The Governess "Transports You to Another Place and Time"

REVIEWED BY STEVEN LINDSEY

A charming young Jewish woman leaves a doomed relationship to take care of the precocious child of a wealthy family. She falls in love with the father and becomes the object of infatuation by the teenage son. Where, oh where, was Fran Drescher when they were casting The Governess? Just think of the wacky situations she could get herself into!

OK, so that's hardly the point of this beautifully refreshing film starring Minnie Driver, but it's a comparison I couldn't resist pointing out. There is definitely a lot more to this stirring glimpse into religious and class prejudice in 1840's Europe.

Driver plays Rosina, a young, affluent Jewish woman who, after her father's death, is forced to either enter into an arranged marriage or move away from London and pretend to be a Gentile to help financially support her family. She chooses the latter (obviously) and must endure the foreign rituals of another religion while maintaining faith and devotion to her own. Under the ultra-Christian name of Mary Blackchurch, she arrives at the dreary Scottish home of the ludicrously wealthy Cavendish family.

Mrs. Cavendish is depressed with her own life and passes her lack of joy on to anyone close enough to hear or see her, mainly because Mr. Cavendish is so engulfed with his photography experiments that he pays little attention to anyone. Their son Henry is sent home in disgrace from university and soon falls for the newest addition to the family's staff. Then covers the nature of Mr. Cavendish's experiments and begins to assist him in his life's work — inventing a way to permanently capture photographic images on paper. As their working relationship progresses, so begins an adulterous one. And wouldn't you know, it doesn't take them long to shift from capturing still life images to photographing each other's naked bodies. (And we all thought Hugh Hefner was such a pioneer!)

Such a juicy helping of melodrama against the picturesque backdrop of a remote Scottish island is the stuff "period movies" dream of. While often not subtle, writer/director Sandra Goldbacher weaves a glorious web of ambition, betrayal and raw passion that is thoroughly mesmerizing. The film is definitely told from a woman's point of view, and that evokes so many interesting feelings that would likely be glossed over by a male filmmaker (unless of course, it was a gay male filmmaker).

Driver is splendid as Rosina/Mary and looks completely appropriate to be living in the nineteenth century. Her unusual features help make her a more intriguing figure than those of a more traditionally beautiful woman would. Driver is given so much character history with which to work that she really brings the woman to life. Her performance of Passover and other Jewish rituals is nuanced and thoroughly convincing. The complexity of the relationship with Mr. Cavendish keeps her vulnerable, but ultimately gives her strength and independence. It takes a gutsy woman to use male full frontal nudity as a weapon! (You'll understand when you see it.)

Tom Wilkinson as Mr. Cavendish brings great dimension to what could have otherwise been a very dull, one-note character. By allowing his own fears to be seen, we are allowed to see enough of his humanity to prevent loathing him for what he's doing. His relationship with Mary is actually believable, despite the fact that I would've much rather seen her with the younger,

As Henry, Jonathan Rhys Meyers is a delight to watch, although his role isn't much to speak of until the movie's second half. His tortured crush on Mary is every bit as heartbreaking as the combination of everything she endures.

Both Florence Hoath as Clementina and Harriet Walter as Mrs. Cavendish bring their own brand of witchiness to the screen in a grand balance of emotional torture for Mary. The look on Mrs. Cavendish's face in her final scene is absolutely priceless.

The Governess does take some factual liberties here and there, but they are easily forgivable given the sheer escapism it provides. Any film that can so flawlessly transport you to another place and time is a real treat and worth the time and money to see it on the big screen.

The Governess opens today (August 14) in Dallas at Landmark's Inwood Theater, 5458 West Lovers Lane (corner of Inwood and Lovers), and in Houston at Landmark Greenway Theater, 5 E. Greenway Theater. For more information, call Dallas at (214)352-6040 or Houston at (713)626-0402.

Non-Stop Energy Comes to Dallas in the Form of RIVERDANCE!

nothing less than brilliant.

The featured dancers are Michael Patrick Gallagher and Niamh Roddy, both of whom are well trained and exhibit the necessary athleticism to pull off such harrowing dance numbers night after night. Unfortunately, Gallagher seems to be only as great as he thinks he is, bringing an unnecessary one-upmanship to every number of which he's a part. There are many of the ensemble dancers who are far more exhilarating to watch. Roddy, on the other hand, brings style and grace to her Superglue your arms to the side of your body, wipe any expression off your face, throw yourself barefoot onto some hot coals and voilà! You, too, can Riverdance. Actually, it's not simple at all. It's the apparent ease with which the dancers perform number after number that makes me so jealous. If it were really that easy, Arthur Murray would have a take-home, learn-to-dance mat cluttered with footprints and numbers and the show's promoters wouldn't be charging upwards of fifty bucks for tickets.

The bottom line (which I'm placing at the top for emphasis) is that Riverdance is ultimately exciting and will get your heart beating and your toes tapping to a rhythmic beat for hours – even after the performance is complete. Interspersing mind-boggling dance numbers with haunting choral anthems, Riverdance creates an experience that isn't dull for a moment.

One of the main themes of the show is how music brings people together as a form of artistic expression and cultural identity. Being of Irish origin, the production attempts to show that Irish music is a common thread through the music of many countries and cultures. Often, this point is made so flawlessly and elegantly that it's painfully obvious. Other times, however, it's almost painful how far the concept is stretched, but (even in its most abstract) the dancing, music and choreography are appearances on stage – without arrogance. Her gestures of thanks to the audience's applause and praise for the orchestra come across as genuine, whether they really are or not. Perhaps acting lessons would help Gallagher appear more humble.

Among the most exciting numbers of the show are "Thunderstorm" and "Riverdance" (natch). The perfect union of rhythm and dance in such an enormous ensemble is awe-inspiring. It isn't merely these extravaganzas that evoke emotional response. In fact, some of the subtler numbers are just as incredible. "Heal their Hearts - Freedom" with a deliciously rich baritone solo performed by Ralph Cato is as good as musical theatre gets.

Rosa Manzano Jimenez tosses the castanets aside for a driving flamenco dance which gradually incorporates the Irish elements so much that there's nothing left to do but send out some hunky Irish dancers to accompany her.

The comic relief of the evening comes with "Trading Taps" in which a sort of "Battle of the Tappers" ensues between the urban exuberance of two black dancers (Van "The Man" Porter and Martin Dumas III) and the hilarious contrast of their "white-bread" Irish counterparts. While lovingly mocking one another's style of dance, the similarities and differences are celebrated in glorious fashion.

Putting dance on the back burner, the Riverdance Singers (led by the soothingly mysterious vocals of Sara Clancy) prove that there's more to Riverdance than the oft-associated noise and energy.

If for no other reasons, you should see

Riverdance because you're not likely to find more disarming instrumental solos than the "Devil Went Down to Ireland" fiddle playing by Niamh Ní Charra and the creepy, mesmerizing tune of John O'Brien on the uilleann pipes. (At least not in any Andrew Lloyd Weber musical.)

The key joy in Riverdance is allowing yourself to become enveloped in the mood being portrayed with each changing scene. The colors, set and even the moon change constantly to assist you in how you're supposed to be reacting to what is on stage. Even without these visual aids, it's a cathartic experience and unlike some live performances, I didn't look at my watch once.

Riverdance, presented by Dallas Summer Musicals, completes its Dallas run this weekend, ending this Sunday (August 16) at the Music Hall in Fair Park with performances Friday, Saturday and Sunday (August 14 - 16) at 8 p.m. with matinees Saturday and Sunday (August 15 - 16) at 2 p.m. Tickets range from $17 to $67 and are available through Ticketmaster, (214)373-8000 or metro (972)647-5700.

Brace your boobies...as the real first lady of drag, Dolly Parton, releases her latest album, Hungry Again. With this album, the four-time Grammy and eight-time Country Music Association award-winner returns to her musical roots and creates a powerful, yet touching record that combines country, folk and gospel. From the acoustic beauty of "Paradise Road" to the wry humor of "Honk Tonk Songs," the LP's 12 original songs reflect Dolly's personal journey to reconnect with her mountain heritage.

Hungry Again marks the first time in many years that Dolly has written every song on the album. "I've had so many life experiences that I can draw from, and this is certainly the most personal album I've ever done. It's almost like I'm starting over.

"My songs are the door to every dream I've ever had and every success
I've ever achieved."

My songs are the door to every dream I've ever had and every success I've ever achieved," says Parton.

The title track "Hungry Again" was the first song she wrote and became the springboard for the entire album. While the melodies reflect traditional styles, the lyrics are the unique poetry of Dolly Parton. A few of Dolly's favorite songs on the album are "Paradise Road," "The Camel's Heart" and "The Salt In My Tears." "Paradise Road" is about a poor child's vivid imagination and is the basis for a musical at Dollywood by the same title.

Both "Blue Valley Songbird," which tells of a struggling performer who escapes from an abusive father, and "When Jesus Comes Calling for Me," about an old man reflecting on his life, have special meaning to her as well. "Blue Valley Songbird" is also the basis for a television movie.

While the album contains many serious themes, the first single, "Honky Tonk Songs," is a rocking tune that poses the musical question, "Why don't more women sing honky tonk songs?" "I started thinking that you have all these good old boys singing honky tonk songs about their broken hearts, but women are never allowed to do that," she says. "Women need a way to mend their broken hearts. I think women singing honky tonk songs is an idea that's way past its time. So when I thought about it, the song came." When she finished writing, she enlisted her first cousin, Richie Owens, to co-produce the album with her, and she recorded the album in his basement with his band Shinola. Since his father ran Dolly's publishing company and he grew up with her music, she thought that he would be perfect for the job.

In keeping with the familial feel of the record, "Shine On," the moving final track, was recorded in an old church in the

by

Smith

Smoky Mountains where Dolly's grandfather, the Reverend Jake Owens, was the pastor. "I wrote 'Shine On' to have an intentionally gospel feel like 'Amazing Grace,' so I wanted to keep the same feel in the recording. We used the congregation in the church back home, and then we added the other voices in Nashville."

The writing and recording process of Hungry Again have been one of the most valuable periods of Dolly's life. "This whole experience has been worth a fortune to me," she says. "It's been very restoring and worthwhile. I got in touch with pieces of myself that I didn't even know I had." With Hungry Again, Dolly Parton has taken those pieces and crafted one of the year's most inspiring albums. And that's something different in music THIS WEEK IN TEXAS.

The Group (Theatre Workshop), the company that produced last summer's hit comedy, End of the World Party, presents the Houston premier of Sordid Lives. The production opens tonight (August 14) at Paradox Theatre, 3722 Washington Avenue (off Waugh Dr.). Sordid Lives is the fourth comedy of small-town Texas life by Del Shores (best known for his award-winning comedy Daddy's Dyin' Who's Got the Will?). Sordid Lives ran for over a year in Los Angeles and played to sold-out houses. It was nominated for over thirty local theater awards, which included 14 wins from Drama-league. The theme of unconditional love, acceptance and "coming out," along with the wicked comedy, hit a nerve with LA's traditional and mainstream audiences as well as the gay community (GLAAD nominated Sordid Lives for best play). The play ran in Fort Worth last year at the Circle Theater and broke all house records. It was voted "Best Play of the Year" by the Fort Worth Weekly. The play is produced by special arrangement with Samuel French, Inc. Under the direction of Joe Watts, the play will be presented on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. through September 27, and Sunday matinees will be held at 4 p.m., August 23 through September 27. Tickets are $17, and reservations are strongly recommended. For more information call (713)522-2204....

The cast of Sordid Lives prepares for Houston's premier, tonight (Friday, August 14).

Also in Houston, Raven Productions will present Scapino, which will benefit Children of the World which has raised over $2 million to assist Romanian Orphans and is now expanding to support Kid Care, Inc. of Houston. Directed by Brandon Smith, this mix of Moliere and commedia dell'arte promises to be the hottest slapstick vaudeville this season. Performances are being held Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 2 p.m. through August 23 at Actors Theatre of Houston, 2506 South Blvd. (one half block east of Kirby and one block north of Bissonnet). Ticket prices are $14 for Fridays, $17 for Saturdays and $12 for Sundays. For more information or ticket reservation call (713)529-6606....

Theatre Arlington is wrapping up its 25th anniversary season with the hysterically funny farce, Don't Dress for Dinner. This fast-moving British comedy about weekend trysts gone awry will close this weekend with performances tonight and tomorrow (August 14 - 15) at 8 p.m. Ticket prices range from $10 to $14, with discounts for groups of 11 or more. For ticket information or reservations, call (817)275-7661....

Fort Worth's Casa Mañana Theatre is currently running The Phantom of the Opera. The Tony Award winning musical by Andrew Lloyd Weber will play through Saturday, August 22, at 3101 West Lancaster. Limited seats are still available for some performances, and tickets range from $27 to $67. Tickets are available in person only at the Casa Mañana's Box Office, all TicketMaster outlets or by calling (817)332-CASA....

Dallas' Theatre Three continues its run of the hilarious off Broadway hit, Death Defying Acts by Woody Allen, Elaine May and David Mamet. This acclaimed comedy hit skewers, lawyers, neurotic do-gooders and faithless spouses. Performances will be held Thursdays at 7:30 p.m., Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sunday matinees at 2:30 p.m. For more information call, (214)871-3300....

Quad C Theatre has announced open auditions at Collin County Community College for God's Country, a drama about the growing white supremacy movement in America by Steven Dietz. The play will be directed by Brad Baker. The Theatre is seeking six men (ages 22-40), one man (50's), three women (ages 18-40) and one boy (age 10 - 12). Auditions will be held Monday, August 23 from 6 to 9 p.m. at John Anthony Theatre, Jupiter Road, between Spring Creek Parkway and Parker Rd. (I-75 N, exit Spring Creek Parkway - East, right on Jupiter, left into campus). Prepare a one to two minute monologue from a contemporary dramatic play. Rehearsals begin immediately once the cast is selected. The run will be October 8 - 18 with matinees October 14 (at 10 a.m.), 11, 17 and 18. God's Country will also perform one date between October 23 - 31. For more info, contact Brad Baker at (972)881-5679.

quell, even the most stressed love relationship. If you are still soulmate searching, use this time to explore new, romantic avenues. Around every corner is a gay smile (or at least a gay bar).

PISCES (Feb. 20 - March 20) Leave it to optimistic pink Fish to find a ray of hopeful light at work. If you've been asked to take on a particularly onerous assignment, both Mars and Venus pave the way to easy success. If you have a secret admirer in accounting, the planets see to it that it adds up correctly. Maybe it's time to revamp that exercise regime so you can vamp your stuff around the water cooler.

ARIES (March 21 - April 20) Proud Rams charm the stars from the sky when Venus and Mars shine in Leo. Your creative juices flow so go with the flow. It's time to test your artistic capabilities by taking to the stage, writing the great American gay novel or planning a fab party. Whatever you do, do it with style. Add a dash of mysterious romance, and you have all the makings of a masterpiece.

TAURUS (April 21 - May 21) Mars and Venus amble into Leo which means that gay Bulls can make great headway in any home related project. This planetary energy is especially good if you are coming to terms with particularly irksome family issues. Come out to the folks in no uncertain terms. Venus provides the sugar and Mars the oomph to make your point clear and compelling. No compromise allowed.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21) As if life wasn't interesting enough, Venus and Mars enter Leo and turn up the volume on communication. Queer Twins are naturally chatty and sociable, but now you can charm the pants off just about anybody. (So choose your target wisely...) But why waste all that brain power on trivialities? Fire off a gay manifesto to the appropriate mouthpiece, and heat up the scene.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23) Pink Crabs find themselves counting their pennies and finding a few dollars in the bunch. Venus and Mars waltz into Leo this week as finances sit up and take notice. Why not plan for an early retirement? Mars provides considerable direction, and Venus enables you to get even the most recalcitrant advisors to give you a piece of their golden minds. Grab a nugget or two.

HUFF FUND JOINS AIDS FOUNDATION HOUSTON FOR FIRST ANNUAL AWARDS

Miss America and White House Official to Participate in Houston Fund-raiser

HOUSTON — This Tuesday, August 18, history will be made in Houston with the appearance of Kate Shingle, the reigning Miss America 1998, and White House Liaison to the Department of the Interior, Bob Hattoy, at the First Annual Huff Awards, a benefit for AIDS Foundation Houston [AFH] and the Huff Fund. This unique fund-raiser, underwritten in part by the pharmaceutical company Glaxo Wellcome, features Mr. Hattoy as the Master of Ceremonies and Miss America as the recipient of the Huff Fund's "Woman of the Year" award. Hattoy is well known for his prime-time televised speech about AIDS that was presented during the 1992 Democratic Convention. In addition to Miss America, noted Houston physician and AIDS researcher Dr. Joseph Gathe, Jr. will be on hand to receive the Huff Fund's "Man of the Year" award.

Donna Rochan, editor of the national publication Research Initiative/Treatment Action (RITA), published by The Center for AIDS in Houston, has been selected to receive the "Community Spirit" award given in memory of Bruce Huff. Chase Bank will be receiving the Huff Fund's "Community Outreach" award for their significant contribution to Houston's HIV/AIDS population.

This two hour luncheon, being held in the prized Le Grand Salon de la Comtesse ballroom at the hotel La Colombe d'Or, is "unlike any fund-raiser ever to hit Houston" explained Sara Selber, Executive Director of AIDS Foundation Houston. "Besides having Glaxo Wellcome as our title sponsor, our list of supporting sponsors includes Agouron Pharmaceuticals and Bristol Myers-Squibb, and we have Continental Airlines, BTG Pharmaceuticals, the Hollyfield Foundation, Gilead Sciences and Unimed as our contributing sponsors."

"Kate (Miss America) is currently on a national speaking tour entitled 'On the Way to a Cure: Preventing HIV Transmission in America' and was a natural choice for our first 'Woman of the Year' award," stated Dr. Allen Huff, co-founder of the Huff Fund. "As a national advocate of HIV/AIDS prevention, Kate travels over 20,000 miles a month addressing audiences about the critical need to stop the spread of HIV. Dr. Gathe is not only one of the pre-eminent African-American physicians practicing in the United States, he also happens to be one of the few AIDS researchers we have in Texas."

With the budget for this event holding at just under $12,000, both AFH and the Huff Fund are expecting to raise over $40,000 which is to be evenly distributed between the two organizations.

The event will be held this Tuesday, August 18, at noon at La Colombe d'Or's Le Grand Salon de la Comtesse, 3410 Montrose Blvd. in Houston. For more information, call AFH at (713)623-6796.

FHU EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR ANNOUNCES RESIGNATION

Charles Domingues Announces Departure from the Foundation for Human Understanding

DALLAS — Charles Domingues, Executive Director of the Foundation for Human Understanding [FHU], has announced his intention to resign effective October 15, 1998. FHU is the non-profit organization that operates the AIDS Resource Center, Gay and Lesbian Community Center and the Nelson - Tebedo Community Clinic.

"One of the challenges that leaders of organizations face is deciding when to move on," Domingues told the FHU staff at a meeting last Thursday. "I've made the decision that my time to do so is approaching, so I've told the board of directors of my intention to resign after the Texas AIDS Ride."

FHU is the coordinating agency for the Tanqueary Texas AIDS Ride this October, which will benefit 43 HIV/AIDS services organizations and is expected to be the state's largest fund-raising event for HIV programs ever held.

"I had a few goals for my time here, and for the most part, I am proud to say they have been met," explained Domingues. "First was to get the organization on the road to financial health, which is something we've started. There's still work to be done in this area, and one of the things we need to do is to ensure that the Texas AIDS Ride is as big a success as possible. That is one of the reasons I am staying on until after the ride."

FHU President Pam Clayton said, "We are very grateful for the effort Charles has exerted on behalf of this organization and its clients during his two years as Executive Director. He and the staff have helped us achieve great things in terms of service provision and administrative improvements. One personal note, I will miss my friend as he moves on to his new challenges."

Domingues also said, "I am very proud to be affiliated with this organization, proud of what we have accomplished and grateful for all that I have learned."

The Foundation for Human Understanding Board will soon undertake an executive search to seek Domingues' successor.

LEGAL ACTION CALLS FOR RESPECT OF DIVERSE CULTURES

The Esperanza Center Files Lawsuit Against the City of San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO — Deep in the heart of a city known and praised for its cultural diversity, a furious battle has been raging over cultural intolerance, discrimination and public funding for the arts. Now that fight is headed for the courts.

Recently, the Esperanza Center, a progressive grass-roots cultural arts organization, filed a lawsuit against the City of San Antonio in Federal District Court. Two other organizations for which the Esperanza acts as a fiscal sponsor, the San Antonio Lesbian and Gay Media and VAN, are also plaintiffs in the litigation. The suit is the first arts funding legal case since "NEA v. Finley," the U.S. Supreme Court's recent major decision on public arts funding. The lawsuit places San Antonio at the forefront of a new grass-roots struggle between right-wing extremists and defenders of personal freedom, cultural expression and civic respect for communities.

"Respect is basic...basic to family, community and democracy," stated Graciela Sánchez, Executive Director of the Esperanza Center. "This means we must have respect for other people, different points of view and even respect for those who we don't agree with."

In September, 1997, after a public lobbying campaign by right-wing pressure groups, the San Antonio City Council, in closed meetings, eliminated all public arts funding for the Esperanza, the Media Project and VAN. During the arts funding process, the Esperanza Center and the other two organizations received high rankings and positive comments from citizen review panels as well as from the Cultural Arts Board appointed by the City Council.

The arts organizations were targeted for de-funding by conservative groups due to the Esperanza Center's activities and programs related to cultural diversity, human rights, environmental justice and reproductive freedom.

To stem a growing and increasingly pervasive climate of intolerance and intimidation in San Antonio, the Esperanza, the Lesbian and Gay Media Project and VAN have filed suit to defend what is most basic to all people: respect — and the right to dignity, to recognition and to equal treatment in government process.

"City government cannot allow prejudice or favoritism to drive public policy," stated Amy Kastely, attorney for the arts groups. "The city should support cultural expression for all parts of San Antonio, just as it should provide fire stations, transportation, sidewalks, clean air and education for all and not just for some."

"Filing this action was a difficult decision," explained Dennis Poplin, coordinator of the Lesbian and Gay Media

Project. "But the seriousness of this injustice is too much to overlook. The lawsuit is about the protection of all peoples from bigotry. We have a duty to demand respect for all."

The lawsuit seeks to ensure fairness and respect for all people and to protect the fundamental principles of diversity, democracy and justice. It calls for the city council to restore the funding for the arts groups, remove prejudice and favoritism from public funding in the future, comply with the Texas Open Meetings Act and respect the principles of free speech.

For more information on the Esperanza Center or the Lesbian and Gay Media Project call (210)228-0201.

CARING FRIENDS OAK LAWN LOCATION READIES FOR OPEN HOUSE

Volunteers Sought to Complete Remodeling Tasks This Week

DALLAS — A new facility for the Oaklawn community is in the works, and will be located at 5029 Lemmon Avenue at Mahanna. Caring Friends plans to offer a place for fellowship and a place to talk to someone who cares. There are a variety of services planned to assist people living with HIV/AIDS and Breast Cancer. The home-like atmosphere will help clients become comfortable so that they may seek answers to the many questions they might have. The volunteer staff includes many people who have already faced HIV/AIDS or Breast Cancer, so they will be able to share their own experiences.

The new facility will be open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., Tuesdays through Sundays, and will be staffed entirely by volunteers. Caring Friends will be available to anyone who can provide a letter of diagnosis for HIV/AIDS or Breast Cancer.

"We hope to be open within a couple of weeks," explained Jerry Lynn, Director of Operations. "We have added many things to our original plans, including The Eileen Mendelson Assistance Fund for women with breast cancer."

The new facility is in need of volunteers to complete the building process during the afternoons and evenings this Saturday and Sunday, August 15 and 16. Volunteer carpenters, electricians, painters, cabinet makers and general contractors to assist with tape and bed, flooring, general laborers, wallpaper hangers, cleaning/make ready people, formica installation and more are needed. Also needed are supplies including wallpaper, paint, paint brushes, paint rollers, nails, sheet rock, wooden studs, 1 x 12 lumber, mud and tape, tall ladders, commercial mops and brooms, shelving, chairs, tables, lamps, folding chairs, folding tables, green plants, planters and furniture in good condition. If you are able to volunteer with any of these services or provide supplies, you are urged to call (214)219-7300 or (214)823-3899 until 11 p.m. All hours can be flexible and arranged to fit your schedule.

If you are able to assist in the final preparations to the Caring Friends facility, arrive ready to work tomorrow and Sunday at noon. Tax deductible contributions may be made to Caring Friends, P. O. Box 190962, Dallas, Texas 75219.

There are three ways to make tax deductible donations on a regular monthly basis. First and foremost is the grant program for corporate donations. Corporate gifts enable the expenses to be met for a specific area of the facility by designating a room or program to specifically benefit from the funding provided. Corporate donations usually range above $5,000. The Helping Hands program enables individuals, couples or organizations to donate a regular sum each month to benefit the various programs offered by Caring Friends. Helping Hands donations range from $15 to $150 monthly. One time donations enable the donor to give a specific amount honoring a person whom they admire or, if they chose, to make a memorial contribution in memory of someone who is no longer with us. Honorariums and Memorials always vary in amounts. All donations are deductible to the fullest extent provided in the tax laws. Caring Friends is a 501(c)3 not-for-profit organization.

The planned opening will be scheduled as soon as possible and invitations will be sent for the open house. If you would like to receive an invitation for the open house please send your information to Caring Friends Open House, P. O. Box 190962, Dallas, Texas 75219, or check with one of Caring Friends volunteer board members.

Ranting & Raving

by Jeffrey L. Linthicum

It's a Beautiful Day in the Neighborhood...

Have you ever had one of those 'brushes' with a porn fantasy? You know, those moments alone with a cable repair man or bellboy when you can almost hear the 70's soundtrack fading in. I had one yesterday. Well, sort of....

I was feeling very domestic, vacuuming in pumps with a handkerchief on my head covering a slew of big pink hair rollers, when I realized that I could hear a muffled Celine Dion screeching on the other side of my kitchen wall. The adjacent apartment had been empty for months but had apparently been rented. A new neighbor...how interesting....

I continued my general housework with a Cabbage Patch Doll pinned to my pant leg, scrubbing out my vegetable bin while intermittently slapping the doll and screaming, "I'm not mad at you, I'm mad at the dirt!" My curiosity gnawed hatefully at the nape of my neck. A new neighbor...with a good rack sound system...how interesting....

I decided to do some laundry. Conveniently, I could skirt the new neighbor's front door by going down the back stairs, crossing an 'almost dry' new concrete section of the driveway, jumping a hydrangea bed and ducking through a private patio. But the new neighbor was nowhere in sight. Hiding behind closed blinds...how interesting....

I slipped into the on-premise, mini-laundrette to find that my previous load of, now dry, items had been neatly folded and set aside. In their place, tumbling madly, the personal items of my new neighbor called to me.

"Foood us," his delicates invited.

What else could I do. Feeling pressure to return this stranger's generous favor, I began feverishly folding clothes in a manner usually reserved for a Gap interview. Among the warm cotton items: a polo-style work shirt featuring the crested logo of a fashionable local eatery, a pair of white socks, a pair of Reebok Cross Trainers (and their laces), a pair of khaki pleated shorts...and...a pair of powder blue and white canopy-striped Calvin Klein boxer briefs. I paused.

With the care usually reserved for swaddling infants, I began folding the stranger's delicates, hooking the waistband under my chin, folding the side portions into the middle and finally bringing the length up to meet the waist. I paused again. Big mistake. In the instant of time that spanned that fateful moment, my new neighbor rounded the corner and caught me holding his underwear under my chin. I prayed he might be charmed by the maternal visage. Instead, the shirtless Adonis gathered up his things and backed out of the laundrette, turned and ran. You just go ahead and run...I know where you live...and where you work...

AUSTINteaCIOUS — Congratulations to Row Team Austin! They received four gold medals and two silver medals at the Gay Games in Amsterdam. We are all so proud of our brothers and sisters....

Charlie's has something new for you to enjoy. You have loved them on Thursday, Friday and Sunday nights. Now Austin's oldest gay bar has the Manwatch dancers on Saturday night, too! And they are right when you want them, during the 10-11 p.m. cocktail special. It seems as if 10 p.m. will be the new start off time for the night. Of course everybody loves Bradley from 2-9 p.m. Come in and test his sports knowledge. Just try and ask him a sports trivia question that he doesn't know the answer to. You go butch boy! Charlie's is already starting their Superbowl pot. It is up to $2500 and is expected to climb. This all ties in to Bradley trying to explain American football to Milsey. (He's from "down under" you know.) Most likely, one of these lovely "ladies" would be happy to be down under Bradley or Milsey. They are, of course, your Tuesday and Thursday hostesses Jame Perry and Nacha Type [left, l-r]....

'Bout Time is all in a tizzy this week. One of their own men has crossed over to the wig wearing side. The ever popular Chaz [right] made his debut across town at their sister bar Charlie's. He was quite the sensation (as you can see). Later this month on August 29, they are having a Lesbian Pool Tournament as part of the "Lesbolympics." Imagine it, women with beer in one hand and a pool cue in the other. Stop, it's making me hot. Manager Cory tells us that all the volleyball teams are playing better than he has ever seen. We guess they did a little practicing during the break....

The Edge is planning to have male dancers every night except Sundays starting Monday. We love go-go boys! They always get the old libido stirred up. Occasionally, to a disadvantage like last week for one boy. Che Lucci chased him around the bar last Monday. Ok, truth be known, he chased her because she wouldn't give back his pants at her amateur strip night.

Tenacity can pay off sometimes, right girl? Your happy hour bartender is the very handsome Miguel. He is so cute, and he is even single. We hear he is taking applications for the job as husband. That is a position we sure would like to be in.

Splash Video Bar is preparing for its Grand Opening this weekend! Friday, Saturday and Sunday (August 14, 15 and 16) with $1 drinks all night long! They have added a new dance floor with the best deejay and videos in town. They will be giving away a 20" t.v. at midnight every night of their grand opening celebration. Sunday is "Trash Disco Tea Dance". Come check out their new look with some snap-py architectural touches. Don't worry all you pool aficionados, they still have the table. It is now in the back by the deejay booth. The patio is now in full swing as well. We now have another place to enjoy a beverage outside when it isn't 100 any more. There is nothing that will make you feel so gay as a little construction, a coat of paint and some furniture moving. You know how we queens love to decorate. Word has it that they made handsome Mike [right] move all the heavy stuff...he is clearly used to carrying big things....

Dick's Deja Disco's Tuesday amateur strip contest is a ton of fun. The guys are all cute, and they shake it and shake it till it feels good. (And it always does.) Kendall always makes you feel good when you see him at happy hour. His hearty "hello" and "good to see you" are his trademarks. Thank goodness some things don't change. Gerald behind the bar at night is another familiar face. It's almost like old home week when you go in. We love to feel like we know everyone....

The Forum is your circuit party headquarters. If you like shirtless, built men, then this is the place for you. Weekly they are open 'til all hours of the night, and the party never stops. This blond Adonis [left] stopped just long enough to pose and give me a kiss. Thanks and come back any time! Wednesday nights are becoming the place to be for The Dating Gayme starring Heather Thomas. Weekly she tries to match up would be couples for a fun club sponsored date. Sometimes they match, and sometimes they don't. You never know what questions will be asked. This week it was "other than a cucumber, what vegetable would you be and why?" The winner was a carrot. (Think about it.) The Black party was a huge success last weekend. All the guys had glow sticks and glow paint all over them. We liked when they kept the sticks in their pocket....

Here is a little reminder of fun things to do this weekend: The United Court of Austin is having their coronation this Saturday night. Top of the Marc and Paul Parkinson presents the Miss Heart of Texas pageant on Monday night. The Hillside Theater in Zilcher park presents South Pacific for one more week. Make sure to grab a blanket and a date and see a great show under the stars.

DALLAS TEA - Outlines has all of the party wear you'll need. Check with super salesman and this week's cover man Thomas Orosco during your next visit, and he'll assist you as you browse through their large selection of merchandise. From club wear to party shirts, they have all of your summer activities. They've got a wide selection for men and women, and they always can help you finish that certain look to impress your future husband or wife du jour. Let them assist you in finding just the right outfit to knock out the competition.....

Crews Inn customers Ken Ballard and Gabrielle [right, l-r] are just two of the fans you're likely to find during the Stars in The Spotlight Shows. Check out the list of stars scheduled for this Monday night. Don't miss their legendary man-size Tuesday party night. Their weekends will melt away your tensions as you dance and drink the night away. Happy belated birthday wishes to Myna Monier who has been celebrating all week long. She was partying so much she was last seen touring the interstate and there's no telling where the party caravan might end up. New Orleans might be a likely destination. With Miss Monier, you never know. Your friends at TWT hope it's a happy one....

Alternatives of New Fine Arts always has the latest releases, your favorite models and the largest selection of videos, magazines and calendars.
