founded in 1977 and has over 20 local chapters in the U.S. and Canada.

DALLAS NAMES PROJECT CHAPTER SETS NEW HOURS, DATE FOR DEDICATION

Fund-Raising Dinner Parties Planned for September.

DALLAS — The Metroplex chapter of the NAMES Project, local sponsor of the AIDS Memorial Quilt, has announced plans to expand its panel-making workshop hours in conjunction with the group's upcoming Panel Dedication Ceremony. Workshop hours will be Saturdays from 12 noon-3 p.m. and Sundays from 10:30 a.m.-1 p.m., or at other times by appointment.

The dedication ceremony, which will mark the tenth anniversary of the NAMES Project, will take place at Cathedral of Hope MCC on Saturday, Sept. 27. The Dallas Metroplex chapter provides assistance to those who wish to make quilt panels or who need help finishing panels they have already started. The workshop can furnish panel makers with all the necessary supplies at no charge, and will also assist in the design and creation of panels. No sewing skills are required.

A NAMES Project fund-raising event has also been set for Saturday, Sept. 13, with the theme "Eat, Drink and Who's Mary?" The event will consist of simultaneous dinner parties taking place at several hosts' homes. In exchange for dinner, guests will donate money to their host and the host will in turn donate the money to the NAMES Project. After the individual dinner parties, all participants will gather at a central location to enjoy desert and entertainment. For more information on how to hold a dinner party, or to attend one as a guest, contact the NAMES Project at (214)520-SEWS(7397).

Founded in 1987, the NAMES Project Foundation and its network of 48 national chapters and 38 international affiliates sponsors and displays the AIDS Memorial Quilt to help bring an end to AIDS. A number of special events in 1997 mark the tenth year of the Quilt, which was first displayed in 1987 for San Francisco's Gay Pride Week.

For more information on the Quilt, visit the NAMES Project's World Wide Web site at www.aidsquilt.org.

EMPOWER '97 BRINGS HOPE OF SUCCESSFUL EXPO IN HOUSTON

*Day of Business Exhibits, Entertainment Set for Oct. 11

HOUSTON — It's been tried locally before, with less than sterling results. But organizers with the Greater Houston Gay & Lesbian Chamber of Commerce believe they can make a success of their version of the business expo.

Empower '97, set for Oct. 11 (which is also National Coming Out Day) in the George R. Brown Convention Center, will feature exhibits by gay- and straight-owned businesses that want to appeal to the gay community, as well as a lineup of entertainers including comedienne Judy Tenuta as headliner.

The similar Spectrum expo, staged in 1995 and 1996 by an unrelated group no longer in existence, left many wondering what it would take to pull off such an event. Last year's Spectrum, in particular, aroused little community interest and drew almost no attendance.

"Spectrum was a good idea," Anita Renteria, who co-chairs the Chamber's Business Expo committee, said last week. "I just think that, for whatever reasons, it was not executed properly."

"In this situation, what we have is a full organization, rather than an individual. We have the organization of the Greater Houston Gay & Lesbian Chamber of Commerce behind it; some really high-profile gay business leaders signing up and behind it and sponsoring it."

The Chamber has even hired a company that specializes in such events to carry out the actual booth set-up, registration desk, carpeting and other nuts-and-bolts tasks associated with expositions.

Although the gay and lesbian consumer is the target of Empower '97, Renteria said its success will depend in part on going outside the community.

"It is not just gay businesses," she stressed. "In fact, we did some research on other expos across the country, and some of them are terrific successes; New York, for example, just had a huge one. Some of them have not been such successes. I think that the difference has been inviting businesses that are not just gay-owned, appealing to mainstream businesses."

Empower '97 is being presented in conjunction with the Human Rights Campaign and AIDS Foundation Houston.

Entry to Empower '97 will be free, with attendees asked to bring a canned or boxed food donation that will go to the AFH Stone Soup pantry.

Businesses can take part as exhibitors (with booth space available on a first-come first-served basis) or, at a higher level, as sponsors. Sponsors signed up to date include the Gay and Lesbian Yellow Pages and the Laff Stop comedy club. Exhibitors include Texas Commerce Bank, Suzanne Anderson Properties, UniGlobe Travel and the Alley Theatre.

Space is also available in the Empower '97 program. For more information, call the project's hotline at (713)462-1354.

HOUSTON AGENCIES SPONSOR FORUM ON AIDS TREATMENTS 'Fighting HIV' to Address Complexities of Regimens.

HOUSTON — The Center for AIDS and Amigos Volunteers in Education and Services are sponsoring "Fighting HIV," a free community forum on current HIV treatment strategies, next Thursday, July 24. The forum will be held at the Center for AIDS, 1407 Hawthorne St., starting at 5:45 p.m.

Dr. Roy Gulick, an instructor in medicine at the New York University School of Medicine, and an investigator for NYU's HIV clinical trials, will discuss some of the current treatment options for heavily treated patients, and address resistance and cross-resistance issues. Dr. Shannon Schrader, Medical Director of the Houston Clinical Research Network and the Montrose Clinic, will share his views on how and when to begin treatment and how issues of adhering to medications are affecting the local community.

There is a great deal of confusion and uncertainty about the effectiveness and management of new antiretroviral drugs and drug combination regimens, and the July 24 forum is intended to help clear up some of the confusion. Topics covered will include "Treatment Regimens: Where to Begin"; "Treatment Options for Heavily Treated Patients"; "Resistance and Cross Resistance: What You Need to Know"; and "Adhering to Your Medication Schedule."

According to the most recent statistics issued by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, 14,293 people have been diagnosed with AIDS since 1980 in the Houston Metropolitan area. The Center for AIDS works to provide the latest treatment and research information to people with HIV/AIDS and their caregivers and to advocate for the local HIV-affected population. AVES promotes disease prevention and provides treatment education and direct care to Latinos and other underserved populations.

No advance registration is necessary for next Thursday's forum, which begins with a buffet dinner at 5 p.m. (at the Center for AIDS), but those interested in attending should call CFA at (713)527-8219 or AVES at (713)626-2837.

Whether you have a thirst for passion or pageantry, the only place to be this week is The Saint. Former Miss Gay National Tamisha Iman [above] joined the Saint's Super Sunday Show cast regulars Pauletta, Shady and Erica [also above] last weekend. The votes are in and the time is finally here for Texas Entertainer of the Year, the biggest show of the pageant season. Be at The Saint this Sunday night beginning at 11 p.m. as the top entertainers from across Texas — as determined by your votes — join emcee Shady Lady, National EOY Monica Munro of Chicago and Texas EOY 1996 Whitney Paige in a once-in-a-lifetime extravaganza of glitz and glitter that will culminate in the crowning of this year's winner, who'll then go on to represent Texas in the national competition held Aug. 14-16 and the finals on Sunday, Aug. 17 in Louisville, Kentucky. The Annex is really packing them in for their Levi, Leather and Longnecks night, all night every Saturday. Also extremely popular are their Sunday burger and Wednesday steak nights — great food at prices that can't be beat. When you're at the club, be sure and say "hello" to their newest staff member Phillip. Ask him about their weekly pool and dart tournaments. Ab has one of the most festive happy hours in town. Stop by any Friday, Saturday, Sunday or Monday; he might even challenge you to one of their popular pool tournaments — after he gets off duty, of course!...

On Saturday, July 26, Mick's Hideaway

presents Mick's Christmas Extravaganza as their largest show of the year. The show begins at 10 p.m. and everyone is encouraged to bring a nonperishable food item for the Hispanic AIDS Committee Food Bank. Tuesdays and Sundays are dart nights, while Wednesdays are steak nights. Fridays offer a free buffet from 5-9 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays at Mick's bring out the male dancers at 11 p.m. See their ad in this issue for more details....

Things are really hopping at Eagle Mountain Saloon. They've announced new, even better pricing for every day of the week; check their ad in this issue for details. Congratulations are in order for

Chris Autry, who has been promoted to General Manager of both EMS and The Annex. He earned his title through his sincere dedication and his interest in the clubs, their employees and the community. EMS played host to TGRA's monthly meeting last Sunday and is especially proud of club manager Alfonso, who received TGRA's monthly Volunteer Award, given in recognition of his tireless efforts in promoting our community's needs. Speaking of TGRA, we recently found Destiny Harper, Victor and Mario [above, l-r] enjoying the club's sensational sights and sounds. EMS is now open at 2 p.m. on Sundays. Don't forget to contact the club and reserve space for your private parties in order to have the night of your choice for whatever you're celebrating.

TARRANT TEA — Casa Manana brings the cast of Mame to the 651 Club on Wednesday, July 31. The 651 hosts their summertime cookouts every Thursday. If you'd like to see the show at Casa, give them a call and ask for the Family Special at (817)332-CASA. All of this great fun is provided We Are Doing Something For Charity.

CORPUS CHRISTEA — The Show of Life happens this Wednesday, July 23 at U.B.U., featuring emcee Aaron Davis, Miss Gay America Lauren Taylor, Brittney Wells, Melissa Michaels and many more guests. The evening includes a raffle and door prizes donated by area businesses. All this benefits The Passage, The South Texas Host Committee/AIDS Memorial Quilt and The Lovin' Spoonful. This event is sponsored by U.B.U., Mingles, Hidden Door, Frenz and Zodiac. For tickets, contact the MCC office at (512)882-8255. Reserved seating is available for $20 or general admission is available for $2 per person. Come out and support these worthwhile causes and have a great time.

Walter (Ron) R. Weaver,

born in Columbus, OH
December 15, 1935, departed this life on July 1, 1997. Ron moved to San Antonio 22 years ago. He accomplished things that others only dream about
— BS Psychology, BS Hematology, BSN, AASCP, Registered Technologist and the original owner of Snuffy's Saloon. He was one of the early founders of the Mustang Club and the AIDS Foundation. He also served as one of the first officers (Vice President) of the San Antonio
Chapter of T.G.R.A. He is survived by his life-mate of 12 years, Tom, along with 2 sons and a daughter, Walter Jr., Steve and Laura; and a very long list of friends. So much accomplished and yet he still found time to share himself with others. May his soul soar through the Heavens and meet with those who left before him, happy with the thought that some day we shall all join together again. Ron, I miss our special moments together, and be assured that my love is with you, always.

Tom

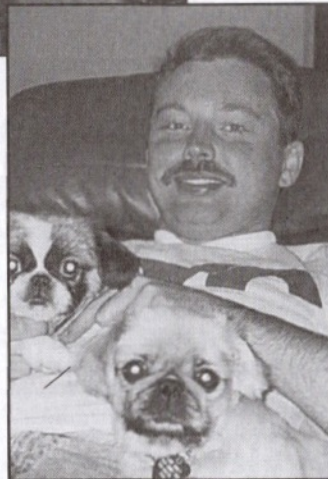

LARRY GARRETT

Dec. 28, 1962-
July 10, 1997

In my heart there is a place
A place that belongs to you.
It's there because of what you say
And everything you do.
Just knowing you is such a gift
The greatest gift I know
You've made me what I am today
You've helped me learn and grow.

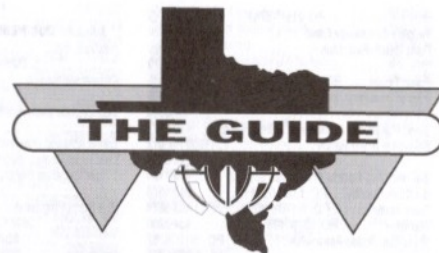

I will love you...Always

Wayne, Ken and Larry's "girls"
Sadie, Abby, Moy and Chelsea

A Celebration of Life for Larry will be held Saturday, July 26, 1997, at MCCR (1919 Decatur) in Houston at 2p.m. Call 713-960-1165 for further details.
