A Good OBJECT Lesson Makes for One of the Best Films of the Year

The Object Of My Affection

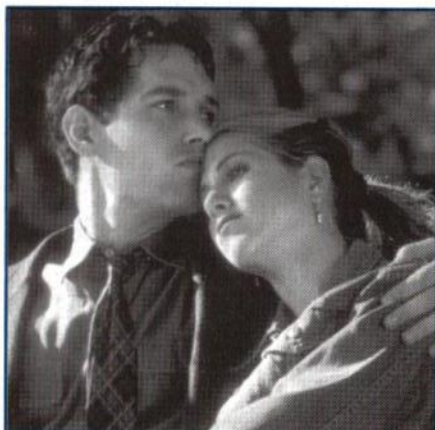

Wow! Two weeks ago I told you to go see Lost in Space, that after all it was only a movie. Let me tell you, go see The Object of My Affection, it's so much more than just a movie. Twentieth Century Fox is trying to deceive you. I've been watching the ads on TV for weeks now, and they all suggest a light, somewhat skewed, romance. The premise: a woman gets pregnant, but rather than raise her child with her boyfriend, who's the father, she wants to bring it up with her gay male roommate. With smiles and dancing, Fox wants you to go to this film expecting screwball comedy with a '90s twist. Well, do go; but what you should expect is one of the smartest and most wrenching, honest and real films of the year. When I walked out of the preview, everybody just stood in the lobby and talked. One woman looked over at me and said, "That was me." That's just the thing; this movie is about you. No matter who you are.

Rachel is dead, long live Nina Borowski. Jennifer Aniston buries the annoying Rachel, one of the Friends, with those hair flips and that grating whine, to emerge here as an actress. As Nina, a social worker who leads teen sex discussions throwing condoms around as fast as the "F" word, Aniston blew me away. At a dinner party, she unwittingly tells a complete stranger, George (the yummy Paul Rudd from Clueless), that his boyfriend is about to dump him. George moves into Nina's extra room for just a couple weeks, only to wind up becoming her best friend.

REVIEWED BY MARK DEATON

This movie is fearless, not just in entertaining the notion that George, a gay man, could be a father, but in the fact that he's a grade school teacher in the first place. Maybe Hollywood has finally figured out that gays and lesbians already are in our schools, doing a wonderful job. When Nina approaches George about helping to raise her child, you know innately that this will be no walk in the park. Nina wants to say, "Preconceptions be damned — let's do it our own way!" For once, a movie decides not to take the rosy, happy way out. When Nina slowly falls in love with George, while he's falling in love with Paul, you fear that nobody is going to wind up happy. A friend leaned over to me and said, "There's a train wreck coming, and I don't wanna be here for it." Suffice it to say that it's a hard scene, but one that rings achingly true.

This is not the movie I would have expected from the guy who last directed The Madness of King George and The Crucible. Nicholas Hynter, a renowned gay theatre director, worked from Stephen McCauley's novel for four years to come up with the screenplay he wanted. Much of the dialogue is fantastic, due to the fact that the screenwriter was the Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Wendy Wasserstein (The Heidi Chronicles and An American Daughter). She writes characters with terrific depth, and recognizable flaws. Even as Nina falls for the gay George, knowing that she can't have him, you understand exactly why she's doing it. These people deceive themselves so subtly that in the end, there's this enormous problem, but no one is truly to blame.

The supporting cast is amazing. Nigel Hawthorne does a beautiful turn as an old theatre critic who is the moral center of the movie. Alan Alda gives a performance that didn't annoy me once with that patented shtick of his. Tim Daly (of Wings fame) plays George's sleazy ex-boyfriend with a light touch. I was very impressed. And Paul Rudd, well, he doesn't have a whole lot to do other than be charming, and he does that pretty damn well. As for any of the actors "playing gay," at least there were no limp wrists or slit wrists. Maybe the movie industry has realized that we're not all flight attendants.

I don't want to tell you too much about this movie; it's not really about the plot, it's about the people. Just be ready for the long drive home, because you, and everybody else in the car, are going to have something to say about The Object of My Affection. And as for my two cents, I couldn't tell you which characters were right and which ones were wrong, but I sure am glad I went to see it.

Slick Spanish Prisoner Keeps You Guessing Until the Last Frame

I remember how well I enjoyed The Usual Suspects. Kevin Spacey was mesmerizing. And then, all those stories began to surface that he was gay. Interestingly enough, I've heard similar stories about Campbell Scott, the star of David Mamet's new head-scratcher The Spanish Prisoner. Scott is the son of one of my favorite actresses, Colleen Dewhurst, and has done some great work on his own. Not bad on the eyes, either. With him as the calm center, The Spanish Prisoner is a whirlwind, in which trying to decipher just what's going on is a useless exercise. And that's where the fun of this movie lies.

On the surface, Prisoner is the story of Joe Ross, an employee of "the company" who's invented "the process" that will corner "the market." Mamet writes like this, and it keeps you just interested enough without becoming annoying. Joe fears that the work he has done will not be rewarded with enough money. While on a business trip he meets the perfect villain — or maybe he's a hero — Jimmy Dell. Steve Martin, in a rare dramatic performance, plays Dell as the kind of guy you want to be around, even though you know you may get burned. When Jimmy Dell convinces Joe to doubt his employers, Joe enters a twisting nightmare. He's put his head in a noose, and as he struggles to break free, the knot becomes tighter. Characters circle around him and there's no way to tell who he can trust. What is the truth? And is it even important in the first place?

The fun part here is trying to assemble the pieces of the puzzle, though unfortunately enough, someone threw away the box top so you have no idea what the picture is of. Mamet is a well-known playwright with a penchant for confidence games and the men who play them. In Prisoner, which he wrote and directed, his dialogue seems stilted until you realize that everything everyone says is subject to interpretation. The marvel is in the actors, who so ably sell you the snake oil. Not only is there Steve Martin, but Mamet casts his own wife, Rebecca Pidgeon, in a crucial role as Joe's love interest. As Susan, Pidgeon is wonderful; she's a present, wrapped beautifully, and it's impossible to know what's going on inside. As Mamet's words come out of her mouth, you can hear the craft that went into them. Maybe this is a mistake, you know, to notice these things. But it's also like a drug; in little doses, it's pleasing, until you find you're hooked.

As Joe at first follows Jimmy's lead, he stumbles across little missteps. A word here or a reference there finally send Joe to the authorities in hopes of resolving the dilemma he finds himself in. As first the FBI and then the New York police enter the picture, Joe finds the ground crumbling beneath him. Fingers start pointing, and they all turn toward Joe. Ben Gazzara plays Joe's boss, Klein. He's the ideal superior, always patting you on the back while seeming to screw you there, too. I love Mamet for things like the names he gives his characters. Ross, Klein, Dell. They all mean nothing as names; blink and they're gone. You don't realize which one is the most important until you're out in the lobby trying to figure out how it all went down.

Now just so you know, there's no Spain or prisoner in this film. And it's all in English. The title refers to an old con in which a new friend tells you he's rich, but both his money and his sister are trapped back in Spain. He says he'd be so grateful if you could loan him the money to get both of them out of the country. You can have some of the money, and he'll even give you the girl. Of course, there's a huge bait-and-switch going on the whole time. Like any con, the whole thing is a house of cards that threatens to come tumbling down at any time — to the point that it occasionally strains credibility. But that doesn't mean it's not fascinating watching these people

The Spanish Prisoner is a wonderful diversion. It's the kind of movie you go see because you love movies, not because you want to have something to talk about tomorrow around the water cooler. The characters live in a world parallel to our own, running their scams and stinging their "marks." Believe me, as big as the eventual smashup is, you don't want to be a part of it, but like everyone else, you do want to slow down and rubberneck for a moment or two.

This week's handsome cover man is 23-year-old Shane Davis of Dallas. Originally from Tulsa, Oklahoma, Shane moved because he felt he could express himself more freely in Dallas. It's been a while since we've seen a new domestic single from my reigning diva goddess, Joi Cardwell. But at long last, the most flawless track from her latest album is hitting the shelves of your favorite retailer now. "Found Love" is by far the best song for Joi since "Trouble." This magnificent record, produced by the godfather of house music (and Grammy winner) Frankie Knuckles, truly takes you where you need to go. The subdued yet soaring treat goes to town, complete with brilliant keyboard work and heart-tugging counter melodies that will make everyone want to find love. The backing vocals were produced by Danny Madden, who also works with Ultra Nate. While the package is a bit short in the remix department (and we've heard that there are some on the way), what's here is just so darn great, who cares about a remix?!

Future tidbit: now that everyone's salivating over Madonna's single "Frozen" and the simply slamin' remix by Victor Calderone, the talk is all about what comes next. Well, it's all about being at the right place at the right time to get all the good dirt. Last week I was privy to a little listening session of some of Mr. Calderone's soon-to-be-released works, and at the top of the list was the next Madonna, "Ray Of Light." Oh my god! Now this is really incredible! For a minute I was beginning to think that all of Victor's stuff was on its way to sounding alike. Well, I don't know what happened, but it was obviously a very good thing. Not only is this his best work to date, but I think it's also probably going to go down in the books as Madonna's best record to date. Need I tell you more? I'm not sure when it's coming, but get ready, sisters!...

If you like it a bit to the alternative tip, there's something soon to be out that you may need to get for the collection. Look for the Tayce album I Don't Need a Gun, coming soon from Radikal Records. Tayce is an artist entirely unique in the world of contemporary pop music. So unusual is her evocative meshing of Eastern and Western rhythms and influences that she's developed her own style of ethereal music — brilliant, lush, dreamy, divine. She swoops and flutters through a variety of sounds, from richly textured drum and bass to simple acoustic arrangements, alternative dance and deeply fluid dub. Although sister is pretty much incomparable, we could at least place her in the same company with other singular woman artists like Ruth Ann (Olive), Jewel, Paula Cole, Bjork, Tanya Donelly, Kristin Hersh and Enya. As a keyboardist and remixer, Tayce has worked with the Utha Saints, Bomb the Bass, Bob Marley & the Wailers and many more. I Don't Need a Gun was produced by Mike Bennett, who recently produced his fifth album with The Fall: The Light User Syndrome. Tayce, coming this spring/summer...

About two years ago, Texas' dance floors rocked to the tribal beats of Baaba Maal's "Sidiki." The brilliant Senegalese superstar has recently completed his new album, to be released this summer through Chris Blackwell's new entertainment company. Baaba Maal's 1996 Grammy-nominated album Firin' in Fouta displays his unique ability to maintain the traditions of African rhythms while experimenting with new sounds and technology. We hear his performance last week at Houston's International Festival was amazing. A more extensive tour is being scheduled for later in the year to support the album. And you guessed it, he'll be back to Texas, where he has a very strong fan base. We'll keep you posted.

And that's dance music THIS WEEK IN TEXAS.

Jerry Seinfeld
April 29, 1955

Randy May bursts proudly out with spit and fire in its soul. Maybe that's because there are so many planets careening through pioneering Aries and sensuous Taurus. Follow some sound Noo Yawk advice and don't take nuttin' from nobody. Let's examine May this week, knowing that this is the month to throw caution to the wind...as well as a few choice articles of clothing.

TAURUS (April 21 - May 21) Happy birthday, queer Bull. Both the happy Sun and zesty Mars are in your sign, which means one thing: new beginnings. Toss off the old and stale in your life (no names, please...) and shed your worn-out skin for a new lavender you. (Who is that looker?) On the 4th, when Venus moves into Aries, prepare to connect to people telepathically. Mind-control the religious right.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21) How generous are you, proud Twin? The acid test comes in May when both the Sun and Mars encourage you to go one step further for a great gay cause. Reincarnate yourself as Mother Theresa, but bag the sari. Do yourself a favor as well this month by cheerfully dumping the contents of your dank closet before the 25th. Mars sez it's never too late for a little spring cleaning.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23) Gay Crabs are social directors of the pride fest as pals look to you for a good time. Festive Sun and zesty Mars leave their mark on any social calendar if you bossa nova before the 25th. After that, you might as well hang up your dancing shoes as you grow more introspective. What exactly do you want to be when you grow up? Expect surprising answers, cousin.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23) If your career track becomes a little less congested this May, thank enterprising Mars and the courageous Sun for the leg up. But gather your corporate rosebuds while you may, proud Lion; After the 22nd, the thrill of the hunt is gone and after the 25th, your energies will focus more on having a great gay time. Just as well; they say it's lonely at the top.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23) Take some summer courses and learn a thing or two this May. Queer Virgins are ready and raring to expand their worldly knowledge for most of the month. Explore all corners before the 25th. After that, you'll be back to earth and forced to concentrate on more practical matters such as how to curry favor with bosses and assorted other corporate skanks.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23) If you feel a refreshing breeze in your pants, thank gusty Sun and Mars for the surge. Gay Libras begin the month on a lusty sexual rampage, shifting to merely heavy flirting after the 30th when Venus enters Taurus and lightens your load. Probe all secret places before the 25th and all corners of the world after that. Who said life is boring?

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) The focus is on relationships this May when both the Sun and Mars turn up the heat. Proud Scorps give the appearance of being very independent souls but, in fact, they secretly ache for connection. It's there for the asking until the 25th, cousin. After that, wanderlust gets the better of you. Ah, but two can travel as cheaply as one as long as you share the same bunk.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22) Since it seems a little harder than usual to let loose and have fun, smart gay Sags are best served by concentrating on work or on toning that bod for the swimsuit season most of the month. The serviceable Sun and energetic Mars encourage you to roll up your sleeves and accomplish the impossible before the 25th. After that, all bets are off; let it all hang out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) Even intensely directioned gay Goats are encouraged to relax this May when the Sun and Mars tickle your fancy. It's the time of year to be creative and tap into your gay muse. Either that or party hearty; your choice. Enjoy every pleasant zetz until the 25th. After that, you return to your naturally serious ways and become a worker ant extraordinaire.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19) Focus your attention on home-related projects this May when feisty Mars and the inspirational Sun warm up the hearth. Do what needs to be done, Aqueerius, and don't look back. Put your personal life in order before the 25th. You'll be too busy hauling your ashes all around town after that to engage in quiet contemplation. You lucky thing you!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - March 20) There seems to be so much to say and only until the 25th of the month to deliver it properly, pink fish. Prepare your pride treatise and deliver it with gusto while the passion and thoughts flow. But wait; there's more: intellectual Mercury moves from Aries to Taurus on the 16th and enters the communications fray. That means you must think globally and act locally.

ARIES (March 21 - April 20) Both astute Mercury and lovely Venus pass through your own sign this May, you charmer you. This is no time to sit back and play the wallflower, gay Ram; you've got oodles of time, energy and money to wine, dine and be just divine. Sun and Mars in Taurus loosen up your purse strings and make you feel downright charitable. Well, let's not go that far....

DALLAS — The pool "buoys" and "gulls" of Team Dallas Aquatics, wearing the very latest in fashionable children's swimming pools and with matching boas and pumps, will preside over a bluelight special rummage sale and lemonade party, this Sunday, April 26, from Dressed out in their finest kiddie pools and matching boas and pumps, Team Dallas Aquatics raises funds for the Gay Games through a bash this Sunday.

10 a.m.-4 p.m., at Shelby Place Condominiums, Dickason Ave. Everyone is invited.

Funds generated from the sale will be used to costume Team Dallas Aquatics' dancing chorus for the world-famous Pink Flamingo Follies, a campy Esther Williams-like water ballet that will serve as a grand finale to the swim competition of the Gay Games in Amsterdam in August.

TDA is sending 12 of its members to participate in the swimming competition and represent Dallas and Texas.

Furthermore, anyone wishing to donate artistic (or less than artistic, and even trashy) items to the sale is welcome to do so. It goes without saying that Larry's Lemonade Stand will be open.

For more info, call Team Captain Timothy Kessler at (214) 333-1465.

HOUSTON INDEP. BILLIARDS

HOUSTON — After four weeks of play in the Independent Billiard League of Houston, the top five teams are, in first place, Sudden Impact (the 611), followed by Ripcord Rebels, Night Hawks, QE III (Mary's) and EJ's Renegades. The top five players for the week are Martin Diaz, Jim Eames, Rick Hall, Bernie and Steve Jerome.

The first monthly League meeting was last Sunday at Mary's. There were two Rules and Regulations items that were tabled at that meeting and voted in Sunday. They are the dissolution of the Coaching Rule (players now have one time out per game to discuss options) and the limiting of Jackets (based on a sliding scale of teams per season).

The League also filled two officers positions that had been vacant. The new Sergeant at Arms is Rick Bouley and the Public Relations Coordinator is Mark Sherron.

The group meets for dinner on Thursday nights (at about 8:15 p.m.; location varies). Other events include local and out-of-town races. COMIC BOB SMITH TO PERFORM AT SAMARITAN INSTITUTE BASH IN DALLAS

*'Celebration of Body and Soul'
May 1 at Cathedral of Hope
To Include Auction, Reception.*

DALLAS — The Samaritan Institute for Religious Studies presents "A Celebration of Body and Soul," an evening of song, spirit and laughter, next Friday, May 1, at the Cathedral of Hope MCC, 5910 Cedar Springs. The evening, which opens with a silent auction and reception beginning at 6:30 p.m., will be a celebration of entertainment featuring nationally recognized comedian Bob Smith and Dallas' very own New Arts Six and Positive Voices.

Cliff Redd is serving as the Honorary Chairman and Michael Doughman will be the evening's Master of Ceremonies. Redd agreed to serve in his post when he learned that Smith would be performing as the evening's headliner.

Bob Smith has the distinction of being the first openly gay comedian to have his own HBO Comedy Special and to appear on The Tonight Show. Smith has been employed by Roseanne and Dennis Miller for his writing talents. Smith has also written two books, Growing Up Gay and, more recently, Openly Bob. He will sign books later in the evening.

New Arts Six is a performing arts ensemble dedicated to the musical interpretation of its African-American heritage.

Positive Voices, composed entirely of HIV-positive men, covers a broad spectrum of music from light and humorous to powerful and moving.

The 28-year-old Samaritan Institute, sponsor and beneficiary of next Friday's event, is the professional school of the Universal Fellowship of Metropolitan Community Churches. Dedicated to providing nonhomophobic theological education, Samaritan serves more than 350 students in the United States and Canada.

Tickets ($10, limited to first 1,000) are available at Crossroads Market, Sources of Hope Bookstore, Bishop Street Market and Sterling's Flowers and Gifts. For more ticket information, call (214)350-1942.

DIANA FUND-RAISER TOPS TOTALS FROM NEARLY A DECADE

*Proceeds from Oscars
Parody in Houston Benefit
The Assistance Fund.*

HOUSTON — The Diana Foundation is back in the forefront of fund-raising for the local community after a successful fund-raising event held March 28 at the Four Seasons Hotel. Some 200 turned out for the elegant affair, which included a sit-down dinner.

After a number of years in which the foundation presented full-scale Broadway-style productions, all of which were very expensive to produce and some of which were not very profitable, in such locations as the old Tower Theatre and the Wortham downtown, the Dianas have changed the evening's venue somewhat but maintained the the annual tradition of roasting members and friends in a show designed as a parody of the Academy Awards. The format for the show has taken on what organizers call a cabaret-style setting with professional entertainers and a seated dinner. This year's affair included an award to state Rep. Debra Danburg for her service to the community.

State Rep. Debra Danburg [l] was honored for her service to the community at the recent Diana Awards gala, which raised funds for The Assistance Fund.

Although the organization has been around since 1952, Diana became a foundation in 1975 for the purpose of enabling its members to make contributions to the needs of the Houston community. The foundation has given away thousands of dollars to McAdory House, the Montrose Clinic and Stone Soup. This year's event brought in $21,000, the largest single amount raised by the show in almost a decade, and The Assistance Fund was the beneficiary.

The Dianas also sponsor the annual Country Dinner at the Houston Polo Club, which will be held on Oct. 8.

HUMAN RIGHTS CAMPAIGN BOARD ELECTS NEW MEMBERS

*Candy Marcum of Dallas
One of Two New Co-Chairs.*

WASHINGTON, DC — The board of directors of the Human Rights Campaign, the nation's largest gay and lesbian rights organization, recently elected three new members, all of whom the group described as bringing impressive experience and credentials to their new posts. The HRC board also has two new co-chairs, Candy Marcum of Dallas and Jeff Sachse of Chicago. Marcum and Sachse will both serve two-year terms.

Marcum served on HRC's board of governors from 1992-1996, during which she was co-chair of the Federal Club committee and a member of the strategic planning committee. Marcum is a psychotherapist in private practice and author of the book AIDS: The Caregiver's Handbook. She has received numerous awards for her community service.

Sachse, an attorney with the firm of Krasnew Sanberg & Cohen, recently completed a two-year term as co-chair of the HRC board of governors. He coordinated Illinois gay and lesbian volunteers for the Clinton-Gore campaign in 1992 and worked on the first Senate campaign of Carol Moseley-Braun.

New board members are financial writer Andrew Tobias of Miami; attorney Abby R. Rubinfeld of Nashville; and Everett E. Hamilton, Jr. of Washington, DC, president of a convention and special event-planning consulting firm.

Tobias is the author of numerous books, including Fire and Ice, the Charles Revson/Revlon story; The Only Investment Guide You'll Ever Need; and Getting By on $100,000 a Year (And Other Sad Tales). An eight-part PBS documentary he hosted, Beyond Wall Street: The Art of Investing, aired last fall.

Rubinfeld has a general practice that includes an emphasis on family law, sexual orientation and AIDS-related issues. In 1996, she succeeded in a four-year effort to overturn the Tennessee law that criminalized private consensual same-sex adult sexual behavior. Rubinfeld was Legal Director of the Lambda Legal Defense and Education Fund from 1983-1988 and was the editor of AIDS Legal Guide, the first AIDS-related legal publication in the country. She served four years on the board of directors of the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force.

Hamilton, whose consulting clients include Fortune 500 companies and U.S. government agencies, is a member of the District of Columbia Coalition of Black Lesbians, Gay Men and Bisexuals as well as the National Black Lesbian and Gay Leadership Forum. He is active with Gays and Lesbians Opposing Violence, serving on the group's board of directors, and is publisher and editor in chief of REAL.

Magazine, which is targeted at African-American gay men and lesbians.

APRIL 30 FORUM IN HOUSTON TO FOCUS ON FIGHTING HIV WASTING

*Kinetic Sports Clinic,
Dr. Patricia Salvato Will Present
Latest Info on Common Problem.*

HOUSTON — The Kinetic Sports Clinic, which specializes in the use of exercise as an important component in fighting HIV, and noted AIDS researcher and physician Dr. Patricia Salvato present a free public forum next Thursday, April 30, focusing on treatment options currently available in fighting cachexia, otherwise known as HIV wasting syndrome. The two-hour presentation, which starts at 6 p.m., will combine nutritional information with exercise advice to let participants know what they can do to help fight the loss of lean body mass, one of the most visible effects produced by HIV infection.

The forum will be held at the TenetLINK Education Center, 1200 Binz, Suite 140. Ed Kinser, Director of the Clinic, said the event has been designed to bring a comprehensive array of information to attendees on the latest treatments available without using the medical terminology commonly associated with many such events. The range of topics covered includes the types of exercise most beneficial, tips on proper and easy nutrition, and monitoring one's treatment in the fight against wasting.

Kinser will also show participants how the cost of treatment for fighting HIV wasting syndrome can be covered by most major medical insurance as well as Medicare. Kinetic Sports will work with the insurance companies of clinic members in an effort to obtain coverage as well as process insurance claims for all clinic members.

Salvato, the Medical Director of Kinetic Sports, will help answer questions in an easy-to-understand format during Thursday's program.

Kinser said Kinetic Sports has helped over 300 HIV-positive individuals to increase their lean body mass while at the same time improving their self-esteem since the facility was established over two years ago. Programs include progressive resistance exercise, neuropathy treatments, massage therapy and stress/pain management. The facility is open six days a week. For more information, call (713) 349-9750.

GAY MEMBER OF STATE DEM COMMITTEE RUNNING FOR SEC'Y OF HARRIS COUNTY PARTY

*Francisco Sánchez, Jr. Pledges
To Work for Accountability, Better Communications.*

HOUSTON — Francisco Sánchez, Jr., a longtime Democratic Party operative and one of four openly gay members of the State Democratic Executive Committee, announced earlier this week that he is running for the post of Secretary of the Harris County Democratic Party.

"I want to be a part of rebuilding the new Harris County Democratic Party in Houston," Sánchez said in a statement he issued Tuesday. "We are moving in the right direction with the election of a new chair and we need to ensure that the team in place for November is qualified and committed to doing the job right."

Sánchez, whose term on the State Democratic Executive Committee expires at the end of April, joined SDEC members Pat Gandy and Sue Lovell in deciding not to run for reelection.

"I believe that the vision and leadership I offer will be an asset to the party's efforts to prepare for November," Sánchez said. He pledged that he would take an important role in working to enhance the accountability of party officers, increase communications and create a party website. The election will be held on May 4 at the swearing-in of the Harris County Democratic Executive Committee.

If elected, Sánchez would be the second-highest-ranking official in the Harris County Democratic Party.

Sánchez was profiled in a recent issue of The Advocate as one of the country's up-and-coming gay or lesbian political figures.

REVIEWED BY JAMES FRANK

When I was invited to go see Angels in America, I had no idea what all the hullabaloo was about. Then I read that there was nudity and I told myself, that's it. All these people are lining up to see skin. I didn't get it; rent an adult film if that's what you want from theatre. Then I saw the play. The five seconds of "skin" are not why the house was filled to capacity (with extra seats set up, at that). Those people were there to see one of the most poignant, well-written messages of this decade.

Part I of Tony Kushner's play (Millennium Approaches), which is being presented through May 17 at Zachary Scott's Kleberg Stage in Austin, revolves around the struggles of two couples in New York City. One of them is a nice Mormon couple, Joe and Harper Pitt, played by Kevin Madden and Meredith Robertson, respectively. Joe Pitt is an attorney who actually has a sense of right and wrong, be it legal or moral, and that's his focus throughout the play. He's asked to do something unethical while desperately trying to fight back the inner turmoil he's created by denying his homosexuality. Harper is addicted to Valium and suffers hallucinations; we watch her paranoid episodes and mental fantasies with very little sympathy, until we learn of her past. Among all the ramblings and the hallucinations, there's a woman screaming to be loved, held and protected from the terrifying world outside her door. We see the cherubic face of the lovely girl become twisted with madness and then turn lovely again with her return to reality.

The other duo are Louis Ironson and Prior Walter, a gay couple played by Martin Burk and Jason Phelps, respectively. Louis is a Jewish law clerk whose sense of legal justice is very clear but whose sense of moral justice is completely befogged. Watching his moral torment and his tirades over everything and nothing to conceal his anguish and guilt is like looking through a window onto the greater part of society. Although he turns his back on his lover, he cannot forget or forgive himself for his cowardice. Prior could be any of us. He's an ex-drag queen with a flair for the dramatic. He goes from queen to child in an instant and back again, leaving the audience to catch up with a deep breath. However, Phelps' gut-wrenching performance of Prior the AIDS patient eclipses the character's camp and wit. As this reviewer watched Prior's physical decline and his mental decay, I could feel the sorrow experienced by every single person in the audience. A nice elderly couple sitting next to me was in tears most of the time; I could only imagine their motivation for coming to see Angels.

Patrick Amos' overdone humor as Belize (Prior's ex-lover) is only a mask for the caring and deep person behind the big purse and the dashing array of scarves. He's the person at a charity function guiltig you into making a second donation; he's the volunteer at the food bank who goes to the store for one more person. On the flip side, however, Amos also portrays Mr. Lies (who serves as Harper Pitt's "guide" during her hallucinations), a man who makes you do things you know you shouldn't, the man in the closet or under the bed. Gliding across the floor, his smooth voice lulls you into fantasy, or should I say away from reality?

Karen Kuykendall, an Austin favorite, works hard in this production. She wears four different hats — or should I say wigs? — for the four different characters she plays. I found her insightful, if only partly believable, as an aged rabbi. As Dr. Henry she was pointed and right on target. As Hannah Pitt, Kuykendall could have been my grandmother, God love her. However, it was as Ethel Rosenberg — yes, she who went to the electric chair in 1951 — that Kuykendall tore at the fabric of my heart-strings. Back from the grave she came and offered solace and forgiveness to Roy Cohn, the man who had sent her there. Played by Tom Byrne, he's the blood-sucking, law-bending divorce attorney we all joke about. Byrne's sense of comic timing brings the character to life, giving Cohn credibility. Cohn denies he is a homosexual, yet he admits he sleeps with men; he insists he can't be gay because homosexuals have "zero clout." It is at Cohn's end that we feel such pity for a man who after his death will have only the ghost of the woman he damned to keep him company.

In addition to playing a number of people you might meet on the street — a real estate agent, a religious woman and a homeless person — the hardworking Robin Christian is the Angel, who at the end of the play descends from heaven and brings God to the eyes of the watcher, tying the whole thing together.

Michael Raifford has given us an innovative, minimalist set that lends itself to speedy, seamless scene changes. That's important, because this play knows no physical boundaries except earth itself. Robert Wyburn's creative and dramatic lighting is often the only scene change offered or needed, while Allen Robertson has created an original score and sound effects especially for this production. The poignant tones of the music add just the right touch of softness, drama or fear. Couple all this with the vision and guidance of director Dave Steakley and you have all that's needed to showcase the outstanding acting talents of the cast.

Go see Angels in America. You'll leave it a different person.

Get there early, enjoy the music, shows, friendly staff and all the fun. While you're there, say hi to newest EMS employee Cindy [right], who serves as both a barback and bartender...you go, girl!...

If you missed all the men, action and fun (They were packed!) at the Annex last weekend, you'll want to be there for this week's festivities. The Annex is still running their extra special drink prices throughout the weekend and they expect a full house every night. A special feature this weekend will be a professional photographer on hand to take photos of you and that special someone — a little something to help you remember Fiesta '98....

Be sure to attend the Tejano Street Fair at La Villita Assembly Sunday, May 3, from noon till 8 p.m. Admission is $6 and the event will feature food, games, dancing, entertainment and live music from The Ozz Band. All proceeds from the Tejano Street Fair will benefit the Blue Light Candle....

The Saint happily welcomed former Miss Gay America Lauren Taylor to the Super

the Miss Gay USofA Pageant in Dallas this May when she'll take a stab at her second national title. Best of luck! Speaking of pageants, stock up on those hormones, girls, the Miss Texas Continental Pageant takes the Saint stage by storm Sunday, May 10, and will feature reigning goddess supreme, the very tan and tightly sculpted Melissa Crawford and special guest Miss Continental USA Tasha Long. Shady Lady will hostess and emcee this glittering event, which boasts the only swimsuit competition in all of Texas pageantry. Duct tape anyone? Congratulations to the aforementioned Melissa Crawford on a sweeping victory at the Miss Gay Fiesta Pageant last Friday evening. Check out TWT's Pageant Tea section for a winner's circle photo and a listing of runners-up.

AUSTINTEACIOUS — Oh my goodness! Splash is next week! Get ready for the beer barge, the out-of-town boys and the memories to brag about. This year marks the 15th anniversary of the official Splash celebration. Get your commemorative T-shirt at your favorite Tavern Guild watering hole, and plan ahead for next weekend. See you at the lake!...

The Edge has a festive new theme night — dancer boys for your viewing pleasure on Wednesdays. They're the Momma's Boys and they are fine as wine. You'd be happy to take each and every one home to meet your mama. Congrats are in order to Murrah, who went over to another bar last Thursday and won their talent night competition. We bet there were some mad draglets that night! Better luck next time,

"ladies"! This group of rowdies [above] was on hand last week for Freaky Thursday. They're just a sample of the pickings you'll find at this hotspot. Can you pick out the straight one? Neither could we...ha-ha....

Dick's Deja Disco is well on their way to being a hopping nightspot. They've put a ton of LP covers up on the wall, and we're told there's a $100 voucher in one of them. One day, one pick; that's how it works. We hope to find it and pay our bar tab! Dick's is also looking for dancers. Go figure; Dick's dancer instead of.... If you like to "shake your groove thang," or are in need of some "gettin' down," stop in any night of the week to enjoy any and all of your favorite old hits of the '70s, '80s and '90s.

Here's a question you can research the answer to: Why is there a big cinder block in the deejay booth? Lil' Debi knows the answer. Ask and he'll tell you....

Charlie's pulled out all the stops last week for the Pink Party, which started out for no other reason than to decorate the club but has turned into an annual event. With a ton of pink streamers and balloons, you'd think they couldn't get any gayler! With abandon that would make Bacchus proud, these guys and gals couldn't get to the frozen pink margaritas fast enough.

Even these nice guys [right] wanted to get in on the action by getting their own Think Pink T-shirts. What would your mothers say? You go, girls! The outrageous Nacha Type was in rare form last week; she actually remembered to sing her words in between her shots!...

The Forum has been on fire these days, and the pumping tunes of Filthy Rich and Danny Cardiel have had the place "smokin'"! The dance floor is as packed as the jeans on it. Every weekend there are lots of shirtless men dancing the night away; we love that part. This stud [left] is only a sample of the men to be found within these walls on any given night. Next weekend, Ben Parsley presents another circuit party for all you circuit-goers. Manager Greg promises not to close the doors until there's no one left to party with. Speaking of doors, we understand that yet another closet door is beginning to swing open within these walls. Here's a hint: he took them two by two....

'Bout Time is proud to announce the beginning of the "Lesbolympics." This Saturday is the pool tournament, so bring your cue if you own one. I would have said sticks, but, well, you understand. This past weekend, the United Court of Austin had a benefit for the Pediatric AIDS League, with hostess Nikki Hunter presenting a show that had the crowd begging for more. In addition to the camp in the drama, there was the ever-present spirit of giving. What a nice way to help our friends. We got full, picked up trade and gave to charity, all in one night — we'd call that a "banner evening"! The 'Bout Time family wants to wish Chaz a very happy birthday. You look great for someone who's 105 years old!...

Rainbow Cattle Company is your country headquarters. If you're looking for a place to twirl, this is it. There's a veritable plethora of cowboys for your selection, and men with even the most discriminating of tastes will find a denim-clad backside to brighten their view on life for the evening. Taco Tuesdays followed by dance lessons are always a bunch of fun, as are Thursday steak nights. Where would we be without our weekly dose of karaoke with the crazy duo of Michael T. and Cartwheel Bob? We'd be much sadder sitting on a barstool singing with no backup, that's where we'd be! When a gal's gotta sing, well...a gal's gotta sing.

DALLAS TEA — Mr. Texas Leather Ronnie is heading to Chicago in mid-May to compete in the International Mr. Leather competition, vying for the title against 80 contestants from all around the world. There has never been a Mr. Texas Leather titleholder to win this prestigious title. Ronnie is intelligent, attractive and personable, and he stands a very good chance of taking the title in Chicago. This sort of representative participating in such competition says a lot about Texas and Dallas in particular. The Texans in attendance will definitely enjoy seeing such a fine competitor representing our state. Good Luck at IML in Chicago, Ronnie!...

Tonight at the Dallas Eagle, Dark Friday dominates the night with S/M demos and much more happening for your viewing pleasure as you grab a glance at the dark side. You're invited to dress in your favorite fetish attire, as long as it's street legal. You're always in for a real treat as you join the growing membership of the DFW Big Men's Club during their weekly club night every Thursday. These guys really know how to party in a big way; what else would you expect from this group of party animals? Speaking of big events, the tenth Annual Mr. Gulf Coast Drummer contest will take over the club the weekend of May 16. This event is sponsored by Leather

She wins everything! Don't even think about missing out on the club's legendary Crews Inn Tuesdays. You just might find sexy customers Jon and David [right, l-r] during your next visit. The place is packed with the hunkiest party people in the area. Wednesday's reduced-drink specials ease the hump-night blues and get everyone through the middle of the week with the club's notoriously naughty male dancers. The Trash Discotheque on Fridays really Rocks the Boat when every Disco Queen does The Hustle on the dance floor as during tonight's Disco Inferno, which will take you to Funky Town and make you Feel Mighty Real....

When the last basket was won and the counting was done, the Village Station donated $10,000 to the AIDS Resource Center Food Pantry. What a great way to celebrate the holiday.  suggesting solicitation. It's the law. Also, state law prohibits non-licensed massage therapists from using terms such as "massage," "Swedish," "acupres-sure," "Shiatsu," "reflexology," "body rub," "back rub," "body massage" or any term which indicates bodily contact.

OBITUARIES

"John Leonard" Montano

Feb. 22, 1964 - March 13, 1998
 In true cowboy style, John rode off into the sunset at his parents' home in Tucumcari, New Mexico, on Friday, March 13, surrounded by his loving family. John lived in many West Texas cities, but called Dallas/Fort Worth home. An active member of TGRA, John loved the rodeo and dancing at the Round-Up and the 651. He was the manager of One Stop and Town & Country convenience stores.

Survived by his parents, Jose and Lucy Montano; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Moises Lujan; brother, Eugene (and wife Allison) Montano; sisters, Rachel (and husband Max) Valdez, Sheila (and husband Paul) Branch, Leona (and husband Ed) Daw, and Helen Trujillo; and seven nieces and two nephews, who loved John. Many friends and neighbors loved John and will miss him.

Services were held at St. Ann's Catholic Church, burial at Tucumcari Memorial Park Cemetery. John's request that his favorite country songs be played and 34 white balloons be released was honored.

Jame Stephen "Steve" Hutchison

July 29, 1952 - April 17, 1998
 Steve was born in Houston. He died of cancer at his home in Las Vegas, Nevada. Survived by sister, Ann; brothers, Mike, Bill, Dan and Dean; and his lover, Marc Comstock.

Steve's ashes will be scattered this weekend in Austin. Donations may be made in Steve's name to the charity of your choice.
